M. Caillaux took occasion to remind his associates that it was the desire of Washington, as well as of the French government that specific proposals should not be discussed outside the actual meeting of the French and American debt funding commissions M. Caillaux however, did not tell his bliss offer to the United States will be. He also cautioned French newspapermen against the unwisdom of speculation or of publishing possible solutions of France's American debt problem.

HELLER BOOTLEGGING JOINT IS RAIDED

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 13—Isadora (Jake) Heller and his wife Sarah Heller were arrested on charges of violation of the liquor law, at nine o'clock Sunday morning following a raid at the Heller place of business, 947 Main street, by County Detective William E. Jackson and Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officer William S. Congdon. Thirty-five gallons of alcohol were found in a garage owned by the Hellers and abutting the rear of a general store conducted by them. Mrs. Heller was charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell and reputation. Jake Heller will answer to a charge of the actual sale of liquor made within the past month, when the pair are given a hearing in police court Monday morning. They were released under bonds of $1,000 each.

The raiding of the Heller place is of city-wide interest, due to the wide acquaintances of the Hellers and the fact that it has been generally known that County Investigator Jackson has left no stone unturned for many months in an attempt to bring the accused to justice. Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher has co-operated with Detective Jackson in an effort to clean out the bootleg nest. Sunday morning the last link of information was received. A few minutes later Prosecutor Gaucher had placed a search warrant in the hands of investigator Jackson and the successful raid had been completed. Heller was convicted in court a few years ago of violation of the liquor law, after about $800 worth of Jamaica Ginger had removed from his place of business by officers Congdon and Briggs, County Detective Jackson and local police officers.

BUDNICK AND KAMINSKI CONFESS TO BURGLARIES

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 13—The series of burglaries in the city which has kept the brains of the police department and of citizens racking for over a month, came to a sensational climax, about one o'clock Sunday morning, in the arrest of Stanley Budnick, 18 and William Kaminski, 19, both of Eagleville, who confessed to having operated in the several breaks.

The young crooks were rounded up in Eagleville by Lieutenant of Police Frank McLean and State Policeman Henry Heinold who had been working for some time on clues which eventually disclosed the identity of the perpetrators of the misdeeds. The officers went to the home of an Eagleville resident, whose name the police are withholding, Saturday morning, to arrest the youths, but the latter had been tipped off in some manner of the impending arrest and made their escape, after leading the officers in a foot race through the dense woods in which the upholders of the law were unfamiliar. Lieutenant McLean and State Officer Heinold re-enforced by Patrolman Lariviere and Leahy visited the place again Sunday morning, at one o'clock, and this time took the boys into custody. At police headquarters Budnick was cross-examined, but at first denied being implicated but when presented with a pair of shoes which he had abandoned at the site of one burglary in making a quick getaway, he broke down and gave his story in detail. Kaminski also fled deliberately at the onset of his cross-examination, but when confronted with the evidence given by his partner in crime he seconded the confession. Budnick had operated with Alexander Kaminski, 15, brother of William Kaminski at times and on other occasions with the latter.

Alexander Kaminski, arrested last week as a suspect and for the theft of a bicycle maintained a flat denial that he had been burglarizing. He was convicted, however, on the charge of stealing the bicycle and was taken to the state school for boys in Meriden last Thursday. It is expected that he will now face the additional charges of breaking and entering and theft.

Stanley Budnick, whose confession was corroborated by William Kaminski, stated that he and the Kaminski boys were guilty of the following acts: An attempted break into the Benjamin Carpenter Radiator repairing shop on Valley street, in an endeavor to secure some automobile radiators.

A break into the grain and feed store conducted, in South Coventry, by Eugene Latimer, by himself and William Kaminski. From this place a 32-calibre revolver was stolen and later was sold to John Kaminski of New Britain, a brother of one of the thieves.

Burnick and Alexander Kaminski entered the H. A. Gillette wholesale confectionary and tobacco establishment on Broad street and secured a little over $200 from the safe. They split the loot on the 50-50 basis.

The same night the two boys entered the Polish Bakery Inc. building on Jackson street and stole pencils and other office equipment.

At other times Budnick and William Kaminski broke into the office of the Hillhouse & Taylor lumber company on Milk street, securing about thirty pennies for their trouble and into the railroad station at South Coventry, but secured nothing.

The climax of the confessions by the two offenders came when they admitted the theft of a total of about one hundred chickens from various henneries. Twenty-five of these were sold to Solomon Chiss of Ash street, this city, for $21. The remainder were disposed in approximate lots of fifteen to Morris Spector of Quarry street, this city, at prices ranging from one dollar a bird to less. The boys did not know from whom all the chickens had been stolen, but mentioned as some of the owners Mr. Smith of Eagleville and Mr. Hall of Mansfield Center, the Hall place being one of two locations in Mansfield Center on which such thefts were committed.

Budnick and Kaminski both insisted that the younger Kaminski had been alone when the Grant Grain store on Valley street was broken into and a few pennies stolen from the office, they stating that they had no part in the act which they knew was committed by Alexander Kaminski.

Both youths denied that either they or Alexander were implicated in the rifling of an alms box and the search for loot in the rear rooms of St. Mary's church. Another admission was made by the boys when they confessed to having stolen two tires and an assortment of tools from automobiles which were parked in the vicinity of the Strand Theatre, Broad street, at divers times.

Their cases will be heard in the police court Monday morning.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The stage is set for Killingly's annual town election on the first Monday in October. Saturday afternoon the democrats assembled in caucus in the town hall and named their candidates, as did the republicans on Friday evening. The democratic caucus brought out somewhat over a hundred electors, representative of all the communities of the town of Killingly. There were no contests and the ticket as completed is much the same as that offered by the democrats a year ago.

A change of interest came in the naming of a reorganized town committee. A. J. Cavanaugh of Dayville succeeding Alcott D. Sayles in the chairmanship he has held for many years. Other members of the committee are F. E. Bitgood, secretary, Joseph Halle, Patrick Riley, Arthur Viens, A. E. Hall and Alcott D. Sayles.

George Alvord of Dayville, a former selectman of the town of Killingly and of the democratic faith, was at Saturday afternoon's caucus, but did not participate as a candidate for the nomination of selectman. He was later quoted as desiring it known that he will be an independent candidate for election to membership in the board of selectmen.

The complete ticket nominated Saturday afternoon follows: Assessor, J. P. Aldrich; board of relief, Joseph Halle; selectmen, Patrick Riley, Alcott D. Sayles (in the order named); agent town deposit fund, F. E. Bitgood; town clerk and treasurer, John W. Gallup; auditor Miss Margaret E. Dunn; collector of taxes, James R. Walsh; constables, John B. Morin, Martin Wolfe, A. D. Sayles, George E. Alvord; registrars, Theodore Malhot, A. J. Cavanaugh, James P. Aldrich; town school committee, Frederick E. Bitgood, John W. Gallup.

The cider mill at 105 Broad St., will be open for business under new management on Sept. 14th. Honest service, let us prove it. We will call for your apples and deliver your cider. Barrels for sale. Tel. 221-2.—adv.

Just before midnight Saturday at his home on Maple street, the death of Wesley Wilson, 61, occurred. Mr. Wilson was a native of Eastford, born August 26, 1844.

Many years have elapsed since Mr. Wilson came to Danielson to make his home. In those years he came to know a great many of Killingly's people. In him they found an example of splendid citizenship, a courteous gentleman, a true friend. Many came to know him in his official capacity as clerk of the borough of Danielson for many years, also as clerk of the board of selectmen.

Mr. Wilson had a penchant for accounting and the majority of the active years of his life were spent in that capacity. Both the town of Killingly and the borough of Danielson have cause to be grateful for the meticulous care with which his records were kept, even up to the time when advancing years caused him voluntarily to relinquish his official work.

Prior to entering the service of the town and borough, Mr. Wilson was an accountant at the Quinebaug store and prior to that time was connected with the company store at Attawaugan.

Mr. Wilson is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Nellie Cundall, wife of Dr. Arthur Cundall, who has made her home with him for years since the death of Mrs. Wilson and who has given him every loving care. Mr. Wilson leaves a brother, resident in Eastford.

Much has been said in the press of late relative to famous "plow horses" that doubled as speed kings in light harness racing. All of this has been inspired by the fact that Dan McKinney, a fourteen year old horse owned out in Winfield, Kan., began life as a plow-horse, but this season has been startling the middle west by winning trot after trot on a fair circuit and now has the remarkable record for such an animal of 2.08 1-4.

Such a horse was once owned in Danielson by the late Israel Bennett. This wonder horse was Athol, a sturdy giant. Athol never got down to such low speeds as Dan McKinney has been chalking up, but he was a marvel nevertheless. It was nothing unusual to send him up to East Killingly with a heavily loaded lumber wagon of a morning and have him back in time to win a race on the old Riverside driving track, opposite the present Holy Cross cemetery, in the afternoon. There were days when he hauled a mowing machine for morning exercise and raced in the afternoon. He was actually used for plowing and harrowing fields on days when he was scheduled to race.

Old-time horsemen here could not recall Sunday how good a record Athol made in a race, but he was good any day and under all conditions for miles in better than 2.40, and finally, if the memory of one who knew him serves, went miles in around 2.25. Athol met an untimely end, being killed one evening by a bolt of lightning under a tree where he had taken refuge from a thunderstorm, in a field at North street, near the Courtland Greene home.

A late summer heat wave that had its inception Friday was maintained over the week end, with the mercury hovering near the 90 mark Sunday afternoon. A breeze from the south and clouds served to alleviate to some extent the punishment that the heat was inflicting.

At Meriden Saturday, in a tournament for national guard bands in which three organizations from Connecticut and one from Rhode Island participated, the Hanover silver cup—the first prize—was awarded the band of the 192nd Field artillery. Although this band is made up of men resident in New London, the band is officially part of the service battery, 192nd field artillery of Danielson, and for that reason there is special interest here in the honor the band achieved at Meriden. This band recently gave a very pleasing concert on Davis park, in Danielson.

There being four regular nominees of the republicans and democrats for places in the board of selectmen of Killingly and an announcement that there will be at least one independent candidate for selectmen, makes certain one lively contest at the annual town election on the first Monday in October. Only three of the five known candidates can win. The regular nominees are the same as those who fought a battle of ballots at the polls last year. Injection of an independent candidate, the closeness of the vote for selectmen in recent years indicates will make the outcome something to puzzle over and is certain to add spice to the election.

Again Tax Collector James R. Walsh, democrat, has the distinction of enjoying not only the nomination of his own party, but also that of the republican. This also was the case last year. Collector Walsh has made an excellent record in office, a fact of which Killingly citizens are appreciative. The town has realized that the principles and demands activity and concentration far removed from filling a political office for mere adornment. In the double nomination Mr. Walsh has his reward for faithful and efficient discharge of his duties.

Over Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard Ward of Miami, Fla., were guests of Miss Marion D. Chollar of Broad St. Mr. and Mrs. Ward have been visiting in California with Mrs. Ward's sister, Mrs. Ward is a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John Howland.

For young people who are unsettled in their decisions as to what line of activity to pursue in life, the State Trade school at Putnam offers many suggestions. This state institution is open to Killingly students and students from other eastern Connecticut towns, free of tuition charges.

From nearby rural districts, especially from Pomfret, complaints are being received about persons who are engaged in stripping the countryside of wild grapes—and other grapes not so wild, if opportunity offers. These vandals not only takes grapes which they have no right to pick, but also tear down or cut down vines to get at high hanging clusters. An instance is reported where these vandals pickers defied property owners on which they were marauding to drive them from the grounds. State officers are investigating the charges.

This is the day for the opening at Hartford of bids for the contract of constructing a new concrete girder bridge over the Assawag river in South Main street, near the Gulf Refining company's property. Building of this bridge can be carried out with only a minimum of detour discomfort for traffic, as the south section—really another bridge, will remain open.

James H. Sawyer, of Niles, Michigan is the guest of his nephew, Justin S. Greene on Center street. He was born in Woodstock but went west a number of years ago and has not been back for forty years. He enlisted from Woodstock in Co. B. 18th regiment of the Connecticut National Guard, one of the fighting regiments of the Civil War. Mr. Sawyer is past 80 but is in good health, active and vigorous, made the trip alone from Michigan, and needs no assistance in finding his way around in this section of the country. Mr. Greene is his only living relative here. He hopes to renew many acquaintances in Putnam, Danielson.

ATTORNEY J. H. O'BRIEN BRIDGE DAY ORATOR

(Special to the Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 13—John H. O'Brien, Worcester attorney, has definitely accepted the invitation to make the principal address at the dedication exercises of the new Memorial Bridge on Armistice Day. A letter was received by A. Newton Vaughn from him Saturday that he was under no military or semi-military orders on that day that would interfere with the engagement and that it would give him great pleasure to come here.

Mr. O'Brien had a distinguished military record overseas during the war he was adjutant general of the Massachusettes State Legion for two years and is now commander of the Worcester Post. Throughout New England he has a reputation as a public speaker of exceptional ability and the committee feels fortunate in securing him for what will be the greatest celebration in the history of Putnam.

The contractor on the new bridge is speeding up his men, but the work is being handicapped by the height of the water in the river. The wooden framework for the concrete abutements on the east side are in place but because of the water's depth cement could not be poured Friday. A night shift worked nearly all Friday night and pouring continued Saturday morning but had to be abandoned in the afternoon. After the lower half of these abutments are laid the depth of the water in the river will not affect the completion or the construction of the arch of the bridge.

WESTERLY

Mary C. Lawton, 60, wife of Ethan P. Gavitt, died early Sunday morning at her home on East avenue following an illness which began last year and has confined her to her home since Easter. She was born in Westerly, October 23, 1864, the youngest of three children of the late Samuel P. and Mary C. Mitchell Lawton. She is survived by an older sister, Mrs. G. Perry Chesebro, who resides in Stonington and a brother Samuel P. Lawton of Providence.

Mrs. Gavitt attended the public schools of Westerly and for a number of years was in the employ of Frankenstein's, a former dry goods store in Westerly. In her early life she became a member of Christ Episcopal church. She held membership in Phebe Greene Ward Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution and was also a seventh degree member of Westerly Grange, No. 18, Patrons of Husbandry.

June 27th, 1889, she was united in marriage by Rev. William M. Groton, rector of Christ church, with Ethan P. Gavitt. They have one son, Raymond E. Gavitt, who with his wife, formerly Florence Hickson of New London, have made their home for the past several years on East avenue with them.

Returning from Watch Hill to their winter home the first of this week are the families of William Schoellkopf, from "Roads End," Everett avenue, to Buffalo, N. Y.; Carleton W. Betts, from "Sunnyside," Sunset avenue, to Buffalo, while Mrs. Betts's mother continues to Portland, Oregon, and Rev. G. C. Carter, from "Wetumanetu," (office), Westerly road to Flushing, L. I. by motor.

Mrs. Helen H. Sands, widow of John Sands of Brooklyn, N. Y., died Friday morning at her summer cottage on the Post road near the Quonocantaug chapel.

A collision occurred Sunday, just before noon, between the Dodge sedan, owned and driven by Mrs. James P. McMahon and a Ford touring car operated by Webster Greenman, at the junction of School and George streets. The sedan was proceeding up School street hill just as the touring car came out of Spring street, to come down the hill and had almost crossed School street, when the forward right hand spring and left hand mud guard of the sedan struck the left hand running board of the touring car, crumpling it and jamming the mud guard. Patrolman George H. Champlin was called to investigate. No marks appeared on School street to show where brakes had been applied but the touring car was reported to have sounded its horn and to have waited until one automobile had gone by, to proceed up the hill. No one was injured. Robert Blake was a passenger in the touring car while there was a party of four or five in the sedan. Damages were reported as settled by agreement between the parties involved.

Many Masons from Pawcatuck and Westerly, as well as surrounding cities and towns attended the meeting of Charity Lodge No. 23, F. & A. M. Fred J. Gregory, Worshipful Master, Hope Valley, R. I., Saturday evening, when nearly three hundred assembled in the newly renovated lodge rooms. It was Past Masters' night, when the Master Mason degree work was performed by a suite of officers of which Walter M. Browning was acting master. Sandwiches, coffee, cake and ice cream were served in the newly completed assembly hall on the first floor, which formerly were occupied by business stores. Nearly a hundred automobiles were parked near the temple, and kept Traffic Officer William Kay busy.

When you want a certain brand of some commodity, if we carry it, you get it without question, without any effort by manager or clerk to sell you something else.

SERVICE

While every A. & P. store is a link in a chain that stretches over thousands of communities, each one is localized—it is operated to serve its particular section—A. & P. stores look alike on the outside, but inside they vary enough to suit their customers' needs, except for quality —that is the same in every A. & P. store everywhere.

The annual MONEY-SAVING SALE of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company is an opportunity that thousands will take advantage of—we hope you will be one of them.

Not only during this MONEY-SAVING SALE, but every day in the year, A. & P. stores will reduce your living expenses, will give you quality, will by their convenience and cleanliness make shopping pleasant and effortless.

EXPERTS

The A. & P. purchasing staff cover the whole world.

Resident buyers purchase Tea in India, Formosa, Ceylon and China; Coffee in South America; travelling buyers select Olives in Italy and Spain, Sardines in France and Norway, Potatoes in Maine, Watermelons in Georgia, Oranges in Florida and California, Cranberries on Cape Cod, Smoked Meats in the packing houses, and so throughout the long list of commodities which we handle. Each one is the result of experienced buying and is put on our counters only after thorough laboratory tests, the most rigid inspection—and the price is always low—tremendous volume insures that.

OUR MANAGERS

To be a manager in an A. & P. store means something. Our managers are trained men who in their training have proved themselves. Most of them are partners in the company through ownership of its stock, and have a real interest in the success of the unit that they direct. You will find A. & P. managers trustworthy, courteous, helpful and efficient. We are proud of them.

And if ever you are not entirely satisfied with any article you purchase, return it. You will find the manager as pleased to refund your money as he was to make the sale. TONIGHT'S CAUCUS

Tonight the republicans of the town have been called to assemble in the town hall for the purpose of naming candidates for the town officers for the ensuing two years. This is preliminary to the election next month but as every preliminary is important there should not be overlooked the advisability of a large representation of party members for the purpose of giving endorsement to the work that has been accomplished during the past two years and lending support to the selection of those regarded as the best fitted to administer the respective town offices for the biennial period.

Caucuses should not be neglected any more than elections should. In the choice of candidates there should be an enthusiastic participation. It is not a task to be delegated to a few. The time to have a vote in the ticket that is to be presented to the voters on election day is during the caucus, and a large and representative gathering should be on hand to express the party sentiments.

There are selectmen, assessors, board of relief members, clerk, collector, sheriffs and auditor to be elected next month. Good town government is certainly desirable and there should be a desire on the part of the voters to see that the preliminaries to such are carefully carried out. There is a [illegible] on each elector to vote [illegible] that responsibility of [illegible] the people a ticket that [illegible] to use their franchise. The republicans can be expected to and doubtless will place before the citizens a strong ticket tonight but it should be done by many and not a few.

THE AIR INQUIRY

In naming a committee to study and advise on the best means of "developing and applying aircraft in national defense," President Coolidge is acting for the purpose of getting down to brass tacks in regard to a question which has long existed.

That it has been brought to a head by the loss of the Shenandoah is strongly indicated. That and what seemed for a time the loss of the PN-9, No. 1 came at a time following determined efforts in behalf of a unified air service which would replace the present army and navy control of their air services. Whether there was any ground for it or not, or whether it was something that might not have happened under a unified service quite as quickly as it did under the present method, the breaking up of the big airship furnished the occasion for the renewal of efforts and the bringing of wild charges.

With both the war and navy departments maintaining that there is nothing to hide in the manner in which the respective air services are conducted and indicating that they would welcome an investigation for the purpose of a show-down, the communications which they made to the president made it inevitable that inquiry would be started.

That it should be started right away is desirable. That it should be conducted by men who are qualified for such work is important and these points have been taken into consideration by the president in the move which he has made. Let the investigation go to the bottom by all means. Let it be thorough and so far as possible let the inquiry disclose what steps should be taken if any for the betterment of the air service. The negligence charges which have been made by a demoted official are fully discounted, but there is no better time than right now for the bringing out of the facts. This the president is determined to do and his action will be applauded by the country.

DEPORTING CHINESE

Tong warfare has resulted in many deaths in this country. It is carried on regardless of the laws of the country and while the Chinese may point to the fact that there are Americans whose citizenship is unquestioned who engage in equally lawless conduct that furnishes them no justification for their feuds and murders.

The longer there is toleration displayed for such killings the more it can be expected to occur. The rivalry which is displayed by the Chinese tongs is in direct contradiction to law and order. There is nothing to justify it and certainly it cannot be ignored.

Thus when the federal authorities, in addition to other efforts to suppress such lawlessness, decide upon the deportation of many of the Chinese it is to be regarded as something for which the Chinese are directly responsible but no more than is to be expected since it is being found that many of them are in the country unjustly. This means that for more than one reason they can expect to be sent back home. They are apparently part of the bootlegged aliens, who have crossed the border somewhere or been smuggled into the country. But whether that is so or not when they display their undesirability it is time to get rid of them.

This is another one of the instances which go to show the value of requiring all aliens to register. It makes no difference whether they are Chinese or Fiji islanders, experience repeatedly shows the importance of knowing who the aliens are in this country and where they are. At the present time we have slight check on them. They can evade our entrance laws and, whether desirable or undesirable, can get all the benefits that are available to those who pass all requirements, and we know nothing about them until they create a rumpus or kill somebody. We, in fact, don't know they are here illegally, the ease of entrance and the lack of any check-up making it possible for them to remain here unmolested and do as they please until through some slip or mixup they are discovered. We are now deporting many after they have figured in crime when they should have been deported long before anything happened.

COTTON PLANTERS' CURSE

At various times a belief has prevailed that a successful means of combatting the boll weevil had been obtained. Such means may have had their effect in cutting down the activity of such a damaging pest, but not to any great extent. This insect which destroys cotton while growing has been responsible for enormous losses. Its depredations are in line with the corn borer, gypsy moth, tent caterpillar, only much worse for it is more difficult to fight.

From southern states there come reports this summer concerning the excellence of the cotton crop and the prospects for a big yield. With good conditions for it much always depends upon the inroads made by the weevil. In dealing with that evil the department of agriculture has long been busy and it has shown how it is possible to tackle this curse from the air by dusting the fields by airplanes. This idea has been advanced and private enterprise has taken it up with the result that it is possible to contract for the dusting of the cotton fields three times during the season for the price of $5 an acre.

In Louisiana it is indicated that that this is responsible for the claim that it being made to the effect that that commonwealth has its best cotton crop in 20 years. Five dollars an acre for the elimination of the effects of such a pest must prove attractive for the cotton growers if it permits them to get a proper yield from their planted acres.

Dusting a cotton field is a process which apparently requires but little time, if we stop to consider the speed made by airplanes and the price at which the dusting is done. It is a process that is in the course of development, but the good results in one state can be expected to follow in the others. Such experiments will not be long in getting the attention of all cotton growers and there will be those who will go in for this particular enterprise for the great relief of the cotton planter.

DECIDING MOSUL

Once more the league of nations has a problem on its hands relative to territory. Perhaps it would be better to say that the league continues to have the British-Turkish dispute regarding Mosul before it, for while efforts have been made to adjust this matter such progress as has been reported fall of a settlement.

The British have a mandate from the league in what was formerly Turkey, and they claim Mosul was included thereunder. Turkey claims that it is not and the forces of each country were drawn up to defend the respective positions when it was agreed that a special commission should make a thorough inquiry and the council of the league would come to a decision as the result of its report. Neither the British nor the Turks were to vote in the council.

That seemed to offer a solution of the difficulties and doubtless would have except for the fact that Turkey has not come forward with the claim that it will not waive its right to vote, that it will participate and insist through its vote that there be no decision until there has been a plebiscite granted. This means that Turkey wants a plebiscite rather than the report of the commission to decide, and in insisting upon such it directs attention to the fact that what seemed to be a fair way for adjustment under league influences has not made as good progress as was expected.

The demands of the Turk are not such as can be expected to be approved by the British and though the problem has been altered a bit it nevertheless continues to be a sizeable one for the league to wrestle with.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

A pound of coffee will serve 40 people.

A paste of borax and cold water will remove chocolate stains.

Always scald rhubarb before cooking, for it requires so much less sugar and yet loses none of its flavor.

A bushel of string beans canned will fill twenty-four pint jars.

Do not blacken your gas stove. Go over it occasionally with olive oil.

A needle can be sterilized by holding it in the flame of a match for a minute.

A little butter smeared on the spout of the cream pitcher will prevent the cream from dripping on the tablecloth.

After thoroughly sweeping and cleaning rugs or carpets, wipe them with a cloth wrung out of diluted ammonia. This will brighten the most faded floor coverings.

To drive away mosquitoes scatter oil of citronella about. They do not like the odor.

When mixing mustard for the table it is a great improvement to gradually add a little salad oil.

Before boiling corn remove a few of the outer husks, then turn the inside ones back, remove the silk carefully, bring back the husks and tie. This adds to the sweetness of the corn.

Canned fruit should be opened an hour or two before it is used. It become richer after it has been allowed to absorb more oxygen.

Stick a pin through the corks of bottles containing poisons. This will prevent mistakes when looking for medicine in the dark.

When cream is only slightly sour it can be made quite delicious to serve with puddings, etc., in the following way. Put it into a bowl with the juice of a lemon and a good tablespoon of sugar and whip it until it is quite stiff. This increases the quantity and the sour flavor cannot be detected.

To clean satin and silks, making them like new, cover the articles to be cleaned with French chalk, then brush off with a hard brush. Should the stain not be sufficiently cleaned by the first dusting, it may be done a second time. The more it is brushed the better.

TO CLEAN RUGS

To clean a rug on the floor, and without dust put 2 tablespoons of ammonia in a gallon of water. Take a cloth a yard square, dampen in the water, lay on rug, and beat gently with a carpet beater or heavy wire spoon. Then rinse well in clear water. Continue laying cloth next to where you left off until you have given the whole rug a cleaning. You will be surprised at the result.

TO BRIGHTEN STEEL

Steel that is rusty should be cleaned with a cut onion and left for a day. Afterward it can be polished either with emery powder and paraffin or with a paste made with brick dust and turpentine. Steel articles that are to be stored for some time should first be rubbed with mutton fat and then put in a dry place.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Hot strong coffee will frequently stop a bad case of hiccoughs.

Almond oil and olive oil are both excellent for cleansing the pores of the skin from dust and grime after the surface has been removed with warm water.

Housewives who do their own work should keep a cut lemon always by the kitchen sink and in the bathroom, and rub the cut surface over the hands especially all around the nails and finger-tips, after washing them in warm, soapy water. The lemon juice will remove all dirt around the cuticle and polish the nails as well.

Simple tincture of benzoin is another invaluable beauty aid that every woman should keep by her. A few drops added to the rinsing water after washing her face will keep the muscles under the skin firm and tight, and prevent wrinkles. Twice a week is often enough for this treatment in the ordinary way, but if wrinkles have already appeared, or if the complexion is marred by the presence of enlarged pores or blackheads, the fac can with advantage be bathed night and morning (after washing with warm water) with cold water containing a few drops of the tincture.

CARING FOR THE SKIN

To name the particular thing most important for outward personal loveliness, would be difficult. If one said powder, one's mind would immediately fly to all the luxurious creams, nourishing skin foods and delicious muscle oils that exist, and without which powder would be merely an irritant. But powder is important, not only for the final enchanting appearance, but as a real protection for the skin in summer.

The face skin which has been joyfully cleansed and has had its pores closed afterward with a good astringent or tonic a dash of cold water or a quick rub of ice, and has been covered with a light coating of powder—more than grandmother would have sanctioned, however—is equipped to stand a great deal of wind and sun. The selection of a dense powder which has real covering qualities is of importance, or else the powder should hug the skin because of the clinging, soothing base which has first been applied.—The Designer.

SAVE SOAP SCRAPS

Always save old pieces of soap to make into soap jelly. A teacup of pieces makes about a pint of jelly. Cut the pieces up quite small, place them in a wide-mouthed jar, add half a teaspoon of powdered ammonia and a pint of boiling water. Stir until the soap is dissolved and leave till cold. A tablespoon of soap jelly is quite sufficient to make a good lather in a gallon of warm water.

CARE OF BRUSHES

Bristle brushes may be washed with lukewarm water and a little ammonia (three teaspoons of ammonia to a quart) and then rinsed in clear water. Water is likely to injure the back of the brush. The brush, therefore, should not be covered with water, but should be washed by sousing the bristles back and forth in shallow water.

SUMMER CUSHIONS

Summer cushions that are suitable for porch or indoor use are made of attractive tan and cream cretonne. The cushions are round and are finished by scant ruffles of the cretonne bound in plain color.

DICTATES OF FASHION

A dinner gown of light georgette has large floral motifs of darker brown velvet appliqued upon the skirt and at the shoulder.

A striking new evening frock for fall and winter wear is made of hand blocked brocaded velvet, trimmed around the bottom of the skirt with a band of black fox.

A new and flattering shade of green called peppermint green is particularly successful when chosen in smart hats of velour which feature the side roll of the brim and the low, round crown.

A new version of the omnipresent felt hat is made of violet felt that is cut away around the crown. Large flowers of colored felt fill in the spaces and are attached to the felt by small gold fagoting.

A gay little bathing suit has black silk knickers and a tunic of blue and white stripes. The tunic of blue and white stripes. The tunic has the channel neckline but is sleeveless. A small pocket holds the inevitable handkerchief.

A handbag for afternoon or evening is just large enough for the vanities of life which the feminine consider necessities. It is of white silk or black silk studded with bands of pearl beads.

Callot's afternoon frocks are frequently of velvet pleated in a new way. Printed velvets are also successfully employed and black velvet is much in evidence, given a softer aspect by trimmings of cream lace.

Coincident with all foreign manufacturers and converters of dress fabrics the tendency of stylers is in the direction of sheerer weaves than formerly. The finest voiles, for example, are woven from yarns above one hundred two ply.

Everywhere are evidences of a mode which is decidedly more elaborate More material is needed this season, more trimming is used and the materials themselves are more elaborate.

"Many men of many minds" as to spring styles in novelty cotton dress goods have resulted in many constructions in which rayon artificial silk is the chief component since it supplies the luster which is now enthroned in the high courts of fashion.

VELVET TREATED LIKE FELT

It can easily be said that right now, velvet is one of the most important millinery fabrics which is a statement that could not be truthfully made for a few seasons past. They are using velvet very much in the manner that felt has been employed. The fabric is often seen drawn so tightly across the frame, that not a ripple is to be seen. Plain, little, tailored hats with little or no trimming, sometimes a bit of ribbon cleverly manipulated is employed, sometimes just a pin. And by the way, the newest pin trimmings are made of crystal and onyx. The shirred velvet hat with no trimming or just a little ostrich fancy, has become quite a favorite. A sand velvet hat noted at Jay-Thorpe, exploited a fluted brim. —Dry Goods Economist.

CLEAN BUT UNCTARCHED

Never put clothes away unless absolutely clean. But do not starch the cotton clothes, as the starch will cause the material to rot.

MODIFIED BOLERO

Each week finds the bolero more definitely established, and among the models introduced for early fall are any number which in one way or another indicate this line that has such a youthful appeal and is so flattering to slim figures.

The obviously cut-off look has in most instances been eliminated by having the jacket effect only in the back or at the front and sides, the rest of the costume showing a straight line from neck to hem.

FOR THE SCHOOLGIRL

In the collections of several designers of schoolgirl clothes bolero frocks have a most conspicuous place. Many are fashioned of the new light-weight twill cloths in navy blue, which after a season or two of oblivion has been brought back into the mode. Combined with touches of old rose or French blue they are distinctly youthful, but possess the essential chic which even the 12-year-old demands in her clothes.

FIT FOR A PRINCESS

A dressing table fit for a princess is made of wood painted a soft green. A wide ruffle of rose taffeta stretches from the table top to the floor and is ornamented by patchwork flowers in colored taffeta. The mirror is a triplicate affair of etched glass that has no frame and stands upon the glass top of the table.

USE OF CHAMOIS

To remove the cloudiness which comes over highly polished furniture, wash it with a sponge and tepid water and rub it dry with a wet chamois wrung out of cold water. A dry chamois streaks the surface and does not remove the blur.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Liquid ammonia and turpentine in equal, quantities make a very good washing fluid. Add about two tablespoons of it to the water in which the clothes are boiled.

To wash a flannel skirt, soak it in cold water over night, so it will not shrink. Then wash it in warm water and put in a very little borax. Rinse in cold water and dry in a good wind. When almost dry, iron on the wrong side.

To set the color of any cotton material add a handful of salt and two teaspoons of turpentine to three-fourths of a pail of hot water. Put goods in and allow to remain until water is cold. This will set the colors and neither sun nor washing will fade them.

The washing machine as it grows older is inclined to show wear by rusting a little around the water outlet. Try sprinkling about a half-cup of soap chips over the bottom of the tub after the wash is finished. This is no waste because the soap is there to start with next washday.

TO CLEAN CANVAS SHOES

If very much soiled, the shoes should first be washed. To do this, first stuff them well with balls of paper or put them on shoe trees, but the paper balls are best to use, as they will absorb the moisture. Next scrub with soap and water, using a hard brush, and then with a clean flannel dipped in warm water wipe off the soap. Put the shoes in the sun and wind to dry, or near a fire, but not too near, leaving the paper or shoe trees inside until dry. When dry, clean with a paste made of whiting scraped into a saucer and mixed with enough cold water to make a mixture of the consistency of cream. Rub this over the shoes and again let them dry, when they will look like new. A suede effect is obtained by rubbing some dry whiting or pipe-clay with a flannel over the cleaned shoes after they are dry. Powder the whiting dip the flannel into it, and rub it well all over the shoes. If grass or other stains do not yield to the cleaning treatment, add a few drops of ammonia to a teaspoon of peroxide of hydrogen and rub the stains with the mixture. Wash off with water.

LEFTOVER GRAVY

Save the leftover gravy from the roast. It comes in very nicely when the roast has been reduced to a stew or hash, in place of the water usually added.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

M. Joseph Caillaux, who is sailing for New York this week at the head of an official mission to discuss terms for a settlement of the French war debts owing the United States, is a former premier and the present finance minister of France. The story of the public career of M. Caillaux has included several highly sensational chapters. Immediately before the war, M. and Mme. Caillaux figured in an "affair" which it was thought would put an end to the former's political career. This was the slaying of the editor of Figaro by Mme. Caillaux. Near the close of the war M. Caillaux was tried and convicted on a charge of communicating with the enemy. On each occasion the former Premier was obliged to retire temporarily from public life, but each time he returned to the political arena apparently more influential than before.

Stories That Recall Others

The Duck Had a Kick Coming

Mrs. Newlywed was a good cook and housekeeper and very proud of her home. One day her husband went hunting and brought home a wild duck. She determined to excell all previous cooking and consulted a cookbook. She read: "Cook duck 20 minutes." So she prepared it and baked it in the oven for 20 minutes, placed it on the table with the rest of her dinner and called hubby to the feast. The bird was raw She looked again in the book and read: "Cook duck 20 minutes for each pound."

Very Pathetic Case.

Three men were riding in an automobile. It was late at night and all three were dizzy. Perhaps it was something they had eaten.

Suddenly they saw what seemed to them a pathetic sight. A little white wooly dog's body lay on the street car track, motionless, while standing nearby was a larger dog, as if on guard. The trio stopped the car. Here was some real human interest stuff, they thought.

They felt sort of sentimental, anyhow, and tears nearly came to their eyes as they saw the faithful mastiff standing guard over the body of the smaller dog.

"Gee, that's tough," opined one of them. "The little fellow has been hit by a street car and his big pal is going to guard his body." Exit about that time another auto rounded the corner headed straight for the pair of dogs. Both bounded to their feet and trotted away leisurely. And the three men in the car drove away.

From Small Beginnings

George Romney, the Cabinet Makers Boy, the Great Painter

Among the famous pictures that one sees everywhere is the picture of "Milton and His Daughters," painted by George Romney. The blind old poet is presented dictating the immortal lines of "Paradise Lost." The picture has a grace of outline, a depth of feeling and a charm of conception that make it one of the world's great works of art. Then one also and quite often sees reproductions of the beautiful pictures of that fascinating Lady Hamilton, the gay and debonaire lady to whom the great Admiral Nelson was devoted. In these pictures there is such life, such suggestion of personal attractiveness, that everyone is led to admiration. Both the pictures of "Milton and His Daughters" and the many pictures of Lady Hamilton were first painted by George Romney, one of the most celebrated of English artists.

George Romney was one of the many men of genius who fell under the bewitchery of Lady Hamilton. He loved the woman with a whole heart's devotion, painted numberless pictures of her, and looked upon her as the greatest factor in his artistic career. Neither to him nor to any one else did Lady Hamilton bring true happiness.

George Romney had drifted into this work as an artist. When as a mere boy he had worked in his father's cabinetmaking shop he had noticed the odd characters who came to see about work. He watched them closely and then with pencil and paper made pictures of them that so well presented their chief characteristics that the cabinetmakers' boy became noted in the neighborhood for his work. The patrons of the shop suggested that the boy should be taught how to paint. It happened that a wandering artist was working nearby and the boy was sent to him.

The poor teaching that George Romney gained from this more or less vagabond artist was his school of art. He learned enough to start out as a wandering artist and to paint pictures here and there for little more than the cost of his materials. One thing, however, contributed to his success. He had no opportunity to devote himself to art alone, but he always tried to paint the best possible pictures. The small pay that he received did not tempt him to work hastily and carelessly. The result of constant effort was that, while he was still a young man, he became noted as an artist. In spite of fame he continued to study his art and to work more painstakingly. Very wisely he chose subjects that had popular interest, and continued his portrait work. He found time to study in Paris and in Rome, and by the time he was 40 gained recognition as one of the best of all English painters. Although hampered by more than his share of peculiarities of the artistic temperament, Romney strove constantly to do higher and better work.

New Fish Story

The station agent of Hawkinsville Ga., is the sponsor of a new fish story Recently, he says, it was necessary to clean out the tender tank of one of the locomotives of the line. Watchers were surprised to observe a ten-inch carp come tumbling out of the waste pipe. As the water comes from the river nearby, it was surmised the fish might have been pumped through the small supply pipes. Considering the size of the fish, and that the tank had not been cleaned for two years, it would seem that the carp had been living in the tank for some time, feeding on the sediment in the water.

"—a performance record positively unique in America's motor car annals" . . . . . .

now emphasized by

tremendously reduced prices

PEOPLE BUY THIS CAR, first and foremost, because of its 100% performance-rating—on the basis of what it has done and is doing, daily, in the hands of more than 200,000 serenely satisfied owners . . . In the most drastic public and private tests to which any automobile has ever been subjected, the Willys-Knight has come through absolutely clean—one of the few cars that, in 10 years' time, has never once had a single black-mark registered against it!

PEOPLE BUY THIS CAR because of the unique engine-principle it has promulgated—"an engine you'll never wear out." The patented Knight sleeve-valve motor, pioneered by the Willys-Knight, has established a new and advanced standard of practice in automotive construction. For here is a power-plant that actually and visibly improves with use—improves in horsepower, improves in fuel efficiency, improves in smooth and silent running . . . Good at your first 5,000 miles, better still at 50,000—at 100,000-and-over, your Willys-Knight achives its prime—it is then a more powerful, quieter and more efficiently engined car than the day you bought it!

PEOPLE BUY THIS CAR because it needs less attention, less adjustment than any other. 25,000 miles, with not a dollar spent for engine repairs, is an every-day Willys-Knight story. And many's the Willys-Knight has been driven double that distance with never a wrench or a tool to touch it!

PEOPLE BUY THIS CAR because it gives them exactly the same type of engine they find in the most costly European-built automobiles—Panhard, Peugeot, Minerva, Daimler-Knight. Among these are the cars King George of England, the Prince of Wales, King Albert of Belgium and other royal personages favor most for their personal and private use—a list of the Knight-engined-car owners among the Old World nobility reads like a verbatim transcript of the Almanac de Gotha!

PEOPLE BUY THIS CAR because it knows no carbon troubles—it has no valves to grind. The Knight sleeve-valve idea does away with both!... The Lanchester Balancer is another important exclusive Willys-Knight feature An ingenious English invention that positively prevents engine vibration at any and all speeds. Owners will tell you emphatically that smooth and restful driving and riding, particularly at high speed, is practically impossible without it!

PEOPLE BUY THIS CAR because of its definite acceptability from the woman viewpoint. A flexible car, exceptionally easy to drive. A commodious car, extraordinarily camfortable to ride in. And from the standpoint of smartness of design, richness of atmosphere, completeness and elegance of appointment—your Willys-Knight typifies "all that the gentlewoman could possibly desire in an automobile", as an owner pregnantly puts it!

MANY HOUSEWIVES SEEK TO EMULATE U. S. BUDGET

WASHINGTON, SEPT. 12.—(AP)—The Federal Government, by getting on a budget basis, has inspired countless housewives throughout the country to emulate it.

The Bureau of the Budget here is receiving many requests from the holders of family purse-strings and even from members of Congress for hints on saving money by making a budget and recording household expenses.

The office of General H. M. Lord, director of the bureau, however, is forced to reply that the government has prepared no schedule of proposed expenses for the household. Although dealing with an outlay of billions of dollars, the Budget Bureau has not yet shaped a course for expending eighteen of $1,000 a year and up, and is not now considering it. The nearest approach has been distribution by the bureau of a publication put out by a cash register concern, outlining a proposed budget for use by individuals and families.

A PROVIDENCE VISITOR PRAISES THE D. A. R. MUSEUM

During Saturday afternoon, Mrs. B. P. Bishop and Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell were hostesses at the D. A. R. Museum at Norwich Town Green.

The following communication was received during the afternoon:

Providence, R. I., Sept. 11th.

D. A. R. Museum Committee: I was in your very interesting museum of antiques Saturday afternoon, Sept. 5th. The young lady in attendance was very kind.

I wish to congratulate you on having such a splendid service rendered to the traveling public, as well as to your local people.

EDMUND B. EVANS.
Evans Printing Company,
Providence.

This letter was very gratifying to the museum committee, showing how much the collection of curios and relics in the museum appeals to strangers motoring through Norwich, who are always enthusiastic over the great historic value of the antiques.

As a matter of fact, Norwich people themselves show much less appreciation of the museum and its treasures than do visitors from other points.

It chanced that the hostess on the afternoon when Mr. Evans and his party dropped in to inspect the antiques was Mrs. James J. Donohue whose cordiality so impressed the visitors.

FUNERALS

James Avery Brown

Funeral services for James Avery Brown were held in Old Mystic Thursday afternoon. Mr. Brown was the son of Anise Holdridge and Avery Brown. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. John H. Godfrey, Mystic, Mrs. George P. Main, Ledyard, two brothers, John Brown, Ledyard, and William Brown, of Rockville. There are also many nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Bridget Rogers Kelleher

The funeral of Mrs. Bridgett Rogers Kelleher, 80, one of the oldest residents in Colchester, was held Saturday morning at 8:15 from her home in Col-Andrew's Church, at 9 o'clock. Rev. Philip Mooney was celebrant of the mass and Miss Alice Brown presided at the organ. Miss Claire Brown sang Rest for the Weary, as the waiting hymn, and Pie Jesu at the offertory.

The bearers were T. F. Kelly, Jeremiah O'Connor, John Wade, James O'Brien of Colchester, Michael Leahy and Edward F. Slattery of New Haven and burial took place in St. Andrew's cemetery. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends some coming from New Haven, Willimantic and Hartford and there were many beautiful floral tributes of esteem. Undertakers Cummings and Ring had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Kelleher, who had lived in Colchester for more than 60 years, was found dead Thursday morning on the floor of her home by neighbors. William Sherman called to deliver milk and finding the lamp burning between 10 and 11 a. m. thought things were not as usual. He called several neighbors and the door was forced. They found her dead. Medical Examiner C. E. Pendleton was called and pronounced death due to a shock.

Given Brooklyn Jail Sentence

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 12—Robert Fitzgerald, colored, who narrowly escaped a jail sentence in Norwich last week, at which time he agreed to take a leave of absence from that city, wandered in this direction. He met a more severe fate in police court Saturday morning, when Judge Foss sentenced him to sixty days in Brooklyn jail. Bobbie became a suspicious character in South Windham early Saturday morning and acting upon a complaint Lieutenant Frank McLean motored to the place and took him into custody. Fitzgerald has appeared in the local court about twenty times for vagrancy and holds a similar record in nearly every court in Windham and New London counties. Chief Allan MacArthur testified against the accused who denied to prosecuting attorney Gaucher that he had been bumming, stating that he had been employed in Norwich.

FAREWELL SERVICE FOR CHURCH COLLEGE STUDENTS

Young people of the Central Baptist church who are to leave for school or college this fall were impressively reminded that they will be in the hearts and minds of the church by what was said to them at a farewell service held in the prayer meeting room, after the Sunday evening church service.

Miss Edith Ellis, the pastor's assistant was in charge, and after a few words in which she described what a farewell service had meant to her when she was leaving for college, she invited Dr. David A. Pitt, the pastor, to speak of the inception and plan of these farewell services when they were first held by the church four years ago.

Following the pastor's talk, the address to the departing students was made by Mrs. Pitt, herself a college graduate, who brought before the young people a number of pertinent questions which are sure to rise in college life. Treating each question in a way that disclosed her close sympathy with the boys and girls at this period in their lives, she gave thoughtful and helpful advcie that made a deep impression on her hearers.

The service closed with a short social period during which ice cream and wafers were served.

The young people leaving for school or college are the following:

SHOW THE FLAG TO GREET THE GOVERNOR

The committee having in charge the reception of Governor Trumbull and his staff when they come here Thursday to attend the New London County fair is making the suggestion that the business houses especially and the citizens generally show a greeting to the governor by hanging out their flags. It is felt that it will be a very gracious and acceptable way to indicate the honor which the community feels in having the governor visit the city and that the display of the flags will be a suitable way in which show the welcome that is felt.

Governor Bingham and staff are due here at noon and the plan is to have a short reception which will be followed by a luncheon. Mayors and town officials from this part of the state are to attend the luncheon.

SALEM FARM GAVE DEMONSTRATION FOR PYTHIAS

The 1925 convention of the grand lodge of Connecticut, Knights of Pythias, will be held in Seymour on Tuesday, October 26, opening at 9:30 a. m. Grand Chancellor Frederick M. Parsons of Seymour will preside.

It will be the first time that the grand lodge has ever held its annual convention in that town, and great preparations are being made by the committee of arrangements and entertainment on the part of Humphrey Lodge, the local Pythian organization, of which Judge William H. Williams, the oldest living past grand chancellor in Connecticut, is a member, he having been grand chancellor of Connecticut in 1880, forty-five years ago. He lives in Derby, and is now a state referee.

Among the matters to come before the convention this year is the subject of the proposed establishment of of Pythian Home in Connecticut. Much interest is being shown in the proposal, and on Sunday, on the Woodbridge-Mumford farm in Salem, there was given a practical lesson and demonstration of what a fertile and productive farm can furnish in the way of supplies toward the support of such a home. Fred B. Ames, manager of the farm, and who is a past chancellor of Woodbridge Lodge in Salem, and is intensely interested in the matter of the proposed home, conducted the demonstration, and the attendance made one of the greatest Pythian assemblages seen in Connecticut in many years.

The great farm, of some three thousand acres, is located on the state highway from Norwich to East Haddam, crossing the Hartford-New London highway at "The Willows" in Salem, and is about a mile west of this crossing, in a beautiful valley, completely encompassed by hills; and at this season of the year, when the cattle are grazing in the meadows, forms a beautiful pastoral scene.

On the crest of one of the near-by hills is the summer residence of United States Senator Hiram Bingham, and at the foot of the hill, in the valley, is the house where Donald G. Mitchell ("Ik Marvel"), in 1850, wrote "Reveries of a Bachelor" and "Dream Life," the two books that established his fame as a writer. Mr. Mitchell was born in Norwich in 1822, and died in 1908, at the age of 86, and is buried in Salem.

Another pleasing spot of historic interest in the town is "Musicvale," a name that would of itself attract visitors, while a drive of about seven miles brings one to the "Devil's Hop Yard," in East Haddam, now a state park. The outing was one that will not soon be forgotten by the big assemblage of Pythians.

SENATOR BINGHAM HAS TO CANCEL NORWICH DATE

Judge Arthur F. Libby, who has been in charge of some of the arrangements for Senator Hiram Bingham coming here Thursday when Governor Trumbull will attend the county fair, received the disappointing word Sunday that Senator Bingham would be unable to come.

It was with much regret that Senator Bingham was obliged to cancel the Norwich engagement, which included an evening address before the Social Workers Council of New London and Windham counties and the Norwich College Club.

But the reason which the senator gave for the cancellation was adequate. He has just been appointed by President Coolidge on a commission of nine members to study the aviation situation and the first meeting of the commission is to be held at Washington Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, with other sessions to follow so that it would be impossible for him to be here.

GAVE MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR ELIZABETH PECKHAM

Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Young, 106 River avenue, a very pretty miscellaneous shower was held for Mrs. Young's niece, Miss Elizabeth Peckham, in honor of her approaching marriage to Walfrid Bjorn of this city. From the chandelier in the dining room a miniature watering pot was hung with ribbons running to the various articles of aluminum, china and linen. After the opening of the gifts a delightful luncheon was served by Mrs. Young assisted by Mrs. John Turner. Those present included Mrs. Charles A. Hagberg, Mrs. John Johnson, Miss Mabel Hagberg and Mrs. Jerry Lucy.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Frank L. Corbin

(Contributed)

Following a short illness, Mrs. Mary Bradford Corbin died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. C. Gildersleeve, of 29 Lincoln avenue Sunday morning, in the eighty fifth year of her age. Mrs. Corbin was born in Woodstock, Oct. 23, 1840, the daughter of George and Phoebe Phillips Bradford, being a direct descendant of Governor William Bradford of Plymouth. In 1863 she was united in marriage to Frank L. Corbin, also of Woodstock, who died in 1911.

Most of her life was spent in the old ancestral Bradford homestead in West Woodstock. In 1912, Mrs. Corbin moved to Norwich where she has since resided with her only daughter.

A son William died in 1885 and George in 1895.

Mrs. Corbin was a life long member of the First Baptist church of Woodstock of which her husband was deacon for thirty-six years as was his father and grandfather before him. In her home and church she was best known and appreciated. She was young in spirit and many will miss the privilege of holding converse with one so aged and yet so optimistic about the future. Hers was the broad vision and strong faith that although there may be sorrow, darksome shadows and oftimes defeat "That behind the dim unknown standeth God amid the shadow keeping watch above His own."

Henry W. Vergason

Following several weeks illness, his condition being critical for the past week, Henry W. Vergason, 70, died early Saturday morning, September 12th, at his home on Huntington avenue, Norwich Town, in the house where he had resided for many years.

Mr. Vergason, who was the son of the late William and Nancy Shelly Vergason, esteemed residents of Norwich Town, was born October 10th, 1854 in Norwich Town, where practically his entire life was spent. Vergason Ave., which is approached from Huntington Green, was named for the several branches of the Vergason family, since which one or more family by that name, have resided there.

Henry W. Vergason was united in marriage with Mrs. Rosalia J. Appley June 15th, 1886, who survives him. He is also survived by two sons, G. A. Vergason of Providence, and Stanley Vergason of New London; also a step-son, C. C. Appley of New London. Other surviving relatives are a sister, Mrs. Gilbert Bowers, (Leona Vergason), of Washington street, also several nieces and nephews. Daniel Vergason of Ashwillet and Fremont and Frederick Vergason of Norwich Town, sons of the late Nelson Vergason, are first cousins. Another sister, Lydia Vergason, wife of William Burdick, died a number of years ago.

Mr. Vergason was a carpenter by trade, being employed for many years in various ways by Owen S. Smith. He was a faithful workman, loyal to every trust placed in his hands. He was a devoted husband and companion to the one who is left in bereavement, his first and last thought being of his wife, and the home in which they both took so much comfort, ever being by each others side, except when business prevented.

When the largest class in the history of the First Congregational church was received into its membership, Easter Sunday, 1924, Mr. and Mrs. Vergason were included in the sixty-three to receive the right hand of fellowship by the church pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, who also baptized Mr. Vergason.

Mrs. Henry Eastland

After being in poor health for over a year, seriously ill for about two months, the life of Emily Goranson, beloved wife of Henry Eastland, came to a close Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at her home, No. 88 Tenth street.

Mrs. Eastland was born in Gothenburg, Sweden, November 24, 1855, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Goranson, but came to this country when a young girl. On September 6, 1875 in Yantic, she was united in marriage by Rev. Mr. Wietzel to Henry Eastland, and for a number of years following their marriage the couple made their home in Franklin. About nine years ago she came to Norwich and made her home on Tenth street.

Mrs. Eastland was a member of the Greeneville Congregational church. She leaves many friends in Norwich and Franklin who will mourn her loss.

She is survived by her husband, two sons, Harry G., of Norwich and George H., of New London; four daughters, Mrs. C. R. Williams, Mrs. W. A. Pitcher and Mrs John W. Hill of Norwich and Mrs J. F. Lake of Chicago, Ill.; also by eleven grandchildren.

Dr. Johnn M. McIlvain

The death of Dr. John Morton McIlvain, for many years a dentist in practise in Pawtucket, R. I., occurred Friday morning at his residence, 101 Broadway, Pawtucket. He had not been in good health for about a year, having been taken ill while on a trip to California.

Dr. McIlvain was born in Hartford, Md., August 22, 1858, son of the late George W. and Rachel (Ramsay) McIlvain and was a direct descendent of John Morton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. He was eligible to membership in the Sons of Cincinnati.

His early education was gained in a private school, his academic education being acquired at Swarthmore College, Pennsylvania. He received the degree of doctor of medicine in 1882 at the University of Maryland, and in 1894 was awarded the degree of dental surgeon at the University of Michigan.

For a time he practised in Bridgeport, Conn., after which he went to Pawtucket, where he continued, with an office in the Sheldon building.

He was a member of Union Lodge, F. and A. M., and he was also a member of the Rhode Dental Society and the New England Dental Society.

Dr. McIlvain had wed to himself a host of friends since residing in Pawtucket, being the possessor of a personality and kindness of manner at all times pleasing.

He was married in 1887 to Miss Mary Elizabeth Fredenburg of Norwich, Conn., who survives him. The couple had no children. Before her marriage his wife was a teacher in the schools of Bozrah and this city.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Pawtucket, the services being conducted by Rev. Frank Appleton, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, and Rev. Edward Russell Evans, pastor of the Pawtucket Congregational Church. The burial will take place in Linwood cemetery, Colchester, this state.

Germany Holds Sugar Exhibit

MAGDEBURG, Germany, Sept. 13.—(AP)—So steadily has the sugar industry grown in Germany that the nation has been in a position to export rather than import the product for 50 years. The year 1905-06 was the record year, during which more than one million tons of beet sugar were exported. An exhibition, depicting the progress of the industry, was recently held in Magdeburg. While sugar was one of the best export articles before the war, the exports have fallen off considerably since that time.

THE BO

BASEBALL BATTLE REMAINS HOT WITH TEAMS STRIVING FOR MONEY PLACES

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Six teams eliminated as championship possibilities in the major league races tonight were locked in battle for places in the first division and shares in the world series proceeds.

The strong finish of the third place Cincinnati Reds, who led the clubs of the National last week with four victories in six starts, leaves only the fourth peg, held by Brooklyn, for St. Louis and Boston. But the Browns, Tigers and White Sox, separated by thin margins, are clustered in a fight which tonight found both third and fourth places still open to contest.

The decline of the Chicago Americans, sped by the absence of their great second baseman and manager, Eddie Collins, forced a breach by which the hammering Browns and Tigers were able to push well into the first division last week. Reconciling themselves to the loss of Ken Williams' big stick, Sisler's men put on a blinding barrage of base hits to overwhelm Chicago and mount to third place, while Detroit clung desperately to the St. Louis pace and moved into the fourth berth as the windy city team was blasted out of the first division.

The sixth place Boston Braves, although still five games behind fourth place Brooklyn in the national picked up another game and a half on the Dodgers last week in spite of the brilliant pitching of Dazzy Vance for Robby's club. Although temporarily checked by the Phillies as Ring and Carlson turned in a brace of shutouts for the Quaker team, the hub players won five of their nine games. The Robins, with an even break in six attempts, were likewise distanced during the week by the Cards, who closed impressively by twice jolting the leading Pirates to threaten Brooklyn from fifth place.

Pittsburgh fans tonight reported a slight quake as the Pirates showed signs of slumping. By losing both ends of a double-header to the Cards today, the national league leaders posted a four-game losing streak and saw their advantage over New York cut to six games. For the first time since the week of May 31—June 6, the Pirates last week lost a majority of their games, dropping five contests in eight starts under a surprise sortie from Chicago and St. Louis.

A ray of hope pierced New York gloom tonight as the Giants prepared for their final swing through the west. McGraw will lead his team against the Corsairs in the closing series between the two clubs, on Sept. 24, 25 and 26, prior to which the pacemakers will be called upon to face Brooklyn, battling to hold its grip on fourth place.

The Philadelphia Athletics, in spite of the shattering of their long dosing streak, lost additional ground to the Senators last week by securing no better than an even break in ten games. Mack's team fell back another half game and closed the week seven and one-half contests behind the champions.

Back in the Yankee fold after a brief suspension Babe Ruth led his mates in a battling assault which balanced five defeats with five victories for the Hugmen. Ruth's clouting spurt, featured by frequent circuit drives, lifted his shrunken average from .267 to .283.

The Cleveland Indians, joining the Browns in an assault upon the White Sox, fortified their hold on sixth place against the Yankees, while the last place Boston Red Sox had the satisfaction of leading at least one club in the week's play with a two and one-half game advantage over Collin's club.

TAFTVILLE A. A. BREAKS EVEN OVER WEEK END

Taftville A. A. won and lost in the two game series with Wauregan, dropping Saturday's game 6 to 4 but getting revenge on Sunday at Wauregan, winning 7 to 2. The scores:

FORT TRUMBULL STARS WIN THREE GAMES

The Fort Trumbull Stars of New London have developed a habit of making a clean sweep in their week end games. This is the third successive week end in which they have made a clean sweep winning three games on Friday, Saturday and Sunday two weeks ago, two on Saturday and Sunday last week and three this week end on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. This week's victims were the Shamrocks on Friday in an abbreviated five inning contest, the score at the end of four and one-half innings being 3 to 2 in the Stars favor. Saturday afternoon the Stars journeyed to Hanover for the return game with the Airlie team whom they defeated in New London last week. At the end of nine hectic innings fourteen runs had been tallied for the Stars while the Airlies gathered four.

Sunday afternoon was the day set for another slaughter when the Stars rode rough shod over the Groton Pioneers by the score of 10 to 0. The Stars plastered the whitewash brush all over the Pioneers in a most convincing manner, leaving no doubt in anyone's mind as to which was the best team. Taylor and Henry were the opposing pitchers in this game and Taylor was way ahead of his rival, being invincible in the pinches, a balk and some more loose playing by the Pioneers. With this lead the Stars had nothing to worry about from then on to the end of the game.

Next Sunday the attraction at Morgan Park will be the fast Taftville A. A. team. These teams met on the Taftville grounds earlier in the season and this is the return engagement. In the first encounter the Taftville boys were on the long end of the score and the New Londoners will be working hard to avenge this defeat.

HAUGDAHL BREAKS THREE DIRT TRACK RECORDS

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 10.—(A. P.)—Sig Haugdahl, dirt track champion race driver, broke three world dirt track records in a five mile automobile race at the Minnesota State Fair grounds yesterday.

He finished the second heat of the five mile special division race in three minutes, 23 seconds flat lowering his time established on the track here in 1923 when he traveled over the same distance in 3 minutes 42 1-5 seconds.

The other records that were shattered were those for three and four miles. Haugdahl, in the first three miles of the race established a record of 2 minutes 10 3-5 seconds and for the four miles 2 minutes 54 1-4 seconds. Previous records were 2 minutes 11 seconds and 3 minutes 9 seconds, respectively.

Haugdahl also shattered the mark for ten miles, going around in seven minutes, 32 1-5 seconds. A short time before Al Cotey of Chicago, had hung up a new record of 8.09 3-5.

WINGFIELD BEATS HOYT IN PITCHING DUEL

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—Fred Wingfield had the better of Waite Hoyt in a pitching duel, and the Red Sox defeated the Yanks today, 2 to 1. A poor throw by Hoyt allowed Rothrock to score in the fourth while Flagstead's sacrifice fly brought Bischoff home with the winning run.

ENGLISH WELTER CHAMP ARRIVES IN AMERICA

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Tommy Mulligan, welterweight champion of England, arrived here today, accompanied by his trainer, Thomas Murphy. Mulligan's American representative, Billy Ames of Clifton, Mass. who is negotiating for a fight between the English boxer and Sailor Friedman of Chicago met the English titleholder at the pier. Mulligan is 21 years old and claims to be undefeated after fifty fights in the past three years.

TENNIS OCCUPIES PROMINENT PLACE IN WORLD OF SPORTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP)—William T. Tilden will be called to the turf courts of the West Side Lawn Tennis Club this week to answer the season's final thrust at his right to rule the lawn tennis world.

Sixty-three players, foremost racqueters of America and the world, tomorrow will take up the challenge of his supremacy in the national singles championship at a point where two sensational young French players, Lacoste and Borotra, ended their big push last week in the Davis cup matches at Philadelphia. His stand against the assault of this formidable entry, answering the question raised by the champion's terrific struggles at the Germantown Cricket Club, will decide whether the man who has occupied the throne of netdom for five consecutive years is at last ready to step down.

The two Jeans of the tri-color, inspired by the partial opening of the door to victory in their great battles against Tilden will renew their effort to unseat the champion. At their shoulders in the drive will be two even more formidable rivals of the tall Philadelphian. The brilliant play of William H. Johnston of California and Vincent Richards of Yonkers, N. Y., in the successful defense of the international trophy, flashed unmistakable signs of American opposition to the reign of Tilden indicating that the foreign challenge will be hardly less threatening than the local thrust at the title-holder.

Tilden has maintained his place at the tennis peak not only by the brilliance of a marvelous all-around game, but by uncanny ability to pull himself together at the very brink of defeat, and soar to new heights of net greatness. He has been strongest when pressed hardest. In the national championships last year, the Philadelphian dropped a set to Manuel Alonso in the second round, was carried to three deuced sets by Jack Wright, lost another set to Howard Kinsey in the fifth round, and finally was taken through five terrific sets by youthful Richards.

Johnston, who had gone through his half of the draw without losing a set and who had overwhelmed Peck Griffin, Gerald Patterson and Rene Lacoste, met Tilden in the final round, and Tilden breezed in a winner in straight sets, 6-1, 9-7, 6-2.

Tilden has twice been beaten this year. Vincent Richards vanquished the champion in the final round of an invitation tournament at Orange, N. J., only to suffer straight-set defeat at the hands of the Philadelphian in three later encounters. Cranston Holman, Californian collegian, also took the measure of Tilden in an exhibition, while on one occasion prior to the Davis cup matches Tilden was on the verge of unexpected defeat. Young George Lott of Chicago extended the champion to a five-set match in the final round of the clay court title tournament.

Johnston's impressive play against LaCoste and Borotra at Philadelphia, contrasted with the difficulty encountered by Tilden in disposing of the same pair, has brought the little Californian to the front again as an outstanding contender for the crown. Johnston's Davis cup victories, coupled with his two triumphs over Richards in the team test matches, argue for a feat which no former champion has been able to accomplish a return to the throne after a six-year absence.

Four times since he won the event in 1913, Johnston has reached the final round only to be turned back by an invincible Tilden. But tennis in the past has been uncertain, and a few former champions have been able to regain their lost laurels in surprising comebacks.

R. D. Wrenn, after annexing the title in 1893 and 1894, gave up the crown the following season only to reclaim it in 1896 and 1897. William A. Larned ascended the peak in 1901 and 1902 to return in 1907 for a stretch of five years after having resigned his sceptre to Harry Doherty. Holcombe Ward, Beals C. Wright and William J. Clothier, Doherty's victory, incidentally, marked the only successful invasion of the American throne by a foreign player in the history of the tournament. The English star defeated Clothier in the final round in 1903.

Notable American successes in the Davis cup matches have not always forecast victory in the national singles. Maurice E. McLoughlin, California comet of 1912, 1913 and 1914, rose to the greatest heights of his meteoric career in defeating Norman E. Brookes and Anthony F. Wilding of Australia in the international series of 1914, only to bow to R. Norris Williams later in the championship event.

Boxing

Heavyweight championship air castles built for youthful Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, N. Y., after a brilliant start as a six round fighter were tumbled last week by the hard-punching light heavyweight titleholder, Paul Berlenbach. Slattery's second knockout defeat here within three months definitely confined the field of possible successors to Dempsey's throne to veterans. While hope may still be held forth for the development of young Stribling as a heavyweight, critics here were inclined to the opinion that the immediate future holds forth no prospects of producing a challenger able to attain to the challenging rank now held by Harry Wills and Gene Tunney.

Golf

Defiance of age and Colonel Bogey was written into the season's golf records last week at Rye, N. Y., where more than 300 links veterans ranging from fifty-five to eighty-three years gathered at the Apawamis Club to contest for the championship of the Seniors' Golf Association. Scores which many an aspiring young mashie wielder might well eye in envy found their way to the bulletin board, and as a fitting climax, Fred Snare, sixty-two-year-old Garden City player, came back to repeat a victory of 1923 with a thirty-six hole total of 156, equalling the best previous mark posted in the tourney.

The wide variation in the ages of the veterans was paralleled by the geographical scope of the entry. Frank L. Woodward came all the way from Denver to compete, but his journey was surpassed by that of F. M. Hunter from the Pacific coast. H. W. Perrin, a former president of the association, represented Philadelphia. Washington gave Rear Admiral Fletcher, retired, the south sent Horace F. Smith from Nashville, while the middle west had Colonel Brent Arnold of Cincinnati, among many others.

RIVERVIEW WINS EASILY FROM J. B. MARTIN CLUB

Tony West, backed by the hitting power of his teammates, proved too much for the J. B. Martin team Saturday afternoon and Riverview won an easy 19 to 4 victory. Fisher was no bargain and after the State Hospitalers had bunched hits off him in the first and fourth innings he retired in favor of Pepin. Pepin's stay on the mound was short for in the fifth the Riverview warriors continued their heavy hitting and Lemieux was sent in to stop the rally but five runs were scored off him. With the score at this time 18 to 1 the Riverview team eased up and West retired in the seventh inning and Lefty Harrell finished the game. The score:

At the J. B. Martin diamond Sunday afternoon the Velvetmen won a close decision over Ashland by a 4 to 3 score, evening up the series at a game each. Three runs in the first inning and another in the fourth was enough for the locals to win by although Ashland made a bid for victory in the ninth. Fisher showed a complete reversal of form over Saturday and pitched brilliant ball with the exception of the third inning when Ashland bunched hits for two runs. The combination of DeCelles, F. George Taylor's Hallville team proved a tough proposition for the Palace boys Sunday afternoon at Buwell field in a postponed twilight game, the village lads winning 13 to 2. The attack was led by Sullivan who garnered 4 hits, two of them being doubles. Fuller was a close second

FORMER SUB-BASE SAILOR DENIES SNATCHING NEW LONDON GIRL'S PURSE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 13—Joseph Washington, 23, colored, residing at 8 Schoolhouse lane, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Acting Desk Sergeant William Babcock, charged with breach of the peace. He will be given a hearing in the police court Monday morning. Washington is accused by Mrs. Chase, colored, of 107 Green street of having snatched a pocketbook from the hand of her daughter Louise, while the latter was walking on the street, Friday at midnight. Washington ascertained from acquaintances that the police were looking for him and went to the police station where he informed Sergeant Babcock that he wished to give himself up if he was wanted. Washington was accommodated, but he was immediately released for he had arranged for Edward W. Jones, also colored, to become surety on the bond of the accussed, which was for $100. Washington is an ex-sailor and served at the submarine base.

Salvatore Caracausa, 813 Ocean avenue, complained to the police late Saturday afternoon that an automobile owned by Mrs. Louise M. Baxton, of Golden Spur, Waterford, had run over the former's bicycle on Bank street and that the driver of the machine failed to stop to determine the extent of the damage occasioned. An investigation by the police revealed that the automobile was driven by Mrs. Baxton's son and that Mrs. Baxton would pay for any damage that Caracausa had sufferedn

There were thirteen cases before the police court Saturday, eight of them original complaints and the balance adjourned cases. James Lamont, a sailor, headed the list when he was accused of intoxication. James pleaded guilty. He was allowed to make the best excuse he could offer, but that was that he was rejoicing over being discharged from the navy, having served his enlistment. He was fined $5, for his excuse was not regarded as a reasonable one. The accused was in doubt as to whether he would go to jail and work for the county a couple of weeks or pay his fine. He finally decided to settle.

Steve Flood followed Lamont. He is the fellow who played the treachery act on people who sold him liquor and furnished evidence that convicted them when they were prosecuted. He was drunk and down in the vicinity of Shaw street where he fell and bruised his face and lost his hat. It was explained that he had been on a spree that continued six months or more. He was penalized to the extent of a $5 fine with costs attached.

James Willimantic, pleaded guilty when arraigned for drunkenness. Where he got that name he did not disclose, but it was supposed he got started up in a skein of thread in the strike that has been in progress at the city of spindles, and took the name of the city he came from to conceal his own name. He told the Fishers Island story, which has been recited so often in the court and for that he drew a fine. He said he had wages coming to him over on the island and to test the truth of that story he was allowed to collect at the island. It is doubtful whether he gets the money he claims is due him.

Harold Ashbey was fined for failure to comply with the signals of a traffic officer. He paid $6 into the court.

Emily Knox, a young girl whom the police describe as "a few buttons shy," was in court as a facetious person who wandered about to day and to night. The testimony in the case was not ready for trial and was put over the Wednesday and the girl went to trial where she would be out of luck's way. She is headed for a reformatory as that appears to be the place for her to enter upon the street called Straight.

James L. Darling, blocked a passage-way on Golden street and to do so parked his car in the restricted section of that highway. That was too flagrant a violation of the parking ordinance to be passed unpenalized, so he was fined. There were three other cases of parking ordinance violation on the docket, but they were passed with suspended sentence because there was a question whether the signs restricting parking could be seen where they were placed. The accused were reputable citizens—men who would not violate an ordinance intentionally, or with any knowledge that they offended.

Charles Moore, known as Charlie Chaplin, is at Norwich State hospital for examination as to his mental capacity, for he has some peculiar motions as to what he can and what he cannot do. The term of his confinement has not been of sufficient duration as yet so he is to be detained for another month. Charlie has a weakness for uniforms. He rejoiced in the title of Champion War Cry seller for a time, but that did not appeal to him and he took to polishing the brass and enamel on automobiles. That didn't pay well enough and Charlie wouldn't stay on the job.

The funeral of John B. Hendry, formerly bookkeeper in the employ of the Central Coal company and residing with his family at 176 Bank street, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Thomas Caughey, 53 Coleman street. The funeral was attended by many mourners, including the employes of the coal company and a representation of members of Clan Cameron, Order of Scottish Clans, of which organization Mr. Hendry had been a member a number of years. The services were most impressive and were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth pastor of the First Church of Christ. The bearers were George, Thomas and John Hendry, Frank Mullen, Robert Hickey and Thomas Hanley. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

William Strettmatter, 32, residing at 12 Cutler street, and employed by S. S. Kresge, died Saturday afternoon at Lawrence hospital where he had been under treatment but a few days.

The funeral of John F. Parry was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by many mourners. A solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan, with Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley deacon and Rex Alexander Wollschlaeger subdeacon. The bearers were Manuel Richards, Joseph Perry, Antone Ramus, Herbert Travers, Manuel Joseph and Anthony Perry. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, for Mrs. Harriet E. Clark, wife of Christopher Culver Clark, 48 Truman street. Rev. Joseph A. Elder, pastor of Huntington Street Bartist church, conducting the services. Burial was in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Gustave Dahl, of 29 Eighth street; William Kilpatrick, 41 North Bank street; Thomas Moore, a member of the crew of the tug Charles MacWilliams Frances Crook, 41 Tilley street; James Buckley, Beat View, Waterford and Master Thomas Bowler, 14 Blydenburg avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged Saturday.

The automobile owned and driven by R. Franklin Francis, 32 State street, and a machine owned and operated by Raoul Paul Gautreaux, a member of the crew of the submarine S-10, were in collision early Saturday evening on Main street, corner of Hill street. Both cars were damaged.

Mrs. Mary Peterson, of Tilley street, was taken into custody Saturday night by Sergeant James Sullivan and Patrolman Edward Daniels, charged with breach of the peace. She will be given a hearing in the police court Monday morning. The woman, who is married to a Filipino, was on Atlantic street, between Potter and Water street, where she refused to go to her home when requested to do so by her husband. An altercation followed and resulted in a crowd of men and women being attracted to the location of the disturbance. Following her arrest the woman created a scene, through Atlantic street and North Bank street and even after she had been landed at the police station.

Local Chinese again became alarmed today and tonight because of an anticipated visit from members of the Hip Sing Tong society, which has renewed warfare against the On Leong Tongs in New York and Boston, particularly at the latter place where renewed fatal attacks have been made upon the On Leong Tong members. Because of the feared visit of members of the Hip Sing Tong here on murder bent, a representative of the Chinese Tea House, 121 Golden street, where practically all of the New London Chinese store proprietors as well as restaurant managers, spend much of their spare time, visited the police station this afternoon and requested that the place and its frequenters be given police protection up to midnight. Patrolman George Laboue was stationed at the Chinese tea house restaurant from 2 o'clock until midnight.

The cause of the unrest among the local Chinese resulted from information following the killings in Boston Saturday that a visit of the murder gang might be made to New London and other New England cities and that it would be well if a watch was kept for the arrival of the Chinese gunmen, especially at the tea house where at times there are as many as 50 Chinese in the place at once.

All of the Chinese launderies were closed this afternoon and evening, the only places open being the Canton, Palace and Far East restaurants.

Another city dump fire occurred Saturday night when a large tract of refuse on the garbage dumping ground, between the tracks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and Riverview became ablaze. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters, causing the Ockford Hose company to respond. The firemen were engaged pouring water on the burning rubbish nearly two hours before the flames were extinguished. This forenoon the refuse became afire again, causing volumes of smoke to fill the air, but towards nightfall the fire died out.

James McGregor, 69 Jay street, and a sailor, stationed at the submarine base, brought a large collie to the police station this evening when the dog followed the bluejacket about the streets. The dog bears kennel registration on his collar, but the name of the owner is not given.

Samuel Turovitz, employed at Fishers Island, was brought to the police station tonight by John Emelta, of Montville, the former being somewhat intoxicated and having been badly beaten. Turovitz claimed he was taken to a house in Montville where he was supplied with liquor and when he became intoxicated he was beaten and thrown from the place. Turovitz went to a point by the highway where he was found hatless and coatless by Emelta and brought to this city for medical treatment.

Stephen Buscha, alias Stephen Butchka, 113 North Bank street, was taken into custody this evening by Patrolman Patrick Sheehan charged by his wife with breach of the peace and intoxication. Buscha was at home where he created such a disturbance that his wife sought the arrest of her husband.

The police received a telephone message this evening that a gang fight was in progress in the rear of the Armstrong building, adjacent to Sparyard street. Patrolmen Edward Danies and Ernest Opperman were speeded in the police car to the site of the supposed fight but when they arrived there the fighters had dispersed.

Tomorrow will be election day when a vote will be taken to elect three members to the city council and a like number to the office of board of school visitors. While it is possible to elect all three members of the council it is highly probable that but one will be elected and another election must be held the latter part of the month to elect the remaining two.

GATELY-BRENNAN BREAK— TWO OF FOUR CROOKS CAUGHT

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14.—An attempt was made last night to clean out the clothing store of Gately & Brennan, 136 Bank street. Patrolman Henry Hick discovered the crooks at work in the place shortly after midnight and while the gang was assembling the stock and getting it ready to move from the store. Two of the burglars were caught and four escaped, while a third man was taken into custody today as a witness against the two crooks now being held.

The only plunder obtained by the burglars was $277, which was taken from the safe which had been left unlocked when the place closed for business Saturday night. Had the thieves been successful in removing the clothing they intended to carry away the clothing firm would have suffered a loss of several thousand dollars.

The men arrested are South Americans and gave their names as Jose Reyes, and John Bantancourt, both sailors, of 25 South street, New York. The two crooks who escaped are also said to be sailors who have been recent residents at the New York address. The police of New York have been given the names and addresses of the two missing men.

The man held as a witness is Philip Morgan, of Providence, known to have been in company with the crooks yesterday afternoon and evening, but who denies having been away from his lodging house after 10 o'clock, Saturday night.

Patrolman Hick went to the rear of the Gately & Brennan store about 12:30 o'clock for the purpose of trying the basement door. To his surprise he found the door ajar and opening it he used his flashlight and detected the form of Reyes standing in the middle of the large room. Approaching Reyes and after he had moved several feet from the open door, two other crooks, who had heard the officer enter the building and who had hidden behind boxes, leaped from their place of hiding and passing through the door disappeared in the darkness. A fourth crook, who had been collecting the clothing on the floor above and handing it to the crooks below, ran to the front of the store and climbing to the open transom, managed to wriggle through the opening and escape. Hicks held Reyes a prisoner and going to the door sounded his police whistle in an effort to summon help. The blowing of the whistle was heard by Michael Gilligan, New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad yard switchman, on duty a short distance from the store, who notified the police station of the call for help. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolmen Frank Philopena, Braxton Hill, David Nagle and Edward Daniels were speeded to the Gately & Brennan store where Hicks was found with his prisoner.

Hicks was able to give a description of the two men who escaped and after Reyes had been made a prisoner, a search of the city was made for the other three crooks, while the state police at Groton and Centerbrook and the authorities of New Haven, Hartford and Providence were requested to be on the lookout for the burglars.

This morning when Patrolman Thomas Lyden, who was off duty, was passing the corner of Huntington and Jay streets, he noted two young men approaching, both South Americans, who answered the description of two of the missing crooks. One of the men walked with a limp and the buttons had been removed from his coat, as might have occurred when his body passed through the open transom and his limp might have been caused by jumping to the tile store entrance. Lyden held the pair up and as he questioned them, one darted in front of an automobile and ran to Jay street. The officer seized the other crook, who proved to be Batencourt, and pulling his revolver, Lyden fired in the air in an effort to cause the fleeing crook to halt. Lyden was not successful in bringing the man to a stop, for the fellow disappeared in a crowd of men and women on their way to St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and he was soon lost sight of. Lyden escorted his prisoner to the police station, where the man admitted being one of the quartet of crooks.

The crooks declared that it was dress suit cases packed with the pick of the store stock, also had three sailors' canvas bags packed with men's and women's apparel. There were several bundles of clothing being made ready to be taken from the store when the officer surprised the burglars at work.

The crooks declared that it was their intention, had they been successful in making a get-away, to cause the plunder to be shipped to New York and where they intended to dispose of it by sale.

This afternoon Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith grilled Reyes and Batencourt for several hours, during which time they admitted the part they had played in the attempted burglary and incriminated the sailors now being sought for in New York.

While the officers were grilling Reyes and Batencourt a telephone message was received at the police station from the proprietress of a lodging house at 41 North Bank street, that Morgan, who had been in company with Reyes, Batencourt and the other two crooks Saturday afternoon had just arrived at the house seeking Reyes and his companions. Patrolman William Riordan went to the lodging house and took Morgan into custody.

Reyes and Batencourt claim to have been in the city ten days or two weeks and that they had planned the break several days ago, but awaited until Saturday night as the best time to attempt the wholesale burglary.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

WILLLYS-OVERLAND CUTS OVERLAND SEDAN PRICE

A startling price reduction on the Overland Standard sedan from $655.00 to $595.00 is announced by Willys-Overland which brings the price of this full-sized sedan to the lowest figure ever made on a full-sized sedan with sliding gear transmission.

The price reduction on the Standard sedan follows closely on the heels of a general price reduction announced last month which affected materially every model produced by Willys-Overland.

Willys-Overland officials point out that the tremendous success of the Overland Standard Sedan in conjunction with improved and increased production facilities for this model are responsible for the $60 drop in price, bringing this full-sized, five passenger sedan to a new low price level that has never been attempted in the industry for a car with sliding gear transmission.

In making the new announcement, Willys-Overland also announces that several important features have been added to the Overland Standard Sedan that materially increase its value. The latest in one-piece windshields now comes as standard equipment on this car, giving maximum of vision and ventilation. Wider and deeper seats and cushions add to the comfort and riding ease of the car, while the radiator and head lamp rims are now available on all Overland Standard sedans in nickel finish Despite the fact that this car made its public appearance less than 3 months ago the Overland Standard sedan has grown in popularity by leaps and bounds, factory records reveal, because of its meeting a special demand in the two door body types.

Long narrow windows, giving the maximum of vision and ventilation, also provide safety facilities for the small family, while the arrangement of the specially folding front seat backs permit free and unencumbered recess to the rear seat. Willys-Overland dealers declare the Overland Standard sedan is the fastest selling car the company has produced in the Overland line, and the volume of business at the record-breaking low price of $595, is expected to treble that established since the Overland Standard sedan was introduced.

Breed Theater

George O'Brien, he of the magnetic, irresistible smile who achieved stardom by leaps and bounds, has scored another personal hit in The Dancers, the new William Fox special production at the Breed theater.

A new George O'Brien was portrayed in this tense drama of dance mania, an O'Brien who can and does compare favorably with any male artist on the screen in the portrayal of emotion, a dressed-up O'Brien who wears his formal clothes in the best Bond street fashion.

George O'Brien in this, his latest starring vehicle is cast almost unknown combination of good looks and acting ability. It is perhaps, the best thing O'Brien has ever done in pictures and William Fox is to be congratulated on his foresight and judgment in selecting him for the difficult role.

The Dancers, is a swift-moving, gripping story of a dance-mad age with scenes sequences laid in London and the Argentines. In addition to O'Brien, Alma Rubens and Madge Bellamy play the feminine leads while a superb cast of screen favorites, excellent direction by Emmett Flyn and art photography by Ernest Palmer, make the picture an outstanding production.

Broadway Theatre

A new show opens at the Broadway theatre today. Read the advertisement elsewhere in this paper. Read every word of it and you'll know just where to go to get the most for your money and at the same time the best possible in entertainment. Remember it is B. F. Keith Vaudeville, all standard acts, that you'll see.

Hunt Stromberg has achieved something new in prologues in the Chadwick production of "The Fire Patrol," now at the Broadway theatre. This portion of a picture which is usually mechanical, is, in this instance made one of the most thrilling sequences to the production.

Not only does it show a strong man avenging the honor of his wife against the villainy of his friend, but the ship locale, with the hero as captain, and high explosives as cargo, results in a terrific explosion when he leaves his watch to go to his wife's aid.

The staging of this explosion was a matter of great expense and effort, but its realism and the splendid histrionism of Anna Q. Nilsson, Spottiswoode Aitken and Jack Richardson made it well worth while.

One Emergency proves its value

Fire, a burglar, sudden illness—you need help at once.

If you are faced with an emergency, will you have to lose precious moments running through dark rooms to the telephone?

Not if you have an extension telephone in your bedroom! When you need it most, it is within reach of your hand, ready to summon speedy assistance.

Its worth in one emergency will be many times its small cost.

An extension telephone is an additional telephone connected to your present line, having the same number, and, like your present telephone, used for both making and receiving calls.

Conveniently located in your home, its cost (after a moderate connection charge) is less than 2 cents a day.

Call our local Business Office for further information, or—better yet—save time by giving your order for an extension telephone at once.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—Resumption of a broad upward movement in stock prices which carried the industrial average to the highest price on record, a relaxation of call money rates; a brisk advance in cotton futures and a sharp decline in wheat for future delivery were outstanding developments in this week's financial and securities markets. Outside the markets chief interest centered in the establishment of a new high record for all time by freight traffic in the week ended August 29.

Pool activities provided the chief stimulus for the advance in stock prices, several of the motor, equipment, copper, food, mail order and merchandising issues being boosted to record high prices. An abundance of cheap money for loan on stock collateral was widely regarded as a primary factor in the rally, although stress also was laid on the continued improvement in business and the apparently prosperous condition of the agricultural community.

Cotton advanced about a cent a pound on a sharp downward revision of the government crop estimate. Wheat prices sagged to the lowest prices in months on publication of a favorable official report which estimated the spring crop at 283,872,000 bushels against 262,749,000 last month.

The further decline in sterling to around the so-called "gold point" below which it would be profitable to import the precious metal, reflected the recent loss of gold by the bank of England. Norwegian and Danish kroner brought up sharply on speculative selling and Belgian francs sagged to a new low for the year. French francs held steady around 4.80 cents. Spanish exchange rallied close to the year's high in direct reflection of favorable developments in the Franco-Spanish campaign against the Riffs. Italian lire also showed marked improvement.

TAFTVILLE

The fifth voting district of the town which includes this village is practically certain of having representation in the town government whichever way the town election goes. The democrats, in caucus assembled last Friday evening nominated Napoleon (Connie) Pepin for the Board of Relief and Hormidas Cure as constable. The republicans, who meet tonight, it is reasonable to believe, will counter this move of the democrats by nominating one or more Taftville men on their ticket. Francis Beique is now a member of the Board of Relief.

It is also rumored that there is to be some excitement at the Town of Lisbon republican caucus to be held this (Monday) evening at the Town Hall. Some of the nominations for various town offices are to be hotly contested, it is said.

Isaac Lurette of North A street has resigned his position with the carding department of the Ponemah company.

Most of the local employes of the state highway department were in New Haven Saturday to attend the annual clambake and outing of the workers in this branch of the state service. The trip was made in some of the department trucks.

William H. Whitehead of Boswell avenue and Richard Heberding of Norwich avenue have been recent visitors in Westerly, R. I.

Harvey Pepin of North A street is enjoying a vacation.

PAYS $50 FINE ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

After a lengthy trial in the city court Saturday morning Angelo Dimitry, 44, of No. 19 Thames street, was fined $50 and costs on a charge of reckless driving. A count of operating with but one headlight was soiled. Dimitry paid his fine which totaled $76.83. He figured in a collision Labor Day near Uncas-on-Thames at the Norwich-New London turnpike with a machine owned and operated by Arthur Peltier of Versailles.

Mr. Peltier told of driving toward New London when he saw the car driven by Dimitry zigzagging in the road a short distance ahead of him, and with only one headlight burning. The cars crashed together. Peltier told Dimitry he had only one headlight and according to Peltier, Dimitry said that one headlight was enough and that he could run with it. Mrs. Peltier and Mrs. Florence Riley of Westerly, a relative of the Peltier family, corroborated the testimony of the preceeding witness. They were riding in Mr. Peltier's machine.

Edward Grisdowski of No. 106 1-2 North Main street, said he was driving to Montville, and near the Norwich Golf club he noticed a machine with but one headlight coming towards him. He swung into a private driveway to get out of the way and just missed being hit. He called to the driver to stop but he kept going. He thought the machine was a Cadillac.

A short distance further on he saw two men in the road, the men having been hit and knocked down by a machine which it was thought was the machine driven by Dimitry. The men were taken to the Backus hospital. They could throw little light on the accident. Officers Patrick Murphy, Clark Fraser and Constable Lucius Fenton told of going to the scene of the accident and of making an investigation.

Dimitry testified that he has operated a machine for two years and owns a grocery and market at No. 19 Thames St. At the suggestion of the owner of the machine, Mrs. Aristotle Sideropulos and some friends, he drove a party of five to Montville. They were on the return trip when the accident happened. He stated he was sure he had two headlights burning when he left Montville, for he looked. He claimed that both cars were traveling in the middle of the road and that the Ford, driven by Peltier, came upon him. He denied having but one headlight and denied making any statement to Peltier about driving with one headlight.

For lack of evidence John Pluta, Stanislas Pluta, 37, of Greeneville, was discharged when presented on a charge of violation of the liquor law last March, by keeping liquors with intent to sell at a place on Water street.

Sent Body to New Haven.

The body of Louise Schenmaker, 40, of New Haven, who died in Preston, Friday, was sent to New Haven Friday evening on the 7:50 o'clock train by Undertakers Cummings and Ring. Burial will take place in New Haven.

CROSSING CRASH PUTS MEN INTO HOSPITAL AND POLICE STATION

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 13.—The dangerous combination of an alleged intoxicated driver and a speeding automobile nearly cost the lives of five New London men, about one o'clock this morning, when the Ford sedan in which they were riding toward this city failed to make the sharp turn at Williams' crossing, in the town of Franklin, just over the town of Windham line and capsized, after hurdling a five foot embankment and riding the single track of the Central Vermont railroad for about twenty feet. The injured are: George E. Moriarty of 36 Cassius street, New London, the driver of the machine; Joseph Wilson, 11 Brewer street, New London; William Malone, (alias Falvey), New London, John Malone, (alias Falvey), New London. George Simms of 38 Moore avenue, New London was the only one in the party who was not intoxicated and as if Fate had made note of this, he was the only one to escape injuries.

The machine, owned by William A. Moriarty of 440 Montauk avenue, New London was totally wrecked. Practically nothing was left intact by the terrible crash. From hood to rear tail light the car was bent and twisted. All the glass was broken, one wheel was ripped off. The rim of the steering wheel was broken off leaving the four metal spokes as evidence of the force of the blow. The men were brought here to St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment.

William Malone (alias Falvey) was the most severely injured, he having deep cuts on various parts of the body and a ragged gash on one leg. He was retained at the institution. The remainder of the party two of whom, John Malone, (alias Falvey) and Joseph Wilson are ex-prize fighters, became boisterous in the hospital and gave a body of night nurses and Dr. F. M. Smith a hard struggle until the arrival of state and local officers. After their wounds had been bandaged Moriarty, Wilson and John Malone were taken to police headquarters and locked up.

The two Malones and Wilson are charged with intoxication and Moriarty with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Simms was released. The cases will be heard in the Franklin town court Monday before Justice of the Peace Newman.

Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officer Stanton L. Briggs notified the local temporary state police barracks of the accident and the call was answered by Officers Frank Kulowski, Henry Reinhold and Schweikert. Officer Briggs first met the party on Franklin Hill while he was returning to this city in his automobile.

The New London car and a Ford coupe owned by Aleck Abraham of 145 Commission street, Holyoke, Mass., according to the registry numbers, were stalled on the hill because of a low supply of gasoline. The federal officer then stopped and made inquiries and upon noting the utterly intoxicated condition of the driver of the Whaling City machine and of most of the party, he continued to the Manners' home and telephoned to the state police. Meanwhile a Hudson car owned by Louis Chartier, of 25 Baine street, this city, had been attached to the two Fords and towed them up the remainder of the incline to a level stretch, allowing the gasoline to feed into the carburetor. Mr. Briggs then continued toward this city and arrived at Williams' Crossing a few minutes after the sedan had capsized. The injured passengers were walking about. Moriarty and William Malone bleeding profusely.

THE MIRACLE OF NAIM OFT REPEATED, SAYS PRIEST

The story of the compassion of Christ was told all about the world, yesterday, the fifteenth Sunday after Pentecost, as in every Mass offered in every Catholic Church was read the gospel for the Sunday, Luke 7. 11-16; this gospel narrates the restoration to life of the only son of the Widow of Naim. The epistle preceding this gospel was Galatians 5. 25-26; 6. 1-10, its opening sentence, "Brethren, if we live in the Spirit, let us walk in the Spirit."

Preaching to the customary large congregation at the 9 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's church, Rev. Myles P. Galvin pronounced the day's gospel one of the most appealing incidents in the earthly life of Christ—the only son of the heart-broken mother, being borne to the grave, accompanied by the saddened relatives and friends anxious to console that sorrowing mother. Then comes the compassionate Redeemer, has pity on the striken Widow, restores life to the son and gives him back to his mother.

This miracle is being repeated in the world day after day, said the preacher. Mortal sin is the death of the soul; the man steeped in sin is spiritually dead. Holy Mother the Church grieves to see her son in this death of sin. The Angels grieve with her at his state. Then so often comes Christ in His compassion, touches the dead soul with His grace, revives it through the sacrament of penance. The soul is restored to spiritual life through confession and communion and is given back to Mother Church.

Father Galvin took up the various obstacles to this spiritual vivification the attraction of sin, which makes men slow to forsake it, as in instances of men who drank to excess while recognizing the fact that it is to their hurt; illicit love; retaining property which has been taken unjustly; hatred of one's neighbor; these and similar faults all Catholics realize are wrong, yet they foolishly put off ridding their souls of them, for various reasons.

One reason is the delusion of mortals that there is going to be plenty of time—they will live long and eventually will break away from these sinful habits. What warrant has any person, no matter how young or strong, that the present may not be this last hour? The Saviour has warned that His Angel of Death is to come as a thief in the night. Father Galvin instanced the remarkable fact that in all his years as a priest, in attending so many, many sick calls, even when he had prepared persons for death, when the doctors had told them they were dying, they have always clung to the hope that they were going to get well. He spoke of the possibility of some among his hearers in that very congregation being run down by an automobile on the way home from church. The fourteen men in the Shenandoah—undoubtedly picked aviators, young, strong, in perfect health, since as others would have been allowed by naval authorities to make such a trip—had no idea of meeting their God in the sudden and unexpected hour that they did.

Then again, Christians too often presume on God's mercy. They will declare, "Oh, God is good—He never yet sent anyone to Hell." This is true, the preacher said "God is all-good—it is man himself who condemns himself to Hell, by disobeying God's commands. God gives man free will, permits him to make his choice. If man elect to serve the Devil here, he knows his portion will be to serve him hereafter. If, however, man chooses the service of God in this world, logically he will continue a friend of God through eternity.

Father Galvin assisted Rev. John J. Reilly, who read the low Mass, in administering Holy Communion to the usual large crowd of penitents.

It was announced at the three Masses Sunday, that sessions of Sunday school will be resumed after the 9 o'clock Mass next Sunday, following the summer suspension. Parish children in the parochial school get this catechism instruction in connection with regular school studies throughout the week.

MRS. OZIAS DODGE HEADS NEW MUSEUM WORK AT N. F. A.

A new feature of the work of Norwich Free Academy for this year is of special interest.

In the Slater museum from 10:30 a. m until 3:30 p. m. every school day, Mrs. Ozias Dodge will have charge of making the museum more useful to the community and will have at various times throughout the year exhibitions to be open to the public.

This is being done by the trustees in belief that the remarkable collection can be of even much broader service to the community than in the past.

The project of Principal Henry A. Tirrell, in thus seeking to broaden the influence and helpfulness of the museum, is in line with community work being done in the larger cities and the college towns.

Mrs. Dodge, widow of a former most able and far-sighted curator of the museum, is certain to prove as exceedingly wise choice for this newly created department.

WHITE LEGHORNS KEEP UP GAIN AT STORRS

During the forty-third week of the Storrs laying contest the leading pens of the various breeds held the relative positions which they acquired last week. Meadowedge Farm's pen of White Leghorns from Sterling Junction, Mass., continued to gain on the leaders somewhat and if they can keep up their present pace for the next seven weeks it will be anybody's race up to the last trapping. J. C. Patton's White Leghorns from Charlotte, N. C., was the high pen for the week which gives them a little firmer hold on the fourth place in the Leghorn column. The weather the last few days must have reminded his pen of birds of their home climate as they made an unusual good showing.

The total number of eggs for the week was 3968 or a yield of better than forty per cent. This is ninety eggs more than last week and brings the grand total to date to 193,409 eggs. A pen of White Leghorns owned by J. C. Patton of Charlotte, N. C., was in first place with 52 eggs for the week. Meadowedge Farm's pen of White Leghorns from Sterling Junction, Mass., was the second high pen with fifty eggs. Three pens tied for third place with forty-seven eggs each. They were two pens of White Leghorns owned by Hanson's Leghorn Farm from Corvallis, Ore., and White Haven Sanatorium from White Haven, Penn., and a pen of White Wyandottes entered by Albert W. Buckbee of Wisner, N. Y. Fourth place also resulted in a triple tie. Harriet Smith's pen of Barred Rocks of the same breed owned by Keewaydin Farm at Darien, Conn., and a pen of White Leghorns entered by Marshall Farm of Mobile, Ala., laid forty-six eggs for the week.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

POETRY

By Anonymous

I lose my way without a sign to guide
Through night and day where pathways turn and bend;
If all were straight or plain I'd safely reach the end.

There is a way, a straight and narrow path,
Make no delay to tread where saints have trod;
Glory is there and not in war-like wrath,
Breathe but a prayer and life your face to God.

I walk in fear without a light to see,
Pathways are drear that wander in the gloom;
If all were bright how happy I could be,
Trusting the light to guide from threatning doom.

Cast out all fear, a light will shine within,
Be of good cheer, and grasp the pilgrim rod;
Faith comes at length to conquer death and sin,
Rise in your strength and turn your step to God.

My heart is cold except as friends I love
Dearer than gold their love to me express,
If I could know we part to meet above,
Parting would grow to lose the bitterness.

Love does not die, the soul on joyous wings,
Cleaving the sky, is risen from the end;
Weep not for them who rise from transient things
Say but amen and give your heart to God.

—By William Ware Locke

The Ukrainian Chorus

They stood and sang of far-off harvest fields,
Of silver grain that falls beneath the flail,
Of humble mothers, hushing drowsy wail.
From cradled babes that gilded them shields;
They sang of village dance and roundelay,
Of games and festivals, loves old and frail,
Of Mother Volga and the Steppes moonpale,
Of Christmas joy and New Year holiday.

And underneath that wondrous flow of song
I heard the voice of Russia's wail of woe,
But never yet of weakness. In despair
Unfathomed as in triumph and as strong
She faces stars across her world of snow,
And waits the dawning through the storm-stilled air.

EFECTS OF PROHIBITION ON ECONOMICS AND HEALTH

As Deduced by Representatives of the Federal Council of Churches—Elimination of Saloon Beneficial to Working Classes—Heads of Important Corporations Return "Wet" Verdicts to Questionnaire—Much Less Has Been Said of Falling Death Rate During the Last Few Years as an Evidence of the Effects of Prohibition.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A collection of varied information as to the effect of prohibition on economic conditions and health was made public tnight by the Research and Education Department of the Federal Council of Churches as a part of its report on the prohibition question.

No definite conclusions were stated, but it was remarked in the report that in general the number of deaths from diseases that grow out of liquor-drinking showed a drop in 1920, early in the prohibition regime, but an increase in the years thereafter. This was one of the tabulations on which the first section of the report, made public last night, suggested that the trend of social consequences of prohibition since 1920 had been "disturbing."

On the economic side of the question, the report contained these observations:

"Probably no careful observer will say that the abolition of the saloon has not affected a very substantial amelioration of large numbers of the working class.

"At the same time the appeal to specific economic data—increased business activity, growing bank deposits, etc.—to prove the effects of prohibition must be made very guardedly. All attempts to measure this increase in quantitative terms are fraught with danger because of the great increase in prosperity since 1921, due to other causes. In addition to the increase in money wages we must consider the extensive thrift campaign carried on throughout the country. But it would be idle to dispute the assumption that prohibition has been a factor, and an important one, in keeping savings deposits on a high level.

"Good authority can also be found for the statement that industry has profited very materially through heightened morale.

"It is noteworthy that a questionnaire sent as part of this investigation to a thousand or more business men, directors in important corporations selected at random, asking for their verdicts as business men upon prohibition, yielded a predominantly 'wet' result—not, apparently so much because of observed effects upon business or industry as because of strong personal prejudice and dissatisfaction with the social and political results of prohibition as they saw them."

Various sources were drawn upon for the health statistics presented in the report. The Census Bureau figures were quoted on deaths from alcoholism and cirrhosis of the liver, and the report observed that they showed a drop in 1920 and a rise thereafter except for a drop for cirrhosis in 1923. Officials of Bellevue Hospital, New York, were quoted as saying that while more acute, and fewer chronic cases proportionately resulting from alcohol were handled just after prohibition became effective," there is a drift back to preprohibition conditions in the type of alcoholism that prevails."

A compilation of figures on alcoholic insanity and intemperate use of alcohol showed a drop from 1917 to 1921, and an increase since. The report added that figures as to the number of alcoholics discharged from New York hospitals "show in general the same trend that we have been noting but with this important feature, that the year 1924 shows a slight decrease."

Official figures on the number of alcoholic cases per 1,000 enlisted men in the army showed a low water mark of 1.06 in 1918 a jump to 11.18 in 1922, 8.82 in 1923 and 9.13 in 1924.

"Much has been said of the falling death rate during the last few years as an evidence of the effects of prohibition," said the report. "It is true that this decline and the increased expectation of life have greatly impressed insurance actuaries, but one cannot with certainty assign to the prohibition regime more than a moderate influence in bringing about the reduction. It is probable that wherever there has been an improvement in economic status, the tendency is toward a higher standard of living and thus naturally toward improved health and increased longevity."

SENATORIAL PRIMARIES HELD IN MICHIGAN TODAY

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 14—Candidates for nomination on the republican and democratic ticket for United States senator to fill the unexpired term left vacant by the death of Robert M. La Follette closed their campaigns.

After an intensive tour of the state, Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., Roy P. Wilcox and Francis E. McGovern awaited the balloting tomorrow which will decide who shall enter the lists in the final election September 29, as the republican candidate. Daniel Woodward of Oshkosh, another republican, has conducted a "front porch" campaign.

On the democratic side there is considerable interest in the developments, the direct result of a rupture in the party in Wisconsin over the stand of William G. Bruce, state convention choice, on foreign relations. Mr. Bruce does not favor the world court and a faction of his party, in a meeting last week, passed resolutions calling voters of the state to write in the name of Judge Charles B. Rogers of Fort Atkinson.

Indications show that not enough warmth has been developed in the republican contest to bring out a heavy vote.

The campaign by LaFollette has been made with the backing of the present state administration, known as the right wing of the republican party.

The campaign of Wilcox has the official backing of a representative collection of Coolidge republicans assembled at Oshkosh on August 15. Wilcox was the unanimous choice of the convention.

McGovern has campaigned as a middle ground candidate, "free from radical taint, or compromising alliances."

He has announced he will not run at the final special election September 29 if defeated tomorrow. This does not hold true however for LaFollette and Wilcox. Should either, or both, be defeated, each, through the wording of the Wisconsin primary law may become an independent candidate, and make the race against the victorious republican.

INSINUATED WITNESSES HAD BEEN TAMPERED WITH

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A sensation was caused in coroner's court this afternoon when Helen, ten year old daughter of Michael Fedora, who was murdered Saturday night, made insinuations that three witnesses who had testified before Coroner John J. Phelan had been tampered with and coached "what to say." Meticulous examination of all persons concerned failed to substantiate the child's suspicions.

Mrs. Mary Fedora, widow of the slain man, was condemned before the coroner as a trafficker in illicit liquor, having sold for $1, it was testified, a pint of whiskey to three men who came to her home just before her husband was slain.

The coroner solemnly inquired of the dead man's widow why, in her statements to him under oath, she had neglected to say that preceding the murder, a game of "craps" was played on the floor of her kitchen in her presence, as sworn to by three other witnesses.

Weeping and wringing her hands, Mrs. Fedora expressed the hope that she might be "crucified" if the stories of her selling liquor and of there having been gambling in her home the night of the killing were not lies.

ALLEGED MURDERER MADE AN ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE

HOULTON, Me., Sept. 14—James Doherty, alleged murderer of Joseph Devou in a camp 20 miles north of here last Tuesday night, made an ineffectual attempt at suicide shortly after his capture at Jennings' camp, two miles from Littleton Village, today.

Doherty, weakened by six days of tramping through the woods, with only what food he could obtain from unoccupied camps and gardens, while being hunted by a posse of deputy sheriffs and citizens, surrendered without resistance. He handed over to his captors, Ronard Fitzpatrick, Fred Carpenter and Henry McLaughlin of Hammond plantation, who had been on his trail for some time, his sawed-off shotgun and a revolver, before he was taken to Houlton Jail.

Then he pulled his hunting knife and attempted to stab himself, but one of his captors caught his arm and secured the knife before he could plunge it into his breast. He then pleaded with the men, they said, to give him the revolver that he might shoot himself. He was in an extremely nervous condition. He will be arraigned in court tomorrow on the murder charge.

Maj. Giddings Defends Col. William Mitchell

Resents Admiral Moffett's Charge That Mitchell is Having "Delusions of Grandeur."

HARTFORD, Sept. 14—Charges made by Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics that named Colonel William Mitchell, former assistant chief of the army air service as "being of unsound mind" and as "having delusions of grandeur," were disputed today by Major Howard A. Giddings, superintendent of the agencies of the Travelers Insurance company who has known Colonel Mitchell since he was 19 years old and when he was second lieutenant in the second Connecticut company of United States volunteers, signal corps, commanded by Captain Giddings during the Spanish-American war. "Billy" Mitchell, as Major Giddings knows the officer whose charges of negligence by war department officials have caused a furore in Washington, is right all the way and "knows his topic as no other flyer having been interested in airplanes since the time of the Wright brothers, the major says.

Regarding Admiral Moffett's charges that Colonel Mitchell "suffered from delusions of grandeur" and is of "unsound mind" Major Giddings had much to say.

"Do you think a man who straps on a parachute as part of his daily work is suffering from delusions of grandeur?" He demanded. "The delusion of grandeur is on the other side. "Billy" Mitchell knows his topic, flying, as no other officer in the world. He has always been an enthusiast and when the Wright brothers were experimenting with the first air machines, he was there and had a machine assigned him by the signal corps. The investigation he has stirred up will prove a great benefit and will probably result in a unified air service being established apart from the army and navy," he said.

Reminiscing, Major Giddings recalled the time at Washington in 1898 when he first met "Billy" Mitchell.

"He was a fascinating chap even then," he declared. "His father was senator from Wisconsin and he had obtained a commission. I liked his looks and after getting my commission from President McKinley, which gave me the power to pick my officers, I asked "Billy" Mitchell if he would like to serve as second lieutenant in my company."

Colonel Mitchell is the most daring, the bravest and the most decorated officer in the service, according to Major Giddings. The major says he feels he has a right to be proud of his military protege to whom he gave his first army training in 1898.

"He is a wonderful shot and on his honeymoon after his marriage to Miss Elizabeth Trumbull Miller of Detroit, with whom he visited in Hartford last Thanksgiving, he took a trip to India big game hunting," the major said.

"Colonel Mitchell is in a position to know utterly what he is talking about," the major affirmed. "He has studied aeronautics in many countries and over the period of time which has elapsed since the pioneer Wright brothers undertook their initial experiments. To my knowledge he has been the only real flying general in the service and any accusations made regarding "delusions of grandeur" seem silly when his extraordinary and heroic service record is on record."

WAR AND NAVY DEP'TS TO ASSIST AIRCRAFT BOARD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The war and navy departments acted simultaneously today to prepare for any assistance that may be asked of them by the president's special aircraft board which will convene Thursday at the White House.

The war department let it be known that Colonel William Mitchell, chief figure in the controversy, will be available at any time as an expert witness should the board desire to summon him, as it is expected to do when it takes up subjects bearing on his charges of incompetence and inefficiency in the air service administration.

At the same time, Secretary Wilbur appointed a navy court of inquiry to investigate the Shenandoah disaster. Its report will be at the disposal of the board if it wishes to use it.

The navy secretary also announced the department's readiness to "co-operate in every possible way" with the board even to the extent of furnishing "secret and confidential information of a military nature if the president authorizes the disclosure."

Acting Secretary Davis of the war department clearly indicated today that he would welcome a thorough investigation by the board of the charges made by Colonel Mitchell against the army's air policies. A similar sentiment was current among naval aviation officers, who deeply resent the criticisms that the former assistant army air chief likewise directed at their service.

If Colonel Mitchell is called by the board, Mr. Davis would prefer that his testimony be received at an open hearing, as he feels that the numerous charges made against the army air program in the last year or so may have shaken public confidence in the service and a thorough examination would be beneficial.

Naval officers also believe that not only Colonel Mitchell's charges regarding the administration of the two air services, but his demand for a unified service, as well, must be looked into by the board if it is to make an effective appraisal of the aircraft situation.

Miners' Leader and Gov. Pinchot Confer

Both Expressed Satisfaction With Their "Knowledge Imparting" Conversation.

MILFFORD, Pa., Sept. 14—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, expressed satisfaction today as the results of his meeting with Governor Pinchot here at which he explained the miners' side of the anthracite controversy.

"While the purpose of my visit here," said Mr. Lewis, "as previously expressed by the governor, was in no manner related to the possibility of public intervention in the present controversy, yet I feel that the exchange of information will be greatly valuable in any future settlements that may take place."

He also expressed approval of the action of the governor "in interesting himself in the question of freight rates as affecting the interests of the coal industry in Pennsylvania."

MAN MURDERED WAS HENRY B. JOHNSON OF HARTFORD

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 14—With the identity of the body found in Allingtown early Wednesday morning as that of Henry B. Johnson, of Yale Hope Mission, this city, police are seeking the motive behind the murder and the placing of the body in the thicket at Allingtown.

Identification was made late today after Detective O'Brien of the New Haven police department learned that a man had been missin from the Yale Hope Mission since last Tuesday night. The detective found that a latch key which had been taken from the dead man compared with one of the mission in a room there he found a suit case containing a number of letters, papers and other articles which he was told belonged to Henry B. Johnson.

Among clothing found in the deceased's room was a shirt with a laundry mark corresponding to the laundry mark found on the shirt taken from the body.

It was learned that Johnson had been employed by the Index Visible company of this city and that he had a sister in Hartford. An employe of the Index Visible company was taken to the undertaking establishment where the body has lain pending identification, and identified it as that of Henry B. Johnson.

Relatives of the dead man were brought here from Hartford and further established the identity.

It is believed by the police that Johnson was beaten up and robbed of his week's pay and was then left in Allingtown.

Six men have been arrested and questioned concerning the murder. Four of these are held in New Haven and two in New York.

They are Nick de Meoli, Joseph Macri, Edward Collins Charles Pavis, Edward J. Buckley and Joseph McGrath all of New Haven. Macri and de Meoli were arrested in New York where they are still held.

In making preparations for dinner, Mrs. Golden had gone to the garden to cut a cabbage, and it is the opinion of Medical Examiner Thomas G. When found by her husband after he had come home for dinner, she had been dead more than an hour. She leaves two children.

NEW YORK PRIMARIES TODAY WILL END BITTER CAMPAIGN

Mayor Hylan Will Encounter the Opposition of Governor Smith and Democratic Leaders in Two of the City's Five Boroughs—The Regular Republican Nominee, Frank D. Waterman, Will Be Opposed by William M. Bennett and Former Secretary of State John J. Lyons—Mr. Lyons Has Been a Popular Vote Getter—Polls Are to Close at 9 P. M. Daylight Saving Time.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP) — Tomorrow nearly a million and a half voters will be eligible to go to the polls and cast their ballots for democratic, republican and socialist mayoralty candidates for the city election November 3. The polls open at 3 p. m., daylight saving time, and close at 9 p. m.

Old timers racked their brains to recall a campaign, so far as the democrats are concerned, to match the one just ended for bitterness.

Both of the dominant parties have red-hot contests on their hands, but the democratic row has been by far the more spectacular. The Tammany designee is State Senator James J. Walker, backed personally by Governor Alfred E. Smith, head of the state democracy. Opposed to him is Mayor John F. Hylan, stormy petrel of municipal politics, backed by the democratic leaders in three of the city's five boroughs, and William Randolph Hearst, the publisher. The mayor has been in office two terms of four years each, with Tammany support, but a third nomination was denied him.

The regular republican designee is Frank D. Waterman, wealthy pen manufacturer, a novice in the political arena. He is opposed by William M. Bennett, noted for kicking over the republican traces, and John J. Lyons, a former secretary of state, who in past years has been a popular vote getter.

The socialist candidate who is unopposed, is Rev. Norman Thomas, socialist candidate for governor last fall.

Underneath the democratic imbroglio has been raging another battle, which many observers agree is a contest for control of the democratic party in the empire state between Governor Smith and Mr. Hearst.

Some political soothsayers profess to see that if Senator Walker is beaten it will mean the setting of the Governor's political sun and that he will be removed from the picture as a possible presidential candidate again.

Tammany, which for four years has ruled the city with an iron hand, is having bad dreams too, over the spectre of Mayor Hylan, in the event that he is beaten, running independently next November, with Mr. Hearst's support. The mayor has not answered the question, asked repeatedly by Senator Walker, if he will become an independent candidate in such an eventuality.

In view of the undeniable split in the democratic ranks, the republicans are gleefully anticipating a victory next November. The registration this year is: democrats, 794,652; republicans, 522,547. Republican leaders argue that even if Hylan is defeated tomorrow and runs independently they will profit by the discord in democratic ranks, and a republican will be the next mayor of New York.

The official prognostications by the managers of the various candidates all agree, as usual, that their candidate will win. The Tammany managers predict a Walker victory by 100,000; Mayor Hylan's managers claim exactly the same margin of victory.

Unusual precautions have been taken to preserve order at the polls and ten thousand policemen and detectives will be on duty.

The chief issue in the campaign is the five cent fare.

The governor, who has taken an active part in the campaign by stumping for Walker, claims that the real issue is competence in running the affairs of the nation's largest city.

In retaliation the mayor has accused the Governor of trying to run New York.

EGYPTIAN SWIMMER FAILED TO CROSS ENGLISH CHANNEL

BOULOGNE, France, Sept. 14—Ishak Helmy the giant Egyptian swimmer, cleared the English channel swimming season today with a spirited but unsuccessful attempt to cover the twenty miles between Cape Gris Nez and Dover. His effort brought him within three and one half miles of Dover after he had been in the water 14 hours 32 minutes. He gave up at 8.46 o'clock.

It was principally the cold that defeated him, the temperature of the water being only 15 degrees centigrade (59.3 degrees Fahrenheit). He complained of the cold repeatedly toward the end, before his stomach became upset and obliged him to quit.

In addition to the cold Helmy was visited by practically all the tribulations with which previous channel swimmers have met. He was troubled by porpoises and also by the jelly fishes which bothered Miss Gertrude Ederle on her unsuccessful attempt. However, he held to his course with a steadiness and courage which won the admiration of all those on board the convoying tug.

The Egyptian followed the usual course for channel swimmers, after swimming straight out for four miles he turned up the channel until he was off Calais. He then headed for Dover.

Helmy said that he intends to make another attempt to cross the channel next year.

MATTERS BEFORE LEAGUE OF NATIONS ASSEMBLY

GENEVA, Sept. 14—Discussing a resolution introduced in the league of nations assembly today by J. A. Buero former foreign minister of Uruguay, calling for serious study of the statutes of the permanent court of international justice with a view to securing more universal acceptance of the jurisdiction of that tribunal.

Spokesmen for the Uruguayan delegation tonight said that the object of the proposal is to render the statutes less rigid so that countries like the United States could join the court without making reservations.

Senor Buero's proposal has excited great interest and drawn some criticism.

Indications that the league of nations may be afraid to make any change with regard to the court developed in the judicial commission of the assembly this afternoon, when both the Japanese delegate Mineichiro Adachi and former President Motta of Switzerland opposed a Danish project to create an international commission of conciliation as a branch of the world court. They argued that the court, as a body of jurges rigorously interpreting international law, should remain divorced from any such commission which naturally would take political considerations into account while endeavoring to achieve conciliation with arbitration and making the proposed commission an independent body.

The Swedish proposal for a collective convention on compulsory arbitration is meeting with growing favor.

During the discussion today of Viscount Cecil's proposed anti-slavery protocol the chairman announced the receipt of a communication from the Nationalist African association denying the charges made by Professor Edward A. Ross of the University of Wisconsin that slavery under the guise of forced labor exists in Portuguese East Africa. Mr. Ross' charges were made in a report which he submitted to the league's slavery committee in July.

A uniform rate on press messages from the league of nations to all parts of the world, is urged in a resolution introduced in the assembly tonight by Fernandes C. Medina, Uruguayan minister to Madrid.

ALLEGED MURDERER KIRBY COMMITTED SUICIDE IN JAIL

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 14.—(AP)—A murder case which stirred the state of Maine last May was brought to an abrupt close today with the suicide of Harry A. Kirby in the jail here. Kirby, charged with the murder of Miss Alta Hayward, slashed his wrist with a razor blade and died a few hours later.

On the night of May 19, Miss Emma A. Towns was rescued from her burning cottage on the shore of Lake Maranacook in Winthrop and was found to be suffering from two bullet wounds.

She told the authorities that a man had shot her, set fire to the cottage and abducted her niece, Miss Hayward.

Large rewards were offered for the finding of Miss Hayward and a posse searched the wooded country with the aid of a dog. Four days later her body was discovered in a cottage which Kirby had occupied and on May 25 Kirby was arrested at Newburyport, Mass. in his cottage was found a large amount of loot from the burned cottage.

Kirby at first insisted that he had found the body in another cottage and removed it to his own but the police said that he later made a confession of the murder. Last week he pleaded not guilty to indictments for the murder of Miss Hayward and attempted murder of Miss Towns, but pleaded guilty to an indictment for arson. Court officials said they had understood that he would withdraw his not guilty pleas today and plead guilty.

Witness threw Giard to the ground and with assistance held him there while a third party telephoned to the police. Motorcycle Officer Arthur Hurley testified that he answered the call and found Giard being held by two men. The officer stated that he did not believe Giard was intoxicated, but that it was apparent that he had had a few drinks.

Giard said that he had been calling on a young lady and was standing with her on the lawn of the premises in question, when a woman in the house warned him to leave the place. He started to go and two men suddenly threw him to the ground. He denied having been guilty of breach of the peace or any other charge, and maintained that he was not the man seen on the premises previously. AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

BUTTER FAT PRODUCTION IN TESTED HERDS

It is well known that the butter fat yield of a heifer is not so large as that of the same cow at mature age. Hence it is impossible to compare records made by cows of different ages without adjusting for age differences. To determine the value of a sire for breeding purposes it is necessary to compare his daughters with their dams; and cows are not all tested at the same age. It is customary, therefore, to assume a certain average rate of increase for every six months of age, and on this basis to calculate the mature production of a cow from her record at an earlier age.

The Bureau of Dairying of the United States Department of Agriculture has been making careful studies to ascertain the actual relationships of the production records of cows at different ages. These studies, which are reported in Department Bulletin 1352, just issued, were made with Guernseys and Jerseys. A large number of official records were classified according to age, and it was found that the increase for every six months is much larger in the earlier six-month periods than it is as the cows approach maturity. Since the official testing requirements used by the breed associations assume equal increments for all the six-month periods, it appears that heifers are considerably favored by the existing requirements, while cows of more than three years are expected to increase faster than they actually do.

For both Jerseys and Guernseys the existing requirements assume maturity at the age of five years; but the studies made indicate that Guernseys are likely to mature a few months later, and Jerseys not until the age of six years. There is no increase in the official requirements after the age of five years, but in fact it is found that the records do improve, which gives an advantage to the older cows, though not so great an advantage as is given to heifers.

In the study made by the Bureau of Dairying, it was found that cows retested are able to make higher records than those that have never been tested before. For this reason, the only initial records are used in the tabulation that shows the effect of age.

The difference between initial and re-entry records represents two elements: One is the increment due to age, and the other is that due to development resulting from special care given to young cows undergoing their first test. There is sufficient evidence to prove that official testing develops the productive ability of daity cows, and that the feeding and care, combined with the prolonged milking period during which the cow is encouraged to yield her utmost, have a positive and appreciable effect on her production during subsequent lactation periods. It appears that close to one-third of the improvement made in the re-entry record is the result of this development factor.

Another fact brought out by these studies is that pregnancy during test reduces butterfat production, and the tax of pregnancy seems to increase with advancing age. While the young animal carries on the function of reproduction without affecting materially her productive capacity, the older cows do not stand up so well under the double strain.

A further interesting fact in this connection is the noticeable improvement in production records made since the beginning of 1920, especially in the last one thousand records. The rise is gradual, and seems to indicate that with the increase in experience gained by handling test cows the breeders have developed better methods of feeding, conditioning, and caring for animals on test. The effect of years of selective breeding for high production is also a force operating to raise these averages. Re-entry records made after a lapse of six years show a larger increase due to development than those made after a shorter interval.

FITTING, SHOWING AND JUDGING HOGS

Fairs and livestock shows offer splendid opportunities for breeders and farmers to observe the conformation and type of the best individuals of the various breeds, says E. Z. Russell, in charge of swine investigations for the United States Department of Agriculture. In this connection the uninitiated will find it an advantage to make a study beforehand of some of the features bearing on the fitting and showing of farm animals. A study of the score card, which attaches relative values to the different points of the breed, will also be found of considerable help. Although it is not actually used by the judge in making his placings, it is of valuable assistance to inexperienced persons in understanding the significance of what they see at the fairs.

In order that the inexperienced swine growers and breeders may have some advance information before attending fairs, a bulletin on fitting, showing and judging of hogs, has been written by Mr. Russell, and published by the United States department of agriculture as Farmers' Bulletin 1455.

The fact is well recognized, says Mr. Russell, that best results are obtained in swine production when the best animals are used for breeding purposes. Fairs and expositions are recognized as places where one may obtain up-to-date information on the characteristics of the best animals. Breeders follow the practice of showing their animals at livestock shows for the purpose of advertising and selling their surplus. Naturally the right individuals should be selected for show purposes and they should be properly fitted.

70 PER CENT. OF ONION PRICE GOES FOR DISTRIBUTION

More than 70 per cent. of the price paid by consumers in Boston for Connecticut Valley onions in the season 1920-21 was absorbed in handling costs between the producer and consumer, and less than 30 per cent. went to the grower. Retailers' margins absorbed 54 per cent. of the price to the consumer and wholesale and jobbing margins 3 per cent. Country dealers' margins accounted for 8 per cent.

These figures are cited by the department of agriculture in a discussion of distributing costs in the onion business. It is also noted that distributing agencies do not always make a profit. In 1922 the margins of country dealers handling Texas Bermuda onions averaged zero. These distributors not only failed to make any money out of the crop but lost their expenses, in other recent years, however, the margins of country dealers handling Texas Bermudas have ranged from 10 per cent. to more than 20 per cent.

Many factors tend to widen the spread between the producer price and the retail price of onions. Country dealers who assemble and ship onions, wholesalers who receive and sell onions in carlots, jobbers who supply the retail trade and other distributing agencies have to be reimbursed for expenses incurred. They also expect to make a profit. Necessary charges include grading, packing, transportation, storage, labor, display space, and commercial risk. When dealers take a loss on one consignment they endeavor to recover it by extra profits on others.

These cost factors togetfrer with others vary in importance according to season and crop, business conditions, and numerous other influences, all of which must be considered before the amount charged by any distribution agency can be judged fair and adequate.

FEED BEES TO AVOID WINTER LOSSES

Feeding each colony of bees from ten to fifteen pounds of sugar sirup in preparation for winter, wherever bees do not have frequent winter flights, is recommended by the bee culture laboratory of the Bureau of entomology, United States department of agriculture, unless it is certain that the bees' stores of honey are of excellent quality for winter use. A satisfactory syrup for this purpose can be made up according to the following formula furnished and used by the carbohydrate laboratory of the bureau of chemistry in preparing a non-crystallizing sugar syrup:

"Prepare a solution according to the following mixture, a good grade of granulated sugar being used in all cases:

50 lbs. sugar, 25 lbs. (3 gals.) water, 1 oz. tartaric acid crystals.

"Boil gently for one-half hour in a loosely covered kettle. At the end of this time, test the density of the syrup, using either a Baume hydrometer or a thermometer. The density should be very nearly 42 degrees Baume (measured at the boiling temperature), or if a thermometer is used, the syrup should boil at about 228 degrees Fahrenheit. The density, however, may be slightly lower or higher than this, depending on the amount of water that has evaporated during the boiling. If the syrup tests lower than 37 degrees Baume or 226 degrees Fahrenheit continue the boiling until this density is reached; if it tests somewhat higher add carefully a small amount of water, keeping the syrup gently boiling until the required density is reached. The time required accurately to adjust the density in this way is only about 2 or 3 minutes. By using the proportions of sugar and water given in the above formula, and boiling for one-half hour, asyrup is obtained which is very nearly completely inverted.

"Make up a second batch of syrup without inversion as follows:

50 lbs. sugar, 14 1-2 lbs. (7 qts.) water.

"Heat slowly to boiling in a covered kettle until the sugar is completely dissolved. Do not heat any longer than is necessary to dissolve the sugar.

"Mix the two batches thoroughly in the proportions of 6 to 5 (3 gallons of the invert syrup with 2 gallons of the uninverted syrup). It is best to make the invert syrup first, and to let it cool until the batch of uninverted syrup is prepared. In this way the temperature of the resulting mixture is reduced somewhat, so that the small amount of acid present produces practically no further inversion. We have found that with the composition of the resulting mixed syrup is such that it will keep for an almost unlimited length of time, even in cold weather, without crystallizing.

"It might seem at first that this method of making two batches of syrup and mixing in proportions to prevent sugaring is a little more troublesome than it would be to attempt to prepare a syrup of suitable composition in one operation. From the practical standpoint, however, we are convinced that the method gives more certain results, and is therefore preferable. We have found it very difficult to secure the exact degree of inversion desired by varying the length of time given to boiling, the variation in degree of inversion being so great that it is not considered a safe process to recommend."

Statistics gathered by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics show that the bookeepers of the United States lost 16.4 per cent of their bees during the winter of 1924-25. Since much of this loss was caused by poor winter stores, the importance of properly feeding bees in preparation for winter is obvious.

BIG INCREASE IN WORLD RYE CROP.

Rye production in countries that produce 78 per cent of the world crop, exclusive of Russia, is reported by the United States department of agriculture at 774,000,000 bushels this year against 565,000,000 bushels in 1924, an increase of 33 per cent.

German rye crop this year is the largest since the war, being estimated at 301,573,000 bushels against 225,573,000 bushels last year. Pre war production in the same territory was 368,000,000 bushels.

The German wheat crop is placed at 107,000,000 bushels against 96,000,000 bushels last year; barley 112,983,000 bushels against 110,000,000 bushels, and oats 378,000,000 bushels against 389,000,000 bushels.

Although estimates for potatoes and sugar beets in Germany are not yet available, increases in acreage of both crops and favorable conditions are reported.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

(Contributed.)

Andrew James Ladd, 76, died Saturday, September 5, in Central Village where he had made his home since the death of his father in 1876. Mr. Ladd was born in East Brooklyn, (Danielson) June 4, 1851, the son of James and Lovina Kelly Ladd. He was a graduate of the grammer and high school in Danielson.

As a young man he took up printing and served an apprenticeship of three years for J. Q. A. Stone, editor of the Windham Transcript, then ran a job printing office in Putnam until the establishment of the Putnam Patriot, by E. C. Stone. Mr. Ladd was foreman on the Patriot until he came to Central Village and there established the job printing office which he conducted until his health began to fail. This business was started with one small press in the living room of his house; but in 1889 he built the shop nearby, which he has since used for his business.

Mr. Ladd was the owner of several houses in addition to that which he had occupied at Ladd's corner. His niece, Miss Mary Ladd, has made her home with him. She and her two brothers Elwood and Merrill are the only near relatives left.

Miss Ladd had much of the care of her uncle since his more severe illness which occurred in May 1925.

The funeral service was held at the home Tuesday with Rev. Mary Macomber, former pastor at Central Village, officiating. Burial was in the family lot in Evergreen cemetery.

When you admire the handsome appearance of U.S. Royal Balloons—remember also they are True Low-Pressure Balloons

IF you are one of the thousands of car owners who have been attracted by the handsome appearance of the all black U. S. Royal Balloons, it will please you to know this—

These tires hold their good looks during the full period of their long service life. They do not show finger marks, mud or grease stains.

The beauty of U. S. Royal Balloons is in addition to those characteristics which have made these tires famous. They are distinctive in being true Low-Pressure balloons.

Their construction and design positively avoid the necessity of over-inflating the tires to insure long service. You can run them at genuine low air pressures and get the comfort that balloon tires are intended to give.

Their "Low-Pressure Tread" is flat. It provides much greater area of road contact than a round tread, thereby distributing the weight evenly to every tread block. That is why the tread wears slowly and evenly.

The continuous flexing of a balloon tire on the road calls for great strength and flexibility of construction. Latex-treated Web Cord, the patented process developed and patented by the United States Rubber Company, meets this flexing perfectly and accounts for the exceptional mileage of U. S. Royal Balloons.

So U. S. Royal Balloons make a real contribution to the beauty and the comfort of the modern car. Start now enjoying the advantages of true Low-Pressure balloons.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

This column is in total disagreement with the beauty award at Atlantic City. Danielson has at least 23 young women more beautiful than Miss California, and that isn't all! Other parts of the Town of Killingly can produce about as many. And so can other towns hereabouts. But these beauties are not getting the publicity.

Danielson must challenge Atlantic City—or Jewett City.—It matters little which, to a real beauty contest. It would start an argument anyway, and that's about all the beauty contests amount to. If this local contest is going to be staged, it will have to be hurried along for the season for one-piece bathing suits, an all-important adjunct of these publicity stunts, is waning. Beauty contests, under the bathing suit rule, attract no daffodils when Jack Frost is around.

Danielson, however, asserts the supremacy of its beauties. Everyone here knows it—sees the pretties every day. So Danielson is going to grab off a beauty champion—this all its own—asserting the claim not in the singular, but in the plural. It is the "Misses Danielson," if you please. This town has a bevy of championship beauties, not a mere, lone specimen. Watch for them. They'll be put tonight.

All Danielson flower-lovers are invited to visit Pilgrim Gardens, the most beautiful dahlia gardens in New England.—Adv.

"Old Timers, me eye," said the Old Timers Monday as they reviewed the desolation wrought Monday in defeating the Danielson town team, 9 to 8. "We're not so old or bunged up or so blind that we can't see a good one when it's within a foot of the plate, swat it and hike much after the fashion that we used to in the good old days."

The score detail of the game bears the Old Timers out in their proud contention. They did very nicely. Some of them fielded for .1000 per cent, and some of them batted for .500 or thereabouts. That's better than the big leaguers are doing, the season considered. Take Cleveland for instance—four safe hits out of five times up; Dan Page with a triple, a double and a single to his credit; Ell Blanchard with a home run; Joe Labelle with two doubles and a single, George Robertson with two pretty hits. That's enough to beat the Pirates! Morland did most of the twirling for the Old Timers, LaBelle relieving him after the seventh.

Lagace took the lacing from the walloping Old Timers. His offerings involved no mysteries for the old boys, with the good eyes and the big sticks.

But the town team players are not satisfied. Maybe with another opportunity they will demonstrate that the Old Timers are really old and forlorn and should become addicted to some form of golf—eyewitnesses, or something like that.

A section of iron pipe fencing along the easterly side of the stone bridge over the Assawaga river near the Quinebaug river was knocked flat Sunday afternoon when a car driven by Camille Lagace, of Wauregan, did not complete the swing he had intended it would make from Main into Franklin street. About twenty feet of the fencing was broken down or knocked awry.

Lagace's car came to a halt with the front end hanging over the bridge approach and all set for a drop of about a dozen feet into the water of a ditch leading from the plant of the Paco Manufacturing company. But it didn't drop, and for this all in the car have good reason to be thankful. The car was not seriously damaged and proceeded under its own power.

James Crowley of East Boston drove his closed Ford off the state highway and turned the machine over about 9:30 Sunday night, at the head of Reynolds street, near the Gallup farm. There is a curve in the highway at that point, and this possibly may account for the accident, as it has for others. Telephone calls brought a state officer and a physician also was summoned. Occupants of the car suffered mostly from cuts made by flying pieces of glass.

See Combusto on the Midway, New London County Fair.—Adv.

The experience of residents along streets treated with oil—as to dust reduction during the warmer seasons of the year—and the improved manner in which oiled street surfaces resist traffic wear will lead next spring, it is now indicated in petitions from residents of various streets in the borough that oil be applied along these thoroughfares. The town shares with the abutting property owners the cost of oiling Danielson's streets, and the cost is really negligible, unless one owns more than an average property frontage.

Is there an example of the Mound Builders' handiwork on the links of the Putnam Country club, to which numbers of Danielson people belong! A question that was of interest here Monday. Up there a mound very much after the type of the one being excavated at Bainbridge, Ohio, with such wonderful results rises from the flat country that entirely surrounds it. Maybe nature just humped the earth up a bit in that spot, but there is current curiosity about it. Maybe it was raised by the hands of the mound builders. It is wooded today, and is a curiosity standing there in the plain.

It was said Monday that the Quineburg bridge eventually will be replaced by a more modern structure by the state highway department, but there was no verification of this. The present bridge over the Quineburg between Danielson and the town of Brooklyn has been in service nearly 40 years and apparently remains in good condition, though never designed to carry the heavy traffic loads of today. The present bridge replaced a wooden structure that was carried out by a flood about 1887 and was built jointly by the towns of Brooklyn and Killingly.

A Hudson coach was badly battered over on the Brooklyn road Monday afternon when its driver, Robert Snow of West Hartford, turned out to avoid another machine. The car went off the side of the highway and turned over. Mr. Snow escaped without a scratch. The top of the car was damaged and one side of it scarred to considerable extent. A dished wheel was another item of damage the car sustained.

MARRIED MAN MISSING LEFT SEVEN CHILDREN TO WIFE

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 14.—Relatives here and on the West Side are seeking to locate two couples who disappeared from Danielson more than a fortnight ago and have not since been located. It is a case of married men deserting their wives and going away with married women who have abandoned their husbands. One of the missing men has left seven children to his wife's care.

MALE POPULATION CONCERNED ABOUT HAT SEASON DATE

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 14.—If it were not good advertising for the hat stores it might be mentioned that this is September 15, the last day of the straw hat season. On second thought it might as well be mentioned. Possibly that's poor judgment, for many a man with a straw hat that he wants to wear a little longer will be peeved. But let it all stand. It may result in real news.

Getting a new hat is an experience for a man. For one thing, he learns what size he wears after a hectic summer. Sizes may change for better or worse. Then again, it reminds him he's still a member of the family, where buying of hats is a topic of conversation almost da[illegible] the year round—stayles change so, you know!

All the foregoing seems liable to go entirely to waste, in view of the fact that a hatter just called up to say that September 15 is not the last day of the straw hat season, but first day of the open season. At least he said something about other kinds of hats being due to blossom this morning. Well, it's a nice day for it, anyway!

P. S.—To all men of courage: There is no law against wearing straw hats until Thanksgiving eve, this being the one thing against which there had been no legislation up to 9 p. m. Monday.

Next Saturday will be an interesting day at East Killingly if frost does not come to damage the blooms that are to be shown in the annual flower exhibit in that place. Each year this September event has grown in beauty and interest and the chances are for the best display ever, the coming week-end.

At his home in Moosup, funeral services for Savo Pavalicich, who died at a hospital in Providence were conducted by Rev. Ellay Klopotosky of Norwich. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery at Central Village. The bearers were Sava Dropo, Savo Stankovitch, John Stanksovitch, Thomas Boskoyich, Sam Motuvick and John Williams. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Among other things that the management is doing to make the coming Brooklyn fair attractive is arranging for music for both big days of the fair. One of the bands that will be heard this year is the Goodyear band, which will be much the same organization as gave the fine concert on Davis park last Thursday evening.

WM. H. JOHNSON'S VIEWS ON FLORIDA SITUATION

(Special to the Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 14—William H. Johnson, one of Putnam's substantial citizens, who owns a home in Tampa, Florida and spends eight or nine months of the year there, says that land values have been greatly inflated and that some day the bubble will burst and conditions return to normal. However, he thinks that the market will keep on rising for the remainder of this year and probably another.

"Florida is going to become a manufacturing as well as an agricultural state," he said, "but that is a slow process and the figures at which land in some sections is now being held and sold, are of course fictitious.

"For the greater part of the winter," he added, "the weather is delightfully pleasant; but there are some days whe nthe mercury goes down to fifty and then if your house is not provided with an adequate heating system, you are going to be uncomfortable."

GENERAL BUTLER'S TRY

All speculations as to what General Butler, director of public safety in Philadelphia, is going to do after the first of the year is set at rest by his announcement to the effect that he is going back to the marine corps. That is in accord with plans and presidential statement made some time ago. Yet there has been some effort made to push General Butler into politics and to have him leave the marines and run for office in Pennsylvania. General Butler was the one to confirm or deny that rumor and he has proceeded to spike it in a manner that leaves no doubt. He retires from his Philadelphia post, to which he was loaned by the government, the first of the year and according to his own words he is glad the end is so near.

General Butler was called to the Quaker city to clean it up. He tackled his job with confidence. He minimized the obstacles which stood in the way. He allowed 48 hours at the start of his campaign but he will have been at it for two years when he quits and he considers that he has failed. He has been obliged to contend with many things. Directing the marines is a far different thing than directing the cleaning up of a city where vice and law breaking have been rampant. He was brought face to face with political influences and with courts which were not in sympathy with his undertaking and he has been obliged to admit that he has been balked. He has probably done as much as anyone in that position could do and more than those who were not in earnest would ever attempt to accomplish. But he hasn't reached the goal set and therefore he considers his attempt a failure.

But whatever the attitude of Philadelphia was before the attempted cleanup, it must be clearly established now, that bad as it was, and only partly improved as it is, Philadelphia is what it is because there is not strong enough public sentiment to overthrow the evil influences and give the city the housecleaning it requires. General Butler has demonstrated that no one man can rid that city of its rotten conditions. He must at least have the co-operation of the other agencies with which he comes in contact. That is what General Butler strove for but failed to get. Does his admitted failure therefore please Philadelphia?

ANOTHER HAWAIIAN FLIGHT

Three seaplanes were expected to participate in the non-stop flight from San Francisco to the Hawaiian Islands when the PN-9 No. 1 started. One was disabled soon after getting away and the third was not ready to take off, but would have gone later but for the disappearance of the seaplane that was lost for nine days. That prompted the calling off of the attempt.

With the finding of Commander Rodgers and his crew, with seaplane intact, it is no more than was to be expected when consideration is again given to the possibilities of undertaking this flight.

Of the utmost value is the experience of Commander Rodgers. His flight failed primarily because of a lack of gasoline. A few more gallons would have permitted him to reach his destination safely, and it has been shown within a few days that the seaplane which was held back can carry several hundred more gallons than did the PN-9 No. 1. Fortified with the knowledge which is furnished by Commander Rodgers following his flight and subsequent experiences, there will be less reliance placed upon favorable winds and more dependence put in an increased fuel supply. Likewise it is to be expected that should the gasoline supply show indications of not taking the fliers through they will plan to alight near one of the guard ships and before the last drop is used. The flight to Hawaii is a long one but there is no question but that it would have been accomplished by Commander Rodgers had the gas been available. His statement of his flight justifies the belief that the flight is feasible and will be soon accomplished.

A STITCH IN TIME

There was a time when the feeling prevailed in this country that the supply of timber was so large that there was no need of trying to conserve it. Unfortunately there are many who still carry that same idea if we are to judge by the large amount of waste that goes on concerning the products of the forest, but for the most part there is an appreciation of the fact that serious inroads into the timber supply calls for a check upon the waste and active interest in behalf of reforestation.

Much the same feeling has been disclosed concerning what seems to be an unlimited timber supply in Canada. But even there the effects of the constant cutting is being noted and in keeping therewith efforts to control it before it gets too late are under way. Where Quebec has placed no restriction on timber cutting, except as to size of trees, it is now required that owners shall not cut over 80 per cent of their crop, thus making provision for future growth and still retaining a certain amount of timber to tide over the period between this cutting and the development of a new crop. In addition there is a system of fire prevention and control.

Canada is apparently awakening to the possibilities of a timber shortage much sooner than this country did, and awakening it is taking steps to guard against waste and indiscretion on the part of the man with the ax. The broad expanse of timber land in Canada seem inexhaustible but steadily increasing demands quickly change the situation and the preventive measures which have been decided upon are well calculated to provide sane protection against a shortage.

NEW YORK'S PRIMARY

Much interest outside the limits of New York city will be manifested in the primary which is held there today to select candidates for the coming mayoralty election. The city has been going through a hot campaign where all kinds of accusations have been made, but a campaign in which the most heat has developed between the rival democratic candidates. There are two democratic candidates, Mayor Hylan who seeks a renomination for a third term and State Senator Walker who wants to become mayor. Three republican aspirants will seek votes, Frank D. Waterman, William M. Bennett and John J. Lyons.

From the democratic standpoint it is a fight between Tammany and anti-Tammany influences. As the result of the two terms served by Mayor Hylan conditions in New York city are wretched. It was inevitable that people should balk against a third term for him. This was recognized by Tammany and it put forward Walker. But while there has been just and serious criticism of the mayor and the manner in which he has administered the city, it is to be realized that he was Tammany candidate and with Tammany backing him and his policies the question now arises whether the city of New York can expect anything better from another candidate which Tammany has groomed for the nomination. It has turned against Hylan because his administration has come into disfavor, but it didn't turn him from his course and it doesn't appear that another Tammany candidate offers any better prospects. The Tammany brand appears on both.

With the division in the ranks of the democrats it is a question what the result will be, not only in the primary but in the election to follow. In republican circles Mr. Waterman unquestionably totally eclipses both his opponents, both as to support and to fitness for the office. He offers the people of New York the real chance to eliminate the wrongs which have developed under the Hylan regime. In the quest for good government the voters of New York have an opportunity to render themselves a real service by supporting the man who actually stands for it.

SPEED AT ANY COST

Hoping to speed up his kitchen fire a resident of Athol took a can of kerosene and poured some of the oil into the stove. The result was an explosion in which he was blown some distance, cut and bruised severely and the house set afire.

The experience of this householder was no different than that of many others. He used the same methods and he got the same results. Speeding up a kitchen fire may be a common desire, but it doesn't pay to take chances.

One outstanding fact in connection with such an affair is that so many insist upon a personal experience under such circumstances before giving thought to the danger involved instead of learning the pointed lesson which stands out in those many instances where others have done similar stunts.

There is no mistaking the fact that there are penalties attacked to taking chances with kerosene and fire quite the same as taking chances at railroad crossings or in taking chances by keeping poisons with medicine. It should be commonly understood that failure to observe proper precautions will result in serious trouble. Thousands have proved it to their discomfort in years gone by and too many are insisting upon a personal demonstration from week to week.

There may be some knack to what seems to be a simple matter of kindling a kitchen fire and getting as quick results as desired. But what did the Athol man gain by his dangerous means of trying to speed up? He would have far less regrets today if he had been content to use other methods or to wait a couple of minutes longer for his kitchen fire to develop. He is lucky to be alive.

It is of course simply another one of those cases which discloses the importance of giving careful consideration to what is being undertaken and not blunder headlong into efforts to get speed without giving due thought to the consequences which are known to lie ahead. Speed regardless of the cost doesn't pay.

AT THE CLUB

"I am about to launch an altruistic campaign," announced the sandy-haired member with spectacles.

"I didn't know you'd gone in for civics and philanthropics," grinned his amiable friend with the fifty-inch waist measure, setting into his favorite chair and mopping his brow with a large and spotless handkerchief.

"Well, I haven't exactly," explained the sandy-haired person tartly. "This campaign of which I speak is for the suppression of dyspeptics, though, so you might call it a philanthropy at large."

The amiable member repeated his grin. "Aren't you feeling a bit rash today?" he inquired. "The doctors would form a mob, you know, and surround your quiet home, and hurl medical treatises through your windows."

"Ha," said the sandy-haired person, derisively.

"They would probably pour carbolic acid on the geranium beds in your front yard, too. Or they might boycott you. Think of that! I had an aunt once living in a small country town who quarreled with the local practitioner, so when she became violently indisposed one morning she was afraid to call him in for fear he would give her arsenic or something, just to even old scores."

"Huh!" remarked the sandy-haired man skeptically.

"They had to send eighteen miles for the next nearest doctor," continued the amiable member, "and before he got there she had coughed up the cameo brooch that was causing all the trouble. But the doctor's horse had eaten all the shamrock out of her window boxes and was putting on an old-time Sinn Fein performance in the garden. The doctor sued her for the price of a new buggy."

"Really?" commented the sandy-haired person with heavy sarcasm. "What about the harness?"

"Oh, people were economical in those days," said the amiable member. "They ate vaged the harness and used it later for the running gear of a car like yours."

"Ah, well," sighed the sandy-haired person, "you have gone off the wrong scent, as usual. My movement is merely for the legal restraint of conversational dyspepsia, so to speak—the persons who enjoy poor health, you know. Of course, it seems almost a shame to deny anybody such pure and unalloyed pleasure as they seem to get out of their recitals, but there are limits to the endurance of the meekest worm, as you may have heard. I was playing bridge last night with a woman—"

"Ah, ha!" interrupted the amiable member, placidly, "I was wondering where the shoe pinched!"

"Ah, ha, yourself!" snorted the sandy-haired person. "She was one of these milk-fed looking females without any sleeves to her dress, and she discoursed learnedly on the theory of diet at a time when she might better have been cultivating a passing acquaintance with her cards, to avoid the more flagrant errors of her kind."

"Your partner, I infer?" said the large and amiable member, indulging in a chuckle.

"Exactly," admitted the sandy-haired person, "and I'd have won a prize if she had been able to take her mind, so called, off her digestion."

"But as it was—" prompted the large member.

"As it was," barked the sandy-haired person, "the man who did win the prize—and it was a mighty nice prize, too—cornered me in the sun parlor after refreshments were served and held forth for 27 minutes on the peculiarities of his gastro-intestinal tract. I timed him."

"Poor man," said the amiable member. "How are you going to get back at 'em?"

"Well," said the sandy-haired person, judicially, "there seems to be only two ways open to a private citizen. Either I can start this bill in congress making such willful persecution a penitentiary offense, or I can have my own digestion temporarily removed, say, at a relatively low cost of money and inconvenience, and thus acquire for myself a convincing set of data as a sort of antidote. Only in that case I should be biting off my nose to spite my face, as my sister says of matrimony—"

"Speaking of your sister," interrupted his amiable friend with sudden interest.

"But as I was about to say, that's another story," finished the sandy-haired person flatly. "Come on; let's beat it in to lunch, as the jurists say. The lunch is on me."—Chicago News.

"Mother," she asked earnestly, "how do you spell 'at' ?"

"A T," mother answered.

Later mother was the interested audience while Nellie read the sentences which she had written.

"But where is the one with the word 'at' in it ?" asked mother.

"Oh, this is it," said Nellie. "We like to eat the eggs AT the Easter bunnies bring."

No "Gold Brick" There

They had just moved a big safe into the office. It was a used safe and heavy. As soon as the men had gotten it in the place assigned the head of the office began fumbling with the combination. The workmen waited to see the results.

As the door swung open, standing in an upright position with a blank expression was a common brick. The only article in the large compartment of the safe.

"They didn't even have the decency to give you a 'gold brick'," was the caustic remark of one of the moving force.

From Small Beginnings

David Warfield, the Newsboy, the Great Actor

Before school, and after school, a boy stood on the streets selling newspapers. Often in the evenings he went to theaters and handed out programs and eargerly watched the acting. Those who bought papers from him, or who carelessly passed him by, little thought that they would live to sit in a theater with tears streaming from their eyes as they watched the marvelous acting of the man into whom that boy developed—David Warfield, whose magic interpretation of the old Music Master and other characters has gripped the hearts of thousands.

David Warfield had started on a course in the public schools. When he had recited Tennyson's Charge of the Light Brigade both teachers and pupils wondered at his power. Then the stern demands of work had called him from the schoolroom, and he had turned regretfully away. Apparently the door of opportunity was closing.

After a time he [illegible] a company of actors—but the company failed. He actors—but the company failed. He turned to the vaudeville stage, and met with such poor success that he thought he must give up acting once and for all. Real ability is always hard to conceal, in the very time of his discouragement he consented to have a short act in a cheap concert hall in New York City. That was his turning point. Men were present who recognized his worth, and he won a series of engagements.

Always endeavoring to picture life as it is, with common tragedies and its every-day humor, he turned from false melodrama and made the parts he acted genuine and real. They gripped the heart, making one laugh at one moment and cry at the next.

David Belasco became his firm friend. In The Music Master David Warfield won a success that is permanent. All over the United States are people who remember the kindly old Music Master, not as an acted part but as a real man. When a syndicate offered David Warfield an annual salary of $100,000 if he would leave Belasco he refused. The newsboy had grown not only into a great actor, but into a man.

CHILD TRAINING

THE AFTER-SCHOOL LUNCH

Mariaf Brownfield

"I want some meat, I want some meat!" came the wild Indian tones of a boy as he rushed into the living room after school, much to the discomfort of his mother who was entertaining a caller.

"You can't have it," she retorted. "Be quiet."

"But I'm hungry," persisted the boy.

"Well then, go and get some crackers," said his mother, glad of the excuse to send him off.

All children are beset with an afterschool hunger that is perfectly natural. The problem is how to give them something wholesome that will not interfere with the regular meals. At another time this same boy with both hands full of cake passed through the room where his sister was practicing her piano lesson.

"Why, Ted!" she exclaimed half enviously, "you know you can't have that cake, mother made it for supper."

But Ted, delighted with his prize, rushed out before her protests should interfere with his enjoyment of the cake.

Raids on the ice box, cupboard and jam jar are all the results of thoughtlessness of either mother or the children. The child who knows he can always have something to eat after school does not resort to such lawless measures.

One clever mother has solved the problem. She does not insist that these between-meal snacks shall be bread and butter or an apple; she has a little system of surprises. In a certain place in the kitchen there are three paper plates awaiting the three children each afternoon. Often there is fruit there; a bunch of grapes, an orange, a banana or some figs. Frequently there are a couple of crackers. Sometimes these are spread with peanut butter if they are plain crackers. Perhaps they will be of different kinds; there may be a fig bar and a graham cracker. Perhaps there will be an apple, and a walnut to crack. Even left-overs are enjoyed as a surprise; bread pudden, an ear of corn, a tomato or scraps made into an interesting sandwich sometimes greets the youngsters. As a real treat the left over may be cake! Because it is understood that the luncheon must be eaten "as is" with no requests for more until meal time, the plan relieves the mother of a great deal of teasing and it also prevents the temptation to dip into food prepared for a coming meal.

Oldest Steamer Burned

The steamship Fenix, which, it was said, was the oldest in the world in active service, recently was destroyed by fire. Built in 1848 at Motala wharf, the boat had been making regular trips between Koeping, Sweden, and Stockholm. Since its launching it had been rechristened several times and was rebuilt in 1900.

At the time of its destruction there were 16 passengers besides the crew aboard, all of whom escaped.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

JERBA

Jerba, the North African island where an ancient Greek treasure galley was discovered recently, is not listed as a stopping place on Mediterranean cruises, although it possesses a background of rich historic and romantic interest. Tradition places on this little Tunisian island, almost midway between Gibbrater and Suez, the home of the lotus-eaters, of whom Homer tells in one of his sea tales.

"The present day natives, mostly Berbers of the Kharijite sect, would probably tell you they have never heard of the fabled sweet forgetfulness that was said to come to the Lotophagi, as the eaters of the Lotus plant were called," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "There is nothing today about their busy little palm-shaded towns, or harbors full of fishing boats, that lends the atmosphere of 'a land of always after dinner.' Secure in their insularity against the attacks of nomadic Arabs, the Jerba islanders tend their fruit groves and vegetable gardens, vying also in industry with their kinsmen, the Mozabites, as traders to all the seaports of the Orient.

"The sponge, polypus and other fisheries, and the oyster beds in the Canal d'Adjim, the ship channel through the narrow sweep of the water that separates Jerba from the mainland, are productive. Every morning the queer looking craft of the Arab sponge fishermen put out from the long wharves, with flags flying, for the great stretches of shallow water that extend in all directions from the island. Large steamers must be met by native sailing craft and rowboats, as it is impossible for the most of them to approach within two or three miles of the shore.

"Jerba has been made, through the efforts of its inhabitants, one of the most fertile and prosperous spots along a great stretch of sun-baked Mediterranean coastline. More than a million datepalms wave their fringes over the white-roofed towns and villages of this island oasis, which is approximately twice as large as Malta, its British neighbor 25 miles to the northeast. In addition there are extensive groves of olive, orange, lemon and peach trees.

"To the stranger coming from the bleak and parched Tunisian mainland this fertility seems a miracle. There are no rivers on Jerba, no streams worthy of the name even, and rainfall is as scant and infrequent as on the mainland. The answer to the riddle is underground water, obtained through artesian wells in the same manner that natives of the Yucatan peninsula in Mexico secure a constant supply of fresh, cool water.

"Humt-Suk, the capital and principal city, lies on the sandy north coast about half a mile from the sea and five miles from the anchorage of steamers. Its countless little buildings of one or two stories all have domes and from the roof tops the city looks like an array of inverted saucers, with the graceful minarets of the mosques breaking the skyline like slender lighthouses. Public gardens and a number of wide curving streets show the beneficient influence of the French. Down by the sea is the spot where a great mound of Christian bones, called 'The Skull Fort,' stood for centuries. The bones were those of several thousand Spaniards who were massacred by the pirate Dragut in 1560. They were collected and buried in the Christian cemetery nearby in 1848.

"All over the island are Roman ruins, decayed causeways, baths, temples—the subsoil of all the Mediterranean world. But aside from the mausoleum of Borgho nothing remains intact of this one time important Roman colony, the birthplace of two Roman emperors, Vibius Gallus and Volusenus.

"Hara-Scrira, a village of 1,500 inhabitants five miles south of the capital, is a resort of Jewish pilgrims from southern Tunisia and Tripolitania. The Gheriba or synagogue, is built on the spot where, according to tradition, one of the tables of the law of Moses was found. It is much revered also by Catholics and Moslems. Not far away at Gallala, is an unexploited Eden for photographers. This is the center of pottery-manufacturing, where all day long the statuesque native women, Twentieth Century Rebecca's, carry graceful white water-jugs to the stone-rimmed wells.

"Of the lotus, or jujubier, as the French call it, there are few remnants. There has been much disagreement as to the identification of the Homeric lotus. Lotus is a popular name applied to several plants, and whether the one that the Greek had in mind was a tree, a bush, a flower, or seed of any of them, has not been determined.

"One visitor was taken by a native guide far inland to see what the guide said was the only living specimen of the lotus on the island. It was a bush or vine, trained up the wall of an Arab house, shoulder-high and grew in stout, hardy stocks. It was almost leafless and bore no blossom.

"Some of the natives contend, however, that the lotus has nothing to do with the stranger's forgetfulness of home. They point to the soft glow of the sunset on the white-domed houses and minarets, the rippling blue-green Mediterranean and the waving palm trees along the sandy shore—and then ask if any such loadstone is necessary."

British Patents in 1924

Applications for patents in Great Britain totaled more than 30,000 last year, according to the New York World, and although the number is 1,000 less than was received in 1923 there was an increase during the last months. Radio developments were the most numerous subjects of the patents more than 800 being granted, an increase of 300 over the year before. Many applications from inventors in this field, were not pressed, the originators apparently realizing that their ideas were in many cases commercially useless or had become out of date while the matter was pending because of the rapid progress in this science. Many patents were for household improvements and the inventions were made by women.

Sometimes it's the man who doesn't hesitate who gets lost.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Tantalizing Honey-Tree

'Tis folly, Nature tries to teach,
To wish for things beyond your reach.
—Buster Bear.

Buster Bear always had a feeling that in a certain part of the Green Forest there was a bee tree. You know a bee tree is a tree which is partly hollow and has been taken possession of by Busy Bee and her relatives as a home. Buster didn't know why he thought there was a bee tree somewhere around there. It was just a feeling, that was all. He had spent a lot of time looking for a hollow tree but so far he had not been able to find one. He couldn't be sure that he smelled honey, yet always when he came along that way something made him think of honey. So always he stopped and sniffed the air and looked. He trusted more to his nose than he did to his eyes, for Buster's eyes are not as keen as they might be. They are not as sharp as the eyes of some of the other little people. But he can trust that nose of his. Yes, siree, he can trust that nose of his.

On this particular day the Merry Little Breezes came dancing from a direction they had never come from before when Buster was about. Each one stopped and tickled his nose, then danced away. Now what do you think they tickled his nose with? They tickled his nose with the smell of honey. Yes, sir, they did so. They tickled his nose with the smell of honey. Right away Buster began to feel his mouth water. He knew then that there must be a tree with honey in it near at hand. There just must be. It couldn't be otherwise. He turned, and holding his nose and sniffing and sniffing, he slowly walked in the direction from which the Merry Little Breezes were bringing that smell of honey.

After awhile he missed the smell. Then he knew that he had gone past the tree from which the Merry Little Breezes had been bringing the smell of honey. So he went back until once more he smelled that faint, delightful, tickling, delicious odor of honey.

Then he began looking up in all the trees around. By and by he found a very big tree which had a humming sound coming from high up in it. Buster's little eyes sparkled. That humming sound meant bees. Yes, sir, it meant bees. It couldn't mean anything else. Buster stood up. He put his forepaws around that tree and dug his claws in. Then up he went. It is surprising how fast great big Buster Bear can climb a tree. When you see him on the ground he looks so clumsy that it doesn't seem as if he can possibly be at home in a tree. But he is, and he proved it now. Up, up, up that tree he climbed, and all the time that humming sound grew louder.

Then he began looking up into all the trees around

Bim! Bam! Two sharp little lances had been trust into Buster's nose. They were the lances of two bees. Buster shook his head and slapped at those two bees with a big paw. More bees were coming. Buster growled and snarled an dsnapped, but he kept right on climbing. In fact he climbed a little faster if anything. In a moment he reached a little round hole and out of that hole a stream of bees poured. They made a cloud around Buster's head. My, how angry they were! This was their home and they meant to fight for it. Such a growling and snarling and grumbling as there was! Buster hooked his claws into the edge of that little round hole and tugged and pulled and pulled and tugged. It was in vain. That was a knothole and the wood around it was quite sound. He just couldn't tear in open. Finally he just had to go down that tree, and go down in a hurry. The bees were too much for him. He smarted all over and he hadn't had even a taste of that honey. It was a most tantalizing tree. He couldn't tear it open, and he couldn't pull it down. Yes sir, it was a most tantalizing tree.

NEW LONDON MEN FINED IN FRANKLIN TOWN COURT

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 14.—George E. Moriarty of New London pleaded guilty in the Franklin town court at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon to operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 and costs. Moriarty was the driver of a Ford sedan which capsized on the railroad tracks at Williams crossing, at 1 o'clock Sunday morning, injuring four passengers. John Malone, alias Falvey and Joseph Wilson, who were occupants of the car pleaded not guilty to the charges of intoxication, but Justice of the Peace Newman found grounds for a conviction and imposed a fine of $2 and costs in each case. William Malone, (alias Falvey), another passenger in the wrecked car, is still a patient at St. Joseph's hospital. It was discovered that the sciatic nerve in his right leg had been injured and there is danger that the leg may be paralyzed. His case was polled by Justice Newman on the payment of costs. All the accused are residents of New London. They were arrested following the accident by State Policemen Schweikert, Kulowski and Heipold. Examination of Joseph Wilson Monday by a physician disclosed that he was suffering from three broken ribs.

Grand Juror Clifford H. Robinson prosecuted the cases.

500 ROTARIANS ASSEMBLE FOR THEIR CONCLAVE AT EASTERN POINT

Rotarians, representing clubs in Vermont, Massachusetts and Connecticut, to the number of about 500 assembled at the Hotel Griswold at Eastern Point on Monday for the annual fall conclave of the 30th district of Rotary International. Practically all of the 37 Rotary clubs in the district were represented by one or more members, those in Connecticut and Massachusetts sending the largest delegations.

Monday was registration day, with an acquaintance luncheon at 1 o'clock conducted by the New London club which is acting as the host club of the conclave with the Norwich club. The conclave this year is more of a recreational nature, only one business session being held, that on Tuesday morning at which District Governor John Alison of Holyoke Mass., will preside.

The hotel was made most attractive for the three day visit of the Rotarians and the entire hotel grounds and the Shenecossett golf grounds were thrown open to the Rotarians for their entertainment. A program of sports, including golf tournaments for both men and women and a tennis tournament for the men, together with horseshoe pitching and baseball, has been planned. It is expected that there will be keen competition in the golf tournament in an attempt to wrest the cup, emblematical of the 30th district title, from the Norwich club which won it last year.

Acquaintance Luncheon

The acquaintance luncheon at 1 o'clock was an informal get-together with Jim Hammond of the New London club radiating a spirit of good-will that soon had everyone calling each other by their first names. As an acquaintance luncheon it was a decided success and accomplished the purpose for which it was intended.

E. F. Regan, president of the New London club presided at the luncheon and in a short address welcomed the Rotarians to Eastern Point and expressed the hope that all would heartily enjoy their visit. The conclave opened with the singing of America, followed by the asking of the divine blessing by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London and the salute to the flag.

James Hammond led in the singing and Freddie Wight, pianist of the New London club, was at the piano assisted by the hotel orchestra. District Governor John Alison and Mrs. Alison were introduced to the Rotarians in an appropriate speech by Mr. Hammond. Jim led in the singing of a very appropriate song dedicated to Mrs. Alison. Dr. and Mrs. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich were also introduced to the Rotarians, Hugh being chairman of the executive committee in charge of the conclave.

Many announcements were made regarding the program for the conclave with special emphasis being laid upon the program for today (Tuesday) the feature day of the conclave.

After the luncheon the Rotarians sought various forms of entertainment, some entering the golf and tennis tournaments, others going to the beach to enjoy the bathing while others indulged in horse-shoe pitching and croquet.

The 192nd Artillery Band of New London, Harry Hunt, leader gave a delightful concert on the hotel veranda during the afternoon.

Informal Tea For Ladies

From 3 until 5 o'clock Mrs. John Alison was hostess at an informal tea on the veranda for the ladies. This tea was similar to the acquaintance luncheon and was a very enjoyable affair.

Among the arrivals at the hotel during the afternoon was International President of Rotary Donald A. Adams of New Haven. A ball is to be given Tuesday evening in honor of President Don.

Golf and Tennis

For those who desired various types of sports a varied program was offered during the afternoon. Golf for men and women was enjoyed at the Shennecossett club and qualifying rounds were played to establish four flights to Tuesday's matches. Tennis tournaments were started on the courts at the hotel and swimming was enjoyed at the beach, while Al Vining of Springfield arranged for the annual barnyard golf matches to be run off Tuesday and Wednesday.

There were eight entries in the men's singles for tennis and two of the matches were played during the afternoon, the remaining two to be defaulted matches unless played early Tuesday morning. Huzelton defeated Roantree, 6-8, 5-7, 6-1. Miller defeated Hoover, 8-6, 6-1, while Clapp won by default from Phillips and Weymouth by default from Bartholomew. Semi-finals to be played Tuesday are between Weymouth and Miller, Hazelton and Clapp, with finals on Wednesday morning. Men's doubles for this Tuesday morning are Hazelton and Miller vs. Weymouth and Roantree.

Results of the qualifying rounds in the men's golf tournament Monday afternoon saw a number of low scores. William G. Park of Norwich turning in the best card in the qualifying round with an 80. F. G. Libby coming second with an 84, while F. Burkhardt was third with an 85, all scores being net, club handicaps to count.

The scores for the qualifying rounds to establish positions for playing in the tournament by flights, and pairings for Tuesday's play, were as follows: first flight, W. G. Park, 80 and John Alison, 88; F. Burkhardt, 85, and Comdr. H. D. Hinckley, 90; F. G. Libby, 84, and R. B. Shattuck, 88; F. G. Patience, 86, and L. Titus, 91.

HONOR DISTRICT GOVERNOR WITH DINNER AND BALL

The feature of the evening was the dinner and ball given in honor of District Governor John Alison of Holyoke, Mass., this proving to be the most colorful event of the program of the opening day, attended by over 350 Rotarians, wives and guests. The meeting was in charge of the Governor's Home Club, Holyoke. President Walter F. Bachelder, and if the manner in which the program was carried out is any criterion, Governor "John," in the minds of his home club boys, certainly stands at the top, and, deservedly so, for the dinner and ball in his honor was one which will long be remembered by all Rotarians and guests who attended the conclave.

The early part of the program was devoted to the usual songs which voiced the true spirit of Rotary International, and, under the leadership of Holyoke's song leader, the club sang out a greeting to Don Adams, president of Rotary International to Governor "John," Rotaryannas, members and guests, in fact, sang a greeting to everyone within the borders of Rotary.

A surprise feature came during the program when members of the Holyoke club marched into the spacious dining hall, bearing mystery packages which they presented to the Rotaryannas. These gifts of Holyoke were beautiful boxes of stationery and were deeply appreciated by the lady Rotarians. Not slighting the men of the clubs, another treat was brought forward when cigars were passed about.

Previous to introducing Governor Alison to the Rotarians and guests, President Bachelder announced that the luncheon Tuesday noon would be in charge of the Pittsfield Rotary club and that "Jimmy" Morton would sing. A communication from the secretary of President Calvin Coolidge was read conveying the greetings of the president to the Rotarians of the thirtieth district, expressing sorrow that he could not attend the conclave, but voicing the desire that the conclave be a most sucessful one, resulting in a better understanding of the high principals of Rotary.

President Bachelder of Holyoke spoke briefly expressing the pride his club enjoyed in the selection of Rotarian John Alison, a member of the club, as governor of the thirtieth district. "Therefore," he said, "on behalf of the 2,000 members of Rotary in this district, it is indeed a pleasure to introduce Governor "John," who will speak to you this evening."

In his opening remarks Governor Alison expressed his pleasure and voiced his appreciation of the privilege given him, to stand before the large assembly and address the Rotarians and guests, as governor of the district. "I am proud to be here for two reasons," he said, "first because my wife is with me (I had to be elected governor before she would attend a conclave with me); second, because I see so many of my Holyoke friends present, as well as friends from all clubs of the district."

Governor Alison continued by saying that nothing made a man feel so good as when he realized he was with, and had in back of him, the men who meant the most to him. He also extended a greeting to Don Adams, president of Rotary International and to Edward Weeks, past district governor in Illinois. At this point he called upon Captain French of White River Junction, Vermont, asking him to stand up and greet the audience. He then announced that the "Captain" was four score and nearly ten more years of age and with President Calvin Coolidge, enjoyed the distinction of being the only honorary member of the Rotary Club of White River Junction.

Governor Alison selected for the subject of his talk, Business, and touched on three phases, which to him were the most important, and, which, as Rotarians, every member was bound to cultivate and put into actual service.

Business, he said, is important to Rotary because Rotarians are business men, and, because Rotary must go into business. I say thus to you, he said, because business today means more than just merchandise. Business means three things, first, the man; second, the method; third, the merchandise. You cannot have only one line, merchandise, and forget the other two. You cannot forget the method and that thing which we call manliness. We need all three in business and men are coming to that state of mind. Therefore, backbone, principal, quality and manliness are all objects of Rotary. Rotary is trying to put into you as business men, manliness and method, as well as merchandise.

We need conscience in business. We Rotarians are selected men, and, because of this, we must give evidence, at least, that we are trying to put conscience into our business. We must not be like the youth who planted all the seed corn in one hole. Time would tell the truth about this youth, and sometime, for there is something a the very essence of things, the truth about us shall become known. Therefore, as governor of this district, I am concerned about this thing and I want the members to have that conscience. I want them to put courtesy and kindliness into business.

Rotary for me means that a Rotarian is all very well for business men to co-operate in order to bring about co-operative community spirit. But, if we live up to the ideal of Rotary, co-operation means more than just that. It means co-operation with the man who is working with us in business.

Rotary for me means that a Rotarian may be able and ready to say to his employe, "I am giving myself to my business and I appreciate that you are giving yourself to my business." Rotary means that a man shall act by his employe with kindness and courtesy and co-operate with him.

The address of Governor Alison, which was illustrated by accounts of actual practice of the rules he advocated, was received with hearty applause, sounding as it did, the keynote of Rotary, "Service Before Self."

Another treat of the evening was in store for the Rotarians and their wives when Past District Governor Edward R. Weeks of Illinois was called upon. Starting his address with a lengthy bit of rhyme which sent his audience into gales of laughter, Rotarian Weeks, kept them in continuous laughter for the better part of a half hour, among his witticisms being the story of the farmer who, when asked what he thought of prohibition answered, "Wa-ll, I don't like it, I don't like it, but's better'n no liquor a'tall." As father of three girls, he also claimed the distinction formerly credited to Elinor Glynn, that of being the "author of Three Weeks."

Leaving the humorous strain for a time, Past Governor Weeks, spoke of centrifugal force and the force of rotation. The former, he said, throws things outward, while the latter tends to whirl things inward. Thus, he said, Rotary is on the cafeteria style, self service. After serving ourselves, he said, we become centrifugal and go out to serve others. When we do things for others, and the boys and assist crippled children, our actions are centrifugal. Rotary recognizes no sect, or creed, it has no maps or boundaries, and therefore stands as a new power, ready to unlock the closed doors of the world.

A New England man brought Rotary to us but two thousand years ago the first Rotarian was born in mystery only to die in tragedy, that we might learn the Golden rule, learn to serve others and place service above self.

In conclusion Rotarian Weeks gave a short entertainment in characterizing various nationalities, thus showing the world wide sweep of Rotary.

Following the dinner meeting adjournment was taken to the ballroom of Griswold where dancing was enjoyed until early morning, music being furnished by the hotel orchestra.

SPRINGFIELD MAN GAVE TALK ON TRAFFIC CONTROL

City planning board of Springfield, Mass., and the divine blessing was asked, the speaker Monday evening at the supper and membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce which was held at the Wauregan house at 6.15 with an attendance of 75. Mr. Woodruff spoke upon handling local traffic problems and illustrated his instructive talk with a series of views that showed some of the situations Springfield had handled.

Music by Swahn's orchestra was furnished during the supper and secretary John J. O'Rourke was song leader, the results had been very aided by Herbert B. Cary before supper was served.

President Arthur E. Story introduced the speaker who presented his subject in a graphic way, stating that there were some fundamental things that entered into the study of traffic control. These included a complete mapping of all the buildings in the city with their occupancy, a study of vehicular traffic, trolley lines and traffic, traffic accidents, tax valuations, pedestrian travel, school locations, park plan, and fire house locations. These, he affirmed, all went into the city planning and were all factors in the traffic problem. In such a comprehensive way had Springfield taken up the whole problem and while they had made mistakes, because they were been in operation since 1921 and they satisfactory.

In some of the questions that were put to him after his talk it was brought out that the zoning plan had been in operation since 1921 had they haven't had a case in court. He stated that the planning board was a board without power, that it was appointed by the mayor, that its members received no pay and that it accomplished its aims by working with the people rather than against them. Its cost of maintenance is about $4,000 a year, he said. The city planning system was installed by an out of town company and had been followed up by the local board.

A rising vote of thanks was given Mr. Woodruff by the meeting. Joseph S. Adams operated the lantern which was loaned by the Y. M. C. A. and the screen was loaned by the Central Baptist church, courtesies which were much appreciated by the Chamber of Commerce.

TRAVEL TO FLORIDA LIKE KLONDIKE RUSH

Scenes that made him think he was seeing a modern version of the Klondike rush or the Covered Wagon were witnessed by Officer Charles A. Smith who returned Monday afternoon from a trip to Florida which was made by automobile on the way there but by boat on the way back.

Mr. Smith said Monday night that he had seen about every kind of car, loaded with all sorts of family chattels and equipment headed towards Florida, he had seen numbers headed away from there. Some people were selling their machines and heading back for the places they had come from. Prices are high for accommodations. As an example, he met two young fellows from New York whose machine had broken down and they were being charged $5 a night merely to stand the machine inside somebody's gate.

Officer Smith, Jeremiah Casey and Louis Brooks left here by automobile on Tuesday, September 1st, the first two named doing all the driving. Except for changing one tire they had no trouble but their speedometer went out of commission so that they were unable to keep record of their mileage.

Stops overnight were made successively at Newark, N. J., Baltimore, Richmond, Raleigh, Aiken, S. C., Blackspaur Fla., and they reached Orlando, Fla., on Labor Day night, after passing through Jacksonville.

Mr. Casey and Mrs. Brooks, who are painters are to remain in West Palm Beach, working at their trade, but Officer Smith returned to Jacksonville, where he stayed for three days and then came north by boat to New York. The water all the way was as smooth as a lake.

The automobile trip was enjoyable, but they had some hot weather and some awful roads. South from Richmond, Va., the roads were bad through that state and at Fredericktown the thermometer stood at 106. In North Carolina the roads were good, but in South Carolina and Georgia they were the worst Mr. Smith had ever seen, narrow, full of sandpits and narrow bridges. At one bridge they were charged $2 to get across.

Returning From Western Trip

Frank Palmer, Alice Palmer and Mary Palmer Newsom of Preston who left July 18 for California and the Catalina Islands are on their return trip home. Cards received at Norwich recently said they were in Kansas and were then to visit relatives in Nebraska and Iowa. On the way out they visited Yellowstone Park, which is a great wonder. They also spent one day in Santa Barbara visiting the ruins left by the dreadful earthquake. They spent three days each in Los Angeles and San Francisco. Miss Palmer has done more than half of the driving.

Robert J. Blackwood and family are staying at their home, The Shack, at Quonochontaug, for two weeks.

MICHELSON BREAKS THREE WORLD'S RECORDS IN WINNING 15-MILE RACE

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Sept. 14—Albert (Whitey) Michelson, veteran Cygnet A. C. runner tonight became National A. A. U., fifteen mile champion in the first running of the event at athletic games of New York chapter, Knights of Columbus. The Port Chester athlete distanced a field of thirty two including the Olympic marathon champion, Albin Stenroos of Finland, and his compatriot, Willie Kyronen.

Michelson stepped to the front during the seventh mile, taking the lead from Stenroos, and raced away from the two Finns to win by almost a full lap over Kyronen, Stenroos found the pace too hot and dropped out at the thirteenth mile post, enabling Frank E. Wendling, of Buffalo, N. Y., to finish third.

Announcement was made by the officials that Michelson had broken three American distance records in his victorious race, stepping 12 miles in 1:06:40; 13 miles in 1:12:21, 5-6 and 14 miles in 1:18:09 3-6. The former marks, made by Jim Crowley of the Irish American A. C., in 1909, were 1:06:50 3-5 for 12 miles; 1:12:49 3-5 for 13 miles and 1:18:56 3-5 for 14 miles. He failed by 20 seconds and a fraction to equal the 15 miles record set by Charles Poree of the Millrose A. A. in 1919.

Unable to make his way from scratch around a field of 30 runners, in a three quarter mile handicap Abel R. Kiviat, veteran of 12 years on the cinder path, was forced to drop out 200 yards from the finish. H. Freeman of the Bloomfield C. C., with a handicap of 65 yards was first two yards ahead of E. Deady of the same club.

Running in what he announced would be his farewell track appearance, Joie Ray, veteran Illinois A. C. athlete trailed his ancient rival, Willie Ritola of the Finnish American A. C., across the line in a two mile handicap event. Both started from scratch and Ritola soon made his way to the front, winning easily over George W. Larmond, former Boston college runner. Ray was a poor fourth.

A sensational finish was provided the crowd of more than 5,000 in a quarter mile run when Henry Reischman of the New York A. C. misjudged the finish mark and was beaten by a foot as Joseph Tierney, his team mate, closed with a great rush. Cecil Cooke, national quarter mile champion, had to be content with third place.

DeHart Hubbard Michigan University five and running broad jump record holder, breasted the tape first in a special 50 yard dash against three of the east's greatest sprinters in his first New York appearance. Hubbard dashed over the line with a yard on Chet Bowman of the Newark A. C. Jackson Schiss, 200 meter Olympic champion, was third and Alfred Leconey of the Meadowbrook club fourth, in a blanket finish.

Hubbard repeated in a special 75 yard dash against the same field he had faced at 50 yards, winning by a yard from Leconey, Schols, third, and Bowman fourth, were separated from Leconey by inches.

Alan Helffrich, American half mile champion, suffered unexpected defeat at his favorite distance, finishing third to Pincus Sober, of the Holy Name club, new Metropolitan champion. Sober outsprinted both Helffrich and George McMarsters, former Georgetown star, in the final 200 yards, the latter losing out the conqueror of Peave Nurmi for second place.

Hubbard wound up a remarkable sprinting exhibition by a third triumph in a special 100 yard dash, showing his heels to Scholz, Leconey and Bowman as easily as he had done in the 50 and 75 yard events. Hubbard was off the mark like a shot and was never headed.

MOOSUP BEATS TAFTVILLE TEAM IN 10 INNING GAME

The games between the Moosup A. A. (formerly the American Woolen team) and Manager Burrell's Taftville Town team, at Moosup on Saturday developed into a contest second to none played in this locality this season.

Moosup scored first blood in the 2nd on Allard's double followed by an out and Enos' single. Taftville came back in the 3rd when Stanley reached first on Stevens' error, advanced to second when Smith walked, and scored the tying run on Savoicke's single From then on it was a battle well worth seeing, neither side scoring until the 10th, when Kendricks first man up for Moosup singled over short and by fast base running reached third, when Freschette laid down a single bunt. A moment later he was apparently trapped between home and third, but scored the winning run, when Le Voreaux made a wild throw.

While Moosup outhit their rivals, Stanley kept their bingles well scattered and but for Lemoreaux's error in the 10th, the game might be going on yet. Enos, pitching for Moosup, twirled a fine game allowing but 3 hits and striking out 10 men, retiring his opponents in one, two, three order in 7 of the 10 innings, while White caught a perfect game behind the bat. Street, for Moosup, carried off the batting honors with 3 safeties one of which was a double. Tapor and Lannigan made several difficult catches in the field shutting off possible rallies, while Burda in centre, after a hard run, robbed Enos of a sure homer in the sixth.

The score:

JONES HOLDS ATHLETICS TO TWO SCATTERED HITS

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 14. —(AP)—Sam Jones was in rare form today and held the Athletics to two bingels while New York won the final game of the series, 3 to 1. Rod Holt, late of the Jersey City Skeeters made the only honest blow off Jones, a single in the seventh. Jones' failure to cover first in the sixth allowed Cochrane to receive credit for a safe hit.

As a result of the victory, the Yankees split even in the six game series with the Mackmen.

PIRATES PICK UP HALF GAME BY BEATING DODGERS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 14.—(AP) —Pittsburgh topped Brooklyn today, 9 to 4, in the opener of a series snapping a losing streak of four games which tagged the Pirates' disastrous western trip. The victory extended the corsairs lead over New York to six and one-half games.

Cantrell was shelled out of the box in the second and was succeeded by Ehrhardt whose wildness permitted the Pirates to sew up the game in the fifth with a two-run advantage. Five hits in the eighth gave Pittsburgh a three more runs. Aldridge turned in his seventh consecutive victory.

COACH WHITNEY HAS HARD PROBLEM TO SOLVE

Football practice for the season will start in earnest this week at the Norwich Academy under the direction of Coach Courtland Whitney. During the latter part of last week the time was devoted largely to limbering-up work and preliminary workouts.

Coach Whitney has a difficult problem to solve in shaping a team having to deal mostly with green material. From last year's team there remains hardly any first string men. Captain Williams at quarterback being the man about which the team will be built. A large number have reported for practice, including Williams, Schwartz, a substitute center of last year, Mosley, a substitute guard of last year and several others who tried out for the team last year. Kramer, a track man is trying out for a backfield position and shapes up well.

The material is fairly heavy and the prospects of a bright line are good but the backfield positions and ends will be the hardest places to be filled. Pheno Tombari is out again for the quarterback berth but may eventually be shifted to another backfield position or to an end. Vincent Carlin who showed up so well in the end position last year is another veteran.

In the second match, Rockaway eliminated the Fort Oglethorpe team by the score of 13 goals to 7. Fort Oglethorp was given a handicap of five goals.

TAYLOR TO CLAIM GAME BY FORFEIT

Last night no doubt many fans were disappointed as a result of no game between the Nuggets and Hallville teams. The Hallville team put in their appearance but nothing at all was seen of George Madden and his nine and as a result Manager Taylor will claim the game by forfeit. Taylor claims that Manager Madden called him up at noon and announced that he would not appear on the field as he did not feel like playing until Tuesday night. As the Hallville team includes players from Baltic, Hanover and Yantic, Manager Taylor claims that this short notice was not sufficient to notify his players. This makes the second case within a week and really is too bad that it should happen after the schedule ran along throughout the season so smoothly.

Tonight Yantic and the Palace teams will have it out and the fans need have no fear that there won't be any game as both these teams are the strongest of rivals and will battle to the last ditch. The battery for Yantic will be 'Cannonball" Gill - Jones and "Jab" Burns and the remainder of the team will include Sweet on first, Hoxie at second, Hewitt at short, Rathbun on third and Hoxie, Marchand and Williams will play the outfield.

For the Palace either Shahan, Morin, or Gero will pitch, Jackson will catch, Mulholland will play first, Morin second, Chip Dugas at third, Nap Simcox at short and Keenan, Courbois and Morin in the outfield. The game will start at 6.15 p. m.

The recalled players are Tom Jenkins, outfielder, Danville, Three I league; Jimmy Deygin, shortstop, Bud Connolly, third baseman and Howard Wilkie, pitcher, all from the Mobile team; H. M. Welch, Flint, Michigan-Ontario leaguer and Joe Kiefer, pitcher, from Jersey City, International League.

HARTFORD SCORES VICTORY WITH LATE RALLY

HARTFORD, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Hartford scored seven runs in the sixth inning here today, coming from behind to defeat Bridgeport by a ten to six count. Because of heavy hitting and lack of control, neither Owen for Hartford or Metevier, for Bridgeport, went the route. Kenna with four hits in five attempts was the batting hero of the day while Marty Shay handled fifteen chances in the field without a slip and drove out a long triple. Score:

Hartford	000	107	02x—10

Two base hits, Kenna, Drew, Mullen, Duckett, Comiskey. 3: Schinkel. Three base hits, Shay, Roberts. Home runs, Batch.

STEADY TENNIS PREVAILS IN OPENING DAY OF NATIONAL TENNIS TOURNEY

FOREST HILLS, L. I., Sept. 14—Form prevailed throughout in the national tennis play today, not a single upset occurring. So true was the play to form that only four sets were lost by the 14 American and foreign seeded stars.

In the 27 matches played, only seven went to four sets while two others were dragged along to the limit of five sets to arrive at a decision.

William T. Tilden, 2nd, of Philadelphia, the playing through champion, had little trouble eliminating his fellow townsman, Carl Fischer, despite the score. Tilden toyed with his rival, softening up his service and his drives until pressed for a point when he applied the pressure and rode by safely.

In the first set, the champion took a bit too much liberty with his opponent and came to a position where Fischer was within a point of the set but the title-holder brought into force his dynamic service and Fischer's first and last chance to embarrass the champion by winning a set faded into the bygone. Tilden won 8-7, 6-0, 7-5.

Howard O. Kinsey, of San Francisco, Calif., No. 4 on the national ranking list, was given a scare by Masonosuke Fukuda of Japan when the little oriental took the first set at 6-4, but Kinsey came back to win the next three sets and the match.

Twelve foreigners started today's play and four dropped by the wayside, one by default and three on the field of battle. Max Decugis, captain of the French Davis cup team, was forced to default his match to Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., owing to the fact that he has booked passage for France on Wednesday. Jose M. Alonso of Sapin, Masonosuke Fukuda of Japan and H. Iwasaki of Japan were the other foreigners to be tossed into the discard.

William M. Johnston of San Francisco, favorite to reach the final round in the upper bracket, won in straight sets from Horace G. Orser of New York, national indoor junior champion, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2. Vincent Richards of Yonkers, N. Y., favored to reach the semi-finals in the lower bracket, was responsible for the defeat of one of the Japanese stars, M. Iwasaki, Richards won, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2. Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, eliminated Jose M. Alonso of Spain, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

Five defaults were pushed into the summaries, Watson M. Washburn of New York, defaulting to Leon Deturenne of Portland, Ore., owing to an injured arm. Dean Mathey of New York, W. W. Ingraham of Pawtucket, R. I., Myron B. Hutchinson of St. Paul, Minn., and Max Decugis of France were the other players who were eliminated by the default route.

Jean Borotra, French Davis cup star, took things easy to defeat Clifford E. Marsh of Buffalo, 6-0, 6-4, 6-2, despite an injury to his shoulder suffered in the first set when he crashed into an iron grating at the edge of the stand in attempting to return a sizzling placement from Marsh's racquet.

Tomorrow's feature matches follow: Rene Lacoste of France vs. Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y.; Wiley D. Brown of St. Louis vs. Brian I. C. Norton, of St. Louis; William T. Tilden 2nd of Philadelphia vs. Lucien E. Williams of Chicago; R. Norris Williams 2nd of Philadelphia vs. Nathaniel W. Niles, Boston; Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass. vs. Dr. George King, New York and William M. Johnston, San Francisco, Cal., vs. Leon Deturenne of Portland, Ore. SOLIDS

NEGRO FLASHES FIRST FAKE WORLD'S SERIES TICKET

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(A. P.)—The first of the "fake ticket" scares of the world series season, which started this morning, ended tonight.

A photostat copy of one of the precious pasteboards was found in the possession of Mercer J. Conway, a negro employe of the patent office who washes dishes for a hotel at night.

All reservations for the Washington games of the series have been accounted for, but the tickets haven't even been printed, this part of the annual event having progressed only so far as submission of the engravings to the patent office.

Edward B. Eynon, Jr., secretary of the Washington club, learned that the negro had flashed his "ticket" on co-workers and lost no time in announcing that a new design would be devised. The baseball public would not be victimized if there was any way to prevent.

Conway was questioned at considerable length by a number of serious and vitally interested gentlemen. He convinced them that his copy was singular, exclusive and purely "social" in character; that no flood of spurious tickets threatened the capital on the eve of an historic occasion. His earnest story was so convincing, in fact, that Mr. Eynon announced tonight that he had changed his mind, and would use the original engravings in having the tickets made.

A statement by Conway that an attorney had given him permission to make his copy of the ticket, however, remained interesting to the patent office. It will write the last chapter of the story with an investigation which Acting Commissioner Kernan indicated would go particularly into this phase of the matter. Disbarment from practice before the patent office, he intimated, is a possibility if any unethical act on the part of an attorney is brought to light. No formal application for copywright of the ticket had been filed, so the incident does not involve charges of misappropriation of government records.

LACOSTE IS GRANTED AN EXTENSION OF TIME

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 14—(AP)—Rene Lacoste of the French Davis cup team was late today granted an extension of time to report for military duty in his native country, thus allowing him to continue play in the National tennis championship, here.

Following word from his father that he had been called for immediate duty, he appealed to the French military authorities. The reply permitted the 20 year old star to remain until next Tuesday when he will sail for France.

The original order required Lacoste to join the French motor crops at once. The penalty for failure to do so being demotion.

EASTERN CONN. BOYS TO STAR WITH AGGIE TEAM

(Special to the Bulletin.)

STORRS, Conn., Sept. 14—The Connecticut Aggies 1925 football season got under way on Monday, when the squad of Varsity Coach Sumner A. Dole reports at Storrs. Due to the New England College Conference rule which prohibits a team from starting practice until tens days before the opening of college, the Nutmeg Agrarians will not actually begin work until Tuesday. College begins at Storrs, Sept. 23, with the Aggies opening with Wesleyan at Middletown the following day This leaves Dole only ten days in which to whip his team into shape.

With eleven lettermen of the 1924 squad expected back along with a number of capable substitutes and likely prospects from last year's undefeated freshman team, Connecticut's chances for another strong team this year seem good.

Five regulars from Connecticut's stonewall line that was a big factor in the undefeated season of 1924 will report Monday. These include Captain B. Frink of New Britain, one of the best ends ever developed at Storrs; Fleischman, who teams up with Brinkgood of Danielson, who as a guard ranks among the best in the smaller New England colleges; Nanfeldt, tackle; and Daly, center.

Zollin and McAllister, tackle and guard respectively, while not regulars last year are lettermen of experience and they will be able to fill the gaps left vacant by Eddy and Eyre, who graduated last June. This means Dole will have a letter man for every forward position, and with a large amount of substitute material available, the Aggies should have a strong line.

Dole's biggest problem will be his backfield, where he will have to fill gaps caused by graduation, withdrawals from college, and faculty ineligibility lists. Schofield and Moreland, who were alternated between half and quarter are the only regulars available, though Filmer and Makofski, both lettermen of experience, are being counted upon heavily.

Eddy, who starred for the freshman team at halfback is the outstanding prospect of the yearling team. He is fast and a shifty open field runner, an exceptionally good punter and dropkicker, and an accurate thrower and receiver of forward passes. Weighing close to 175 pounds and possessing a deceptive change of pace, he is expected to figure prominently in the Aggies attack.

Other sophomores who are expected to show up well are Heller of Willimantic, who as a yearling put up an aggressive game at end; Logan, who captained the freshman team from a tackle berth; Brown, fullback; and Wilkes, guard.

Williams, former Killingly High athlete who starred for the Aggie freshmen at fullback last year has been declared ineligible by the faculty because of scholastic difficulties. This is the first severe blow to the Aggie team this year, for Williams was being counted upon to fill a backfield berth regularly. As a member of the yearling team, the powerful Danielson boy ripped opposing lines wide open, being a consistent ground gainer against every opponent. He is big and fast, and would have given the Connecticut backfield much needed weight. Williams only missed making the required number of points by a narrow margin, and though ineligible he will return to Storrs with the opening of college Sept. 23.

Dole will have some assistance, at least for the first two or three weeks of practice. Freshman Coach Alexander's squad will not start work until late in the month, and until that time he will work with the backfield candidates. Art Mitchell '22, who captained the Aggies for two years from a tackle berth, will be on hand for the first two weeks, working with the tackles and guards. Elmore Ashman '23, former guard and now an employee of the college, will be able to assist Dole throughout the season, working with the line. It is hoped that from time to time former Aggie stars will be able to return for short periods to assist Dole.

Connecticut is a charter member of the New England College Conference on Intercollegiate Athletics, which in addition include the Universities of Maine and New Hampshire, the Massachusetts Agricultural College, and Rhode Island State College. As such, the athletic authorities at Storrs are heartily in favor of the eligibility rules of the Conference, which in the beginning of its third year of existence finds much favor at Storrs.

When the conference idea was first proposed in 1922, there were many at Storrs who felt that the strict eligibility rules, including the ban on freshman participation in varsity contests, would work greatly to the disadvantage of the Connecticut institution. With less than 150 men in the three upper classes, many thought it would be impossible to develop a strong team from so small a student body. The athletic council of the college thought otherwise, however, and in company with the other state colleges of New England, Vermont excepted, the Aggies went into the conference. The results obtained under the new regime have been very satisfactory at Storrs, and the undefeated Connecticut football team of 1924 proved conclusively that a winning team could be developed from a small student body. There were 132 men in the three upper classes at Storrs last year, and the football squad numbered approximately thirty men.

The schedule; Sept. 26, Wesleyan at Middletown; Oct. 3, New York University at New York; Oct. 10, Maine at Storrs; Oct. 17, Massachusetts Aggies at Storrs; Oct. 24, Tufts at Medford; Oct. 31, Manhattan at Storrs; Nov. 7, New Hampshire at Durham; Nov. 14, Rhode Island at Kingston.

OUTSIDERS FEATURE OPENING DAY AT SYRACUSE

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 14—(A. P.)—Provident Trust, Peter Coley and Kentucky Todd, Jr., were the winners on the opening day of the Grand Circuit meeting at the New York State Fair here today. Provident Trust, a rank outsider in the pools, hung up a straight heat victory in the special 2:15 pace for $30 while Kentucky Todd, Jr., duplicated the feat in the 2:14 trot. Peter Coley finished third to Peter S in the first heat of the 2:08 trot but found his speed in the second and third heats for victory.

Heavy rains on Sunday made the dirt track too heavy for use and all the races were run over the seven eighths mile cinder oval. Tomorrow's feature is the $10,000 Empire State stake for 2:08 trotters. The summaries:

NEW WORLD'S RECORD SET IN RIFLE SHOOTING

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Sept. 14. —(AP)—A new world's record was established here today when E. F. Shearer, Renove, Pa., scored 398 out of a possible 400 in the international small bore Dewar team match. His mark is one point higher than that of Sergeant O. M. Shrivr, U. S. M. C., Washington, last year. It is the third successive year the mark has been lowered.

The United States team of which Shearer was high man, piled up a record score in the match with 7791 out of a possible 8,000, 12 points better than last year.

The winner cannot be determined until the British team, which fires on its home ranges, reports. The Canadian and Australian teams, also eligible, did not compete.

Shearer also won the small bore fifty yard metallic sight match with a possible three hundred.

The Herrick trophy went to the California civilian rifle team. Its 1758 out of possibly 1,800 was ten points better than the marine corps. The Cuban team landed seventh.

Corporal H. C. Walker, marines, won the timed fired patrol match with 151 out of a possible 200; and the slow fire patrol match was won by J. J. Dunn, Springfield, Mass., with 184 out of a possible 200.

The National Rifle association grand aggregate match was awarded to Corporal Edward Fuery, marines, who scored 636 against 633 for Lieutenant Pierson E. Conradt, and 633 for Corporal Harry L. Nasson, also of the marines.

WINDHAM TO HAVE GOOD TEAM THIS FALL

It looks like another banner season for the Windham High school football eleven from the appearance of forty candidates for the team who have been responding to practice in preparation for the coming encounter with Stonington. Coach Callahan is too modest to make too glowing predictions but admits that the outlook is gratifying. The aerial tactics which played such an important part in the winning of a championship record for Windham last season is being perfected this year. What Windham lacks in beef and brawn she will make up in generalism in the field and strategy.

MAC FARLANE WILL RETIRE AFTER MATCH WITH BARNES

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Willie MacFarlane, national open golf champion, announced today that following his match with Jim Barnes in Washington Thursday, the final in the "world championship," he would retire from the game for the season, because of a recurrence of the sinus trouble which so affected his eyes three years ago that it was thought his career was at an end.

MacFarlane said that first indications of the ailment's return came to him while playing in Canada recently. It became so pronounced during the past few days that he consulted physicians and was advised to quit the links until next year.

He has withdrawn from a match scheduled for Thursday at the Sandy Burr club near Boston in which he and Barnes were to appear and has delegated Johnny Farrell to play in his stead.

FRENCH FEATHERWEIGHT ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Sept

WESTERLY

Charged with maintaining a common nuisance where gambling went on and noisy people congregated, Antonio Pupillo of 53 Pierce street was presented Sunday night before Acting Judge M. Walter Flynn, Jr., in a special session of Third District court, on complaint of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown. The defendant pleaded nolo. The case was continued to January 16th and he was not fined but was told that the police would watch him and bring him to court if he did not quit the business. He was released upon the payment of costs of $8.50.

Pupillo's place, a rear room at 53 Pierce street, was visited by Patrolman George H. FATHER ATTEMPTS ASSAULT— HELD FOR CRIMINAL COURT

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 14—This morning, in the Stonington town court, Paul A. Wunch of Hinckley Hill road, Pawcatuck, was brought before the court by Solicitor McKenna on the complaint that on Sept. 12th attempted to assault with intent to ravish, feloniously, his 10-year old daughter. Attorney McKenna stated to the court that this case was of such a nature, that he felt satisfied that he public at large had absolutely no interest, outside of a morbid curiosity and he would ask that all not interested in the case be excluded, so the case was heard behind closed doors.

When put to plea, Wunch replied, "I'll say 'guilty'". Henrietta Wunch, his wife, the first witness, testified that she resided with her husband and family just over Hinckley Hill. Sunday morning she learned from her 10-year old daughter, what had taken place the previous Saturday night. She felt ashamed to give details, but she went into the house, where her husband was asleep and confronting him with the statements was told by him that she was crazy. She then went to Officer C. Wilson Brown across the street and asked that he take action in the matter. Sunday evening Night Patrolman Vernon Burdick and Constable A. D. Hill were called to the house. When the officers approached Wunch went through the house and out back in the dark between sheds and into tall grass. The officers went out the front of the house and went in opposite directions around the house to the rear. Being afraid of what would happen if left alone, Constable Hill remained while Officer Burdick went for a warrant. While he was gone, Wunch attempted to return to the house to seize witness. Constable Hill attempted to grab Wunch but he escaped in the dark, though not until after the constable had shot twice at him.

Patrolman Vernon Burdick of Pawcatuck told of receiving the call to the Wunch house and in company with Constable Hill visited the place between 8:30 and 9 o'clock. After the defendant escaped in the dark, witness left Hill on guard and it was during this time that Wunch reappeared and the shots were fired. Again returning to Pawcatuck the police of Norwich, New London, Groton State Barracks and Westerly police were notified to pick up the man if found. New London police reported at 11:30 that Wunch had been taken into custody there and the officer went to New London and returned with Wunch, who was lodged in the Liberty street lockup, from which place witness brought him into court this morning.

Dr. Michael H. Scanlon, physician, testified that he was called to attend the girl and from his examination was convinced that a criminal assault had been attempted. From what the girl told him, she had gone into the house to change her clothes while the mother was away and the other children sent to neighbors with a note. The attempted assault was made while the father was seated in a chair; he told her to say nothing about it and that when she was alone in the house another attempt would be made.

Town Solicitor McKenna asked that probable cause be found and that Wunch be held in not less than $5,000 bail for the session of superior court. Judge Wilcox found probable cause and Wunch was bound over to the criminal term of superior court for New London county, which convenes on the first Tuesday in January, 1926. Mittimus was issued and Officer Burdick took the prisoner, still manacled and limping from an injured leg in the attempt to escape Sunday night, to the New London County Jail.

While Constable Hill was in the house Wunch attempted to enter saying that he wanted to get his hat and coat. The constable thought that the accused might attempt to get his gun, which he had found in the house and which was of a German make and unfamiliar to the officer. In examining it, the gun was accidentally discharged and the shot went into the ceiling of the room.

Old Cluey Watson was over to town the other day, having been induced to apply for an insurance on his life. He went down to Norwich in the afternoon for the two-fold purpose of getting a number of trapping supplies, and to be tested for possible blood pressure. The old woodsman borrowed an automobile in Voluntown, and he has a driver's license that he took out before he sold his Pierce Arrow. Cluey can drive pretty well in the back country roads, and dodge the stumps in a wood lot, but at Franklin square he got a little as he says, "befuzticated." He later told a friend from Rixtown, that it must be a pleasant experience to visit at traffic cop's home, and see him get bossed about. The doctor was away over to Wyassup pond on a fishing trip but Cluey went to a ball game up to Taftville and got all the blood pressure test he needed, with "three men on, and two out and two and three on the batter."

Passers along the country roads Sunday, stopped to admire and perhaps to gather, the beautiful wild fall asters, which are now in their finest bloom. Some species of golden rod are also at their best.

Judge John Barry dealt summary justice to a couple of old offenders in Griswold town court, Monday morning. Pete Rondeau got a 30 day jail sentence for assault and battery. He visited a house in the upper part of the town Sunday, and became so objectionable that he was forcibly ejected. Not liking the way affairs were breaking he seized a large stone, and when Ustaria Genit came to the door he hit her with it squarely in the head.

A count against Rondeau for drunkenness was nolled. When he saw a jail sentence ahead, he declared that the woman sold him the bottle of "shine" which was taken from him by the officer when he was arrested Sunday.

Ustaria Genit will have to stand for prosecution for violation of Amendment XVIII.

Mike Kargul, alias Black Mike, a former stoker, employed in town, also drew a 3 day jail sentence. He, not certain of his children, have been employed in Willimantic for some time, the strike. It has been Mike's week end custom for a considerable spell, to come to his home in Jewett City and beat up his wife, ripping things up generally. Thirty days will help some toward abating such practice.

Monday the humidity cleared in mid-afternoon, yet the mercury stood at 80 degrees at three p. m.— During the early evening a cool breeze from the north, made life worth living again, with the quick silver at 70 degrees.

PRUSSIAN DECREE DIRECTS LICENSING MUSIC TEACHERS

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—(AP)—All music teachers in Prussia are henceforth to be licensed, according to the latest decree issued by the government.

"A degree of order and uniformity of qualification in a world hitherto beset by many charlatans and opportunists may be expected from such a decree," says the Vorwaerts, which describes how private musical instruction had become a very negligible quantity during the war and subsequently in the inflation period and that on the whole the government unfortunately had never considered music as significant for educational purposes.

The decree mentions that "a decisive change may now be expected in musical education." All private music teachers under a certain age, providing they have not graduated from some accredited musical institution, will be obliged to pass an examination. They will then be supplied with an official license to teach music. Without such a license no teacher is to be allowed to give instructions.

Then, by merely winging through the mist, become affected with the strange notion of FLY-TOX, and die. This mist lingers just long enough to do its work. It then evaporates and leaves only a pleasant, clean odor. Walls, rugs or drapes are not stained. FLY-TOX is harmless to humans. Three colorless, elusive flies that invade the most carefully screened homes, are quickly and easily eliminated with FLY-TOX.

GERMAN THEATRICAL STARS REBEL AGAINST PAY OFFERED

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The questions "what is a star in the theatrical profession?" and "who shall determine who are the stars?" are only two points of the many sided controversy between the German Theatrical Association and the performers which has gone into the courts. The association fixed $75 as the maximum salary for "prominent artists" and then was instrumental in naming a special commission to determine what is a "prominent artist?" and who is entitled to the maximum salary?

In the first place those who had been demanding and getting more than $75 for a performance rebelled and in the second place the stars refused to recognize the special commission.

The two sides went into court, where counsel for the association intimated that the stars, so far as their profession is concerned, still were living in the period of inflation, judging from the demands made by them. These, the counsel said, ranged from a guarantee of 8,000 marks and 30 per cent. of the proceeds up to 17,500 marks. The latter amount was named as the price for a performance demanded by Madame Jeritza.

As a sort of compromise the court suggested that the salary limitations for "prominents" expire July 30, 1926, but the association flatly refused. Another effort to reach some sort of settlement will be made in court at a later date.

TRICK ON RUSSIAN PEASANTS RESULTS IN PRISON TERMS

MINSK, Sept. 14.—(AP)—An amazing trial illustrating the ignorance and superstition of the Russian peasantry recently was held in this district. In order to increase the income of the village priest and to strengthen his authority over the local peasantry a group of village parishioners resolved to frighten the peasantry with the pretense of a "real" devil in the village.

A village boy was dressed up to resemble a devil. During the night he went to the village dwellers to frighten them. He was instructed to carry out secretly slight damages to peasants' property. This went on for several months, and the ignorant peasants took it all in earnest, as a penalty for their sins. They flocked to the church, induced the priest to hold special services and organized common prayers and religious processions.

A special commission had to be sent from the district town to investigate the peasants' troubles, which were brought to an end only by the arrest of the "devil". The priest and the local authorities were placed on trial and sentenced to many years imprisonment.

FIFTY LEADERS OF LISBON BOMB OUTRAGES DEPORTED

LISBON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The head of the criminal investigating police has become one of the most popular men in Lisbon because of his activities in rounding up the leaders in the recent bomb outrages. As a result 50 of the most dangerous extremists have been deported to west Africa.

Little effort had been made to apprehend the trouble makers until the attempted assassination of Colonel Ferreira de Amaral, head of the Lisbon police, who was shot on a street corner. Only one of the group of assailants was arrested at the time, but rigid investigations soon revealed the identity of the others and all were taken into custody. This proved an easy task when the police decided to act, because the leaders, having escaped arrest after previous outrages became bolder with each succeeding one and did not take the trouble to hide from the police.

Colonel Amaral's fine record in the World War won for him general admiration and the police of all sections of Lisbon joined in a concerted move to apprehend his assailants.

The investigations revealed that the terrorists in addition to the bomb outrages had been guilty of robberies and extortions, it having been shown that one of the Lisbon banks had given large sums of money to the men under threat or damage by a bomb.

Those Winning Smiles

which mean so much . . . commercially, socially, are gained this new way with gleaming, white teeth

Don't believe your teeth are "naturally" dull. Just accept this 10-day test. See how dazzling white teeth and healthy gums come when film coats go.

HERE is a simple test that proves the truth of the recent dental statement that dull, "off-color" teeth can be lightened amazingly, given dazzling whiteness.

In a few days you can work a great change in the color of your teeth. Can give them clear and charming gleam.

There is a new way in tooth and gum care. A way that removes the dingy film that clouds your teeth. A film that absorbs discolorations and keeps teeth dingy looking.

Just run your tongue across your teeth. And you will feel that film. It is the great enemy of pretty teeth and healthy gums.

It clings to the teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It forms a breeding place for germs. It lets your gums open to bacterial attack, your teeth open to decay. These germs, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Old-time methods failed in successfully fighting film. So ugly teeth were common. You must remove it. Ordinary brushing won't do it satisfactorily. Under it are the clear, whiter teeth you envy in others.

Now modern science has perfected an effective film combatant, called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film, then removes it. It firms and protects gums; beautifies teeth quickly and correctly.

Harold Lloyd's latest is a Laugh Sensation

Harold Lloyd is certainly entitled to feel proud over his accomplishment of The Freshman, which sent audiences at the Palace theater yesterday out onto the street limp with laughing. The laughs start gently at first and work up so gradually and evenly that you don't realize what is happening to you until you find yourself sobbing, "Oh! Oh!" for more breath! Too hearty laughter is a joyous sort of agony no one resents.

The freshman, Harold Lamb, enters college with queer notions as to how a student should act to become the most popular chap on the campus. One of his ideas, gleaned from a movie, is that one should do a fancy jig step every time he is introduced to anyone. This jig, and the fact that he tells every new acquaintance that he's just a regular fellow and they should step right up and call him "Speedy," attracts the immediate attention of the schools' chief jokester, and after that poor Harold has no rest.

In the hope of popularity he does everything he is told to do. He attempts to make the football team, and is made water boy. He gives a big dance and is forced to attend in a suit that is only basted together. He makes a speech to the entire student body assembled to hear the Dean's address. And he becomes the world's greatest single retail buyer of ice cream cones. Finally, however, he gets into a football game, and this scrimmage brings The Freshman to a finish that is as exciting and thrilling as it is funny.

Everyone in the cast is excellent, and the college boys and co-eds look like the real thing—the best looking bunch of live wire youngsters you ever saw away from a campus. All hail to The Freshman! Let no one pass him by unseen!

Not "just another show" but a show that stands above the rest is what you'll see when you visit the Broadway theater today or Wednesday.

The B. F. Keith Vaudeville program of five acts is about the best one could want to see.

Vanlane and Veronica offer Pictures in sand. They make pictures from various colored sands better than most artists can do with paint and brush.

Evelyn Earle and Harry Matthews in All Mixed Up, have a clever skit with comedy, song and dance.

Western and Lovell are two girls with voices that are a delight to hear. Some comedy is also introduced.

Frank Cook and Jean Vernon in Oh, Amy is a comedy offering with a real comedy patter.

Geraldine Miller and Co. close the program with a good variety novelty.

There is a tremendous thrill in Hunt Stromberg's The Fire Patrol, the Chadwick special being shown at the Broadway theater, when the valient little fleet of fire boats brave a terrible storm to save a helpless vessel.

This is the first time in the history of films that the Fire Patrol has been utilized in a motion picture, and it is not only the originality of the idea, but also the insight which it gives into the bravery of the gallant men who give their lives to save the lives of their brothers that makes this sequence of unusual interest.

Dodge Service Station

The Jordan Auto Co. announces that the Dodge Service station in Norwich has been moved to the new location at 410 Main street, Norwich, directly at the Preston end of Preston bridge. The building has been entirely remodelled so that it is now ideally adapted to its use. The basement, or lower floor, access to which is from Talman street, contains 4,500 square feet of well lighted floor space which provides excellent facilities for a well equipped service station. An enormous yard containing about 5,000 square feet, partially concreted, is provided directly in the rear of the service station so that it will not be necessary for cars to be left on the street.

On the floor above, which faces Main street, is an attractive sales room which will permit the company to maintain a display of new cars. On this same floor, directly at the rear of the salesroom is located the office and parts department, in which at all times a very complete stock of service parts and supplies will be carried.

Sale On Broad Street.

Real Estate Broker John A. Moran has sold for William J. La Morey the modern eight room cottage located on the corner of Broad and Spalding street. The new owners, Louis and William and Gregor Stavon make their purchase as their future home.

Makes Pumping Up Tires Unnecessary.

L. A. Hughes of 2516 Monroe, Chicago, Ill., has perfected a new air-tight valve cap that enables auto owners to pump up their tires once and never touch them again until punctured or worn out. Leading tire manufacturers, after thorough tests, have approved Mr. Hughes' invention and banished the old theory that air escapes through rubber. One inflation lasts the life of a tire, and tire mileage is doubled. These caps retail for $1.25 for set of five. The inventor wants agents and will send proof and sample Free. Write him today.

NORWICH MAN TRUCKING ALCOHOL ARRESTED OUTSIDE NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14—Louis Goroditsky, 385 North Main street, Norwich, will be given a hearing before Judge Frederick N. Dimmock in the Waterford town court Wednesday afternoon charged with violation of the liquor law, the specific charge against Goroditsky being transportation. The accused, who was taken into custody Saturday night by State Police Officer Joseph Bobnick, Groton barracks, furnished a surety on his bond of $1000 for his court appearance.

Goroditsky was operating his automobile, a Ford commercial car, through Waterford, in an endeavor to transfer its contents of 100 gallons of alcohol from New Haven to Norwich. The machine was observed by Officer Bobnick, who had been scanning the highway for violators of the automobile law, the Ford car being noticably heavily laden. Bobnick ordered Goroditsky to bring the truck to a stop. The officer examined the contents of the vehicle and found the machine to contain 20 cans, each, of five-gallon capacity, of alcohol. The machine and its contents was seized and placed in storage.

Mrs. Harold Beaudreau and infant son, of R. F. D., 6, Norwich; Mrs. William Holloway, 12 Main street; Master Clayton Gallup, 70 Mountain avenue; Mrs. John E. Ryan and infant daughter, 15 Garfield avenue; Paul Feeley, Fairview avenue, Groton; Joseph Marshall, United States Coast Guard destroyer, Cunningham; Miss Ethel Weir, Mystic; Robert Lincoln, Westerly; and Lawrence Vera, Jr., Uncasville, the last named being a youth who was hit in the neck by a stray bullet from a revolver of a holiday celebrator last July 4th, while walking in Montville, were patients dismissed today at Lawrence-Memorial hospital.

The funeral of Mrs. Julia Trowbridge was held this morning at 9:30 o'clock from the residence of her sister, Mrs. Mary A. Drea, on Crystal avenue. In St. Mary's Star of the Sea church at 10 o'clock, a high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan. The bearers were Edward and Robert Drea, John Kane and James P. Shea. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth J. Bailey, widow of George T. Bailey, formerly of Waterford, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 13 Ocean avenue, the services being conducted by Rev. Joseph A. Elder, pastor of Huntington street Baptist church. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The three days old son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Smith, of Willetts avenue, died at Home Memorial hospital Sunday. The funeral was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of the child's parents, with burial in St. Mary's cemetery.

Emma C., widow of Byron Newbury, died Sunday at her residence, 165 Lincoln avenue. Mrs. Newbury was of advanced years and is survived by a daughter, Miss Florence Newbury, of this city.

Ida P. Allen has sold a parcel of land on Huntington street to Emily S. Prentis.

Sidney H. Miner has sold a tract of land on Evelyn street extension to the Connecticut Power company.

Following a conference between City Manager William A. Holt and Acting Captain of Police James C. Sullivan today, it was decided that the members of the police department receive instructions in the handling of firearms and that their revolvers should be inspected twice monthly, on the 1st and 15th. The instruction and inspection will be in charge of the sergeant on duty at the hour of inspection and instruction.

Clarence Hopkins and Lance Thomas had a great time Sunday, but they had a greater one today in the police court, when they were accused of intoxication and breach of the peace. Thomas said that Clarence was drunk and that he (Thomas), was taking him to his home on Union street. Clarence admitted the fact that he was drunk but that he committed a breach of the peace—never. Then the tale was unfolded and it was told by Frank S. Jones, the father-in-law of Clarence, it was to the effect that Clarence had been on a drunk for months, that he was "no good," that he beat his wife and that he broke a window in the entrance door of the Jones home that cost Mr. Jones $100. Hopkins accounted for the breaking of the door window by saying that when he demanded admittance to his home the door was closed in his face and he put out his hand to prevent this. Then he went through the glass. He skipped all allusion to striking his wife. Jones declared that Hopkins was not wanted at his home and intimated that he would not be tolerated there. Judge Prince told Hopkins that he must pay $10 for breach of the peace and a like sum for intoxication. Thomas was taxed $5 for his part in the affair, which appeared to be that of a Good Samaritan. Both raised the money to settle though Hopkins found it a task to get together about $30.

Horace Cross and Navarre Duane were on Bank street yesterday with a load with which it was quite difficult to navigate. Patrolman Corcoran saw them reclining on the street and as they ran before the wind they sailed and jibed. Then Navarre reached a hydrant and leaned over it yelling like a Comanche. For Sunday afternoon that was considered badly out of character so the pair was taken into custody. Duane whispered to the police officer that Cross had been down in Smith street where he had secured a quart of moonshine. The liquor seemed to have more effect on the fellow that said he didn't drink anything than it did on the man who was accused of having bought it. The stories were so mixed that Judge Prince accepted the testimony of the policeman as the true recitation of the facts and fined the pair $10 each. With moonshine at about $12 a quart the experience of the men was quite expensive.

Frank J. Connell, a sailor in the coast guard service, was fined $5 for intoxication. He said he drank a little too much.

James Bell, on his way to the Learned Mission, stopped by the way and was found asleep in a door-way. He told a reasonable story and thus secured a suspension of judgment.

Joseph Washington was charged by Louise Chase with having taken her pocket book from under her arm as he escorted her along Main street and with failing to produce it when the young miss demanded that he should return that which he had taken. Louise informed her mother of what had occurred and she in turn complained to the police. As Joseph has been accused of being in the danger zone when other things have disappeared from sections he frequented, he was taken into custody. It developed that he had been keeping company with Louise and he said the pocket book contained only 12 cents. "You abandon your attentions to Louise," said the judge and then he smiled the case. Louise and her mamma left the court room, apparently having attained the purpose for which Joseph was arrested.

Steven Boshka, with a weakness for chastising his wife at times, was in court accused of that offense today. His case went over for a month, as there is a probability that he may be shown that he must change his ways or go to jail.

Mary Peters was charged with a breach of the peace in offensive conduct, noise and behavior, but circumstances led to the case being continued to Wednesday.

Agostino Minucci, 37 Pacific street, of the firm of Minucci Brothers, carpenters and builders, complained to the police late this afternoon that last night thieves visited a house at the corner of Willetts avenue and Shaw street, which the firm is building and besides damaging the structure, stole 60 feet of ceiling board, a quantity of paint and several paint brushes.

Three sailors, who were somewhat under the influence of liquor visited the shore store of William Kaplan, 57½ Main stret, late this afternoon, and after annoying the proprietor, one of them stole a woman's pump. The theft was discovered immediately following the departure of the sailors and complaint was made to Traffic Officer William Grahma, on duty, corner of Crystal avenue and Main street. The officer, with Patrolman Edward Daniels quickly located the sailors and placed them under arrest. The shoe was found on one of the tars. All three will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning, one charged with theft and the other two with intoxication.

A public service automobile, owned by the Yellow Cab company and driven by Harry G. Young, 113 Cedar Grove avenue, in backing at the corner of Ocean and Blydenburg avenues, late this afternoon struck a machine that was motionless beside the curb and owned by G. C. Hern, 444 Montauk avenue. The later car was damaged.

Funeral services for James Linton were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at his residence, 13 Amity street, Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ officiating. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Paul Epps, son of Mrs. John Epps, 32 Walden avenue, and Miss Assunta Anna Selegna, daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Selegna, 78 Blackhall street, were married this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The nuptial mass was sung by Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends. John Epps, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Ella Selegna, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Upon the conclusion of a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Epps will reside at 12 Barrows court.

Tax Collector Allen C. Richards made it known today that he is to make a determined effort to collect a major portion of the back personal tax. As there are several hundred delinquents of the levy of 1925 and other levies, Collector Richards declares that he will cause the name of those who have failed to pay the tax to be handed to Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky within a few days and urge that prosecutions be started. If prosecutions begin, the delinquents will be compelled to pay the tax in addition to the fine and costs imposed by the court.

Mrs. Benjamin T. Marshall, wife of President Marshall of Connecticut College, and her son Benjamin T. Marshal Jr., have returned to their home, 146 Mohegan avenue, having spent several weeks at Hanover, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Dundore, of Paoli, Pa., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frances Beattie, to Carey Comstock, director of music. The wedding will take place at Bridge Lea, the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Stanhope at Paoli Oct. 3. Miss Beattie is well known in Philadelphia and has many friends in New London.

CHILD'S BODY IN HARBOR— COULD NOT BE RECOVERED

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14. — The Thames river again gave up its dead late this afternoon, but the body was not recovered, for as rescuers were about to attempt to make it fast to a boat the body sank from view and all efforts to recover it were unsuccessful. The body was that of a child, but it could not be determined whether it was a male of female. So far as is known there are no children missing from this city.

Shortly after 4 o'clock, laborers employed by the Central Coal company at work on the company's piers, rear of Bank street, observed the body floating about 150 feet off the dock. Two of the laborers took a row boat and after towing about five minutes the body was reached. It was floating face upward and as one of the laborers was about to reach for the clothing, the bow of the boat struck the corpse, causing it to disappear and it sank to the bottom of the river. The laborers waited for the body to come to the surface, and when it failed to appear grappling irons were used, but this method did not result in the body being brought up.

TEACHER, STUDENT, INJURED, WHEN MACHINE STRIKES TREE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14. — Miss Mary Sullivan, 29, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sullivan, 28 Alger place, a teacher in one of the public schools of Hartford, and Miss Margaret McCarthy, 18, daughter of Mrs. Margaret McCarthy, 28 Steward street, a student at Willimantic Normal school, were perhaps fatally injured this morning when the machine owned by Miss Sullivan and which contained Miss McCarthy and her sister, Miss Eleanor McCarthy, also a student at Willimantic Normal school, collided with a tree on Williams street. Miss Sullivan and Miss Margaret McCarthy are now patients at Lawrence hospital suffering from possible fractured skulls and tonight at the institution it was stated that the condition of the patients was considered serious as neither had regained consciousness. Miss Eleanor McCarthy escaped with slight injuries, sustaining only minor bruises and suffered slightly from shock.

Miss Sullivan started to drive the Misses McCarthy to their studies at the Willimantic school about 6.30 o'clock and after reaching Willimantic Miss Sullivan intended to drive to her school at Hartford. When the machine reached a point on Williams street, a short distance from Mohegan avenue it began to skid badly, because of the slippery condition of the concrete highway due to rain and falling leaves. Before Miss Sullivan could get the car under control it plunged off the side of the highway and crashed against a tree. The force of the collision was terrific and caused the car to overturn. Miss Sullivan and the Misses McCarthy were hurled from the car, Miss Eleanor McCarthy landing on her sister and Miss Sullivan, the latter two striking the highway on their heads. Passing autoists went to the assistance of the young ladies and as Miss Sullivan and Miss Margaret McCarthy were observed to have sustained serious injury they were rushed to the hospital.

SALEM YOUTH ARRESTED— CHARGE IS ROBBERY

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14.—Theron E. Morgan, a Salem youth, was arrested late this afternoon by State Police Officer Giles Watson, Groton barracks, charged with breaking and entering and robbery. He was brought to the New London police station and made a prisoner, but later was released in the custody of his bondsman, his father, Griswold H. Morgan, on order of Justice of the Peace John E. Hackett, of Salem. Young Morgan will be given a hearing in Salem within a day or two.

CITY TO BE MORE STRICT ABOUT DINING CAR PERMITS

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14—The city council held a brief meeting this evening. All the members were present. Petitions for three garages and four dwellings were granted, but an application for the privilege of erecting a dining car that will be part car, and a portion building in that it will have cement walls was held up till such time as the matter can be investigated and assurances be given that toilet facilities will be provided.

The city manager said the experience of the city with dining car permits had not been satisfactory, in that when permission was given for the establishment of a dining car on Church street the conditions agreed to by the owners of the car had not been lived up to. He said that an ordinance covering the matter was being drawn up by the director of law and that it will be adopted before further permits are granted. He also pointed out that the present building used as a restaurant was built upon a section of land which the city owns and that it was desirable to have that matter settled so that there should be no dispute as to it later. It was not, he said, the purpose of the applicants for the dining car to build upon the land of the city. Aside from the arrangement for toilet facilities, the application of the owners of the land to be used for the dining car was satisfactory. He advised the council to be positive as to just what was to be provided for toilet facilities before the desired permission was granted. The application was laid aside for further report by the city manager.

Resolutions as to sewers on Como street, extending to the center of Fuller street, on Pierce street west from Main street and on Marshall Place were considered and put in the way of adoption, that on Marshall place was perfected. The Colman street sewer is to cost $800, of which the city is to pay $283.

Councilor Streeter reported that the claim of Lina Beckwith against the city had been settled and Miss Beckwith had been paid $400. Her receipt for the money was read to the council and approved of.

An amendment to the building code providing for tanks for gasoline and inflammable fluid storage was read for the first time. It provides against the use of tanks to which return pipes are connected, unless such arrangement of pipes has the approval of the fire marshal.

Councilor Woodruff, for the committee on public works, reported progress on the matter of Grenada street and between B. L. Armstrong, saying that a meeting was to be held next Saturday at which it was probable a result would be arrived at. Mr. Woodruff also reported an amendment to the ordinance concerning rates for sewer use and for water in which the water rates were changed. The amendment had its first reading.

Owners of property at the four corners of Norwood avenue and Briggs street petitioned for more street lights. The petition was signed by J. J. Howard and ten others. It was referred to the city manager with power to grant or deny. Doc Gordon asked for a sign for his office, and that was also referred to the city manager.

Councilor Woodruff asked as to what action had been taken to put the city under the operation of the zoning ordinance. His query brought from Councilor Whiton the statement that information was awaited from the director of law. He also said that the zoning commission must call public meetings in the several districts before any action could be taken and made it known, that in some cities where zoning was in practice difficulties had been experienced and the operation of the law was under difficulties. He said that in one case the zoning law had been overthrown. He desired opinion from the Director of Law before proceeding and was positive that public meetings must be called by the zoning commission, which was now in a position to call them, before any action should be taken.

Councilor Fox asked for information as to the mandamus proceedings assigned for a hearing before the superior court Wednesday next. He said that no report had been made to the council on the matter. At the special meeting action had been postponed to the last regular meeting, but then no mention of the mandamus action was taken. He desired to know the attitude of the council if he was to appear at the hearing, and said that all members of the council had been summoned to appear. It was finally agreed that the council had not denied the petition of Messrs. Kenyon and Shapiro, out of which the mandamus proceedings occurred, but that the council had simply not acted on the petition. The council adjourned without imparting any information as to its attitude.

TWO THIEVES BOUND OVER FOR GATELY-BRENNAN BREAK

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14.—Jose Reyes and John Batencourd, the two South Americans, arrested Sunday morning charged with breaking and entering the clothing store of Gately & Brennan, 136 Bank street, were presented in the police court this morning and bound over to the next term of the police court in bonds of $3000 each. Philip Morgan, of Providence, who was also arrested Sunday, was detained as a material witness and he was held in bail of $1000 to insure his presence in court when Reyes and Batencourt are tried.

The police in New York are now seeking the arrest of two other South Americans who escaped when Patrolman Henry Hick discovered the crooks at work. One of them, it is believed, stole the $277 that was taken from the store safe.

There is a possibility that Reyes and Batencourt will be brought into the present term of the superior court on a bench warrant.

A check-up of the clothing that the crooks had collected and were getting ready for removal from the store when they were interrupted by the officer showed 17 suits of mens cloths, valued at $605; a woman's coat, valued at $55 and four dresses valued at $76.50.

MONTVILLE MAN FOUND WITH 50-GALLON STILL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14.—Joseph Skakowski, Montville, was taken into custody late Sunday night by Sergeant Clifford Gorgas, Groton state police, and Officers Albright and Whitmarsh charged with violation of the liquor law. This forenoon Skakowski was before Justice of the Peace Oscar Church at Montville, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to six months in jail, but the execution of the sentence was suspended. Skakowski was arrested following a raid upon his home shortly before midnight, when a 50-gallon still was found, together with about 40 gallons of mash.

Juan Bebek, also of Montville, was taken into custody charged with beating and robbing Samuel Turovitz, of Fishers Island, Sunday night at Montville. The charge against Bebek could not be substantiated by corroborative evidence, but Bebek was convicted of breach of the peace and was fined $5 and costs. Turovitz was also fined $1 and costs on the same charge.

Turovitz declared that he had been to a place in Montville where he obtained plenty of liquor and after he became intoxicated he was thrown from the place and beaten and robbed by Bebek. Turovitz was found lying beside the highway in Montville some time later by John Emelyta, also of Montville, and was brought to the New London police station where he was given medical attention.

COMPLAINT AGAINST ARMOUR-MORRIS MERGER DISMISSED

ASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Secretary Jardine today dismissed the complaint against the Armour-Morris packer merger.

The dismissal was without prejudice and the opinion warned that "in teh event that Armour and Company violates any of the provisions of the packers and stock yards act, there is ample power and authority in the secretary of agriculture under that act to take appropriate and effective action."

Secretary Jardine held that the acquisition by Armour and Company of the properties, of Morris and Company, did not in itself constitute a violation of the law, which provides against the manipulating or controlling prices, creating a monopoly or restraining commerce.

CAUSE OF DESTRUCTION OF FRENCH AIRPLANE

FREIBURG, BADEN, Germany, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The destruction of the French airplane attempting a flight from Etampes to Bagdad yesterday, in which Robert Therry was killed and his companion, Dieudonne Coste, was injured was due to the plane getting into clouds which reached the very ground, M. Coste said today when interviewed at St. Joseph's hospital here.

He said that the machine, driving through these clouds, struck a large tree and crashed into the steep banks of the Rothach river, which was heavily swollen by recent rains. The machine was completely wrecked.

TODAY THE LAST DAY FOR INCOME TAX PAYMENTS

HARTFORD, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Tomorrow is the last day for the payments of the third quarter of the income taxes, the penalty of one per cent of the unpaid balance of the tax per month will be levied, and the entire amount of the tax will become due immediately, it was announced today at the office of the commissioner of internal revenue.

No estimate of the amount of the unpaid taxes could be made at this time but the number of the accounts which unless tomorrow will be penalized is considerable, the commissioner said.

CAILLAUX DETERMINED ON FRENCH DEBT SETTLEMENT

PARIS, Sept. 14.—(AP)—That Joseph Caillaux, Minister of finance, is going to Washington with a strong determination to achieve some sort of settlement of France's debt to the United States is the impression that is growing in political circles. M. Caillaux, however, is steadfastly keeping his own counsel, and his colleagues on the French debt commission are doing the same.

It is pointed out in parliamentary circles that if M. Caillaux succeeds at Washington this will have desirable effect on his political situation in view of the strong opposition which his financial policy is likely to encounter when the parliamentary session opens in October.

Stanley Baldwin, prime minister of England, was the guest of Premier Painleve at luncheon today, and M. Caillaux and foreign minister Briand also present. French officials now-ever assert that the luncheon was non-political.

M. Caillaux had a final conference with his colleagues of the French debt commission tonight and gave them more explicit information concerning the subjects treated in documents which the ministry of finance has prepared for their enlightenment. The bid of secrecy remains clamped on all subjects connected with the negotiations.

The great Cape-to-Cairo rail and water line of Africa now lacks but about 300 miles of railway to complete the proposed stretch of approximately 5,000 miles.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

With the last quarter of the year just about starting [illegible] rations in the building line show that a new record for new construction in Norwich will be set provided there is no unexpected falling off in the work. For the first eight months of the year a record number of building permits have been issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton but the value of the new work is slightly under the record which was established last year.

During the past three quarters permits to build were granted and several applications for permission to build were filed. The three permits granted were for garages, two of frame construction and one of stone and brick. The value of the new buildings will be approximately $3,000.

Work on projects now in hand progressed favorably during the past week and several of the dwelling houses in the outskirts of the city were brought to the completion stage. There has been a noticeable increase in the number of new buildings in the Trading Cove section of the town and also in the town of Montville on Butternut Hill.

The permits issued by Fire Marshal Stanton during the past week are as follows:

To Nettie K. Main to erect frame garage, 17x24 feet, on Cedar street.

To Antonio Gerosa to erect brick garage 24x30 feet at 9 West Thames st. The foundation will be of stone with brick walls.

To Louis G. Walz to erect frame garage 18x20 feet, at 519 Main st. The foundation will be of stone and concrete will form superstructure.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 10 sales of real estate, one less than during the same week in 1924. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $48,605 and $52,750.

There were 7 sales of real estate in New London during the past week a decrease of sales as compared to the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $49,500 and $40,230.

State Building Permits

Figures for the week showing building permits in the leading cities of the state for the week show but a slight falling off in the number of permits granted. In the cities of New Haven, Hartford and Bridgeport the falling off is more pronounced, with a smaller amount spent for new construction than in previous years. The total for the last week was $814,521 for permits numbering 287, and $924,441 spent for new construction in 1924, when 328 permits were granted, and $615,484 for new buildings in 1923 when 234 permits were issued.

New London

The H. Wales Lines Co., submitted the lowest bid for the residence to be erected on Pequot avenue for Frank L. McGuire, 83 Vauxhall street. The house will be of stone and stucco construction, containing 12 rooms. It will be 35x70 feet, of English design. There will be hot water heat and tile baths.

Plans for an annex to the new Charles H. Klinck estate building at 219 Bank street, to be erected in the rear of the present building, to which it will be attached by a connecting bridge, 22 feet in length, are being completed. The building will be two stories high, 32x40 feet, of brick construction, with steel sash and reinforced concrete floors. The plans will also call for a 50-foot steel stack. Bids received on set of plans calling for a one-story building were rejected.

Plans are being prepared for a residence in Stonington for Peter Marcus of New York. The proposed house will be of colonial design arranged for ten rooms and a studio. There will be hot water heat, fireplaces, tile baths and a tile roof.

RARE RECORD OF WORLD WAR IN HOOVER LIBRARY

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Sept. 14.—(AP)—The Hoover War Library, endowed by Secretary of Commerce Herbert C. Hoover at Stanford University, has received 44,500 books and pamphlets, in nearly all languages. Every one bears in some way on the World War.

The largest number, 12,000, are printed in Russian; 10,000 are in French, 9,000 in English. The rests are divided among Hungarian, Italian and other languages.

The library was founded in 1919. Many of the items, printed or out of print, are irreplaceable. It offers students facilities duplicated nowhere and paralled only at the Musee de la Guerre at Paris.

The program of the institution calls for procuring all important official documents of every nation throughout the war and during the reconstruction period. Three-fourths of this material already has reached the library. The manuscript collection includes 63,000 reports and communications bearing on conditions in Europe during and after the war. The file is supplemented by copies of private papers of men who were active in world affairs of the time. The library has collected from each country involved a file of newspapers in sympathy with the government, together with those of two opposition papers, representing the Left and the right.

Mr. Hoover was graduated from Stanford in 1895. He is a member of the Board of Trustees.

BRITISH ADOPT TURTLE AS USEFUL GARDEN PET

LONDON, Sept. 14.—(A. P.)—The turtle as a household pet here is threatening the canary, the cat and the poodle. Nearly every householder in London has a turtle or two in his back yard, or "garden," as it is called in England.

Turtles this summer have been sold by hawkers, in the markets and in many stores which formerly confined themselves to goldfish, birds and dogs. The price has been from six pence up to three and four shillings, according to size. It has been estimated by dealers that within the last few weeks there have been approximately 60,000 turtles brought to England from Mediterranean ports, while London has received numerous other supplies from the continent.

Most gardeners in the city and suburbs have turtles in their allotments, the theory being that they consume the snails and other pests which do harm to tender, growing plants. Turtle faddists content that turtles are most grateful creatures for any kindnesses, and that they are very faithful pets so long as a person is kind to them. After being released in a garden and given a few draughts of sweetened water at first, the turtle makes himself perfectly at home, among the vegetables and flowers, and will seldom stray beyond his own confines even though there is no fence.

BARTENSBURG, Green Harbor, Spitzbergen, Sept. 14—(AP)—Wintering in Spitzbergen is anything but the dreadful ordeal that people in other parts of the world might imagine it to be. A correspondent of the Associated Press, discussing the subject with the wife of an official here was told:

"We have the jolliest time imaginable in winter. People who don't know Spitzbergen think of it as a land shrouded in gloom, lashed by incessant blizzards and wholly unfit for civilized people. That is quite a mistake. After the ice closes in, say in October, we know we are thrown upon our own resources, and we make the best of them.

"It is never really pitch dark, for several months there is always a faint glow in the sky, and of course the whiteness of the snow helps. Then we have the radio; in winter we can hear London and Paris; we have music parties, social evenings, billiard tournaments, and, my goodness! think of the glorious snow sports and skiing competitions, and the lovely sledging trips! We often visit our neighbors at Advent Bay with our dog sledges. It takes 18 hours across the mountains. The Advent Bay people visit the Swedes at Braganza Bay, and we have no end of fun—we are just one happy family. But it would be lovely to see Paris and London again," she added with a far-away look in her eyes.

FOREIGN TRADE OF KOREA SHOWS HEALTHY INCREASE

TOKYO, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Following up last year's advantage of nearly a 20,000,000 yen export surplus, the trend in Korea's foreign trade continued to show remarkable improvement during the first five months of the year. Statistics show that Korea shipped abroad and to the mainland merchandise valued at 142,000,000 yen as against imports of 139,000,000 yen.

The favorable condition is reflected in the trend of the money and finance markets where plenty of credit is available for legitimate requirements. The statement of the clearing house banks in the principal business centers of the territory shows deposits are ever on the gain, standing at 130,000,000 yen at the end of May, an increase of more than 15,000,000 yen over a year ago. A study of the details discloses that, while there was a slight decline in current deposits, there were notable increases in fixed accounts, which were larger by more than 7,000,000 yen than a year ago.

On the other hand, advances were down to 139,000,000 yen at the end of May as against 167,000,000 at the end of January this year.

SICK 3 YEARS WITHOUT RELIEF

Finally Found Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Columbia, S. C.—"Your medicine has done me so much good that I feel like I owe my life to it. For three years I was sick and was treated by physicians, but they didn't seem to help me any. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got strong enough to do my housework, where before I was hardly able to be up. I have also taken the Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life and it has left me in good health. I recommend it as the best medicine for women in the Change of Life and you can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. S. A. HOLLEY, R. F. D. No. 4, Columbia, South Carolina.

Why suffer for years with backache, nervousness, painful times and other ailments common to women from early life to middle age, when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will bring relief?

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 200,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use.

PLACER GOLD DISCOVERED IN NORTHEASTERN IDAHO

POCATELLO, Idaho, Sept. 14.—(AP)—At a desolate point at the juncture of Clark, Butte and Jefferson counties in northeastern Idaho, where three rivers sink into the sands of the Snake river basin, a gold placer which is expected to be as rich as that of the Boise Basin of early days has been discovered.

Announcement from Dubois confirmed the discovery and with the movement just started claims are being rapidly staked out.

The three streams, Big Lost River, Little Lost River, and Birch Creek, have in ancient times and up until the advent of irrigation in the early eighties, virtually merged their waters and disappeared in the sand on the same square mile of desert.

For nearly 50 years these mysterious rivers have been the despair of geologists, engineers and gold seekers because they gave but niggardly indication of the gold values that geologists insisted must be present.

D. T. Murphy, a Dubois civil engineer, some time ago set out to locate the deposit. Concluding that the three torrential streams carried values but moved too fast to deposit them the search rapidly led to the sinks where the theory was verified.

Besides gold and indications of platinum, gems of the corundum family of which emeralds and rubies are typical, have been found.

GERMAN INFLATION PERIOD AFFECTED PUBLIC HEALTH

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—(AP)—That the period of inflation was directly responsible for the retrogression of public health conditions in Germany, was maintained by Dr. Schiele, the Minister of the Interior. In response to a query by the Social Democrats in the Reichstag, he declared that the marked improvement of the prevailing conditions of health noticeable a few years after the war was completely undone by the inflation period of 1923. Especially a spread of constitutional diseases, like tuberculosis and rickets was recorded.

The number of undernourished and anaemic children increased to an alarming degree as the inflation progressed. Shortly after the stabilization of the country's currency, a very pronounced improvement in general health conditions became apparent. The death rate of 1924 and the early part of this year has been surprisingly low, lower in fact than ever before in pence times, or, for the matter, in any other country. Today the mortality from tuberculosis in Germany is lower than ever before.

But for all that, declared Dr. Schiele, the number of children with tuberculosis and rickets is far too great. He described how the government was striving incessantly to improve health conditions among the children of the poorer classes by means of sanitary control and instruction in the schools, but especially with the aid of numerous exhibitions of hygiene and demography throughout the country.

AMERICAN WILL ORGANIZE ARCTIC REINDEER INDUSTRY

SEATTLE, Sept. 14—(AP)—W. T. Lopp, chief of the Alaska division of the United States Bureau of Education for 31 years, left his home here this summer for Baffin Land, the Canadian island between Greenland and North America, to reorganize the reindeer industry for the Hudson Bay Company.

Until this year Lopp was in charge of reindeer throughout Alaska. In the winter of 1896 a party composed of Lieut. D. H. Jarvis, Lieut E. B. Bertholf, Dr. S. J. Call and Lopp drove a small herd of reindeer 800 miles to Point Barrow, Alaska, from Cape Prince of Wales, on the east side of Bering Strait, to relieve a whaling fleet frozen in and starving.

The first reindeer in Alaska were landed in 1892 at Teller, 50 miles from Cape Prince of Wales. Lapps were brought to Alaska to teach the Indians and Eskimos how to care for the animals. The raising of reindeer has become one of Alaska's largest industries.

The Hudson Bay Company placed a small number of reindeer on Baffin Land four years ago at the suggestion of Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, and since then the herd has grown to 700.

The Danish government is negotiating with Lopp to introduce the raising of reindeer on Greenland.

GERMAN SUBMITS LOW BID FOR SWEDISH TRUCK ORDER

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A German manufacturer underbid all competitors recently for an order of a large number of heavy railroad trucks for the Swedish Railroad Board. The German, whose figure was 30 percent under the lowest Swedish bid, was awarded two-thirds of the contract, the remainder being placed in Sweden. English and American manufacturers. The entire deal involved 3,000,000 crowns.

The trucks are to be used in the transport of iron ore.

It is pointed out here that the German manufacturer, despite the fact he will be obliged to pay a ten per cent duty, was able to underbid the Swedish company because of the low pay of German skilled labor compared with that paid in Sweden.

JAPANESE PLAN TO FIGHT BOLSHEVIST PROPAGANDA

TOKYO, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Fear of Bolshevist propaganda in Japan is ever present among the heads of the government and it was recently reported that the Home Department is planning to introduce a bill at the next Diet session for the organization of a special police service to deal with the situation. It is said a yearly outlay of 1,000,000 yen will be asked for this purpose.

The government has not been amiss in adopting measures calculated to be effective in coping with untoward developments that may follow the reopening of the country for intercourse with Soviet Russia. Of these measures the most important is, of course, the new peace preservation law, which the Diet voted at its last session.

Along with this precautionary piece of legislation may be mentioned the steps taken to unify orders issued to the police at home and in Korea, so that there may be cooperation as well as coordination in their activity on the trail of propagandists. There is also the creation of special police organs to be on Korean frontiers and South Manchurian borderlands.

All these innovations are now in full working order. But it has been found that channels for the introduction of "Red" propaganda are rapidly increasing owing to the growing frequency with which the peoples of the two countries are exchanging visits for commercial, touring and other purposes and also because of the freedom with which new publications are being imported.

The home office regards it as imperative in consequence that a police service of special nature be perfected to deal with the problem of propagation of radical thoughts.

PRIVATE CAPITAL SOUGHT TO AID SOVIET INDUSTRIES

MOSCOW, Sept. 14—(AP)—Problems of internal trade are now engaging the closest attention of the Soviet government. The recent conference of the Communist Party and the Federal Congress of Soviets passed a number of reforms to facilitate private trade and to attract private capital to general trade and industry. The government has found after many years of war upon private trade that private capital in Russia does not exceed 5,000,000 rubles. The trade turnover hardly reaches 2,000,000,000 rubles a year.

Moscow, which is considered the biggest trade center in the Soviet Federation, made a trade turnover last year of 1,723,000,000 rubles. The bulk of this sum falls upon state and cooperative trade, 93 per cent of the Moscow industries are in the hands of the state and only seven per cent is in the hands of co-operative and private concerns. Private manufacturers in Moscow employ only about 10,000 workmen, which is only 1.3 per cent of the total number of workers engaged in Moscow industry.

AMERICANS WILL ERECT CATHOLIC SCHOOLS IN CHINA

BEATTY, Pa., Sept. 14—(AP)—Survey of conditions preparatory to the establishment of a Catholic educational institution in China under the supervision of St. Vincent Arch Abbey here has been completed by the Rt. Rev. Aurelius Stehle, Order of St. Benedictine, who recently returned from Peking. He spent several months in China, at the direction of Pope Pius XI, making the survey.

The project was started seven years ago when Vincent Yeng, a Chinese educator, appealed to Pope Benedict XV for assistance in establishing a university in Peking but nothing definite resulted. With the election of Pope Pius XI the matter was again considered and it was referred to the entire American-Cassinese congregation, believing the undertaking would be too large to be launched by any single abbey.

The question was considered at the twenty-first general chapter of the American Cassinese congregation, at the Abbey of Saint Procopius, Lisle, Ill., in August, 1923. A favorable vote was returned and the project was entrusted to St. Vincent's Arch Abbey.

The tentative curriculum would include theology and philosophy; letters, Chinese and European; natural sciences; social sciences and history, and mining and engineering. A preparatory school may be included in the plans and other additions made to meet local educational needs. The site for the institution has been obtained and it is expected that construction work will be undertaken within a short time.

CURZON LEAVES NAPOLEONIC RELICS TO OXFORD UNIVERSITY

OXFORD, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Under the will of the late Lord Curzon a large and valuable collection of Napoleonic relics, largely relating to the life and death of the Emperor at St. Helena, and a collection of empire furniture have been left to the University of Oxford on condition that these articles shall be housed in the Bodleian library or a museum.

Whether or not the university will accept the gift remains to be seen. For some years it has regularly declined the offer of an enormous collection of postage stamps, the library refusing to take stamps because they are not works of art. These same objections will probably be raised against the acceptance of Napoleonic relics and Empire furniture.

AIRPLANES WILL USE STEAM AS POWER, BRITAIN PREDICTS

CARDIFF, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The use of steam engines in airplanes was predicted by Dr. John S. Haldane at the annual meeting of the Institute of Mining Engineers.

In the course of a paper on coal and steam, Dr. Haldane said in the very near future he believed steam engines would take the place of internal combustion engines to a very great extent, and that future development of the steam would be along the lines of increased steam pressure with smaller and lighter engines. The complete engine and boiler would be much smaller and lighter than an equivalent internal combustion engine, and would in all probability be more suitable and even superior for use in airplanes and motor cars.

Another scientist, Sir John Cadman, said he looked upon oil as a phase which was passing. What oil was doing today coal would do again tomorrow, although oil would go into certain channels of use which coal would never again be able to regain.

Potato Bug Menace Feared

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Fear that the potato bug, which has settled in France, will overrun all Europe, is expressed by the Berlin daily Der Deutche, with the possible diminishing of the German potato crop by one third "at a time when the increase of the crops has become a vital question." The newspaper proposes that all persons in the empire be enlisted in a war on the bug.

German Vineyards Healthy

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—(AP)—An excellent grape crop is expected throughout Germany this year according to the federal statistical bureau. Almost all the wine producing areas report that the vines are in splendid condition so that the hope for the duplication of the banner year of 1922 is justified.

Sweden to Expedite Foreign Mail

GOTHENBURG, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The recent opening of Gothenburg's new post office will enable American mail for Sweden and other northern European points to be handled more expeditiously. The new building is regarded as one of the best for its purpose in Europe. It is five stories high and cost $2,274,000.

POETRY

A September Robin

My eyes are full, my silent heart is stirred,
Amid these days so bright
Of ceaseless warmth and light;
Summer that will not die,
Autumn, without one sigh
O'er sweet hours passing by;
Cometh that tender note
Out of thy tiny throat,
Life grief, or love, insisting to be heard,
O little plaintive bird?
No need of word:
Well know I all your tale—forgotten bird
Soon you and I together
Must face the winter weather,
Remembering how we sung,
Our primrose fields among,
In days when life was young;
Now, all is growing old,
And the warm earth's a-cold;
Still with brave heart we'll sing on, little bird.
Sing only. Not one word.
—Dinah Mulock Craik, in Indianapolis News.

The Homing

Admiral, Admiral sailing home—
Sailing home through the far, dim seas,
Know you the sound that over the foam
Rises and sinks in the sunset breeze?

Know you the thrill and know you the start
That pulses and runs through the wind and the spray
Pulses and runs from a nation's heart
To meet you and greet you over the way?

Not for the might of your guns alone,
Thundering doom by the eastern gate;
Not for the bugle of victory blown—
Not for these do we watch and wait!

The glory is sweet—ay, sweet to the soul
Of a people proud in the pride of youth,
But sweeter to know, as the reasons roll,
Our men, as of old, are men in truth.
—John Jerome Rooney.

Cotton firm; unchanging rains Oklahoma.

Sugar lower; increased spot offerings.

MARKET STRONG AND ACTIVE

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Responding to the aggressive buying tactics of professional traders, stock prices rounded upward again today on total sales of just under 2,000,000 shares the largest in about six weeks. Bullish demonstrations started in the motor shares but soon spread to the motor accessories, rubbers, coppers, steels and tobaccos, over two score individual issues breaking through to new peak prices for the year. The general industrial average also attained a new high record for all time.

There was no outstanding development in the day's news to influence the market movement. However, reports of expanding trade operations an advance of 50 cents a ton in the price of pig iron in the Mahoning Valley district and the continued ease of money, despite the enlarged demand for funds in connection with September 15 tax, dividend and interest payments, all helped to create bullish sentiment.

Willys Overland common was again the sensational feature, running up 3 points to a new high record at 27 1-2 on total sales exceeding 270,000 shares, or approximately one-seventh of the day's entire business. Studebaker and Hupp also touched new 1925 peaks and General Motors duplicated its high.

A broadening demand for United States Steel common carried that stock up over two points to 123, a new high on the current movement. Urgent short covering in American Can pushed it up to a new record high at 249 3-4, but it fell back later to 247, where it closed fractionally lower at 121 5-8.

Buoyancy again developed in most of the high priced specialties. Nash Motors soared 11 points to a new record top at 450; General Railway Signal jumped nearly 6 points to 342 and International Shoe, National Lead, Pullman and United States Cast Iron Pipe showed net gains of 3 to 5 points.

Renewed stimulations of the radio shares coincided with the radio exhibitions in this city. Radio Corporation was run up 4 1-2 points to 62 and American Bosch Magneto which recently entered the radio business, was bid up over two points to 36 3-8 and then eased to 35 3-4.

Copper shares started upward in further reflection of a sharp reduction in the refined stocks of the red metal last month, but buying petered out soon after American Smelting and Howe Sound attained new 1925 highs.

Among the many other stocks to sell at the year's best prices were the American Tobacco issues, Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies, Sears Roebuck, Fleischman, Goodrich Rubber, Simmons company and Timken Roller Bearing.

Rails failed to participate in the advance to the same extent as the industrials although Delaware and Hudson climbed over 3 points to 148 7-8 Atlantic Coast Line crossed 200 for the first time, Pittsburgh and West Virginia reached new high ground for the year at 83 7-8 and Northern Pacific at 72 3-8.

Call money renewed at 4 1-4 per cent, which rate was maintained all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Demand Sterling and French francs held steady around $4.84 3-8 and 4.69 cents, respectively. Norwegian kroner rallied nearly half a cent to 21.30 cents, and Danish kroner held firm just below 24.75 cents. Spanish pesetas dropped about 10 points to 14.53 cents. Fresh weakness cropped out in Polish zlotys which broke 40 points to 17.50 cents.

CLAIMS FOR CONSUMPTION CURES NOT SUSTAINED

The hope that springs eternal in the breast of every tuberculosis patient helps to make profitable the shrewd advertising of alleged "consumption cures." Such alleged "cures" have been legion and every little while some new "cure" or a modification of an old "cure" is brought to public attention, says the weekly bulletin of the state department of health.

Some people may remember Friedman's "Turtle Serum," which was given much publicity a few years ago. From accounts of fees paid to Dr. Friedman during his visits to this country it appears likely that he acquired large sums of money from the clever advertising he obtained, but his preparation did not cure and is now all but forgotten. It has merely gone the way of all "consumption cures" which yield a profit while the advertising is good, fail to cure and then drop from sight.

The most recent drug to be proposed for the treatment of tuberculosis is a preparation called Sanocrysin. This drug is a combination of gold and sulphur salts and for that reason is sometimes spoken of as the "gold cure" for tuberculosis. It appears that experiments have shown the preparation to be an extremely dangerous drug to animals that have tuberculosis. Reports with reference to its use on human patients are not convincing. In fact, a considerable number of such patients died. Thus the verdict must be that the claims for the "gold cure" are not proven.

Pending further studies of this drug and other preparations set forth as cures for tuberculosis, patients should not neglect the well known and recognized methods of combating that disease. Plenty of fresh air and sunlight, plenty of good nutritious food and plenty of rest, are still the standbys in the treatment of tuberculosis. Any special kind of treatment designed to help these great remedies Mother Nature has provided should be taken only on the advice of a physician expert in the treatment of this disease.

SILVER CUP PRESENTED TO METROPOLITAN STAFF

On Friday afternoon the agents of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company attended a meeting in their office in the Shannon building. The speaker was Charles Nutting, president of the Managers' Association of Connecticut, and manager of the Bridgeport district.

Mr. Nutting's talk covered the ordinary department of the company and the New England special campaign which started September 14th. The Norwich office was selected for the meeting because the agents were to be particularly honored for their work in the past four years. It was during this period they led the state of Connecticut in production and held a high standard throughout the New England territory. Mr. Nutting presented the staff with a beautiful engraved silver loving cup in appreciation of the work they have done for Connecticut. This cup will be on display at the company's welfare booth at the New London County Fair.

At the close of Mr. Nutting's remarks, Frank R. Murdy, manager of the local office, complimented the men on their excellent work since he assumed charge of the district in 1920. At that time there were only thirteen agents, while today there are twenty-five. Mr. Murdy also stated that while they occupied a very high standing in New England as far as production is concerned, the thing that pleased him most is the fact that making this excellent record they increased their earnings until at the present time they are the highest salaried men in the New England territory.

The office staff was also congratulated by the manager, as the harmony and spirit of co-operation that exists between them and the men helped them to attain their present high rating.

ASKS MANDAMUS AGAINST NEW LONDON COUNCIL

Samuel Shapiro and L. M. Kenton, owners of real estate at 43 Jay street, New London, have made application to the superior court for a writ of mandamus to be issued to compel the common council of New London to act upon and approve a building permit for the erection of a one-story building on the Jay street property.

The hearing on the application is set for Sept. 16, at 9 a. m. in the superior court at New London.

The petitioners represent that Jacob R. Linicus, the building inspector of New London, approved the application on Aug. 22, 1925 and granted the building permit subject to the approval of the council. On Aug. 24 the council met and refused to approve the permit, and also at meetings on Aug. 27 and Aug. 31, refused to approve the permit, although the petitioners claim, it is the imperative duty of the council to approve the permit. By reason of these refusals the petitioners have been subjected to immeasurable damage on account of loss of business and revenue in not being able to construct the premises for which they had made application.

MCKAY NOMINATION IN PLACE OF W. P. MCGARRY

The nomination by the democratic caucus of Edward F. McKay as a member of the town school board to take the place of William P. McGarry, whose term expires this year and who desired to be released from further service on the board.

The statement that Mr. McKay's nomination was to take the place of Dr. E. J. Brophy was made because the annual published report of the schools for 1923 listed Dr. Brophy's term as expiring in 1925 and Mr. McGarry's in 1927. These dates should have been the other way around.

Ralph H. Marsh read the scriptures, from the 12th chapter of 2nd Corinthians and offered prayer. Besides Miss Hyde, Mr. Bushnell and Mr. Marsh and others who attended the meeting were Miss Florence M. Bennett, a former member of the Lookout committee and Miss Louise Hyde. The party went in Mr. Bushnell's car. Henry Sebastian and Miss Gladys Tortoiseshell are the other members of the committee.

ALL RUN DOWN, NOW HEALTHY

"Honestly, in all my 15 years of experience as a nurse I have never known of a medicine that compares with Tanlac," is the glowing tribute of Nurse M. E. Chappelle.

"Time and again I have recommended Tanlac and always with surprising results. Some time ago my Mother complained of being generally run down and on the verge of a nervous breakdown. She had no appetite, her stomach was disordered, digestion weakened and her bowels were most irregular.

"Tanlac came to her aid at once, brought on a various appetite so that she began to eat with the greatest relish, and made the digestive organs function properly once more. In a short time she was well, happy and strong, and although over 80 years of age she is now vigorous enough to look after her household duties and go out quite a little, too. This is why I praise Tanlac and consider it the best tonic and health builder ever discovered."

What Tanlac has done for others it can also do for you. Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation. Made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

A report which would have injured chances of collecting donations for the Washington monument was denied by those in charge and published in the Courier of 1850. A professor had stated that the foundation stone of the Washington monument would not stand up under heavy pressure but this was denied.

Other items of interest of three quarters of a century ago are taken in part from the files of the Norwich Courier, as follows:

Tuesday, Sept. 10, 1850—The New London, Willimantic & Palmer railroad is completed, and was opened through to Palmer on Tuesday. We learn from the president of the road that a big celebration was held at Palmer on the evening the road was completed.

The population of Saybrook has been announced as 3,840 a gain of 423 over the census of 1840 when the count was 3,417.

A new contract, annulling all old ones, has been made between Barnum and Jenny Lind. She is to have $1,000 per night for 150 nights; in addition to which the net proceeds of every night will be divided equally between the parties. This engagement allows Barnum to take her to any part of America or Europe.

The first ticket sold for the first concert by Jenny Lind went to Genin, the famous hatter on Broadway, for $225. Nearly 3,500 tickets were sold at the auction, the average price being $6.38. It is estimated that the first house will bring in about $30,000.

At a meeting of the directors of the Winsted bank, William Henry Hill, of Norwich, was unanimously elected cashier to succeed E. S. Hamilton, resigned.

Thursday, Sept. 12, 1850—The old ferry house in New London, which stood at the foot of the parade, and was occupied by Cordner & Hempstead and Hamilton & Powers, was burned down on Tuesday morning last. The New London Chronicle says that the fire was supposed to have been kindled by an incendiary. It was first discovered by passengers on the steamer Worcester which was proceeding up the harbor.

The passing of the territorial bills, which effect New Mexico and Utah, as well as California and Texas, caused considerable excitement in South Carolina. Upon receipt of the news a public demonstration was held and "the flag of the Union was trodden under foot" and there were none to prevent it, or, rather, none who cared to try. People in Charleston are reported as being furious at the passage of the bills.

News was received in Norwich of the death of His Majesty King Louis Philippe of France. He was surrounded by members of the family when the end came and had been prepared for it many hours in advance. It is believed that the remains will be interred in St. George's cathedral.

News of the recent flood in Pennsylvania continued to swell the death list and sent the amount of damage into higher figures. At Reading eleven lives were lost and damage of over $5,000,000 reported. At Tamuqua, up to Wednesday 36 bodies had been recovered, at Berwick 21 bodies are recovered and deaths are being reported slowly from many other cities and towns along the rivers.

Saturday, Sept. 14, 1850—Joseph E. Woodworth of New London, one of the assistant marshals now engaged in taking the census of New London county for the Washington monument has received a letter from Elisha Whittlesey, president of the Monument association, stating that the foundation stones for the Washington monument are safe and will not crumble beneath the weight of the monument. This letter was written to put an end to the false rumor started by Prof. Johnson at the scientific convention, that the stone which was being used would crumple under a heavy pressure.

The directors of the Hartford and New Haven railroad have declared that net earnings of the road for the past year are $256,455.65 and they have declared a dividend of five per cent, payable on October 1st. An extra dividend of five per cent is predicted within the next six months.

Mr. Holmes of South Carolina has openly declared that his state can no longer remain in the Union and he is to deliver these sentiments to the people upon reaching Charleston. Mr. Toombs has yielded to the voice of many and has refused to cooperate with the dis-unionists.

FORECLOSURE SALE OF BROADWAY RESIDENCE PROPER

The residence property at 171 Broadway, owned by Edna Schaller, wife of Leopold Schaller ordered sold at public auction by order of the superior court, was bid in Monday morning by James E. Moore for $12,000. The sale was made on foreclosure proceedings brought by the Bankers Trust Co. of this city on a mortgage for $7,500, dated May 31, 1923. The legal papers in the case stated that Bessie M. Winship of Groton held a mortgage for $2,000, James E. Moore of Norwich, a mortgage for $4,200 and S. Alpheus Gilbert and Walter Gilbert a lien for $100.

Gilbert S Raymond was the auctioneer and in opening the auction explained the terms of the sale and read the description of the property; which fronts 83 1-2 feet on Broadway, has a depth of about 503 feet on one side and 402 feet on the other.

The property, the auctioneer said would be sold free and clear of all incumbrances except taxes and water rates.

The terms of sale were ten per cent. of purchase price in cash or certified check on day of sale, balance payable on or before the 30th day of September 1925 at 12 o'clock noon, or as soon thereafter as the deed is approved by the court.

Mr. Raymond stated that to August 10, this year, there were back taxes to the amount of $749.52, with another month's tax due September 10th. Payments of these taxes and payment of water rates due in October are assumed by the purchaser. The bidding was opened by Timothy C. Murphy with an offer of $8,000 and James E. Moore raised this to $10,000 and Mr. Murphy went to $11,000. Mr. Moore raised to $12,000, this being the highest bid that could be secured and the property was sold to Mr. Moore.

The house contains 14 rooms and has been made over into three apartments. A new heating system has been recently installed and the house is considered in good condition.

WALKER DEFEATS HYLAN IN N. Y. PRIMARY WATERMAN, REP., SWAMPS HIS OPPONENTS WALKER MAJORITY PLACED AT 100,000

Senator Walker, in Winning the Democratic Nomination For Mayor, Probably Has Carried With Him the Rest of the Tammany Ticket—John R. McCooey, Leader of Kings County and Supporter of Mayor Hylan For Renomination, Declares There Will Be No Third Ticket—Lyons and Bennett, Insurgent Opponents of Waterman, Pledge Their Support to the Republican Candidate.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(A. P.)—Mayor John F. Hylan, stormy petrel of New York politics for the last seven years, was defeated for re-nomination in today's primaries by State Senator James J. Walker, Tammany designee, by a majority of over 60,000 with about two thirds of the vote counted. He rained steadily all night and the metropolitan newspapers, with the exception of the American, which supported Mayor Hylan, predicted that Walker's plurality would finally reach 100,000.

Hylan's defeat was conceded by John H. McCooey, Kings county leader, and manager of the Hylan campaign, who also issued a statement declaring that there would be no third ticket. Mayor Hylan himself could not be reached for a statement.

The republican contest proved a walkaway for Frank D. Waterman, pen manufacturer, the regular organization candidate. He was leading William K. Bennett and John J. Lyons, insurgent candidates by an eight to 1 basis. The republican contest was overshadowed by the fight among the democrats. The vote was tabulated slowly as the democratic votes were counted first.

Latest Returns

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—(A. P.)—Returns from 2020 election districts out of 2968 in the city, tabulated at 1:30 a. m., gave James J. Walker democratic mayoralty candidate 165,273 votes as against 104,724 for Mayor Hylan, seeking re-nomination.

In the republican mayoralty contest only 1,000 districts had been heard from. These gave Frank D. Waterman 40,154; John J. Lyons, 5,385 and William M. Bennett, 1,518.

LYONS CONCEDES THE ELECTION TO WATERMAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(A. P.)—Former Secretary of State John J. Lyons, candidate for the republican nomination for mayor, just before midnight sent the following telegram to Frank D. Waterman, saying:

"The heartiest congratulations. I stand by the decision of the primary. My coat is off for you and the entire ticket."

William M. Bennett, also a mayoralty candidate, sent his congratulations to Mr. Waterman and said that he would do all that he could to assure his election.

John H. McCooey, Brooklyn borough leader, who supported Mayor Hylan, refused to comment tonight upon the election returns. He said he would issue a statement only when the complete official returns were in.

M'COOEY PROMISES THERE WILL BE NO THIRD TICKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(A. P.)—John R. McCooney, leader of the Kings county democracy, at midnight conceded the election of Senator Walker. He estimated that Walker would carry Brooklyn, Hylan's home borough, by more than 5,000. He declared that there would be no third ticket.

Governor Smith's old East Side district, under the shadow of Brooklyn bridge, gave Senator Walker one of the biggest majorities of any district in the city. The vote was Walker 302, Hylan 15.

Senator Walker apparently carried with him the rest of the Tammany ticket, including General Charles W. Berry for comptroller and Joseph V. McKee for president of the board of aldermen.

William H. (Big Bill) Edwards, former Princeton football star, who was Mayor Hylan's candidate for comptroller, made a better run than some of his colleagues.

NEW YORK PRESS GIVE WALKER 100,000 MAJORITY

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(A. P.)—Governor Smith late tonight made the following statement on today's primary.

"The Hearst-Hyland campaign of slander and abuse has been answered by the enrolled members of the Democratic party."

"Walker by 100,000" was the consensus of the midnight editions of the Metropolitan press, with the exception of the American, which supported Mayor Hylan. The Herald Tribune, the Times, and the World all ready the early returns as giving overwhelming victory to the Tammany candidate.

The same papers also announced the selection by a large plurality of Waterman as the Republican nominee. The Times declared the decisiveness of the result made it unlikely that Hylan would run independently.

JUDGE AND CANDIDATE ENGAGE IN FIST FIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(A. P.)—A fist fight between County Judge J. Harry Tiernan, Walker candidate for Richmond Borough president, and James McVeigh, secretary to David S. Rendt, Richmond county leader and Hylan supporter, occurred tonight on Staten Island. The combatants were separated after Judge Tiernan landed three blows.

PRIMARY ELECTION WILL COST NEW YORK CITY $400,000

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—(A. P.)—It cost the city $400,000, or an average of 29 1-2 cents per voter, to stage today's primary election, city statisticians have estimated. Police protection at the polls cost $100,000; inspectors distributed among the 3,000 polling booths were paid $96,000; printing and distribution of ballots approximately $100,000, in addition to the expense of erecting and taking down the emergency polling booths.

MASTER OF RUM RUNNER BARS OWNERS OF VESSEL

London, Sept. 15.—(AP)—"Who would have thought that in the year 1925 the magic cry, 'Stand by to repel boarders,' or something very like it would have been heard at mysterious midnight in the river Thames? Yet it has happened," says the Evening News in a story today describing the latest developments in the career of the now notorious whiskey ship, the schooner General Serrett.

The schooner today was unloading its cargo of liquor, which was said originally to have been destined for the United States by way of rum row, into barges to be put into bonded warehouses along the Thames.

Apparently the officer in charge of the schooner now refuses to take any orders from her owners or to allow them aboard, and last night, the Evening director of the owning company presented an extraordinary scene. The day had been spent by the owners and agents in a vain effort to get aboard. Then just before midnight Mme. Mabel Casares, wife of the son of a wealthy Argentine merchant and managing director of the Owning company (The Gloria Steamship Company) accompanied by three legal advisers and by river police, made a final effort to get aboard. According to eye witnesses quoted by the Evening News Mme. Casares and her party withdrew only when violence was feared.

A hail from Mme. Casares' party for Captain Whitburn brought the flash of an electric torch from the schooner's deck and a hatless, bristle-headed man, carrying a hurricane lamp, appeared and declared himself to be the captain. He told the party to go away.

"What, not come on my own ship," Mme. Casare retorted angrily, adding, "You're not the captain. You're Joyce, the supercargo."

The Evening News' story continues: "An excited colloquy followed, Joyce asky why, if she were the owner, she didn't pay her men, and Mme. Casares retorting that she had paid them. Joyce, turning to the crew, who by this time had gathered on the deck, demanded 'Have you ever had any money from this woman?' Sullen negative headshakes conveyed the crew reply, whereupon Mme. Casare declared that she paid the money over and if the men had not received it that was not her fault.

LIBERTY OF CHICAGO BEER RUNNER PUZZLES OFFICIALS

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Terrence Druggan's "in again, out again" stunts at the Cook county jail, progressed merrily today while a federal grand jury tried to find out how he did it.

The wealthy beer runner whose freedom of the jail including frequent departures from it while he was supposed to be serving a year's sentence for contempt imposed by a federal court, has invoked the inquiring scrutiny of the federal jury, was found downstairs in a comfortable room smoking this mornnig when reporters called at the jail. Guards explained he had been turned loose to get a shave.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson summoned sheriff Peter M. Hoffman to appear before him tomorrow to tell all he knows about Druggan's travels.

Druggan also has been summoned to appear before the grand jury tomorrow.

COOLIDGE FAVORS OPEN HEARINGS ON AIRCRAFT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—A policy of open hearings in the impending aircraft investigation is favored by President Coolidge.

The president, who has decided to give the board a free hand in determining its procedure and summoning witnesses, feels that the public is entitled to full knowledge of its activities, except, perhaps, when it goes into confidential plans for national defense.

In taking this position, the executive is directly in line with the views of acting Secretary Davis of the war department, who believes such a course will offset the effects of numerous charges made against the army air service, and particularly those by Colonel William Mitchell, former assistant army air chief, in diminishing public confidence in the air arm.

PENN. REPUBLICANS VOTE FOR JUDGE OF SUPERIOR COURT

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15. — (A. P.)—Republican voters of Pennsylvania today nominated Jesse E. E. Cunningham, of Harrisburg, as their candidate for judge of the superior court, the only state-wide office to be filled at the November election. His democratic opponent will be William A. McGuire of Cambria county, who had no opposition for the nomination.

Interest in Philadelphia centered largely in the contest for a municipal court judgship. Early indications pointed to the nomination of Leopold C. Glass over Judge Benjamin H. Renshaw, democrat, who had the support of U. S. Senator Pepper. Senator Pepper believed that an efficient sitting judge should not be removed.

BAKER, Ore., Sept. 15.—(AP)—The case against Senator Robert N. Stanfield, arrested here Sunday evening, will be set for trial Friday, City Attorney F. C. McCloch announced today, following a conference with J. H. Nichols, attorney for Stanfield. A complaint alleging disorderly conduct will be filed prior to that time, he said.

No indication has been given by Stanfield or his attorneys whether he will fight the case or forfeit bail.

Five prominent Baker citizens who signed a telegram vindicating Senator Stanfield denied that they were eyewitnesses of the affair. Frank Sloan, sixth signer, who does not live here, could not be reached. It was stated he was an eye-witness.

TRAFFIC SUPERINTENDENT ARRESTED FOR LOITERING

WATERBURY, Sept. 15.—(A. P.)—Waldo M. Plaisted, traffic superintendent of the Connecticut company here, was arrested late this afternoon on a charge of loitering. Taken to the police station in the patrol, he was served a notified warrant and ordered to appear in city court tomorrow morning.

Explaining his side of the case tonight, Mr. Plaisted said he had stopper on the curb in Exchange place about thirty seconds when Patrolman Harry Martin ordered him to move. Mr. Plaisted's duties require him to be about Exchange place, particularly during the rush hours, and he was about to begin direction of supper hour trolley traffic when he was arrested, he said.

CHAPMAN DOES NOT BELIEVE 'DUTCH" ANDERSON IS DEAD

HARTFORD, Sept. 15.—(A. P.)—Gerald Chapman does not believe that "Dutch" Anderson is dead. Shown a newspaper clipping by Judge Frederick J. Groehl, and Charles W. Murphy, senior and associate counsel at hte trial which Chapman was found guilty of the murder of Policeman James Skelly, of New Britain, this afternoon at his cell in the state's prison, Chapman declared that the description given of the body found in the hut at Dubuque, Iowa did not tally with his intimate knowledge of the real George Anderson

INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC CONFERENCE PROBABLE

GENEVA, Sept. 15.—(AP)—There is a rapidly growing conviction that France's initiative launched today for a great international economic conference may develope as the most important single act of this year's assembly.

The French project was discussed eagerly tonight by all the delegates as the next logical step in world reconstruction.

Experts gathered at Geneva are of the opinion that the psychological moment has arrived to take up economic problems on a broad international basis.

The United States will be asked whether it wishes to participate in another international conference.

The disarmament commission voted to have the council expedite preparations for a conference on the private manufacture of arms as a sequence to the recent conference on the control of the traffic in arms, and emphasized that it was indispensable to have American co-operation both in the preliminaries and in the conference itself. A draft convention will be drawn up and it is planned to convoke the conference before the next assembly, if possible.

Another feature today was the address of Raoul Fernandez, Brazilian jurist, who emphasized the pressing need of intercontinental pacts to supplement the proposed regional pacts of Europe.

SALARY INCREASES FOR STATE EMPLOYES IN MASS.

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—State employes who had expressed much discouragement by the state commission on administration and finance a few weeks ago that none of them would be given salary increases this year were heartened today by the word that the commission had decided to grant advances to about 2,200 of their number. The total amount involved will be about $190,000.

Recently an engineer in the employ of the state division of highways resigned his $1,500 position, which involved supervision of a $200,000 highway project. He said he could make more money as a common laborer but later he found a job as a foreman. Employes in other departments have expressed much dissatisfaction over their pay.

Chairman Thomas W. White of the commission announced today's action after a conference with Governor Fuller. He said that although the budget showed a deficit in actual receipts of $500,000 over the estimated receipts the increases would be granted "from the standpoint of keeping public service functioning properly and also in accord with sound business practice."

Those to receive the advance will be low paid employes in general and certain groups having definite minimum and maximum salaries where it has been the policy to allow annual increases.

RESULT OF POWER AND BRIDGE VOTE IN MAINE

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 15.—(A. P.)—By a singular coincidence, the majorities in favor of the $2,000,000 bond issue for the Kennebec bridge and the Passamaquoddy Bay Tidal Power project to Dexter P. Cooper were within one vote of being identical, when the tabulation was closed tonight with unofficial returns from town clerks of 290 of the 519 cities, towns and plantations, of yesterday's special election.

There were 39,714 for the latter and one less for the former, while the majority for the constitutional amendment to authorize $6,000,000 additional bonds for highway and bridge construction was nearly 5,000 less—34,884.

The bridge question led in total vote with 51,543. The Passamaquoddy project was second with a total of 50,530, while the highway bond amendment had 50,198 in these places. The last met with greater opposition than the first two of the three questions submitted by the legislature.

THIRTY PRISONERS TAKEN IN BOSTON'S CHINATOWN

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—(A. P.) — A raid by federal officers in quest of undesirable aliens diverted the attention of the Chinese section today from the Tong warfare which broke out Saturday with the killing of one man and serious wounding of another. A large force of federal agents, assisted by the city police swept through the district late in the day and departed with 30 prisoners.

The raiders played no favorites among the Chinese organizations, but invaded impartially the headquarters of the Hip Sings on Hudson street, and the On Leongs on Beach street. A number of arrests were made in each Tong center, and police said the group taken to a nearby police station for questioning was about evenly divided in Tong affiliation.

The raid was conducted as part of a nation wide campaign inaugurated since the latest outbreak of Tong warfare to rid the country of undesirable aliens. Several of those captured were released later after questioning, but the others were held for deportation.

MORAL TONE HAS NOT BEEN IMPROVED BY PROHIBITION

Conclusion Reached After Exhaustive Discussion by Research and Educational Department of the Federal Council of Churches—Finds That Prohibition Should Not Be Blamed For Rapid Increase in Violations of the Law—Qualifies Finding by Annotation That Prohibition Has Not Prevented an Increase in Crime—Report Declares That Alarming Conditions Have Been Found in Colleges.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15—An exhaustive discussion of the effect of prohibition on crime, conditions in settlement neighborhoods, drug addiction, the morals of the young, and respect for law in general was made public tonight by the Research and Education Department of the Federal Council of Churches as a third section of its special report on the social consequences of prohibition laws.

While pointing out that a lack of complete data makes definite conclusions impossible, the report made these assertions:

The tendency of young people of the present day to depart from the conventional rules of behavior cannot be laid entirely at the door of prohibition, but "the fact that prohibition has made no more decisive effect in heightening their moral tone gives food for earnest thought."

Crime statistics indicate a rapid increase in violations of law, chiefly of the misdemeanor class, but it is "gratuitous" to blame prohibition, and "all that can be asserted is that prohibition has thus far not prevented an increase in such offenses."

Available information indicates that in settlement neighborhods there is less drinking and family life has improved under prohibition but that the law nevertheless is widely violated and "the bootlegger is getting rich."

Assertions that prohibition has tended to increase the use of drugs lack definite proof and would appear to be untrue.

"The general impression that respect for law is declining leads many ardent supporters of prohibition to believe that its foes are undermining all citizenship, while the latter assert positively that prohibition has destroyed respect for all law. Fortunately, neither contention is fully supported by facts. The best authorities in psychology and education agree that a person's attitude toward law and government is not determined with reference to a single statute and that hostility toward one law does not carry over int othe whole field of the citizen's responsibility. The attitude of people toward their government, although it often gives cause for concern, rests upon a broader basis than the popularity of a single law. Every one takes some laws more seriously than others, and necessarily so. All laws have not the same importance and some have greater social sanction than others. For this reason it would seek to be a mistake to rest the appeal for observance of prohibition laws, merely upon the general duty to obey the law. Rather, an attitude of intelligent sympathy toward the law itself must be built up if it is to be generally observed.

"In discussing the effects of prohibition on crime, the report declared that crime statistics are "notoriously inaccurate," and suggested that trends in crime conditions apparently have their bases "in forces which have long been operative and are fairly independent of the legal laws."

"The automobile said the report, should bear a greater responsibility than the hip flask for present moral conditions among the young.

"Reports of school administration officials and of teachers who have made extensive studies of moral problems in the schools give little support to the theory that prohibition is in itself a cause of moral breakdown, "it continued. "It may perhaps just as truly be said that it does not appear to be a great angel. Certainly, the non-observance of the law by parents has a rather tragic effect on boys and girls.

"In the colleges, undoubtedly some alarming conditions have developed. Even in a conservative denominational college a student has been known to earn his way through school by bootlegging. The evidence, however, seems to indicate a favorable trend at the present time; at least this is the opinion of nearly all the college deans consulted, and it receives some measure of support from other sources."

BIDS SUBMITTED FOR EIGHT NEW AIR MAIL CONTRACTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15—First bids for air mail contracts under the law passed by congress early this year were opened late today by the post office department. Proposals on the operation of eight routes had been asked, and 17 bids were received.

ARE TO FORCE THE USE OF SUBSTITUTES FOR HARD COAL

HARTFORD, Sept. 15.—(A. P.)—The 2,300 largest employers in the state of Connecticut have been invited to meet in this city within a week to take what action is considered necessary to obreak the hold of anthracite coal over the industry of the state, according to an announcement today from the office of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association.

The meeting of the 2,300 Connecticut employers has as its object one of two things, either to force the local dealers to handle anthracite substitutes, or to buy anthracite substitute themselves, acting as the dealers for their employes. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association, which has "rounded" many of the largest employers in and around the leading cities of the state, all of whom feel that some action should be taken.

SUIT FOR SOME SHORTAGES OF G. HAROLD GILPATRIC

HARTFORD, Sept. 15—The question of whether certain bonding companies may be called upon to make up shortages of G. Harold Gilpatric, as executor or trustee of the estate of Joseph W. Cutler, late of Putnam, may hinge on the locating of certain papers that have mysteriously disappeared from the office of Probate Judge David Flagg of Putnam. In the superior court today before Judge Ernest C. Simpson, Judge Flagg told of the disappearance from the files of his court of the original Cutler will, the inventory of the property and the application of Gilpatric to sell the personal property under the provision of the will.

The action before the court was that of the state of Connecticut ex rel. The Hartford-Connecticut Trust company, trustee, against the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company of Baltimore, Md., and the Royal Indemnity of New York, in which the plaintiff seeks damages of $40,000 and a decision fixing the respective liabilities of the defendant bonding companies.

Judge Flagg was unable to inform Judge Simpson what had happened to the documents which had been presented to him for approval, and which he claimed had been placed in the file. The document he identified in court was a copy of a copy of the will. The will had never been recorded and there was no written record of the document. He had passed an order for the sale of real estate in the towns of Putnam, Killingly, Woodstock and Plainfield, but the application and the order of sale had not been recorded.

COUNCIL RISKS ONLY $1,800 FOR WATER REPAIRS

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 14.—The water committee was authorized to secure plans and specifications for additional apparatus and repairs for the city water system, at the common council meeting held Monday night. The resolution was introduced by Alderman W. A. Buck and appropriated $1800 for the work. The proposed modernizing of the water system would imply an estimated expense of $72,000. The board was unanimous in stating that Willimantic is desperately in need of an improved water system. Mayor George W. Hickey, Corporation Counsel Kelley and Alderman Laramee, however, considered that the steps to be taken were not businesslike and recommended that the whole matter be thrashed out at a city meeting before $1,800 was expended. The remaining members of the board and city engineer, Robert E. Mitchell, held out for immediate action and voted to adopt the resolution. Other business accomplished comprised:

To amend Section 4 and ordain one-way traffic on Walnut street in a southerly direction Valley and Main streets, and enforce a 15-minute parking rule on Railroad street; to allow free use of a room in Montgomery Hose Co., No. 3 building on Jackson street to St. Joseph's parochial school for the accommodation of about 35 pupils who's now overtax the school; to settle the claim of Mrs. A. CRICKETS GET LIT UP ON SOUTH ST. SILO-JUICE

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 15—Here is a new wrinkle in the great work of the reformist. A cricket's anti-intemperance society to check the increase of inebrity among the male and female crickets of the country.

This suggestion is based on, facts and arises from a bit of "info" furnished by Representative Charles H. Pomeroy, South street farmer, of this city. Mr. Pomeroy visited the Fred Rosebrooks farm across the road Tuesday and there came upon the appalling results of curseful drink. Hundreds of crickets were lined up at the "bar" at the base of a silo in which green ensilage corn had been stored but recently. The juice from the packed corn trickled down the side of the silo and as it reached the ground, the crickets lapped up as much of it as possible. While some of the insects were getting their fill, a mass of others lay motionless on the ground with swollen abdomens in mute evidence of what excessive drinking will do to a feller. Those who had passed out of the picture could stir nothing more than their jaws, or here and there a leg. A big hearted hen came upon the party. The hen saw opportunity and took it. Within a few minutes these crickets who had fallen on their back had disappeared and fellow insects followed the same course, as numb intoxication overtook them.

Having now disclosed the secret that one can get a kick out of silo-juice, it is expected that Mr. Rosebrooks will be host to many visitors within the next few days.

Greaves, while driving on East Main street Saturday evening, struck a machine parked near the residence of Louis Seneschal. Both machines were damaged slightly. Officer Hulburt of the state police barracks investigated the accident.

Edward Kennison of Thames street, Norwich, was fined $25, with costs of $11.05, totaling $36.05, at a hearing before Judge Heald in Borough Court Monday, on charges of operating an automobile which was not registered with the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, and for using improper number plates. Kennison was arrested Saturday by Officer Abild of the State Police station.

STRAIGHT TICKETS NAMED BY BOTH THE PARTIES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Sept. 15—Straight tickets were nominated by both the Republican and Democratic parties, at their respective caucuses held last evening. This is a surprising departure from the usual custom of endorsing candidates which has existed for several years.

The board of selectmen, consisting of two Republican members and one Democratic member, were not renominated. The Republicans nominated Anders Jacobsen and James Sheppard, Jr., for first and second selectmen respectively, in place of the present incumbents, Burt T. Eaton and Charles H. Moore.

The Democrats nominated William H. Bumstead and William H. Belcher for first and second selectmen, dropping Arthur M. Cady from the ticket. The cause for the change in both the Republican and Democratic nominations is attributed to the dissatisfaction expressed by residents of the villages outside the Borough concerning the roads, which they believe are not kept in decent repair. A desire to register a protest against present conditions was evidenced by the voters at the caucuses, with the result that none of the present board were renominated. Mr. Eaton and Mr. Moore have held the office by a social appointment since last December, when vacancies were created by the death of First Selectman William R. Preble.

Bernard C. Hanley was nominated at the Democratic caucus for town clerk and treasurer, a departure from the custom of endorsing the republican candidate. J. Carl Converse, who has held the office for several years.

Patrick J. Muray was not endorsed by the Republicans for collector of taxes, the nomination for this office going to Charles Doherty. This is another expression of the desire for a straight ticket this year, due to the fact that the usual endorsement of the candidate for first selectman on the Republican ticket was not made by the Democratic party. For several years Mr. Preble, Republican candidate for first selectman, has been endorsed by the Democrats, and Mr. Murray, Democratic candidate for collector of taxes, has been, in turn, endorsed by the Republicans.

Following is the Democratic ticket nominated: Assessor, for three years Frederick J. Glover; Board of Relief three years, Daniel Avery; Selectmen, William H. Bumstead, first; William H. Belcher, second; Town Clerk and Treasurer, Bernard C. Hanley; Auditor, Richard R. Murray; Collector of Taxes, Patrick J. Murphy; Constable, George Kealy, Arthur H. Adams, Ph Taylor, Joseph Brunelle; Registrar of Voters, First District, Olney T. Hulett Second District, Patrick J. Murray Town School committe members, Harold B. Pinney, for three years; Benjamin Phelps, for one year.

Charles B. Pinney was chairman of the Democratic caucus and Richard R Murray acted as clerk.

At the Republican caucus the following ticket was nominated: Assessor for three years, John M. Larned; Board of Relief, three years, Francis L. Upham; Selectmen, Anders Jacobsen, first; James Sheppard, Jr., second; Town Clerk and Treasurer, J. Carl Converse; Collector of Taxes, Charles Doherty; Constables, Thomas J. Hayes Irving Reynolds, Moll Bradway, Ernest E. Howell; Town School committee member, Robert H. Fisk, for three years; Auditor, H. R. Wightman; Registrar of Voters, 1st district, Francis L. Upham; 2nd district, George Siswick.

John R. Parkhurst was chairman of the caucus and George R. Towne was clerk.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Danielson is a stop station on the Boston-New York air mail route is a strong possibility. Warden Walter Anderson has assurance of this and is engaged in seeking a suitable place for the planes to land.

Several places that would be suitable have suggested themselves to Warden Anderson, but he is anxious to hear from anyone in this vicinity who has a field that could be used for such a purpose. What is desired is an open field on which runways extending in two directions may be constructed. A cleared distance of 1,000 feet in two directions is ample.

Use of any field for a landing station would not operate against its being used as a field for hay or for crops, so long as no construction of buildings is undertaken upon it.

Danielson is in the line of flight of the proposed Boston-New York mail route and at the right distance from Boston and Hartford to warrant selecting this town as a station for receiving air mail. When developed as planned, four air mails daily would be received and discharged here—two in each direction. At the start likely one stop a day would be made. The mail planes are scheduled to make only three stops in Connecticut. If Danielson furnishes a satisfactory field, it will be the eastern stop for the state. The central state stop will be at Hartford airport and the western stop at Naugatuck.

Following establishment of the air mail service the Danielson landing field is contemplated for the use of air lines that are to maintain a passenger service over the same route.

Bids for the contract of carrying mail over the Boston-Hartford-New York route were opened Tuesday afternoon at Washington.

A letter mailed in Danielson to go over this route and put aboard a plane here would be delivered in San Francisco in 56 hours.

Several fields that might be approved as landing stations and equipped with runways and the necessary markers and lights exist in Danielson. Some of these are on the West side, some to the east of Danielson and others to the south of the borough. All are within easy access of Danielson center and can be reached over good roads. Warden Anderson would be pleased to hear from anyone having an available field. It is presumed that the field selected would bring adequate financial return to the owner.

Danielson is undergoing a belated baseball enthusiasm. It wants a few good games before the season ends. With that in view, fans have approached Thomas McDermott, one of the most successful promoters of semi-professional ball that this area has known in years and requested that he put on a short series of games with some particularly strong club.

Manager McDermott, as he has been known for years, is not averse to doing this, he said Tuesday. He said that he would like two or three games with the Moosup team which has been going great guns, and that if he can get these he will put a team in the field that would be well worthy of representing Danielson, probably about the best team that has played under this town's banner in years.

A Danielson-Moosup series, it is intimated, would draw record crowds of the season for this section of eastern Connecticut. The territory is a bit baseball hungry and such a series as is mentioned would serve to appease its appetite and give the fans something to talk about during the "winter league season.

Charles B. Hutchins was in Norwich Monday, on a business trip.

Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., is to meet with Mrs. Deborah Atwood Thursday afternoon. Following the meeting there will be an informal reception for the new regent, Mrs. E. H. Keach and for the retiring regent, Miss Bernice Cogswell. The hostesses will be Mrs. Deborah Atwood, Mrs. Elizabeth Bidwell, Mrs. Sabin S. Russell, Miss Marion D. Chollar and Mrs. Helen S. Dowe.

Traffic is moving through without detour on the route from Morin avenue to Limville, where highway construction work is underway. Sections of trolley track that were torn up the past week in connection with the work being done have been replaced and the cars are running without transfer.

An epidemic of speeding seems to be overtaking motorists operating cars through this territory. Killingly court sessions of the week have been concerned with such cases and like sections will be prosecuted in the town court next Saturday. There are those who are tempted at times to exceed the maximum of 30 miles an hour allowed on the highways of Connecticut.

Observers of wild life in hunting lands within a few miles of Danielson, predict a satisfactory season for hunting game birds when the sport starts in October. More pheasants and more partridges are to be seen than for years past, and there appears to be an unusually large supply of rabbits this year. Coons are also said to be quite plentiful.

Radio listeners were tempted to give a cheer of delight, Tuesday, when static that has been so bothersome for more than a fortnight suddenly cleared up. Reception during the daylight hours of Tuesday, even, was very good.

It is indicated that the Eastern Connecticut Power company may run another high tension line into Danielson from the south to care for the ever increasing demand for power in this and surrounding territory, where a number of large manufacturing plants are deriving their power for operation, as well as lighting, from the power company.

There are those in Killingly who would go a step farther than a special committee of the town has gone in providing increased school facilities. Their plan is to build a new high school and turn the present high school into a graded school building. Their plan is based on the knowledge that the present graded school building off School street does not meet all the requirements of state educational officials.

Liquor raids across the Rhode Island border in communities within a few minutes ride of Danielson have thrown the dealers over there into a flurry and a general tightening up

PUTNAM

When court resumed, Charles M. Letters, the defendant, took the stand. He said that he was 43 years old, had lived all his live in Putnam, had been fish and game warden of the county for five years and had driven a car constantly during that time. He had been at East Thompson on official business and was coming back to Putnam when the accident occurred. He fixed the time at 5:30, said it was a misty, foggy afternoon and the same kind of an evening; it was difficult to see anything at a distance; he did not see the Dortt car until he was almost on it; he was traveling from 16 to 18 miles an hour. If the tail light was on he didn't see it. He had never been in an accident before.

Mrs. Beatrice Duffey and her husband Edward S. Duffey, who live on School street, testified that it was a dark day and looked like rain, that they had not followed their usual custom of taking the children for a ride on Sunday afternoon because of the weather. The latter said that it was dark when the accident occurred and that the fog obscured the view.

The attorneys took only a short time for arguments. Mr. Johnson said that he thought the affair was a case of gross negligence and that he was surprised that the defendant had attempted no explanation of it.

Judge Avery interrupted Mr. Torrey after a few minutes to say that as he viewed the testimony, an object was plainly visible at that time and on that street from a distance of at least 700 feet.

"Even so," asked Mr. Torrey "would that constitute gross negligence?"

"I so deem it," replied the court, "but there are many degrees of gross negligence and there are many things to be considered, but I can't understand why this man didn't see the car. I think he was probably driving at the rate of thirty miles. He may have had a moment of temporary aberration; the lights of a passing car may have blinded him for a moment, but in that event he should have slowed down."

"I am inclined to think that he is guilty, but I think the state's attorney's assumption of six months in jail would be too severe a punishment for a happening that Mr. Letters no doubt regrets as much as anyone. I will impose a fine of $500 and costs."

This amount was paid and Mr. Letters was discharged.

CHAS. M. LETTERS FINED $500 FOR MISS Mc CAULEY'S DEATH

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 15.—In Superior court here Tuesday afternoon Judge Christopher L. Avery found Charles M. Letters, county game warden, guilty of gross negligence, in the accident that caused the death of Miss Anna McCauley last December, and imposed a fine of $500 and costs.

Special States Attorney Bradford asked for a six months' jail penalty, but Judge Avery said that while he had no doubt but that the defendant was guilty there were so many circumstances to be considered that the fine of $500 would be an adequate penalty.

The testimony of the state was completed before the noon recess; the defendant took less than an hour in presenting his testimony and judgment and penalty were at once rendered.

The accident occurred December 7, 1924. Miss McCauley died a month later at the Day Kimball hospital. Following an inquiry by Coroner Arthur G. Bill Mr. Letters was held for manslaughter.

Howard C. Bradford, as special state's attorney, and Eric H. Johnson, prosecuted, and Mr. Letters was represented by Charles L. Torrey. He elected to be tried by court.

The first witness called was George W. Perry, city engineer, who exhibited a map of School street showing the scene of the accident and explained the location of buildings and the street and gave the relative distances.

Miss Florence A. Roberts of Manton, R. I., who owns and drove the car, a Dort, that was run into by Mr. Letters, was then called. She testified that on Sunday afternoon, December 7, of last year, she drove her car from Manton, R. I., which is a part of Providence to Putnam, arriving shortly before five o'clock.

With her was her sister, Ethelyn Roberts, her mother and Miss McCauley. Three miles out of the city she began to have trouble with the car and when she reached School street she stopped at Prentice's garage to ask if there was someone there who could repair it. She was directed to the garage further along the street, but at a point on School street, about 500 feet from the junction of the Providence highway the car stopped and she could not start it. Mr. Woodis, passing along the street offered his assistance and tried to fix the trouble, but was unable to. He saw and called Mr. Jocelyn. Miss Roberts had already alighted, and was followed by her sister, who got out on the right side and Miss McCauley, who got out on the left side.

"I looked back," said the witness, "and saw no car coming, then I looked toward Putnam and saw two bright lights a short distance ahead. A crash followed. I was knocked to one side and my car was knocked back about twenty-five feet. Following the crash I saw the Ford coupe which had struck me. Mr. Letters spoke to me and said, 'You should have had your tail light lighted.' I told him that all the lights were on."

Later, after Miss McCauley had been taken to the Day Kimball hospital he came back to look over my car. Then he said, 'I am going to fight this case and you will have to fight the State of Connecticut.' My mother spoke up and said, "it isn't us you are going to fight, it is that poor girl in the hospital." He said before that that $10 would pay all damages. Miss McCauley died about four weeks later."

In cross-examination she told Mr. Torrey that she had put her lights on thirty minutes before she reached Putnam and that they were all burning, that she had never had any trouble with them, that she could see without the lights when she put them on and when the accident occurred.

Dr. Seldon B. Overlock said that he had been a practicing physician and surgeon for thirty-six years and was the operating surgeon at the Day Kimball hospital. Miss McCauley was brought to the hospital according to the record about five o'clock. "I first saw her," he continued, "in the operating room between 5 and 6 o'clock. She was suffering from shock, was bloodless and one leg was crushed, and hanging by a thin shred of flesh. We amputated the leg at the knee joint. She never recovered her normal condition, owing to the shock and loss of blood. She died January 4, and would not have lasted so long except for her unusual vitality. She was a strong, healthy woman, weighed, I would judge about 160, and was 35 or 38 years old."

Ethelyn Roberts, sister of the former witness, corroborated her statements and then told of her alighting. She got out on the left hand side, walked around the rear of the car and had her hand resting on the right hand mudguard when she saw the Letters car almost on them. She jumped and escaped injury. Miss McCaulay got out of the right door and was standing about two feet from her. She heard the crash, then saw someone lying under the car and found it was Miss McCaulay. She said that the tail light was on when she got out of the car and that at the garage later it was found that the bulb had been broken.

Elbert F. Woodis of Walnut street, saw the stalled car and offered his help but being unable to locate the trouble he called to Mr. Jocelyn who was passing. The front lights were on, he did not see the rear of the car. He saw the lights of the Letters machine when it was but a few feet away and could not tell on which side he was going to pass. Then he realized that there was going to be a crash and took a step or two back. The Dort car was hurled back several feet; he saw the body of a woman under the Ford, and sent a bystander to the Prentice garage to call a physician and the ambulance and then gave what aid he could to the injured woman. He described in detail the manner in which the accident happened. The time, he said, was shortly after five o'clock and the day was clear and pleasant for that time of year. All the state's witnesses agreed as to the time and the clearness of the afternoon.

Mr. Peloquin saw the tall light burning before the accident.

Mrs. Anna C. Roberts, the mother of two witnesses agreed as to the time as far as she knew the statements of her daughters.

Edmond Jolicoeur of Plainfield, an insurance salesman, was returning from North Grosvenor-Dale when Mr. Letters passed him on School street. He judged that he was going twenty-five miles an hour.

Harry F. Prentice told of noticing that the tail light was on and said it was a clear evening. Harry F. Burton also declared that it was clear and objects at a distance were easily discernible.

During the noon recess Judge Avery and the lawyers visited the site of the accident.

Salt Believed Secret of Amatis

BERLIN, Sept. 15—The extraordinary resonance of the famous Amati violins is due to the fact that they were stained with lime salts. German violin makers believe. The cause of the remarkable tone of the instruments has been a secret, but it is now claimed to come from the salts remaining imbedded in the pores of the wood.

COMMANDER RODGERS

Not because he wasn't appreciative of the recognition extended to him when Secretary Wilbur made him assistant chief of the bureau of aeronautics did Commander Rodgers of the PN-9 No. 1 advise the secretary that he would personally prefer to remain on sea duty with airplanes, but because it is his preference. That is what he likes but he is a true naval officer and is ready to obey orders to go as he says where his services will be more valuable to the department."

Commander Rodgers holds to the belief that the PN-9 No. 1 should be put in condition and another chance given him to make the flight to the Hawaiian islands. This indicates his confidence that it can be accomplished and that the ship which was obliged to alight for lack of fuel can cover the distance. It is in marked contrast to the attitude which has been displayed by Colonel Mitchell in making his charges against the air service of the army and navy. He admitted that he did not have the facts and yet he declared that "the conduct of these departments has been so disgusting in the last few years as to make any self respecting person ashamed of the clothes he wears." That certainly isn't the sentiment of Commander Rodgers. He hasn't become disgusted either with the service or with the clothes. He hasn't launched into a tirade against the department. He hasn't sought to be lifted into higher places and yet when the appointment comes to him he indicates his preference to remain where he is. There is a note of satisfaction in his statement which completely routs the assault made by the demoted officer. He wants to remain in the role of one who does something, but he is ready for service wherever it is believed he can render the greatest help. That in itself, entirely aside from the high ability displayed in handling the PN-9 No. 1, indicates the desirable type of an air official, a type that stands out in strong contrast with some others.

MAINE'S VOTE

Maine hasn't gone entirely to the point of abandoning its policy against the exportation of power developed within its limits from natural and artificial sources, but it appears to have lowered the bars in its action on the referendum concerning the incorporation of a company which plans to harness the tides of Fundy in Passamaquoddy bay and distribute such electrical energy as is developed therefrom. Maine by giving such approval to the action of the legislature is going contrary to the attitude taken concerning the utilization of water power which is constantly going to waste within that state, but it is possible that it may be the forerunner of further action in this direction.

Much is going to depend, of course, upon the success of the enterprise on Passamaquoddy bay. Harnessing the tides which have such a great rise and fall is not a new idea. It has been talked for ages and it is to be hoped that present day engineering ability can demonstrate whether there is any real merit to it. The voters of Maine have removed one of the obstacles which stood in the way from a legal standpoint, for if such a project is going to amount to anything, provided it is a success, there must be an outlet for its product. Maine cannot furnish a market for all the electrical energy that it is assured can be developed, but the field outside of Maine is large and the demand great, while transportation of electricity over long distances is entirely feasible these days.

In another way the people of Maine have acted in a manner to interest a large number of outsiders. This was in connection with the increase in highway expenditures and the sanctioning of the construction of a bridge over the Kennebec, the cost of which will be met by rental to the Boston & Maine and by tolls collected from those who will otherwise use it. This is an instance of contributing to the convenience of the public which is traveling to such a large extent these days by motor, and it will be a convenience which the motoring public will be glad to get and pay for. Maine acts wisely and well.

DAWES PERSISTS

When Vice President Dawes set out to bring about a change in the senate rules he was cognizant of the task ahead of him. He knew what to expect from the senate, or at least a part of it, and he realized that if effective and lasting results were to be obtained they must come through an appeal to the people. It was a case where the senate could duck and dodge until it had got its mandate from the people. Thereafter some regard for what should be done to overcome undesirable conditions might be expected.

As in most cases there may be two sides to the question as to how the senate should remodel its rules, or whether it is actually necessary in order to obtain efficient results. It can be pointed out that the senate can overcome the objectionable conditions without any change. But that of course would require every member to place the general welfare above personal views and interests and that is more easily said than done. Ideally it might be expected that the senate would function as it was expected to and that one or two would not undertake to thwart action by the rest, but the ideal is not always obtained in practice and senate records plainly show it.

Vice President Dawes let it be known that he would make a trip about the country in behalf of the reform which he has championed. He is true to his word. He has spoken at various points in the east and he is now setting forth his views in Pacific coast states. As to the results he expects it is to be remembered that the vice president set this accomplishment as his goal during his term in office. That clearly cannot be taken to mean that he expects to get immediate results. It is something he believes will take time but he is prepared to dig in for a long assault and will be satisfied if results are obtained only after a long campaign. He is convinced of the need of the revision of the senate rules which he seeks and he is giving it first hand to the country.

THE MACKINAC

It is reported in connection with the towing of the steamer Mackinac from Pawtucket to New York for extensive repairs that in its passage down the river it "was the object of vituperation, and maledictions were hurled at her all along four miles of shore and from the four bridges through which she passed."

There can be no doubt about the feeling that prevails over the loss of 53 lives on that steamer when a defective boiler blew up and caused so great a loss of life. Perhaps it is natural that the vessel should be regarded as a jonah and maledictions should be hurled at it, but it should be remembered that it was not the construction or the action of the vessel itself that was at fault but the manner in which those who had charge of it handled the conditions that existed thereon.

The Mackinac is not an old boat in term of years, but it has apparently been abused. There have been those in charge of it, especially those connected with the engineering department, who have been disposed to tolerate a deterioration and who have failed to maintain repairs. The inquiries which have been made indicate that there was also a failure to comply with the laws which are imposed upon engineers in connection with providing safeguards against just what happened, while the need of more frequent and thorough inspections than the vessel received seems to be clearly established.

The Mackinac was not to blame because it was abused. The blame for the tragedy in Newport harbor lies elsewhere for which punishment can be expected in due time. And yet the Mackinac will never be forgotten. It will always have a black eye in the sight of many people.

NATION'S TRAFFIC LOSS

According to figures which have been given out by the department of commerce, and based upon data gathered by a committee of the national conference on street and highway safety, there is a two billion dollar loss in life, accidents, time wasted through congestion, depreciated real estate values and in other ways because of the lack of properly developed traffic facilities and their control.

This is a large sum of money to waste each year. It represented $20 for every individual in the country and it indicated that constantly increased attention must be given to relieving this situation.

There isn't a community, large or small, but what realizes the effects of the highway congestion that exists today, and in most instances there are steps being taken or considered for their relief. What has been done or what is being done is only evidence which points to what can be expected in the future. Congestion must be overcome, traffic must be guided so that there will be a utilization of more avenues, adequate street facilities must be provided and those conditions which operate so prominently in bringing about the loss of life, accidents and congestion must get the attention they need. Negligence simply means that they will be continued and increased. Thought must be given to the conditions which are growing worse each year, before the problems become any worse. Thus it is well that the department of commerce is furnishing data concerning such matters at this time. It is enlightenment from which cities can obtain much information. We often recognize the delays and the regrettable accidents but we do not always think of the effect in dollars and cents.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Where there's smoke there's fire, but that doesn't always mean a still."

The republican caucus for the nomination of town officers will be held tonight. All republicans should be in attendance.

Inasmuch as General Dawes admits that Colonel Stanton taught him to swear, it might be interesting to learn who taught Colonel Stanton.

For a man who ought to be well grounded when he talks, Colonel Mitchell seems to be pretty much up in the air and hot air aeronautics make short flights.

It is both a compliment to the ability of Senator Bingham and the judgment of Connecticut in sending him to Washington when the President picks him as a member of the special board to conduct the air probe.

Colonel Mitchell seems to be to blame for the loss of the Shenandoah. He should have known what was going to happen and stopped it, instead of rushing up with a lot of criticisms after something has happened.

TANTICS OF THE ANCIENT

"I read a funny book the other day," said the wide-eyed flapper. "It was written a good many years ago, because the covers were loose, and when the hero proposed to the girl he got down on one knee and, trembling and blushing and with his heart nearly strangling him, he offered her his heart's devotion and begged her to honor him with her hand. I'd give a nickel to know if they really acted like that!"

"What joy!" chortled the cute flapper. "I'd die laughing if a man got down on his knees to tell me he loved me! Why, they don't even tell you that nowadays! 'How about it?' they are apt to say. 'Let's make a go of it, what?' Snappy and to the point, and it doesn't interfere with whatever is going on. Did you say he blushed?"

"My dear, he had heart failure for weeks before he could muster up courage to ask her!" declared the wide-eyed flapper. "He went around saying things like unworthy-worm-that-I-am and angel-that-thou-art and turning pale and anguished!"

"I don't think I could stand a man who blushed," said the cute flapper decidedly. "Blushing just isn't done at all, even by the girls, because they don't want to be coy. One must keep a pose of blase calm and dignity that nothing can ruffle. Did it wreck him with the girl?"

"Oh," gurgled the wide-eyed flapper, "you'd never believe that girl! Before he proposed to her she had cast herself in a flood of happy tears upon the bosom of her parent, who had timidly suggested that Thaddeus seemed to be paying his respects in her direction. 'Mother!' she had twittered, 'could it be my happy fate to wed with one so noble, so beautiful and grand as Mr. Lampwick? Oh, that I were more worthy of this great blessing.'"

"See here, Al," the cute flapper broke in reproachfully, "stick to the text and don't go inventing—"

"I couldn't make up anything half so good!" declared the wide-eyed flapper. "Men must have been just as scarce in those days as they are now, judging from Lydia's nervous perturbation.

"Courting a girl then must have been just as pleasant as spending three hours in the teeth of a beartrap. Thaddeus had to hold a cup of tea in one hand, a crumpet in the other and listen respectfully while Lydia's mamma inquired tenderly as to his cold in the head, the health of his good parents and commented on the frivolity of the world and the grandparents watched him and sniffed and the aunts watched him and tossed their noses disapprovingly. Lydia sat primly in a chair clear across the room and if she and Thaddeus looked at each other simultaneously it affected her so she had to grab her smelling salts. I can't make out what ailed the girl because nothing was said about her being feeble-minded. Perhaps they never had but one chance at a proposal and were wildly nervous for fear he'd get away.

"My trouble has been in chasing them away," sighed the cute flapper. "If I ever meet a man whose glance reduces me to fainting I'll hire an orchestra! It's this on-the-knee business that interests me! They might get away with kneeling to propose, but I defy any man in any country to get up off his knees without crashing the scenery and jolting the atmosphere out of plumb! Just what would you do if a man told you he was an unworthy worm?"

"I'd agree with him," the wide-eyed flapper said instantly. "But I guess they don't grow that way any more. Maybe it would be sort of nice to hear a man talk who didn't think something would happen to the axis of the earth if he took a nap or wasn't otherwise around to see to running things! And propose to you as though he had thought about it longer than three minutes ago! Thaddeus in the book was funny—but he was sorta nice after all!"

"Poor dear!" mused the cute flapper, powdering her nose carefully. "And just think—he lived and died and never knew us!"—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Hamlin Garland, who is in line for congratulations today on his sixty-fifth birthday anniversary, is a novelist and dramatist of the middle west, whose fiction attracted considerable attention in the nineties, and who for awhile was a popular contributor to periodical literature. Of late years he has been less prolific and consequently less prominent. He is a native of Wisconsin and his only formal schooling was received in a small Iowa academy. Then he taught school for awhile in Illinois. Boston and the fame of its authors and publishers drew him thither in the eighties, and it was encouragement given to him by William Dean Howells, who then lived in Boston, that led the young author to bring forth Main Traveled Roads, a book which almost immediately established his reputation as a novelist.

Stories That Recall Others

Tough

The family had corn on the cob for dinner. It wasn't very tender, so father remarked: "This corn is so tough you can't get your teeth into it."

"Oh, no, papa," spoke up the son, five years old, "you can get your teeth into it but you can't get them out of it."

"Sundae Would Be Too Late

This concerns the day before the auto. A 16 year old lad dressed up in his first suit of long trousers and equipped with a brand new polka dot tie and a standup collar boarded the train for the city, 15 miles away, for a big celebration. He had a mania for ice cream sodas which could not be bought in his home town. Many were the stories he had heard regarding city lads ridiculing the country lads by playing tricks on them and this day he had that particularly in mind.

One of his first acts on arriving was to hunt up a soda fountain and call for a soda. The clerk said something about the fountain being out of order, but suggested: "We can give you an ice cream sundae."

Highly incensed at what he thought was an assault upon country appearance he indignantly replied: "I don't want it Sunday, I want it now."

As he turned on his heel and proudly stalked out of the establishment, feeling that he had turned the joke on the soda clerk, he muttered: "These city slickers can't fool me."

From Small Beginnings

Abraham Lincoln, the Backwoods Boy, The Great Emancipator

The tall, muscular, backwoods boy rested his axe on the ground and with instant wit answered the man who had tried to poke fun at him. "You can't beat Abe," said another. "He'll git ye every time." "Abe" stood laughing, looking kindly at the man whom he had answered. They were all rough backwoodsmen, and they were accustomed to lighten their hard work by rough but friendly talk.

Like the others, "Abe" was dressed in coarse, heavy clothes. Like them he had calloused hands and a tanned face. Like them he was strong, vigorous, and self-reliant: "An ordinary workman," anyone would have said.

Today that tall, rough "workman" is remembered everywhere in the world, not because he raised himself to great power, but because he wielded power always for the good of others. His heart was always as simple and kindly as when he answered backwoods jests.

Born in a rough log hut on the frontier; obliged to work hard even from childhood; beset with difficulties—he mastered fate. With no opportunity for school or college he borrowed books and read by the flickering light of the fireplace. Woodman, storekeeper, boatman, captain of volunteers, postmaster, surveyor—whatever work he did he did with a will, and kept his good heart, whatever happened. He made himself a country lawyer, entered political life, and became such a shrewd opponent for his antagonists that he was recognized as a genius. In 1858 his famous debates with Stephen A. Douglas brought him before the nation, and two years later he was elected president.

Power did not change him. He was to the last the simple, kindly man he had always been. He was shrewd in directing armies, patient in adversity; and kindly and unassuming. His freeing of the slaves was a typical act. His supreme goodness of heart and the fact that he always followed the eternal principles of right, made him a ruler such as the world never saw before.

The Great Storm

When Mother Nature takes a hand
'Tis well to heed her least command.
—Buster Bear.

Every so often Buster Bear visited the big tree in the Green Forest, which he knew contained the summer's store of honey of Busy Bee and her relatives. Those visits were useless. He knew that. He knew he couldn't get at that honey. But, just the same he had to go around there and look at the tree every so often, and when he did stand there looking up at that tree how he did long for some means of getting at that honey. His tongue would hang out of his mouth and the water would drip from it. Yes, sir, it would so. But it was useless. Strong as he was he couldn't tear open that tree to get at that honey.

He was over there one afternoon when it began to grow dark very rapidly. It wasn't time for the Black Shadows to come creeping out from the Purple hills but it grew dark even faster than had it been time for them. Buster had an uneasy feeling, an uncomfortable feeling. It became very, very still there in the Green Forest. The only sound to be heard was the constant calling of Stickytoes the Tree Toad.

"He's calling for rain and I guess he is going to get it," muttered Buster, sniffing the air and swinging his head from side to side.

Not a leaf stirred. If grew still darker. Long, deep roars of thunder warned that it was going to be a bad storm. Buster hurriedly turned and shuffled away toward a certain cave deep in the Green Forest—a cave where he would be dry and safe and comfortable. He didn't like the feeling that coming storm gave him. He was just at the entrance to the cave when the first great big drops came pattering down. Then how it poured! It grew almost as black as night. The lightning flashed and the thunder crashed and the trees smashed and the rain dashed, and Buster just curled up in a ball. He was scared. Yes, sir, he was scared. Big as he was, he was scared. And he knew that all the other little people in the Green Forest were scared too.

The wind twisted branches from the trees and blew some trees over, and altogether it was one of the worst storms that ever had visited the Green Forest. It was no wonder that even big Buster Bear was frightened. With his head tucked under he couldn't see the lightning, but he could hear the crashing of the thunder and the smashing of the trees as they fell, and it seemed to him that this must be the end of everything. You may be quite sure that he forgot all about Busy Bee and her honey. He actually whimpered. One tree fell right across the entrance to Buster's cave. He squealed right out when that crashed down.

But the little people of the Green Forest, and the big people, too, for that matter, forget their troubles as soon as they are over. The storm passed. Buster could hear the thunder tumbling, and rolling, but it was far away. It had stopped raining. Buster promptly decided to go out and see what had happened. But getting out wasn't so easy. That tree that had fallen across the entrance to his cave had made him a prisoner for the time being. It was only by tugging and pushing and digging and working very hard indeed that he managed to get out. When at last he was free he set out to see what had happened elsewhere. Everybody else was out for the same purpose. And plenty had happened. Yes, indeed, plenty had happened. In one place a whole lot of trees had been blown over in one heap—torn right up by the roots. That was where the wind had been at its wind full. Buster looked it over. "That may be useful by and by," said he to himself, and went on his way. And so it was that he came at last to the greatest surprise of his life.

SOCIOLOGICAL MARRIAGE EXPERIMENT IS FAILURE

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 15.—(AP)—A sociological experiment through marriage resulted in failure recently when a divorce was granted Mrs. Mary Converse Essick, college graduate and daughter of an aristocratic Boston family. The decree ended her marriage to Charles Essick, a former convict of the Colorado penitentiary. Mrs. Essick was given the custody of their three children.

After receiving high honors in sociology and kindred sciences, Miss Converse left college and went to New York to engage in social service work in 1919. There she met Essick, who had been released a short time before from the penitentiary and had been aided by Thomas Mott Osborne, former warden of Sing Sing. Osborne gave the convict a position in his prison investigation bureau in New York. As social workers the couple came together on equal ground. Her studies had imbued her with sympathy and understanding for the criminal. Thus their acquaintance developed into a romance.

They were married Sept. 13, 1920, at Mount Hope, Ida., and went to live in Colorado.

NOTED FILM DIRECTOR LAUDS NEWSPAPER WRITERS' TALENTS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Sidney Olcott, generally believed to be one of the three highest salaried directors in the motion picture business, recently expressed the conviction that the great screen writers and directors of the future will come from the ranks of newspaper men and women.

Olcott went a step farther and declared that the film industry should capitalize the "nose for news," trigger-like habit of decision, knack of getting details and close-up knowledge of human nature which he said every capable newspaper man or woman possessed.

Singling out Melville E. Stone, veteran counselor of The Associated Press, as an outstanding example to prove his point, the film director said that Mr. Stone embodied the requirements of a writer or director that would have carried him to the very top had he chosen to turn his talents into the field of the silent drama.

BULL DEMOLISHES PLANE FORCED DOWN IN PASTURE

SOIGNIES, Belgium, Sept. 15.—(A. P.)—An infuriated bull vented its ire upon a disabled airplane recently and when the animal concluded that its job had been done the machine was beyond repair. The airplane carrying eight passengers from Paris to Brussels was forced down by a defective motor and landed in a pasture 15 miles from Brussels.

The bull, aroused by the chugging of the motor, made straight for it, while the pilot and passengers jumped out and made their escape in a mad rush across the field. The animal charged the machine again and again and kept at his work of destruction until the passengers got out of the danger zone.

MUST HAVE MORE IN BEAUTY CONTEST

It became known Tuesday evening that there was a possibility that the beauty contest scheduled for the New London County Fair might be called off unless there was a decidedly better response from young women wishing to enter the contest. Secretary Ross of the Fair association said Tuesday evening that the entry list was far too small to ever consider putting on the contest and unless there was a large number of entries today (Wednesday) he would feel obliged, out of fairness to the public, to call the beauty contest off.

Mr. Ross said that it would be useless to attempt to stage a beauty contest with any less than 5 contestants and far from that number had sentered. If the contest is called off the young women who have entered the contest will have their entry returned to them by registered mail.

The secretary of the fair urges the young women of New London county to file applications today as the entry list will be closed this evening. It is the last chance for the young women and they are urgently requested to send in their names that the contest may take place.

OBITUARY

Frederick W. Lester

In the death Tuesday morning of Frederick W. Lester, Norwich loses one of its distinguished citizens. A descendant of Capt. John Mason, one of the original settlers of Norwich, the roots of Mr. Lester's life were deep in the heart of the community. Born July 25, 1872, here he was educated; here he found his avenues of work; and here he evidenced the sturdiness, integrity and ability to work, which have left their mark upon the town.

In a unique manner Mr. Lester was the rare combination of practical man and idealist. Business and art gave to him unusual balance. His influence in the first was that of keen worker and capable advisor; his authority in the second was that of leader in the interpretation of the beauty of music. At the time of his death he was secretary of the trustees of the Wm. W. Backus Hospital; treasurer of the Y. M. C. A.; director of the Chelsea Savings Bank; treasurer of the Otis library; treasurer of the United Congregational church; secretary of the Masonic Temple Corporation; in each one of which responsible position he had made himself invaluable, by the precision of his methods, and the punctilious care he gave to each detailed duty. Many a business man of the city is deeply indebted to him for the example of honorable work done with minute loyalty and excellence.

In Masonic circles, the regard of his brethren for his worth brought to him due recognition. Raised in Somerset lodge by his father, Past Master Daniel M. Lester, Mr. Lester became Master in 1900. He was a member of Franklin Chapter and Franklin Council. He was knighted in Columbia Commandery by his father, and since 1904 has been the recorder of that body. He has been treasurer of the Scottish Rite bodies since 1919, and incorporator of the Masonic Temple Corporation since 1910. The highest honor of Honorary 33d Degree was conferred upon him by the supreme council of the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, U. S. A., Sept. 16, 1919.

But business and fraternal duties were only a portion of a life that made even larger contributions to Norwich. These were avocations. Music was his greatest talent and medium. The cultural life of Norwich has been advanced greatly by the sincere efforts of Mr. Lester to interpret uncompromisingly the best in music. His knowledge there was not provincial, but comprehensive. Feeling and insight went hand in hand. Instinctively he knew the meanings, and possessed the technique to interpret them. As accompanist he always subordinated his part, with gracious intent to aid rather than to dominate, thereby prompting the performer with a desire to excel. As teacher he has given to many a youth in Norwich not only lessons in the use of chosen instruments, but the rich example of kindness and the stimulus of high expectations. For thirty-five years as director of music and organist at the present United Congregational church he has left an indelible impression of great music as a means of understanding some of the beauty of God. Violin, piano and organ became, in his hands, not ends in themselves, but the means by which greater ends were perceived.

A wide-spread friendship, wrought out by Mr. Lester's personality, extends sympathy of sincere kind to his wife, Mrs. Susan M. Lester, and his daughters, Mrs. John Barrows of Rochester, N. Y., and Mrs. G. Carleton Carpenter, of Westfield, N. Y., his sister, Mrs. Frederick H. Cranston, of Norwich, his brother, Frank Lester of Pawtucket, R. I.; and his stepmother, Mrs. Frances D. Lester of this city, who survive him.

Louis A. Wheeler

The death of Louis Avery Wheeler occurred just before midnight Tuesday at his home No. 155 West Thames street, following a period of failing Health for the past two or three years. His entire life has been spent in this city where he was born Oct. 16, 1877 and where in business, church and social circles he was held in the sincere esteem that a winning personality and exemplary life deservedly brought to him.

Mr. Wheeler was the son of Avery Denison Wheeler and Ella Gallup Wheeler. He obtained his education in Norwich schools and for the largest part of his business life had been a traveling salesman for the Norwich Belt Manufacturing Co., having been with them for 30 years. He belonged to the Masonic bodies in this city, was a member of the Norwich Rotary club and had sung tenor at the United Congregational church for 20 years. He was one of the original choir boys of Christ church.

In this city Oct. 16, 1902 he was married to Maude Perkins by Rev. Herbert E. Wise, pastor of the First Baptist church. His wife survives him and he also leaves a sister, Mrs. F. Leon Hutchins, and two uncles, Henry H. Gallup of Washington street and Charles D. Gallup of Laurel Hill avenue.

Mrs. Alphonse Goodrow

Mrs. Mary Goodrow, 61, widow of Alphonse Goodrow, of 165 Central avenue, died in this city Tuesday afternoon following a short illness. She was born in Canada and had made her home in Greeneville for many years. Surviving are two sons, Joseph Googrow of Norwich, and Ernest Goodrow of New London, and a daughter, Mrs. Josephine Glover of Brazil, and four grandchildren.

INTERNATIONAL PRESIDENT IS GUEST OF ROTARY DISTRICT CONCLAVE

Tuesday's session of the annual Fall conclave of the Rotary 30th district being held at the Hotel Griswold at Eastern Point proved to be a very interesting one for the 500 delegates attending the conclave from the 87 clubs in the district.

The breakfast meeting opened the day's session in a most inspiring way and the crisp, cool air of the morning put plenty of life into this meeting. Following the breakfast the golf-playing Rotarians adjourned to the Shennecossett golf course where the quest of the district golfing title was taken up.

The ladies left after breakfast, meeting for a sail on the Nelseco II up the beautiful and historic Thames to Norwich, the Rose of New England, returning in time for the luncheon meeting. The sail was thoroughly enjoyed by the ladies, many remarking that the Thames might well be called the Hudson of New England, so beautiful is its scenery, especially at this time of year when the foliage is just turning to brilliant reds and yellows.

Visit to Submarine Base

Some of the men of a more adventurous nature accepted the invitation of Capt. King of the U. S. Submarine

DONALD A. ADAMS
International President

Base to visit the government reservation and take a trip down the river to the Sound in one of the submarines. On arriving in a certain designated area the sub with its passengers slowly sank below the surface of the Sound and remained down for several minutes, giving its passengers something of a thrill and a few of the more timorous passengers had more or less anticipation about coming to the surface again. Altogether it was a wonderful trip.

Forum Meeting Held

While the ladies were taking their sail up the Thames and the adventurers were exploring the mysteries of the deep, the more serious-minded attended the Forum meeting in the ball room. District Governor Alison presided at this meeting, which was the only real business session of the conclave.

Gov. Alison opened the meeting with a brief talk regarding the objects of Rotary and introduced the speakers of the Forum.

The Ideal of Service as the basis of all Worthy Enterprise, was the subject of James S. E. Brinkerhoff of the Stamford club, and he stressed the advantages Rotary enjoys in being able to perform a great service, because of its non-sectarian and non-political character. Rotary, he said, is a world organization, progressive in ideals and built in a character such as lends it easily adaptible to the problems facing civilization. Rotary, like another organization which today spends large sums of money for crippled children, must continue to have a personal appeal.

Conditions today prove readily that society is not able to protect itself, that civilization is not protecting itself. That there is no adequate defense has recently been demonstrated by the cases of Loeb and that of Noel. What have we done for the underprivileged? We have done little for the underprivileged boy or girl, those things which we have done being only scratches on the surface of the thing. There are various classes of underprivileged children, the mentally or physically defective, the children who have lost parents and have been turned loose into society and the children of good homes who lack the necessary discipline of their parents. Cases before courts prove that 80 per cent of all crimes are committed by the underprivileged class. What is the remedy? The church cannot handle the problem for it is not fitted for the work, sectarian interests, if no others, making the work impossible. The remedy, therefore, must come from the state, for it is the duty of the state to prevent, as well as to punish crime. In Rotary as a non-sectarian and non-partisan organization may be found the answer. It is my hope that Rotary, backed by other bodies, if necessary, should assume the leadership in eradicating the troubles at the source of crime, aiding in the checkup of the underprivileged, thus starting a work which is bound to make the world safe for democracy and America safe for posterity.

On Ethical Standards

The next speaker of the Forum meeting was John F. Gannon of Pittsfield, Mass., who spoke entertainingly on "High Ethical Standards in Business and Professions." Mr. Gannon said that he thought the place to get at the root of this matter discussed by the previous speaker was in the education of the boys and girls of the community. Referring to his subject Mr. Gannon emphasized the need of fellowship in business and professional world. If a true fellowship exists, then good business ethics will prevail. The big story of all business clubs is not the "Hail fellow well met" but the underlying spirit of the service of fellowship. We need some of the spirit of athletic competition, clean competition. In illustrating his point the speaker referred to a ball-game in Williamantic. We should learn the athletic spirit of give and take with a smile and not let the little setbacks eat our hearts out. Always remember the other fellow has a right to think the same as we and it may prove that he is right.

We should learn not to doubt the sincerity of the Rotarian. Sincerity to humanity should be one of our ideals of best Rotary.

The next talk was by Curtis Emery of the Newport Rotary club Vermont, who spoke upon the application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to her personal business and community life.

Rotary, he said, and other organizations of like nature, are the salvation of the world. Churches are doing a great work but they have a sectarian hold which does not hinder the work of Rotary. The greatest thing before us is Rotary extension for the world is in need of the principles upon which Rotary is founded. Our work in spreading Rotary throughout the world is one which should be followed with interest, for by sending Rotary about the world we spread that which is good for the spirit of Rotary is Right and Right is Rotary.

Speaker From Holyoke.

Charles A. Chase of the Holyoke club took for his topic "Acquaintanceship as an opportunity for service in Rotary." Rotary education is a great thing and we use it to instill the principles of Rotary in the members. When the electrical engineer sits down at lunch with the electoral politician and they discuss things they find that getting electoral votes and getting electrical volts, both are liable to get something of a shock.

Acquaintanceship is an education in itself and in our contact with the other fellow we learn something that is beneficial to ourselves. Mr. Chase's talk was along a humorous nature, but the underlying thought was that true friends have no solitary joy or sorrow. We have many differences of politics and creed but through Rotary these imaginary boundary lines are obliterated and we come to a realization that through friendship we can pull together for the good of the community.

In stressing his point on getting acquainted and learning something from our neighbor at the luncheon he quoted a story that was recently printed in the Bulletin of the Chemical National Bank of New York under the caption "No Pork in Pig Iron": Mr. Rogers, a well known lawyer of Chicago, filed an argument when he made application to register a trade mark for "Limestone Brand," a cathartic medicine. The application was denied by the examiner of trade marks on the ground that the product contained no limestone.

Mr. Rogers immediately wrote back to the examiner as follows: Ivory is a good trade mark for soap not made of ivory. Gold Dust washing powder is not made of gold. Old Crow whiskey is not distilled from old crows. There is no bull in Bull Durham. Royal baking powder is not used exclusively by royalty, nor is Cream baking powder made from cream. Pearline contains no pearls and White Rock is water. There is no grape in grapefruit or bread in breadfruit. A pineapple is neither pine nor apple; a prickly pear is not a pear; an alligator pear is neither a pear nor an alligator, and a sugar plum is no plum at all. Apple butter is not butter, all the butter is taken out of buttermilk and there is none in butternuts or buttercups and the flies in the dairy are not butterflies."

Mr. Chase said that we cannot tell what a person is by the label by which he is known. Get acquainted and learn about your fellowman and his ideals about the community in which you live.

Speaks For Good Will

The final talk of the forum was delivered by Benjamin T. Marshall of the New London Rotary club, who elected to speak on the advancement of understanding, good will, and international peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the Rotary ideal of service.

The subject assigned to me, said Dr. Marshall, is a particularly interesting one for it affords an opportunity for vision and invites us to advance and embrace the world with our thoughts. I know of no greater compliment or one so significant as that paid a person when someone remarks that he is an understanding person. The great war had its roots in misunderstanding and ignorance. The great task before us is to advance understanding and learn to appreciate the desires and to sympathize with the beliefs of the other person, other people and other nations.

Such a task calls for the very best that is in us, and ought to be congenial to every American. It is our mission as Americans and as Rotarians to advance in this direction. By cultivating understanding and good will we are able to wipe out all ignorance and prejudice. We hear it said: "How I hate that man." This is all wrong, it is based on misunderstanding for if that man becomes known to us, if we learn the real truth about him, we can no longer say we "hate him" for there will be something about him which we will like, we are certain to find some good points about the man which had never been seen before, we understood him. Surely we must find something to love in him.

Sympathy is a tremendous welding influence. Sympathy has a deep meaning. It means to suffer for or to feel with a person. It does not mean a feeling for one in trouble or in pain. Sympathy means a sharing of joys as well as sorrows. I hope we are not unmindful of the pain and suffering about us. We cannot look around us, we are unable to search out any land without seeing the suffering and anguish of its people. We cannot be world wide or local in our views without being touched, without having that feeling of sympathy.

Speak concerning the advancement of good will. Love is not simply a mere physical attraction. Love is not an appeal of beauty, form, soft hands or any such things. Love is good will in action. Love is that sublime thing which Christ radiated. It is not a soft pungy thing. It is a firm, rugged and splendid thing. When you recommend the advancement of good will you are urging the advancement of love.

In the union of professional and business men this country offers great possibilities, the same thing being true for all people owing to the composite nature of our people. There are many strains in most of us, therefore we should readily become acquainted with, and foster pleasant relations with the people who come to our land. We have a chance to become acquainted with them in our public schools. Let us begin the practice of good will at home, begin with the man at our elbows. This is the place to begin the practice of good will.

An international mind does not mean that the national mind shall become smaller. We should remember that regardless of race, color or creed, we are all children of the one God on high.

The mission of the daily press is great, but we do not have the press simply for the sporting news, last of all for those impossibly funny sections. The mission of the press is to push out our horizons, thus the foreign news has become the most important feature of the press. No man should allow a day to pass without circling the world with his thought. It should be a daily habit, this world wide vision, for it is one of the best ways of broadening and enriching the mind.

If Rotary extension means the enlarging of vision and a broadening of the mind, then the world vision of Rotary is most worthy and should command our attention. Your Rotary emblem shows that the rim of the wheel is not smooth. It is a cogged wheel. It is cogged that it may merge with other similar wheels which are turning in a world wide usefulness. It then becomes a matter of attitude and spiritual interest. The life of Christ, that of the teacher, the scholar or the business man, indicates what comes of these two things. It is a matter of attitude first, then the desire to project the mind outward encircling the world with good will.

World fellowship is possible, said Dr. Marshall, the league of nations clearly shows how the world is lit up with this idea of world fellowship. We are on the way to the realization of these things. I hope this country will soon enter the world court, later the league of nations. Because of our composite fellowship, with America's ideals of justice and freedom this country is certain to make an immense contribution of understanding, good will and peace, which, through the league of nations, shall encompass the world. Rotary's ideal of service is the first step in the march toward world fellowship and the circling of the world with love, which is good will in action.

Dr. Marshall closed his talk with an appeal to all Rotarians for the sounding of a high, significant note at every Rotary meeting. It should be the objective of Rotary, said Dr. Marshall, to foster the spirit of friendliness and pleasure, but, above and biggest of all, purposes of Rotary should be the sounding of some lofty ideal, something in every meeting which pushes a man upward, creates in him that urge for higher and nobler achievement. This, said Dr. Marshall, is the first and highest principle of Rotary, and the thing which is preached by the cogged wheel on the Rotary emblem.

Noon Luncheon.

The noon luncheon was in charge of the Pittsfield, Mass., club, with President Allen Bagg presiding. It was one of the snappiest meetings of the conclave and one noticeable feature was the spirited singing led by Bert Brewer, the energetic song leader of the luncheon.

As the Rotarians assembled in the dining hall they were directed to tables reserved for the various clubs by Bill Butler, doled up as a traffic officer, badge 'n everything. Bill kept traffic moving and took no arguments from anyone.

After Grace had been asked by Rev. Harold Vincent, sky pilot of the Pittsfield club, the meeting got underway in full swing. The "Acquaintance" song introduced by the "Hillies" was a decided hit.

There were many attractive features to the luncheon, one of which was the address, by Pres. Bagg. Mr. Bagg expressed the general feeling of the Rotarians when he said that without

CHARGED WITH FAILING TO PAY TAXI FARE

Charged with evading payment of a taxi fare, Benjamin Brisco, colored, 37, will be presented in city court this (Wednesday) morning. The charge against Brisco resulted from a taxi ride which he took along with Joseph Mazarelli, Italian, of 325 Broad street, and Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, 39, of this city, formerly of New London. During the late afternoon Tuesday, Brisco, it is alleged, hired Frank Krupenski to drive him uarty to Forest street. They were driven to Forest street where they got out of the machine to make a visit.

About seven o'clock in the evening Krupenski was again called upon to take them in the machine from Forest street. He responded to the call and drove them around the vicinity of the fairgrounds, and it is alleged, that the taxi driver, seeing but little prospect of collecting his fare, drove the party to the police station, where they were booked on charges of intoxication. Brisco was charged with evading payment of the taxi fare. The three were all looked up for the night.

NOTES OF ACTIVITIES BY NORWICH SCOUTS

Scout troops are starting their meetings for the fall in various parts of the city. This season Norwich Scouts are co-operating as usual with the New London County Fair association in setting up tents for various purposes at the fair grounds. A first-aid tent will be set up and provision made for aiding in any way needed by patrons and visitors at the fair.

Attention is called to the mutt dog show on Saturday, at which any one may enter a mutt dog, not a thoroughbred in competition for first, second and third prizes in eight classes, making twenty-four prizes altogether. Free admission will be given each boy who enters a dog.

Preparations are being made for a large Court of Honor at the city hall early in October for the award of a large number of merit badges earned at Camp Tippecan this past summer.

The report of Camp Tippecan's activities was read by the scout executive at a recent meeting of the executive committee and accepted. This year's report shows the largest and most successful season of the Norwich council camp. Considerable new equipment was purchased and is in storage for next season's camp. The completion of the log cabin, known as "The Tippecan Long House," will provide an opportunity for week end or overnight hiking this fall or winter.

The biennial scout executive conference for the New England district will be held Sept. 28 to Oct. 2, at Shanty Shane, Fairlee, Vermont. In addition to all the executives of New England, representatives of national and regional offices will be present.

The Mohawk Indian village at Springfield in the Eastern States Exposition will make a special feature of Indian tepees made by scouts. The exposition runs from Sept. 20 to Sept. 26. The scout executive advises that any scout interested in placing an exhibit and attending this exposition should get in touch with him. Anything may be exhibited. LEONARD-FERGUSON FUED TO BE RENEWED AT DUWELL A. C. SHOW

The feud between Sheik Leonard of Wallingford and Tracy Ferguson, also nailing from Wallingford, will be continued in the 10 round main bout of the card to be staged by the Duwell A. C. in this city on the evening of September 25th. This feud between Ferguson and Leonard started several years ago in Wallingford when both lads were just breaking in the ring game and has continued down through the years without abating in the least.

No love is lost between these two boys. They have fought round after round, stood toe to toe and slugged with all the power in the bodies but neither has been able to earn a decisive victory over the other. Their last encounter was in the semi-final bout to the Herman-Kaplan bout at Waterbury last month. In this bout which was a draw both boys threw science to the winds and slugged but without materially weakening the other. If fans expect to see the finer points of the game in this bout they will be disappointedted. But if they want to see a real fight they sure will get their money's worth and then some.

Another bout that brings a state champion to the Rose of New England is the semi-final bout in which Young Coulon of Taftville stacks up against Happy Rollison, recognized state flyweight champion. Rollison won the national amateur flyweight title last winter in Boston but soon deserted the simon-purses fo rthe more lucrative professional ranks. Coulon had a bout scheduled with Rollison early last spring at New Bedford but Rollison at that time was undecided about deserting the amateurs and the bout fell through. This will give the local lad the chance that he has long been waiting for and if he can get the verdict it will be a big step up the pugilistic ladder.

The other eight round bout brings Young Martin Flaherty of Lowell, Mass., a member of the famous fighting Flahertys against Izzy Kaplan of Meriden. Izzy Kaplan is a brother of Louis (Kid) Kaplan, world's featherweight champion.

There will be four round preliminary bout between two local boys who are not yet ready to announce their proposed intentions to the public.

HERMAN AND KAPLAN TO MEET AGAIN ON DEC. 18

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(A. P.)—Contracts for a return fifteen round featherweight championship fight between Babe Herman, former California boxer, and Louis (Kid) Kaplan, Meriden, Conn., titleholder, at the new Madison Square Garden on December 18, were signed today by Kaplan's management.

Herman, whose challenge and forfeit for a second title fight have been accepted by the New York Boxing Commission, is expected to sign within a few days, Garden promoters announced.

Kaplan successfully defended his title against Herman at Waterbury, Conn., several weeks ago by obtaining a draw with the challenger, but the verdict failed to meet with approval at the hands of Herman's friends. A rally by Kaplan in the closing rounds of the fight was considered by the referee, who gave the decision, as balancing a big point advantage piled up by Herman in the early rounds.

Assawaga Shuts Out Millville

DAYVILLE, Sept. 15. The Assawaga baseball team defeated Millville here Sunday by a 5-0 score. The Millville boys worked hard all the time and used town pitchers but could not score. Several times during the game they managed to get men on bases but could not get them home. McCabe pitched the first five innings for the visitors and Conway the balance of the game.

Lavelle, pitching for the local team, allowed only four scattered hits.

CONN. AGGIES HOLD THEIR FIRST PRACTICE OF SEASON

(Special to the Bulletin.)

STORRS, Conn., Sept. 15. The Connecticut Aggie football squad received its first real workout of the season here today, when Coach Dole put eighteen men through a strenuous two hour drill.

Men who reported today and yesterday are Captain Brink, Flenneman, Quigley and Glazier, ends; Hohn, Geissler, tackles; Bitgood, McAllister, Baker, Longo, Lorentzen, guards; Daly, center; Schofield, Filmer, Allard, Eddy, Moreland and Donovan, backs.

Of this group, eight are lettermen, and with Nanfeldt and Zollin, tackles, and Makofski, back, all lettermen expected tomorrow or the day after, Dole will have an experienced group of veterans with which to build his 1925 machine.

Doctor Symonds, the college physician examined the squad this morning, and was well pleased with the condition of the men. Like last year, the Aggie team is going to be light in weight, though Dole expects to have a heavier backfield than a year ago.

Assisting Dole today were Freshman Coach Alexander and "Red" O'Neil, Connecticut captain in 1923 and 1924. The customary two laps around the field and setting-up exercises led by Captain Brink was observed, after which the squad was divided into three sections. Dole worked with the backfield candidates, drilling them on quick starts, charging and pivoting. Alexander worked with the lineman on the same duties, while O'Neil put each squad through a gruelling session on the tackling dummy.

With the Wesleyan game coming Sept. 26, which means the Aggies have only nine actual practice days in which to prepare for it, Dole started today to impart formations and signals to his men. Walking through the plays was all that was attempted today, and Dole confined his work to a few plays of straight football.

Punting and down-the-field work on the part of all linemen was also indulged in today, and Eddy got off some twisting spirals that bid fair to equal those of his brother Maxon, who for the past four seasons was the Aggies' mainstay in the kicking department.

Tonight Dole met his squad for an hour of skull practice, when a blackboard talk was given on plays, rules and field tactics.

PHILLIES BREAK WINNING STREAK OF CARDINALS

OLD TIMERS PROVE TO BE NOT SO OLD

DANIELSON, Conn., Sept. 15—Danielson's Old Timers had little trouble in beating Lagace's town team to the tune of 9 to 5 Sunday at Conn. Mills grounds.

The Old Timers (and not so old at that) played a splendid game of ball and held the lead at all times.

Many who watched the game considered the Old Timers as one of the smoothest working outfits seen on local diamonds in many a day.

Lagace must admit that he will have to hunt around a little more before he can expect to beat such an aggregation of players. The score:

CHAPIN AND LOTT FURNISH ONLY UPSETS IN NATIONAL TENNIS PLAY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 15—(A. P.)—American and foreign favorites, with two exceptions, continued their parade toward the national tennis championship on the turf courts of the West Side Tennis Club today. Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., and George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, tripped up two seeded stars during the afternoon and tossed them into the realm of defeat.

The most startling upset of the tournament was furnished by Young Chapin who eliminated Dr. George King of New York 7-5, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3. Lott helped one of the foreign seed out of the tournament when he defeated one of the French Davis Cup stars, Jacques Brugnon, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2. In all other matches play went according to rule, although some of the the seeds were forced to apply the pressure to survive against lower ranked opponents.

The playing-through champion, William T. Tilden, was pushed harder than any of his followers when he lost a set to Lucien E. Williams of Chicago, a nephew of R. Norris Williams. Tilden however, worked his way into the third round bracket by winning the match, 6-3, 7-5, 2-6, 6-1.

The headlines for tomorrow looks like the meeting between R. Norris Williams 2nd, of Philadelphia and Jean Borotra, the bounding Basque. William M. Johnston will likely have to apply pressure against George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago while Manuel Alonso of Spain will be forced to tackle Alfred H. Chapin Jr. of Springfield, Mass.

Another match that bids fair to be one of tomorrow's features bring Rene Lacoste to the court against Brian I. C. Norton. In another international match, Wallace F. Johnson will tackle the Australian Davis Cup captain, James O. Anderson.

HARVARD GRID SQUAD IS CUT TO 42 PLAYERS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 15—(A. P.)—Forty-two men were left on the Harvard varsity football squad tonight at the close of the first day's practice of the season. The survivors include three absentees who are expected to report in a few days. For this morning's workout, the coaches met 115 aspirants to football honors. The cut was made at noon and the second practice of the day was carried out with varsity and second divisions. The program until the opening of the Academic year calls for two workouts daily except Saturday when practice will be confined to the morning. Today's activities were mainly in fundamentals.

Indications that Clement Coady one of the regular tackles last year is to be groomed as a defensive back to replace Erwin Gehrke, last year's backfield star, were seen in the fact that Coady was assigned to the backfield squad under Major Charles Daly. A. H. Miller, who was a bulwalk of last season's backfield, has an infected foot and was unable to report today. Other absentees who will join the varsity squad were John Fordyce, a regular of last year, and Henry Chauncey who played on the freshman team in 1924.

The varsity squad as now constituted includes three centers, seven guards, seven tackles, seven ends, 14 halfbacks and four quarterbacks. Head Coach Robert Fisher declined to comment on the seasons prospects.

NO CHANGE IN AM. LEAGUE, NEW YORK ADVANCES IN NAT.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15—(A. P.)—With Pittsburgh and Washington lacking only mathematical confirmation of their championships the St. Louis Browns today took the spot light in the race for third place in the American league gaining a full game on Detroit and Chicago by beating Boston 2 to 1.

Washington and Philadelphia kept the distance which separates them at eight games when both won.

The standing:

Washington	88	48	.647
Philadelphia	80	56	.588

Rain washed out a six run lead which the Pirates had piled up on the record in the morning round with his card of 35-36—71.

Barnes played poor golf throughout the match, getting an 81 in the morning round and a 76 later.

Farrell, who substituted for Willie MacFarlane, national open titlist, was brilliant with 72 and 74 for the day's golf.

Twilight League Meeting Tonight

Tonight the managers of all the teams in the league will meet to take some action on what shall become of the few remaining games to be played. The nights are getting so short that it is impossible to play and it is probable that the league will close this week. The meeting was scheduled for Thursday night but will be held tonight at 7:30 instead.

The E. C. P. and East End game scheduled for tonight is off and it is likely that the fans have seen their last Twilight game of the season.

FRANKIE BUSCH MAKES SHORT WORK OF GRANVILLE DOW

After fighting less than a minute in the first round of their scheduled eight round bout at Fort Banks, Boston, on Tuesday evening Frankie Busch of this city knocked out Granville Dow. Busch made short work of Dow giving the Boston boy little chance to get into action. The local lad smothered Dow with a barrage of rights and lefts at the gong and for the first few seconds Dow was unable to do anything but cover up. Dow made a feeble attempt to stop Busch's onslaught but the Norwich lad kept boring in and after a minute let loose a left to the jaw, followed by a stiff jab to the heart and the bout was over.

Both boys weighed at 170 pounds.

PAL REED IN STAR BOUT AT WESTERLY

Joe Grills, boxing promoter extraordinaire of Westerly, R. I., who is also known as the Tex Rickard of Rhode Island, will present his banner fistic card of the season on the night of Monday, September 21.

In the stellar number of the program, Pal Reed, "Fighting Parson" of Framingham, Mass., will meet Chief Halbran, full-blooded Indian conqueror of Frank Moody.

The bout should brim with action all the way as both fighters are well known throughout the East for their ability to give and take.

Reed, it will be remembered, gave Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, one of his most stubborn battles at Madison Square Garden, N. Y., last Winter.

The contest went the limit and Delaney was awarded the decision but the large crowd which thronged the Garden was not entirely satisfied with the verdict.

One of the high spots in the career of Halbran is his decisive victory over Moody a few months ago.

Moody is the only man to ever knock out Lou Bogash.

The argument is slated for ten rounds.

Three six-round bouts and a four round opener complete the bill as follows:

Willie Mack of Stamford vs. Young Pilkington of Pawtucket, R. I., six rounds.

Teddy Russell of Norwich vs. Charley Stecher of Omaha, Neb., six rounds.

Steve Culver of Bridgeport vs. K. O. Mule Brown of New York, six rounds.

Young Rita of Westerly vs. Kid De Bartle of Westerly, four rounds.

Fishing in Westerly waters appears to be improving, for Monday night John Farnsworth of Westerly visited Wath Hill point when the wind and tide were right. With rod and reel on casting from the rocks and beach he hooked a 24-pound striped bass. The fish put up a half hour's battle which raged up and down the beach, resulting in the big fish's capture about 6 o'clock. The fish, an excellent specimen, measured over three feet in length. To show that the feat was not an accident Mr. Farnsworth also hooked and landed a smaller bass which weighed 15 pounds, eelskin being used for bait.

For the past week or ten days snapper blue fish have struck on, and fishermen report excellent catches at Pawcatuck rock on the Pawcatuck river and at the coves along the Connecticut shore. The fish are caught with jiggers and shinners are the bait used.

Returning from Watch Hill, where the summer has been passed, and leaving Westerly Tuesday for their winter homes were Murray A. Carr to Radmore, Pa.; Mrs. Walter O. Whitcomb from "The Moorage" Aquidneck Ave., to New Haven and Miss Frances Griscon from "Ocean Mound" Lighthouse road, to Philadelphia; C. F. William I. Gummerson, formerly of Longmeadow, R. I., now of New Haven, was a business caller in Westerly and Pawcatuck Monday.

ROTARY PRESIDENT IS A GUEST

doubt everyone would return home from the conclave with new inspirations in Rotary gleaned from the many inspiring addresses and talks given at the Forum meeting earlier in the day. He said it is a privilege to belong to an organization which encourages service as one of its fundamental ideals. "Rotary brings added responsibility and it is not complete until the world has heard its doctrine of "Service Above Self, He Profits Most Who Serves Best."

The speaker paid glowing tribute to Donald A. Adams, president of International Rotary, a man who has given unselfish service and devotion to the promoting of the principles of Rotary. His influence is being felt around the world and Rotary will surely progress under his guiding hand. The speaker urged loyalty to Don through the district.

President Bagg also paid a becoming compliment to the ladies of Rotary, saying it was their influence that was making better Rotarians of the men.

Following Mr. Bagg's talk, Joseph N. Weymouth, president of the Norwich club, presented a handsome basket of flowers to Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, chairman of the executive committee of conclave, and Mrs. Campbell. Dr. Campbell made a short response, saying that all credit should go to the splendid committee rather than to himself.

Pittsfield Sky-Pilot Speaks

"Rotary as a Pathfinder" was in the topic of a very interesting talk by Rev. Harold Vincent of the Pittsfield club. The sky-pilot who claimed he was only a babe in the kindergarten of Rotary told the conclave what Rotary meant to him. Rotary to me, said Rev. Mr. Vincent, is like the pathfinder in Kipling's story who went west with the feeling that behind the range of the Rockies there was something worth while. His horses died but he kept on and finally came down into that beautiful land of the Pacific coast. When he reached this beautiful land and others sought to compliment him for his discovery he refused to claim credit saying that it was God's gift to man and he had simply shown the way.

Rotary, is like that said Mr. Vincent We are reaching out beyond the range after something that we know is hidden there. We may not find it or our children may not, but there is coming a day when that hidden thing will be revealed for all humanity. When you find it don't claim credit for it. It is God's gift to the world. Let us each make himself a pathfinder in Rotary and go on striving for that universal brotherhood that lies just over the range of human selfishness. Some day we will conquer it and then and then only will Rotary have accomplished its purpose.

George Cooper, eastern committeeman for the Denver convention next year, told of plans for the great international meeting of Rotary over which Don Adams will preside. Mr. Cooper strongly urged that the 30th district go to Denver en masse to help Don and show our love for him.

One of the most pleasing features of the luncheon were the vocal selections by James C. Morton and the piano solos by Irwin Farrar who accompanied him at the piano. Mr. Morton possesses a most charming voice of exceptional sweetness and clarity which he used with sympathetic understanding in his numbers. The Star (Rodgers), Mandy Lou (Strickland), To the Trade Winds (Keough), Only God can Make a Tree, and the Little Banjo.

Mr. Farrar played two pleasing piano solos displaying wondreful technique and a complete mastery of his instrument.

The luncheon closed with the singing of America.

From four to five o'clock there was a reception for Mrs. Donald A. Adams, wife of the international president Donald A. Adams of New Haven. Tea was served at 5 o'clock by the ladies of the New Haven club.

DINNER IN HONOR OF INTERNATIONAL PRESIDENT

The largest attended meeting of the conclave was that of Tuesday evening when the dinner in honor of International President Don Adams of New Haven, was served in the spacious dining hall, which had been beautifully decorated with club banners and many beautiful baskets of flowers, the latter being the gift of Thomas Cook of the Greenwich club.

Joy reigned supreme throughout the evening while Rotarians and Rotarianas of the Thirtieth District paid tribute to President Adams of Rotary International, whom they are pleased to call, "Our own International President." The program was one of the finest of the conclave and the New Haven club kept things moving at a rapid pace throughout the dinner. Rotary song after Rotray song being called for and sung, not to forget the ever popular Sweet Adeline.

President Levi T. Snow of the New Haven, Rotary club led his boys into action, during the dinner and was in charge of the program of the evening. Several delightful solo numbers were enjoyed among them being three charming soprano numbers by Miss Gladys Pettigrew of New London, who quickly captivated her audience with her melody and tone of voice.

Previous to announcing the speaker of the evening President Snow stated that the saying that a prophet was not without honor, save in his own country, never could hold true concerning Don Adams, for the president of Rotary International had many earnest and loyal supporters in his own New Haven club, who believed that after his administration, years to come would place him among Rotary's famous men like Paul Collins.

Addressing the members of his home district, President Adams said that it was hard to find words to express the feelings one has on an occasion like this, yet one would be dumb if one could not say something after receiving all the inspiration gained through attending such a conclave.

It has been one of the finest conclaves this district has ever held, said President Adams, and we owe much to Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich and his committee, for the very efficient manner in which the program has been carried out. No man, he said, can attend a conclave such as this, and return home without being a better man for having attended the sessions. The spirit of Rotary abounds in many of our members, two New Haven men clearly demonstrating this when they offered to back me financially and to operate my business without cost to me and turn it over to me again at the end of my term of service as president. Such actions, although they have not been necessary to accept, give a man the desire to serve and I hope my service will be one which will continue their faith in me.

No office in the world offers such a chance for world service or has a better chance for world influence, than the office of president of Rotary International and this brings us to the Program of Rotary this Year and the Part You May Play in It. I ask of you of the Thirtieth district, said President Adams, every effort and concentration of thought, in helping me to put over the program for 1926. If you do this, he said, you will come nearer meeting the greatest need of Rotary, for you will find out what Rotary really is.

What is Rotary, its objectives and why do we have but one man from any classification. What is Rotary's business methods program and why do we have weekly meetings and what do they accomplish? Rotary will go only so far as you individual Rotarians will carry it. The individual and the individual club must do the work of teaching the answers to these questions for no international program will become a success unless individuals and single clubs carry out its suggestions. Many Rotarians are hazy about the ideals, philosophy and program of Rotary. Individuals block progress in Rotary and it will always be so until these causes are removed.

Rotary has become the seed ground for agents of all sorts of propaganda and we must put a stop to this, we must select only men who are real leaders, who are influential in their district. We must be careful in selecting our members. People are watching us, many see our every step and act. We need more Rotary education lest these people bear wrong of us and form wrong ideas concerning Rotary. Life, business, society and friendships are educational, we never learn all there is to know, and this is true concerning Rotary. We must come to know Rotary, its ideals, laws and practices.

Our business method program is most important for it is an expression of the Rotary ideal of service. Business should not be simply the making and holding of customers, it should be serving society, not simply making money. Business is a calling and ideals in business should not be simply for gains in dollars nor rewards in money only, but service. Every business deal, all work done with mind, speech or by hands, should be done with the sole idea of what good it may do society. Business should mean sympathy for our common humanity.

Rotary extension is also important and the eight points on the program covers the philosophy of Rotary. Ask a man why Rotary grips him and he cannot answer. It is not business or profession which makes the man interested but simply his attitude toward his fellow man. It is the preaching of the advancement of understanding, good will and international peace by a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the Rotary ideal of service. So let's play it out, this little game called work.

Masquerade Ball

The evening came to a close with the President's Masquerade ball in the hotel ball-room. Beautiful costumes, weird get-ups, freaks and comedians mingled with the cowboys of the plains, Colonial men and Mexicans made a most colorful display, without a doubt the feature event of the program for any evening at the conclave. At 11 o'clock the grand march was held and the audience selected the winners for their costumes.

Prizes donated by the New Haven Rotary club were awarded as follows: Ladies, first, Mrs. Alex McNicol, Norwich, Turkish costume in gold; second, Mrs. Andrew McNicol, Norwich, old fashioned hoop-skirt costume. Men's first, Dr. Hugh Campbell, Norwich, Chinese Mandarin costume; second, Governor John Allson, Holyoke, Highlander costume.

SPORT EVENTS CLOSELY CONTESTED BY ROTARIANS

Sports continued to predominate at the conclave on Tuesday, golf, tennis, baseball and barn yard golf enthusiasts enjoying their several favorite sports.

Under the leadership of "Al" Vining of Springfield double and single matches were played in the barn yard golf tournaments, over 20 aspirants for the crown of "horse-shoe-dome" trying their strength and matching their ability against the crack Springfield team, represented by Al Vining and Forest Mathers. This pair, champions of the 1924 conclave were not to be hurled from their throne and easily vanquished all contenders for their crown.

In the finals in the singles Vining and Mathers came together and Mathers won out by the score of 21 to 16, becoming 1925 champion. Prizes for these events were awarded during the evening session.

Semi-final matches in the men's singles at tennis were played Tuesday afternoon, Miller defeating Weymouth, 6-0, 6-4 and Clapp defeating Hazelton 6-3, 7-9, 8-6. Miller and Clapp will play the finals this Wednesday morning, after which prizes will be awarded. In the men's doubles Roantree and Weymouth lost to Hazelton and Miller, 6-3, 3-6, 4-6.

The continuation of the golf tournament, four flights being played on Tuesday, brought eight men into the finals this (Wednesday) morning. In the first round W. G. Park defeated John Alison by default and F. Burkhardt defeated Comdr. H. D. Hinckley 3 and 2; F. G Libby defeated R. B. Shattuck 5 an 4 and F. G. Patience defeated L. Titus 3 and 2. Second flight W. Clapp, Jr., on the 19th hole. Prize cups are to be awarded at the Shennecosset club immediately following the golf finals.

In the team golf tournaments the large loving cup was awarded to the Holyoke team, to be held by them until the next conclave when it must be defended against teams from other clubs.

Your hands need Ivory's protection

The use of Ivory Soap for all cleansing has made it possible for millions of busy women to give up for all time the idea that they must sacrifice either their hands to their housework or their housework to their hands. Their hands escape roughness and redness—instead, they possess that firm, white loveliness so necessary to a woman's charm.

What? Ivory for every soap-and-water purpose?

Yes, even though you have always thought of Ivory as a soap exclusively for toilet use and for fine laundry. For your hands need the protection that only Ivory's use can give.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Coming to the Breed

Whether in a seventeenth century costume or in his favorite cowboy garb, Tom Mix is always original in his exploits. Aided by Tony, his wonder horse, Mix outwits his foes and escapes by a clever ruse in his latest William Fox starring vehicle, based on Zane Grey's Riders of the Purple Sage.

Mix enjoyed performing the thrilling feats of Dick Turpin in merrie England, but there were many incidents in the course of producing Riders of the Purple Sage to indicate he was happy to be back in a western setting. He is always planning deeds of new daring.

One of his most brilliant feats in Riders of the Purple Sage is his escape when ambushed by hired assassins of his arch enemy, an unscrupulous cattleman. At the first volley, Mix tumbles from the saddle as if wounded, taking with him one end of his lariat. The other end is knotted to the pummel of his saddle.

When he has tied the loose end of the lariat to a big sage bush, he signals Tony to proceed. Crouched on his improvised sage bush sledge, Mix is shielded from view of the gunmen by the intervening brush. By the time they have reached the spot where Mix tumbled from his horse, he has been drawn to safety by the faithful Tony. He mounts and gallops away.

Mix had been studying the problem of how to estape from ambush. The idea of the sage bush sledge came to him spontaneously while making the scene. There are many other incidents of great daring in Riders of the Purple Sage, which will be shown at the Breed theater for three days beginning Thursday.

Mrs. Duffy's Dancing Class.

Many residents of Norwich will be interested in hearing of the re-opening of Mrs. Duffy's dancing classes, which will begin next Tuesday afternoon and evening at Odd Fellows' hall, Main street. It will be remembered that the children's ball of last season was a splendid social success, and the many children who attended as well as the parents had a most happy time, and will look forward with much anticipation to the opening reception, which will take place October 23rd.

"For the sake of convenience," Attorney Abraham D. Slavatsky, formerly of Bridgeport and now practicing law in Norwalk, desires to change his name to Abraham D. Slavitt.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace.

Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday James Cruze successor to the Covered Wagon will be shown for the first time in New England at the Palace.

This is the last day Harold Lloyd in the Freshman will be seen at the Palace. The thousands that have already seen it are telling their friends to be sure not to miss it, so the Palace will have another capacity house tonight.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday five acts of Paramount vaudeville. Bebe Daniels in Wild Wild Susan will be the programme.

If the sensational enthusiasm of those who witnessed the local premiere of James Cruze's mighty Paramount western, "The Pony Express," may be accepted as a criterion, then the directorial wizard, who gave the world "The Covered Wagon," has produced another epic screen masterpiece.

"The Pony Express" has the historical realism and majestic sweep that distinguished its famous predecessor, but it is more colorful a spectacle and more thrilling a romance than the picturization of Emerson Hough's great novel.

And well it might be! For in all the glamorous history of America, no chapter sizzles with such exciting, picturesque and momentous events as that which deals with those feverish, restless days, early in 1860, when the dark clouds of the Civil war were swiftly but surely gathering op the horizon, and the daredevil riders of the Pony Express were in the heyday of their glory.

Not only has Cruze succeeded in giving a graphic, unforgettable picture of the stirring achievements of these rugged heroes, who established the first active communication between the east and the west, but with their terrific hardships, dangerous escapes and glorious victories as a dramatic background, he has deftly interwoven an irresistibly appealing love-plot that lends a softening influence to the dynamic action.

To say that the characterizations fully measure up to the greatness of the story is to pay a well deserved tribute to the wholly delightful performance of Betty Compson as the heroine; to the histrionic ability and two-fisted manliness of Ricardo Cortez in the role of the fearless pony express rider; to the artistry of Ernest Torrence whose portrayal of the eccentric religious fanatic is a memorable piece of acting; to the versatility of Wallace Berry, who adds to his laurels by playing a happy-go-lucky vagabond with a rollicking Chaplinesque touch and to the host of minor players who acquit themselves with distinction.

Henry James Forman, prominent author and editor, wrote "The Pony Express" in collaboration with Walter Woods, well known scenarist. The production marks another milestone in the history of motion pictures.

Broadway Theater

The last half of this week will see a complete new program at the Broadway theater starting tomorrow.

There will be five more of those well known B. F. Keith vaudeville acts that are going to be the talk of the town.

Dorothy Phillips who for many years was one of the leading screen stars will be seen again for the first time since her retirement in the Tiffany Production The Sporting Chance, which is coming to the Broadway theater for a three days run Tomorrow.

Miss Phillips retired after the death of ther husband Alan Holubar but on the insistence of Director Oscar Apfel who directed The Sporting Chance Miss Phillips was lured from her retirement.

Appearing in the cast with Miss Phillips in the cast are Lou Tellegen, George Fawcett, Theo Von Elts and Sheldon Lewis.

The best racing drama in a long, long time—expertly directed, splendidly acted and mounted in an almost masterly manner. There are few, even among the hard boiled, who will fail to find a kick somewhere in the film. It is a great example of an audience picture. Delight Evans, N. Y. Telegraph.

A writ of mandamus was served on Former State Senator Irwin C. Atchison, of Sherman to show cause why he has not paid $2,400 to the estate of the late William Hawley, town treasurer of Sherman.

It is variously estimated that there are now between 8,000 and 10,000 bears on the island.

Hundreds of horses and cattle are killed and eaten by the bears yearly. It is said, and unless something is done to exterminate the bruins, it is feared stock-farming on the island will have to be discontinued. A bounty of 15 yen is at present given for each bear killed.

Construction of a new American college at Rome for the education of priests training for special work, will form the principal topic of discussion at the annual meeting in Washington, today of American bishops and archbishops at Catholic University.

NEW LONDON CHINESE RELIEVED AT NEWS OF PEACE BETWEEN TONGS

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 15.—Local Chinese, including the three Chinese restaurant proprietors and their help and the Chinese laundry workers, no longer fear murderous attacks at the hands of New York and Boston members of Hip Sing Tong. These have perpetrated a score of murders in New York, Boston and St. Louis the past two months and it was believed, planned a visit to New London for the purpose of attempting to slay members of On Leong Tong here. According to members of the On Leong Tong in this city, they received telephone messages this morning from leaders of their society in New York, that a peace pact has been entered into between the representatives of the two societies and that a satisfactory adjustment of the troubles that resulted in the wholesale warfare have been reached. The news of the peace adjustment was received with delight by the local Chinese for ever since the warfare was started the local members of On Leong Tong have been living in fear, so much so that they have closed their places of business in many instances on Sunday nights and have obtained police protection at a tea house on Golden street, where the members of the society made it a practice of spending their spare time, particularly on Sundays.

Three sailors in the coast guard service of the government, the branch that hunts the vessels that carry liquor, must have found what they sought without going to sea for it. They were in a semi-intoxicated condition on Main street last night, when they passed the store of William Kaplan and one of them seized a shoe that was one of a pair displayed outside the store. Mr. Kaplan saw the theft and immediately called the police station on the telephone, seeking to recover his property. Officers Graham and Daniels answered the call and found Walter Baron, Zachary Verangara and George McCall coming along, each with a fairly good load of liquor aboard. The men were taken into custody, and today were in the police court. Baron admitted taking the shoe. He also pleaded guilty to intoxication. He was fined $5 for the latter offense. His companions said they were not intoxicated and that same opinion was given by the policemen, but the statement was made that they showed evidence of having been drinking intoxicating liquor. On the statements made by the police the men could not be convicted. The shoe stolen was returned to Mr. Kaplan and the sailors were turned over to the commander at the state pier, which is the headquarters of the coast guard vessels.

Louis Dumais, a Center Groton resident, got into town yesterday and was later found drunk on North Bank street. He was fined $10, but as the execution of judgment was suspended he was allowed to get back to his work on the farm.

Howard E. Beebe was charged with violation of the parking ordinance because he drove his car up in front of the Savings Bank of New London and there parked it for a considerable time. His explanation was that he saw a Jersey car parked just ahead of where he stopped and supposed he was within his rights when he anchored where he did. He drew a suspended judgment.

The dismissals from Lawrence hospital include the following patients today: Harry Hertsof, 22 Denison avenue, Peter Villa of Westerly, Mrs. David Hayes of Quaker Hill and Mrs. Steve Kaminsky of 137 Mitchell street.

Some good-sized mackerel are being caught off the entrance to the harbor but a little chillier weather would, it is believed, make the fish bite with greater readiness.

The movement to reopen the stores of the city Saturday evenings, which seemed to be having the breath of life injected into it some time ago has again become innocuous and the prospect now is that the stores that adopted the early closing movement will continue it.

Complaints have been made to the police by Superintendent Ferguson, Fishers Island, because a large number of laborers employed on construction work at Fishers Island return intoxicated to the island Sundays. Superintendent Ferguson has requested that any and all of the laborers who are intoxicated and attempt to board the steamer for the island on the Sunday trips at 10:30 in the forenoon and 7 o'clock in the evening be taken into custody.

There is no material change today in the condition of Miss Mary Sullivan, 28, of 38 Alger place, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sullivan, a teacher at one of the schools of Hartford, and Miss Margaret McCarthy, 18, daughter of Mrs. Margaret McCarthy, 28 Steward street, student at the Willimantic Normal school. They sustained possible fractured skulls yesterday morning, when the automobile in which the two young ladies were riding, collided with a tree on Williams street and overturned. At Lawrence hospital it was stated that Miss Sullivan's condition was very slightly improved, she being in a rational state, but that Miss McCarthy continued in a state of coma.

Patrolman Edward Daniels in making his rounds on John street, early this morning discovered the night light in the office of the wholesale beef house of Swift & Co., extinguished. He communicated that fact to the police station, as an hour before the officer had observed the light burning. An employe of the beef company was summoned to the place and it then developed that the light had burned out. The police maintained a guard about the storehouse until the employe arrived, because the place was burglarized about two months ago.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operators' licenses of three New Londoners to be suspended. The victims are James McTough, 675 Bank street; Tony Castagna, 8 Grand street, and Antone Micheli, 20 Jefferson avenue, all having been involved in automobile accidents recently.

John Dunbar, 670 Williams street, complained to the police this morning that within a day or two his garden, located on Valentine street, had been visited by crooks and practically all of his produce had been stolen. Dunbar stated that there were imprints of a woman's shoe upon the earth and that he suspected a neighbor of having taken part in the removal of his crops.

Nathan Peck, 261 Huntington street, parked his automobile in front of his residence, last night about 10 o'clock, intending to leave his car there until he took charge of it today to go to his business. When he arose this morning Peck discovered that the automobile had been stolen, but he did not make a report of the theft to the police until 10:30 o'clock. The New London police requested the state police at Groton and Centerbrook to be on the lookout for the stolen car.

George Bates, colored, residing on Douglas street, who has a long police record for various infractions of the law, was arrested this morning by Patrolman John Clifford charged with intoxication. He will be in the police court tomorrow morning.

Frederick O. Johnson, of Montville, this forenoon was ordered by Patrolman William Riordan to appear in the police court tomorrow morning and answer charges of violation of the city's traffic ordinances. Mr. Johnson is charged with parking his automobile within 10 feet of a corner, also parking his car more than twelve inches from the curb.

An automobile owned and driven by Martin A. Pond, 182 Center street, South Manchester, and a machine owned and operated by Salvatore Morgese, 34 Hamilson street, Groton, were in collision last night at the corner of State and Union streets. Both cars were damaged.

The old brick building on Bank street known as the Learned Mission, and before that as the Bradley street mission is to be displaced by a business structure that will improve the appearance of the street, even though it will not be of elaborate construction. The south end of that street has been improved in recent years and the indications are that it will be still farther put into the area of business thoroughfares. The street should be cut through to Main street to relieve the congestion of traffic on Bank and State streets. Green street should also be cut through to Tilley street this fall, so that by the opening of spring there will be no such crowded situation as has existed on Bank street during the past summer.

George Belossi, a youth, reported to the police this evening that his bicycle had been stolen from in front of his father's house where he left it to attend to some chores which took him from 16 Terrace court to 81 Main street.

The change in temperature this evening called in many straw hats and brought out top coats and furs. There was a drop of some 20 degrees.

All the stores conducted by Hebrews will be closed Saturday, that day being Rosh Hashanna. That will mean dark stores on the principal streets for the Hebrews conduct the biggest stores in the city and the principal business places.

The New London Fire Department has been given plenty of work the past few days because of two of the city's dumping grounds having become ablaze. Saturday night the Ockford Hose company and the Niagara Engine company were engaged six hours drenching refuse at the dumping ground off Riverview avenue that had been set afire and today the Nameaug Engine company was called to that dumping ground, also to the dumping place on Cedar Grove avenue where fires existed. The refuse on the Riverview avenue dumping ground is still smouldering and whenever an easterly wind prevails a nauseating odor is carried from the place to the residences on Riverview avenue, Montauk avenue, Bellevue place, Perry street and Fair Harbor place, the odor being such as to compel occupants of houses to close windows.

The body of the child observed floating in the Thames river late yesterday afternoon by employes of the Central Coal company and which sank from view when a boat coal yard workers used in attempting to reach the boat struck the corpse and caused it to sink from view, has not been recovered. This noon Acting Captain of Police James C. Sullivan requested the United States Coast Guard commandant at Fort Trumbull to cause sailors to grapple for the body. Shortly after 1 o'clock two row boats manned by four sailors dragged the river bottom in the vicinity where the body was lost the day before, but without it being located. The sailors dragged the river bottom for four hours, before they gave up the task. Inquiry about the city today did not reveal any children missing from home and it is believed that if the body is recovered it will be found that the child was a resident of some place other than New London.

CRUMP PROPERTY SOLD TO SIDNEY SULMAN

NEW LONDON, Sept. 15.—Sidney Sulman, who had been negotiating for the acquisition of the valuable real estate, corner of Main and Church streets, owned by Fannie C. and Alice W. Crump, today acquired the property, paying $22,000 for the realty. The property consists of a two and one-half story building on Main street, together with a tract of land on the same street and a large tract on Church street. Both tracts are sufficiently large to permit the erection of three buildings, but it is understood that the purchaser intends to raze the present wooden structure and cause a business block to be erected upon the site.

Patrolmen Patrick Sheehan and Mitchael Dorsey went to the Mountain avenue house and there they found Mrs. Josephine Parisa, 12 Home street, who declared to the officers that she and her husband had been estranged three weeks and that Mrs. Parisa ascertained today that Parisa was spending much of his time at the Mountain avenue house, which is the home of Mrs. Sylvia Capone. Going to the place shortly after 4 o'clock, Mr. Parisi entered the Capone house and there found her husband in the company of the Capone woman. The two women and Parisi were brought to the police station. Parisi was not taken into custody, for Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry L. There seemed to be astonishment among the Griswold political fraternity, when not a few learned Monday that there would be no town election in 1926. Griswold was one of six towns in Connecticut to hold annual elections. The biennial idea has many advantages. Among others, it saves the town something over $100 and the second year any officer becomes more efficient and better acquainted with his duties. Nevertheless, sentiment hates to see the passing of the annual "Town Meeting Day."

Not long since a local man walked across the Quinebaug under the big Aspinook dam, when he discovered in one of the great holes in the river bed, an enormous trout. How Mrs. V. R. Sweet Lost 40 Pounds—
She explains it below to every reader overburdened with excess FAT

Wonderful French formula works wonders even in most stubborn cases of obesity—NO DIETS—DANGEROUS DRUGS OR EXERCISES.

Hundreds of letters of fat people who have reduced with SAN-GRI-NA tell the same story as Mrs. Sweet, of Albion, Idaho.

"I was able to take off several pounds of fat every week without any effort or harmful effect—at the same time I greatly improved my health—I ate all I wanted, did not have to exercise or take dangerous drugs and thanks to SAN-GRI-NA my dream of getting back to my normal weight is at last realized.

If you are a fat woman let me tell you what to do: Get a box of SAN-GRI-NA today, take two small tablets before your meals and safely lose a few pounds of excess fat each week—It took four boxes of SAN-GRI-NA to reduce me of forty pounds—it made me look at least ten years younger and entirely transformed my health and appearance. I gladly sign my name to this letter because I am happy to be able to help every fat man or woman regain a slender, healthy normal figure.—Mrs. V. R. Sweet."

NOTICE—SAN-GRI-NA is a scientific discovery made up from the formula of one of the best French medical authorities on obesity—It is guaranteed absolutely harmless and not to contain dangerous drugs or chemicals—IT HAS REDUCED HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE WHERE EVERYTHING ELSE HAD FAILED—SAN-GRI-NA is not a new, untried or unknown formula—it was used for years in Europe by most reliable obesity specialists with remarkable success. It has now been introduced in America and is sold by the leading druggists at a price within the reach of all.

On sale at any good drug or department store. If your druggist does not carry SAN-GRI-NA in stock he can get it from his wholesaler or you can send a money order or check for $1.50 direct to Scientific Research Laboratories, 1841 Broadway, N. Y. C.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—Speculative selling based largely on the belief that the recent sustained advance had impaired the technical position of the market, turned the course of prices reactionary today after an early period of strength. Net declines of 1 to 2 1-2 points were recorded by many industrial shares, with a number of high priced specialties breaking 3 to 5 points below yesterday's final quotations. Total sales again fell just short of the 2,000,000 share mark.

While there was nothing in the day's news to influence the market movement, considerable bearish propaganda, relating to proposed deflationary legislation was in circulation. The money situation continued easy, call loans renewing at 4 1-4 per cent., and then dropping to 4, despite the increased demands placed upon the market by United States treasury operations and income tax payments.

Trading started off at a terrific pace, the first hour's sales running well above 600,000 shares, and the million mark being crossed before noon. It slowed up when the reaction got under way, suggesting that bear traders were having difficulty in dislodging long stocks.

Another enormous turnover took place in Willys-Overland common, which touched a new top at 28 3-8 and then reacted to 26 7-8 off 1-2 on the day. Total sales of this issue ran close to 200,000 shares. Mack Trucks broke 7 1-2 points to 206 3-4 and Chrysler fell 5 to 148 1-2 and then rallied to 150. Net losses of a point or more were recovered by Studebaker, Packard, Pierce-Arrow, White Motors, Fisher Body, Hayes Wheel, Motometer and Stewart-Warner. Nash Motors jumped 18 points to a record top at 498 on one sale.

A thin market developed in some of the high paid specialties, General Electric and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe each falling 8 points to 217 and 164 1-2 respectively; Sears Roebuck dropped 6 5-8 to 215 3-8 and American Cab fell 6 1-4 to 240 3-4 and then rallied feebly. Among the many issues to show net losses of 3 points or more were Allied Chemical, Atlantic Coast Line, Atlantic Gulf and West Indies, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, International Harvester, R. H. Macy, Postum Cereal, Railway Steel Spring and Woolworth.

Standard industrials also lost ground U. S. Steel common closed 1 3-8 lower at 123 1-2 after touching a new high on the current movement. Baldwin showed a net loss of two points at 119 5-8 and U. S. Rubber was off 2 1-2 at 57 3-4.

Heavy buying of some of the eastern coilers featured the trading in the railroad shares. Baltimore & Ohio closed more than a point higher at 81 3-4 after having touched 83 and reading showed a net gain of nearly a point at 86 3-8 after having crossed 88. Local tractions showed independent strength on buying influenced by developments in the local political situation.

An outburst of strength in American Bosch Magneto at the opening, based on expectations of increased profits through its new radio business, sent that stock up over 4 points to 41 but it reacted later to 37 5-8, up 1 7-8 net. Other outstanding strong spots included American Water Works, Burns Brothers "A" the Commercial Solvents issues, General Outdoor Advertising, Penick & Ford, Reynolds Spring and South Porto Rican Sugar.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Further irregularity developed in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held firm around $4.84 3-8, French francs were slightly higher around 4.72 cents, and Italian and Belgian currencies were heavy, the latter falling below 4.35 cents to a new low record for the year. Bills on Oslo were again in brisk demand with the result that Norwegian kroner ruled about 25 points higher around 21.65 cents. Polish zloty recovered ten points of yesterday's 40 point drop by rallying to 17.60 cents.

STARTING WORK ON BIG HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT AT TRADING COVE

Work has been begun at Trading Cove on the big improvement that is to be made by the state in the Norwich-New London highway by laying a 20 foot concrete road southerly from the city line in Norwich to a point on Mohegan hill opposite the Bergman place. It is a $130,000 job to be handled by a Providence contractor and will be under the direct supervision of division engineer John Smith of the state highway department, whose headquarters are in this city.

Several re-locations in the highway through straightening curves are to be made at different points in the stretch of road to be covered by the work, but probably the most interesting to users of the road will be the changes to be made immediately at Trading Cove and on the hill to the south. Here several bad curves will be eliminated and a section that is a danger point for automobile travel will be converted into a long, smooth open curve, with ample width. The grade will remain the same, but the easy curve that the lay-out provides for will do away with the likelihood for accidents that is present now, due to the sharp curves, the hill and the narrow road.

Going south from the Norwich city line, the new road will follow the present highway until a point about opposite the golf club entrance where a ledge will be cut into in order to straighten out a curve.

From there on the new road follows the present highway until the narrow neck and dip at Trading Cove are reached. At this point the new layout carries the road to the east of the present highway so that the center of the new road will be where the easterly railing on the present road is. There will be two concrete bridges, one across the canal of the Joseph Hall and Son's mill and the other across the brook. At this point there is a large amount of heavy masonry work called for, as it will be necessary to build a long retaining wall, about 30 feet high at its highest point, 13 feet wide at the bottom and tapering to about 5 feet wide at the top. From the top of the wall the ground will be sloped up to the edge of the road, which at this point will be 27 feet wide outside the trolley tracks. The plan is worked out with the future in view and it will be possible to widen the road to any desired width up to 50 feet, if considered desirable at some future time, by filling up on the sloped portion of the embankment.

On the southerly side of the brook, the new layout cuts into the high bank at this point. A steam shovel is already in position and has started to make this cut. On the easterly side of the cut a high retaining wall is to be built. Coming through this bank and out in front of the Trading Cove store, the center of the new road will be about in the face of the present retaining wall. From here the new road will cross the present highway and as it goes up the hill will cross to the east again so that it will cut across the deep gorge which is to the east of the present road. As it passes over the gorge the center of the new road will be 15 feet easterly from the present retaining wall. The work here will all be in filling without any retaining walls to be built.

As the new road reaches the southerly end of the gorge it crosses the present highway and cuts into the bluff and ledge on the west to straighten this curve. As it comes out through the bluff, the center of the new road is about two feet back of the wall opposite the Foote house.

Going towards New London, the next change in location is at the foot of the hill below John Ready's place. The new layout is off to theeas t of the present highway, the center of the new road to be where the telephone pole line is opposite Daniel Fowler's. Approaching the foot of Mohegan hill, the new layout goes into the Bergman lot to the east of the present highway, straightening out another curve and meeting the present highway to continue about 700 feet up Mohegan hill where the contract stops opposite the Bergman place.

It is expected that all the heavy masonry work, the cutting and filling can be done this fall and winter so that when spring comes there will be little left to do but lay the concrete before the heavy travel of next season begins.

NORWICH TOWN PLANS INDIAN VILLAGE FAIR

The young people of Norwich town are completing plans to conduct an Indian Village fair at Lowthorpe Meadows. The decorations will be regular Indian harvest decorations. In addition will be colored penants, and various colored electric light bulbs, strung between the trees a distance of 400 feet. Other features will be several Indian tepees, with the markings of the Mohawk tribe furnished by Lemuel N. Fielding (Chief Occum) tripods and camp fires, a portion of the meadows assuming the appearance of our ancient forefathers settlement.

Many of the townspeople in the community are heartily co-operating with this movement for the reason that the purpose is to improve the meadows as a park and play ground for the children.

More and more parents are appreciating the fact that the future generation is being forced from in front of its own property, therefore it has become a necessity for all communities to set aside some specific spot wherein the children may romp in innocent play without fear of being injured.

This idea originated a number of years ago, when through the courtesy of the Gilman family, long time esteemed residents of the town, this beautiful spot was given over to the Lowthorpe association, for the pleasure and comfort of the people of Norwich and it is by this association in co-operation with the young people of Norwich town, assisted by Troop No. 20, Boy Scouts, that this movement has been promoted. Committees not as yet complete will be announced later.

INSURANCE MAN DIES SUDDENLY AT MEETING

Just as he had concluded an address Tuesday at the Worcester country club at Worcester, Mass., after the dinner at the third annual meeting of the New England agents association of the Ohio Farmers Insurance Company, Corwin McDowell, a prominent insurance man of New England, was seized with an attack of argina pectoris which quickly proved fatal.

James L. Case of this city, president of the association, was presiding as toastmaster at the speaking programme after the dinner and responses had been made by President Hawley of Leroy, Ohio, general agent Schultz of Philadelphia and Edward J. Cole, New England vice president of the national association.

Mr. McDowell, who was president of the Eastern Indemnity Co. of Boston, was called upon to speak for his brother, who is vice president of the Ohio company.

He made a pleasant response and mentioned that he was a classmate at Williams college of Attorney John P. Huntington and the late Frederick W. Cary of this city. His closing words recalled some of his college experiences with the two Norwich men.

As he concluded and was about to take his seat he was seen to fall and his death followed in about ten minutes.

He was about 55 years old, resided at Dover near Boston and is survived by his wife and two sons, one of whom was with him at the meeting.

SEES MUCH MERIT IN PROPOSED ROAD RELOCATION

The proposed relocation of the section of highway between Norwich and Putnam, advocated by Norwich Council, No. 309, U. C. T. of A., and favored by various civic organizations throughout eastern Connecticut has been endorsed by John Smith, division engineer of the Connecticut state highway commission. Mr. Smith in a letter to H. R. Branche, chairman of the executive and civic committees of Norwich Council, U. C. T., states that the proposed plan presents a very practicable way of eliminating many dangerous conditions now existing on this highway. Mr. Smith in his letter, has assured Mr. Branche of his support in the matter and states that he will soon prepare tentative estimates of the probable cost of the construction works along substantially the line advocated by Norwich Council, No. 309. The letter to Mr. Branche is as follows:

State of Connecticut Highway Com.
Office Division Engineer Norwich, Conn.
Sept. 11, 1925

Herbert R. Branche,
Chairman Executive and Civic Committees, Norwich Council,
U. C. T. of A., Norwich, Conn.
Dear Mr. Branche:

Relative to your proposition for the relocation of section of Putnam-Norwich road as shown on the map and endorsed by the favorable resolutions which you submitted recently, I wish to advise you that after going over the proposed route your plan presents a very practicable way of eliminating many dangerous conditions now existing on this highway and while no comparative estimate has been prepared, it seems to me this improvement can be made for very little if any increase in cost.

That so many resolutions have been adopted in favor of the proposed relocation is not surprising to any one familiar with conditions along the present route. The submitting of this proposition now is most timely as we are about to continue our surveys along this stretch of road in line with our programme of reconstructing it with a concrete pavement.

You may be assured of my support in this matter and I will prepare, as soon as possible, tentative estimates of the probable cost of construction along substantially the line you advocate. In the meantime I am placing before the highway commissioner for his consideration your proposition together with the papers endorsing it and will endeavor to have him take some definite action, soon, regarding it.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN SMITH
Division Engineer

TWO BRING SUITS FOR AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Suit for $3,000 damages has been brought in the superior court by Andrew Perry of Stonington against Patrick J. Quilty of New York City for injuries the plaintiff received and for damage to his motor truck on Sept. 1, 1925. About noon on that day, the plaintiff claims, he was driving from Stonington to Mystic and at Sheridan's corners in the town of Stonington the truck was run into by Quilty's sedan, which was coming in the opposite direction and was traveling to the left of the center of the road. The plaintiff claims that his motor truck was generally wrecked while he himself was severely hurt. He was obliged to spend a large sum for repairs to the truck, lost the use of it for a number of days, and also spent much for medical attendance for himself. He was thrown out of the machine in the collision. The suit is returnable in September.

Virginia Killars of Stonington, a minor, daughter of Charles Killars, brings suit against Quilty for $1,500 damages. She was riding in the truck with Perry and she was thrown against the windshield and the front of the truck, sustaining injuries to her neck, arms, shoulders, legs and spine.

ART STUDENTS ASSOCIATION'S TRIBUTE TO MR. DODGE

There was a good attendance at the September meeting of the Norwich Art Students' Association held Monday evening in the Slater memorial building. Miss Nancy E. Lucas presided. She opened the meeting by an earnest appreciation of Ozias Dodge. She said in part: "He lived a quiet and useful life among us, always eager for the welfare of the association and ready to perform his duty as a citizen of Norwich. We could always be sure of his co-operation and he had put his heart into the problem of the development of our association from a student body into a larger organization having a more vital connection with the influences for good in our beloved town. His interest in parks, the vital subject of the preservation of trees of our city, his part in the Shakespearean pageant all this and much more comes to my mind."

The secretary, Miss Ina Ufford, also spoke. She said: "He will be missed by all, who knew and felt his influence, but more especially by so many of our number, who had also been his pupils and had known the great measure of his talents and his personality as a teacher. Miss Ufford offered a resolution of appreciation of the services of Mr. Dodge which was unanimously voted."

Mrs. Robert W. Perkins, chairman of the advisory council, gave an outline of the proposed programs for the year. There are to be four evenings on Italian sculpture. Miss Faith Leavens will give a talk, an introduction to this subject, at the October meeting. One meeting will be a memorial to Mr. Dodge and at the same time there will be an exhibition of his work.

Miss Lucas then explained some changes in the constitution, made in the spring of 1924, about which discussion has often arisen. At that time the advisory council was created to take the place of the former executive committee. The members of the council hold office for five years, thus giving more continuity to the work than formerly, when the executive committee was elected annually.

Miss Lucas also emphasized the object of the association as voted when organized to promote the interests of art in the community. Another important change in the constitution was a new regulation regarding associate members. Now, associate members, who have been members for two consecutive years and have taken active part in promoting the interests of the association, may become active members on recommendation of the advisory council. The third important change was the creation of a new class of membership. All members who wish to promote the financial interests of the association and increase its usefulness in this way may become sustaining members by increasing their dues to $5.

Miss Lucas then spoke of her election as president last June, when she was in Europe. She regretted very much that she can not accept for the year as she is much interested in the association, but she had previously promised her time for other work. Her resignation was accepted with regret.

Mrs. Robert W. Perkins, chairman of the advisory committee, then nominated Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins for president and she was unanimously elected. In a few gracious words, Mrs. Higgins accepted the office and spoke hopefully of the coming year's work.

There are two vacancies in the advisory council; one caused by the death of Mr. Dodge and the other by the necessary resignation of Miss Aiken. Miss Rose Trumbull was elected for one year and Mrs. Frank Hempstead for four years to fill these unexpired terms. Mrs. Philip T. Welles was elected an associate member. The following members were changed from associate to active membership:

Mrs. E. W. Perkins, Mrs. Frank S. Bunnell, Miss Audrey Gernon, Miss Eunice Gulliver, Mrs. John D. Hall, Mrs. Philip Johnson, W. F. Habekotte and Charles Dyer.

Mrs. Channing M. Huntington was elected assistant treasurer. The resignation of Miss Amanda Fisher as assistant secretary was accepted with regret and a rising vote of thanks was given her for her long and faithful service. Miss Mary H. Paddock was chosen to fill this vacancy.

At the close of the business meeting brief informal talks were given. Miss Aiken, Miss Mary C. Lucas, Miss Alice Gogswell and Miss Nancy E. Lucas gave word pictures of some beautiful scenes enjoyed this summer.

PET STOCK EXHIBITORS TO SUPPLY CAGES

Owing to the lateness of the day and the fact that the fair opens on Thursday morning the committee in charge of providing cages for poultry and pet stock have been unable to secure a sufficient amount of new cages to handle the extremely large number of exhibits in poultry without using many of the cages formerly used for pet stock. Because of this it is urged by those in charge that entrants of pet stock, if possible, furnish cages for their exhibits. Boys entering dogs in the Mutt Show are also asked to furnish pans for water and supply feed for the dogs.

A new entry this year and one which will be a feature is the vegetable display of the Rockville vegetable association. The apple exhibit will also be larger than ever before, many kinds of apples being entered in the show.

GIRLS PREPARING FOR DOLL CARRIAGE PARADE

Many of the smaller girls of the city, are busy decorating their carriages for the doll carriage parade at the Fair Saturday morning. Great interest is shown and the parade seems to be a banner event of the Fair. As there is no entrance fee to the parade and no entrance fee to the grounds each little girl will avail herself of the opportunity of going to the Fair.

Any little girl wishing to enter the parade who has not sent in her name may do so by coming to the grounds Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

It is hoped by Miss Viola Waltz and Miss Katharine Dodd who are taking charge of the parade that every little girl who owns a carriage large or small will participate in the parade and help make it one of the most successful events ever attempted along this line at the fair.

Suffered for 15 years with constipation—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings relief in 3 weeks

Tried everything. Even operation. Only Kellogg's helped him.

Constipation paves the way to many harrowing diseases. But Mr. Williams' letter carries a message of cheer:

I have been using your ALL-BRAN for the past three weeks and it has done more for me than anything I have tried in the past fifteen years. . . . I was troubled with hemorrhoids for years. About 18 months ago I was operated on with very little relief. I tried everything under the sun. Then my wife suggested Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and I say truthfully that it is the only thing that ever gave me relief.

Yours truly,
L. T. WILLIAMS,
1808 Broadway, Indianapolis, Ind.

Cleanse your system of constipation's devastating poisons with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—a bulk food that passes through the system, sweeping the intestine clean, stimulating normal, healthy action.

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer returns the purchase price. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made in Battle Creek, Michigan. Sold by all grocers. Served in leading hotels and restaurants.

EXPRESSION OF VIEWS ON FRENCH DEBT SETTLEMENT

Sentiment in Washington Seems to Be Against Granting France Any More Favorable Terms Than Were Extended to Great Britain—A Possible Exception May Be the Extension of a Moratorium to Enable the French Government to Get Its Financial Affairs Into Better Shape.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—Sentiment in both administration and congressional circles now appears to be against the granting to France of any more favorable terms for the settlement of its four billion dollar war debt to the United States than were extended to Great Britain.

A possible exception may be made in the extension of a moratorium for a few years to enable the French government to get its financial affairs into better shape before beginning actual payments on account of the principal and interest of the debt.

Coincident with the departure today of the French debt commission from Paris Washington, Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, a member of the American commission issued a statement declaring France's debt must be settled without reference to any agreement its government may have reached with Great Britain for the funding of the Franco-British debt.

At the same time, Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, discussed the debt question with President Coolidge and subsequently reiterated his position that the French debt should be funded on the basis of the British debt settlement.

Senator Smoot was quite outspoken in his respect to the Anglo-French negotiations. He declared the United States did not purpose to be drawn into any "political deals or understanding" between European governments and that the United States debt commission would look after the interests of America in the forthcoming negotiations with the French.

Senator Borah is not wholly satisfied with the terms of the settlement entered into between the United States and Belgium, and he indicated after his talk with the president that he probably would have something to say on this subject when the agreement comes before the senate for ratification.

While President Coolidge has made it clear that the terms of the agreement with Belgium are not to be accepted as a precedent for the funding of the other war debts, it is the view of at least some members of congress that this agreement will serve to make increasingly difficult the road to a settlement with France and Italy.

Both the chief executive and members of the American debt commission hold that because of specific promises made to Belgium by President Wilson respecting its war debt, a different situation was presented than was to be found in dealing with the obligations of any other of the allied countries.

FRENCH DEBT MISSION HAS SAILED FOR UNITED STATES

HAVRE, France, Sept. 16—Joseph Caillaux, the finance minister, heading the French debt mission, left for the United States this evening.

Those accompanying him aboard the steamship Paris are senators Berenger, Chapsal, Dausset and Dupuy, Deputies Auriol, Lamoureux, Bokanowski and Marquis Pierre de Chamburn, Maurice Simon, controller of the treasury, Andre Moreau-Neret, expert of the finance ministry, and M. Haquenin, inspector of finances, who was added to the mission at the eleventh hour.

M. Caillaux is determined to avoid fog or figures in Washington and will not allow the experts to confuse simple fundamentals by sterile controversies over statistics. Economic and financial studies which encumber the baggage of the members of the mission are repaired even by them as scarcely necessary.

The deliberations of "experts," which have taken up so much time at all the inter-allied conferences since the wars are locked upon with disfavor by M. Caillaux, who considers them as interfering with the advance of business rather than promoting, because technicians would spend days in obstinate controversies over secondary questions.

MEMORIAL UNVEILED TO THE LATE PRESIDENT HARDING

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 16.—(AP)—At the unveiling of a Harding International Good Will Memorial by the International Kiwanis Clubs in Stanley Park, Vancouver's largest recreation ground today, messages from President Coolidge, Charles E. Hughes, secretary of state under President Harding and 14 American governors were read. The monument was erected by Kiwanis clubs where he spoke while visiting the Pacific coast in 1923 shortly before his death.

Senator Frank B. Willis of Ohio, J. H. King, minister of public works for Canada, and John H. Moss, president of Kiwanis international staff.

President Coolidge's message read in part:

"In remembrance of the late President Harding, I was naturally reminded of the eloquent and feeling address which he made in Vancouver. To that testimony of international good will and long standing friendship, I find myself unable to add anything, as I would assuredly be unwilling to take anything from it. That address, together with the splendid reception and welcome given to him by the people of Vancouver to Canada and western Canada constituted a new pledge of the long and unbroken friendship between these countries; a guaranty, let us all be confident, of another century of continuing amity and co-operation. The United States has no higher ambition than that which inspires it to desire a continuance of those mutually beneficient relations which have so long existed between it and its nearest neighbor among the world's great nations."

AN IMPORTANT CAPTURE BY FRENCH IN MOROCCO

PARIS, Sept. 16.—AP)—The capture of the El Bibane Ridge in the Morocco operations by French troops today is regarded as not only the greatest military success since the offensive started, but also as one of the most considerable political gains achieved through French arms.

The French from El Bibane command a large expanse of country, including the positions at Aoudour and Achirkane, and the occupation of the ridge brings the French line definitely north of Ouergha.

Politicals, from El Bibane the French now control or occupy the territory of the Beni Urriaguel tribe, one of the largest under arms and the defection of which greatly undermined French prestige and the political front in the Riff.

In this sector tribesmen of the Beni Mestara and Beni Rhouna have sent emissaries to the French command, announcing that they were ready to submit unconditionally and expressing the wish that the French troops advance immediately into theri territory to protect them against reprisals by Abd El Krim's followers.

JUDGE HINMAN REBUKES A HEEDLESS HUSBAND

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 16.—(AP)—A heedless husband who so neglects his wife he makes it possible for her to form a liaison with another man was sternly criticised in criminal superior court this afternoon by Judge George E. Hinman.

Mrs. Elsie Vreeland, 28, Fairfield, was arraigned in court charged with misconduct with William O'Donnell, 30. A sentence of one year imposed upon her was suspended. O'Donnell was sent to jail for a year, but may apply for probation within three months.

The Vreelands were married in 1917 and have a four year old daughter. Following the war boom, Vreeland found it difficult to get a job and he enlisted in the navy. His lonely wife bought his way out shortly after. But when he returned their relations were cool. Vreeland was said to admit motoring with other women.

ENTIRE BIBLE READ ALOUD WITHOUT PAUSE, BY GROUP

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—AP)—The reading of the entire Bible aloud and without pause, has been accomplished by a group of Seventh Day Adventists here in 55 hours and 47 minutes. The race against time was ended today in the Adventist Temple on Warren street, where over a score of readers had been at their hearth-taking endeavors since last Monday. The time of completion was said to break all records. The readers worked in relays and even in the small hours of the morning each declaimer could see at his side his successor standing by, fresh-lunged and ready to leap into action. The Rev. Robert S. Fries, minister of the church read the closing verses of revelations with the little audience joining him.

The minister's injunction not to sacrifice clearness to speed was observed by his helpers, who were fresh of voice and spirit when the long reading was ended.

Mr. Fries arranged the test, he said to show that intelligent reading of the Bible could be completed in little more time that that of a popular novel. He added that many people had opposed Seventh Day Bibles for the first time upon hearing of the non-stop undertaking.

SEAMEN'S STRIKE WORSE IN SOUTH AFRICAN PORTS

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The unofficial strike of British seamen is becoming worse in the ports of South Africa, and the public is beginning to feel its effects more acutely. The British post office has even had to resort to Dutch steamers to carry the "Royal Mail."

Passengers cooped up aboard some of the ships stalled by the strike are boiling their own potatoes and roasting their own beef in the absence of chefs and table stewards.

Altogether about 2,000 striking seamen are idle in South Africa.

The Porcturno returned to Durban today, her firemen having refused to continue fulfilling their duties after she had steamed out 100 miles.

The captain of the British tanker Athelfoam has committed suicide, and it is reported that worry over the strike situation furnished a motive.

Caillaux, French finance minister, informing him that the French government had accepted in principle the figure 13,500,000 pounds (sixty two annual payments each of this amount to be made) as the measure of their obligation to Great Britain, but "subject to further discussion on various other points, some of which are of considerable importance."

NORKEWICZ TELLS HOW HE MURDERED MICHAEL FEDORA

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 16—With almost childish eagerness, Charles Norkewicz, Stepney farm hand, frankly told Coroner John J. Phelan this afternoon how he murdered Michael Fedora in his home at 19 Hallam street last Saturday. Norkewicz's wife divorced him several years ago, "probably because she liked somebody else better," and is now living in Pennsylvania with their 14 year old daughter.

Norkewicz came to Bridgeport last Saturday on a shopping expedition. He knew one could always get a drink, at a pint at the Fedora home, Mrs. Fedora dealing extensively in moonshine, he said, and he went there at 9 o'clock in the morning.

He and Fedora had been friends for two years. They met casually at a lunch counter and being fellow countrymen a mutual intimacy grew. All through the day Norkewicz and Fedora quaffed deeply of Mrs. Fedora's potent brew. Norkewicz did all the buying, spending about $6, but he shared equally with Fedora. Drinking was the chief occupation of the day, although the friends did make a meal of some sour pickles.

After 12 hours of drinking whiskey, Norkewicz admitted he was drunk, yet he emphasized the fact that he remembered pretty clearly everything that happened.

About 7 o'clock Saturday night Mike Santin, Nick Noxon and Alex Cutke went to the Fedora flat. They wanted liquor and they got it, then Fedora insisted that Norkewicz go to bed. He didn't want to, fearful he would oversleep and be late for work in the morning.

Fedora, failing in his intention to get Norkewicz to bed although he dragged him into a bedroom, thrust his hand into a trouser pocket and took $3 from Norkewicz. That, said Norkewicz, "got me sore," and he "hit" him with a knife. He had no idea that the knife was fatal until police took him into custody.

SHUBERT THEATRE TO OPEN WITHOUT AN ORCHESTRA

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 16.—The Shubert Theatre here is to get along without an orchestra for the rest of the season unless some unexpected development brings about an adjustment of difficulties between the Shubert management and the local Musicians Union. The main difference between the management and the musicians is the unwillingness of the former to guarantee 35 successive weeks of work for the latter. They refuse to go this the theatre people say, because it would give the musicians the power to say when the theatre should open and when it should close.

Since the closing of the theatre last week, other differences are understood to have been adjusted.

The Shuberts plan to open the theatre next Thursday night and keep it open for the remainder of the season, but will play only dramas and comedies. There will be no musical productions.

The stage hands who went out with the New York musicians last Friday night will return as they have no grievance as long as there is no music.

The New York orchestra, with "The Vagabond King," playing here last week, were ordered out by International President Webber of New York when it was found that the Shuberts would not consent to the 35-week guarantee. This action was taken to support the local musicians.

MERRITT NOT GUILTY OF DRIVING UNDER INFLUENCE

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 16—Deliberating seven minutes, a jury in the criminal court of common pleas, this afternoon returned to Judge Frederick Huxford a verdict declaring Charles E. Merritt, 17 Elm street, Norwalk, not guilty of a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Merritt was arrested by State Policeman Stephen A. Stanton, Westport barracks, on June 30. The policeman declared the Merritt car was zig-zagging through traffic and subsequently Dr. William Russell Munson, Westport, declared the driver to be under alcoholic influence following a physical examination.

The defense stubbornly fought the case throughout the entire trial. It was plainly indicated that an appeal would have been taken to the supreme court of errors had the jury's verdict not carried acquittal.

Attorney John Keough filed many exceptions, not only against the admission of certain evidence, but to remarks made from the bench by Judge Huxford and to statements made by State Prosecutor Lorin W. Willis in his address to the jury.

RADIO COOKED AN EGG OVER A CAKE OF ICE

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—Cooking an egg over a cake of ice by wireless was one of several demonstrations of the mysterious radio power given today at the radio world's fair.

The egg was placed on a frying pan on the ice. In a moment the pan became red hot through action of waves that penetrated through the ice. The egg soon was cooked to a turn.

The trick was done through the so-called wireless lamp the inventor of which also lit the bulb through a man's head.

Mayor Hylan Will Not Bolt the Dem. Ticket

Announces That He Will Return to Private Life at Conclusion of His Term of Office.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—Overwhelmingly defeated by Senator James J. Walker, who won the democratic nomination for mayor of New York city by a plurality of 95,543 in the primaries yesterday, Mayor John F. Hylan announced today he would retire to private life.

Despite the mayor's statement some observers still see the possibility of a third ticket in the November elections headed by Mr. Hylan in opposition to Senator Walker and Frank D. Waterman, the respective democratic and republican nominees.

That there would be such a ticket was asserted flatly in all editions today of the Evening Journal, organ of William Randolph Hearst, the principal supporter of Mayor Hylan.

"I will return to private life," the mayor's statement read, "with my self respect unimpaired, my conscience clear and with the full satisfaction of having scrupulously lived up to my oath of office."

Mayor Hylan expressed his thanks to those who supported him in the primary and declared that his efforts during eight years in the city hall had been for the people's interest.

The statement was issued following a luncheon conference with a representative of the Hearst newspapers and John H. Sinnott, the mayor's son-in-law and secretary. Some time after the statement was given out the mayor conferred for half an hour with Arthur Brisbane of the Hearst publications.

The city hall reporters' association sent a question to the mayor asking whether his statement meant definitely that he will not run independently for mayor. The reply was:

"There is nothing to add to the mayor's statement."

Prior to the luncheon conference, Mayor Hylan declared that he was pleased that the primary fight had enabled him to "pull the mask off the big ham and egg man from Albany." He said he had "made the traction and underworld interests spend an average of $400 an election district" to defeat him.

If no recites, Mayor Hylan will have a pension of $8,000 a year from the city.

Senator Walker prepared for a vacation today, saying that he was leaving tomorrow to go into hiding for a rest "where they have no telephones, no telegraph wires and no means of communication with the outside world."

He said he would return in about a week to arrange his law practice and prepare for the general campaign. The intensive speaking campaign, he said would be resumed about October 1o.

The three borough leaders who supported Mayor Hylan's primary fight have pledged their support to Senator Walker and later promised to join the Tammany machinery in Manhattan and the Bronx in advancing the candidacy of Senator Walker. John H. McCooey, Brooklyn leader who led the Hylan forces in a losing though close struggle in the mayor's own home borough, said he had "no regrets' and would abide by the result. David Rendt in Richmond and Maurice Connolly in Queens, who carried their boroughs for Hylan, have taken the same stand.

Frank D Waterman, who won the republican nomination by a majority of 32,000 over his two opponents stated today that he could only express his gratification by repeating his campaign slogan. "Say it with shovels." The stress developed from his plea to relieve the traffic congestion by building more subway lines. John J. Lyons and William M. Bennett, the defeated republican candidates, early sent their congratulations to Mr. Waterman and pledged their support in the general election.

EIGHT MEN INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

HARTFORD, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Eight men are in the hospital, six with fractured skulls, three of whom are not expected to recover, as the result of an automobile accident on the New Britain turnpike, near Corbin's Corners this afternoon, when a truck driven by Charles Seigel, of 304 Edgewood street, skidded and turned turtle. Returning from construction work in New Britain, where Mr. Seigel employed the nine men who were in the truck.

The accident took place about five miles this side of New Britain at 3:45 p. m. Mr. Seigel was alone in the driver's seat, the other men sitting on three planks across the open back of the truck. According to Mr. Seigel, the truck skidded and ran up on the shoulder of the road. In getting back into the road, the truck swerved sideways and suddenly turned over on its left side, hurling the occupants out on the pavement. Mr. Seigel was uninjured ,but all except one of the other men in the car landed on their heads receiving either fractured skulls or serious lacerations about the head and face.

RECOVERING WRECKAGE OF DIRIGIBLE SHENANDOAH

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 16—In a series of raids on private homes, and business establishments in Northern West Virginia and Eastern Ohio today, government agents recovered four truck loads of wreckage of the destroyed naval dirigible Shenandoah that had been carried away by residents as souvenirs following the wreck of the ship near Ava.

The raids were made by twenty department of justice agents assisted by federal and state prohibition agents. Among the recovered articles, were personal grips of several members of the ship's crew and a cap said to have been worn by Commander Zachary Lansdowne. No arrests were made.

CHICAGO BEER RUNNERS IN JAIL AGAIN YESTERDAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Terry Druggan, and Frankie Lake, affluent beer barons, whose meanderings in, out and about the Cook county jail where ostensibly serving a year sentence for contempt of court have provoked a federal investigation, tonight were "in again."

Not only were they in jail, but they, with Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman and half a dozen jail officials, faced a new citation to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court, which may mean another term in jail.

C. W. Morse Suffers Paralytic Strokes

Former Wall Street Operator is in Critical Condition at His Home in New York City.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Charles W. Morse, former banker and shipping man, suffered a second paralytic stroke today at his home here following his return on Monday from Bath, Maine. Physicians reported him in critical condition tonight.

Morse, who was pardoned from the federal prison in Atlanta, Ga., in 1910 by President Taft on representations that he was dying, suffered a paralytic stroke four months ago in Bath.

As his condition became worse recently, he was brought back to his home and reached here in a state of deep coma.

At the height of his business career, Morse was said to be worth $50,000,000. At that time he controlled fourteen banks, 60 ice companies and was director in most of the large shipping companies of his day.

He was sentenced to the federal prison in 1908 for misapplication of the funds of one of the banks with which he was connected. Following his pardon by President Taft, Morse sailed for Europe. When he returned he said his health was much improved.

Morse returned to Wall street and resumed his financial career. He is reputed to have recouped $7,000,000 of his lost fortune.

GOSSIP CONCERNING RESULT OF THE WISCONSIN PRIMARY

MILWAUKEE, WIS., Sept. 17.—(By The A. P.)—Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., who was nominated for the senate at the primary yesterday, knows he carried the state by something more than 90,000 votes over his nearest opponent, and that he had a majority of more than 20,000 over all opposition, but he does not know how many republicans are to oppose him as Independents in the September 29 election. If all eligible to enter the lists for the senatorial seat of the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette decided to contest, it will be an eight man affair, with only three parties actually designated on the ballot.

If party affiliations are noted, however, there will be five republicans, one democrat, one socialist, and one socialist-labor. These men are: LaFollette, republican nominee; Roy P. Wilcox, Edward F. Dohman, Daniel Woodward, and Arthur Burry, all nominal republicans but running as Independents; William G. Bruce, nominal democrat but running as an independent; John M. Work, socialist nominee and George Bauman, socialist-labor nominee.

There may yet be eight candidates on the ballot, however, late today, conferences of leaders of the republican right wing, or anti-LaFollette section, had been in conference mostly dealt with the withdrawal of some man or men and the combining of the republican conservatives forces upon a single individual to make the race against LaFollette, but up to a late hour tonight no one knew what would happen.

During the day returns from the scattered precincts of the North Wood country seemed in, but there was no change in the ratio which had been maintained by LaFollette almost from the first returns Tuesday night.

At Madison, Young Bob issued a statement announcing the victory one for progressivism and declaring the republicans of Wisconsin had reunited themselves to carry on that fight. In this statement he enunciated no principles that he would put forward to the voters during the next two weeks, but said he considered the victory "a tribute to our departed leader."

CHARGES MADE AGAINST A STAMFORD DENTIST

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 16—James H. Fagan, Stamford dentist has appeared at his office "at frequent and regular intervals in an intoxicated condition" and while in such a condition, "has attempted to treat and operate upon patients" it is alleged in a suit filed in superior court this afternoon by Kathryn Higgins, New York City.

Mrs. Higgins sets forth the additional accusations that Dr. Fagan "invited and permitted large numbers of his acquaintances of both sexes to loiter" about the office premises, allowing them to make them "their common headquarters and meeting place."

The charges are made because Mrs. Higgins, a partner with Dr. Fagan in the operation of dental offices, declared the dentist's conduct has been hurtful to the practice and that he has appropriated all funds taken in and refused to ake to her, as his partner, a financial accounting.

Through her solicitation, Judge John R. Booth, superior court, has named Philip Curran, Stamford, receiver of the dental business, which is to continue under the direction of the court.

A COMMUNIST DENIED ADMISSION TO THE U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—Shapurji Saklatvala, communist member of the British house of commons has been refused admission to the United States to attend the interparliamentary union here next month as a British delegate.

Secretary Kellogg announced tonight that instructions had been cabled to London to revoke the passport visa already granted Saklatvala. He explained that the action was taken under the immigration law because of inflammatory and revolutionary speeches made by Saklatvala in parliament and elsewhere which have come to the attention of the state department only in the last few days.

"I do not believe," Secretary Kellogg said, "we should admit foreigners to this country to preach anarchy or a revolutionary overthrow of government."

LAXITY IN ENFORCEMENT THE BANE OF PROHIBITION

Research Shows No Visible Reason Why the Removal of Real Beer From Breweries Cannot Be Controlled—Finds That Smuggling of Liquors Presents Many Difficult Aspects—Seizure of Stills in the Southern States Has Reached an Astonishing Figure—Situation in New York City is the Worst in the Country From the View of Administration of the Law.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—(A. P.)—Failure to apply adequate remedies to curb diversion of industrial alcohol and manufacture of "high-powered" beer was laid at the door of the federal government tonight by the "research and education Department of the Federal Council of Churches in making public an additional section of its report on the social consequences of prohibition.

"There is no visible reason why the illicit removal of alcoholic beer from "breweries cannot be effectually controlled," said the report. The beer problem would seem to be wholly solvable, although it has been one of the scandals of the prohibition regime. x x

"The diversion of industrial alcohol presents at present the hardest task of enforcement. Yet there is no excuse for the abuses that have developed, and there is no reason why the government cannot, with reasonable diligence, control the situation."

Discussing at length other enforcement problems, the report declares that smuggling continues to present many difficult aspects, although the total amount thus being brought into the United States at present "is not great enough to make it more than a minor phase of the enforcement problem," that the home brew industry had been virtually eliminated; that "statements with reference to the growth of an illicit wine industry have been much exaggerated;" that small scale manufacture of bootleg whiskey still "is extremely prevalent in some sections" and that annual withdrawals of liquor from bonded warehouses have been reduced to "inconsiderable quantities."

The report also contained a compilation of costs of prohibition enforcement placing the total for the present fiscal year which ends next July 1 at $13,319,817. This figure included the Coast Guard expenditures of the prohibition officials themselves, increasing operations against both liquor and drug offenders were listed as having climbed from $2,059,774 in 1920 to a high water mark of $8,135,842 in 1923 and were given as $7,509,146 for 1924 and $6,611,213 for the first nine months of 1925.

In a foreword, the report cited statistics to the effect of prohibition already made public, and continued:

"The common and plausible answer to all these statistical statements is that prohibition has produced limited results because we have had only a very limited measure of enforcement—that the ineffectiveness of the prohibition regime, insofar as it is ineffective is due to a lack of forcible administration of the law. x x It is needless to dwell upon the extent of non-enforcement of the prohibition laws. Its more serious aspects are well known and freely admitted. It would be idle to contend of course, that anything like the amount of liquor is consumed in the United States that was consumed prior to 1920. No statistics are necessary to warrant the assumption that with scores of thousands of saloons closed so far as the free and public sale of liquor is concerned,—and the vast majority of them closed altogether—the liquor traffic has enormously reduced. Frequent attempts have been made to estimate the percentage of such reduction, but there is no valid or authoritative basis for such estimates.

"Moreover, the challenge of the present situation is independent of the relative extent of post-prohibition as pre-prohibition drinking. The problem is chiefly a moral problem, arising out of the widespread violation of the law. It is noteworthy that even in those Ireland areas where there is evidence of growing success in the enforcement of the law the characteristic evils arising out of its violation are found in disquieting measure. From conservative, orderly homogeneous communities of the west and south come tales of persistent violations. The seizures of liquor stills in southern states reach an astonishing figure, and even the smallest communities are not free from the illicit business or the social and political effects that universally flow from it. The evil effects of the continuing traffic seem to be away out of proportion to its actual quantity.

"The situation in New York City is perhaps the worst in the country from the view of the administration of the law. x x The new United States district attorney has been obliged to sweep out of his office all such minor cases in order to make any progress at all with the business of enforcement.

"The cities of Indiana present a different picture. There the federal court calendar is well up to date and the merciful attorney has no complaint to make, although he has a very limited force. x x Indiana has prohibition problems, plenty of them, but there the prohibition policy would at least seem to be firmly established.

"Neither New York nor Indiana is typical and the average condition of the country presumably lies somewhere between."

MADAME CASARES IS NOW UNDER ARREST IN LONDON

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(A. P.)—The controversy which has raged around the now famous rum schooner General Seafield and the beautiful woman who is its owner, Madame Gloria De Vere Casares reached an unexpected climax today when Madame Casares was arrested on a charge unconnected with the battle over the General Seafield or with the enterprise for running liquor through the dry fleet of the United States.

Madame Casares was charged with obtaining goods under false pretenses, the large department store of Selfridge's being the complainant, alleging that she obtained a gown valued at 14 guineas (about $71.40) from the store on May 23, for which she has not paid.

The arrest broke into the beautiful shipowner's battle to resume control of her schooner, for it came when she was in conference with her solicitors over proposed legal action to get the ship out of control of its captain, who has refused Madame Casares access to it. She accompanied the detectives to a police station and was arraigned and remanded. She was released on bail, a surety bond of 40 pound being required in addition to her own recognizance for 40 pound.

When the warrant was read to her the police say she exclaimed: "Whatever is this for? I have an account at Selfridge's."

INDICTMENTS FOR MURDER OF THE TWO GILLIS SISTERS

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 17.—(A. P.)—Indictments for the murder of the two Gillis sisters in Hudson last July were brought by the Hillsboro county grand jury today against Charles Lefebvre, 15, and Louis La Bombarde.

The Misses Helen and Georgianna Gillis, aged sisters and life long residents of Hudson, were beaten to death in their home on July 23 last. Their bodies were discovered by neighbors. The house was in disorder and much of the furniture had been broken.

After several days' unsuccessful search for the murderer, in the course of which rewards totalling $2500 were offered, suspicion turned to Lefebvre who had done chores for the sisters and to Louis La Bombarde, of Nashua, a relative of the Lefebvre boy. After repeated questioning of both youths in the course of which Lefebvre told several conflicting stories, La Bombarde finally broke down and confessed that he had killed the sisters. In his confession he implicated Lefebvre.

The motive for the murder was indicated as robbery. Later Le Bombarde was reported to have repudiated his confession.

SPECIAL AIRCRAFT BOARD IS TO ORGANIZE TODAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(A. P.)—The long and bitter controversy over aircraft will shift to new battle ground tomorrow with the convening at the White House of the special board appointed by the president to investigate the subject.

The nine board members selected by the president last Saturday, are called to confer with him at 11 a. m. to organize and receive his views as to the course to be followed.

Appointment of the board, which was the first official recognition by the chief executive of the controversy since its inception in congress early last winter, was urged in a joint letter from Acting Secretary Davis of the war department and Secretary Wilbur of the navy.

This communication, although making no reference to Colonel William Mitchell, former assistant army air chief and general figure in the dispute, was presented to the president shortly after the most recent outburst of a lengthy list of criticism he had directed against the air services of the two departments since he first appeared before the house aircraft committee in the last congress.

Just how far the board will go into the Mitchell criticisms and many others that have been made is problematical, as the president, in announcing its appointment, gave no intimation as to the work to be covered other than to say that he believed its efforts would "result in bringing out the good qualities of the air service and in suggesting what action can be taken for their improvement."

It is known that it is left to the board must to a large extent determine for itself the scope of the inquiry, procedure, and the witnesses to be summoned.

Secretary Wilbur announced that the special naval court of inquiry to investigate the Shenandoah disaster would convene in Lakehurst, N. J., on Monday. Although this inquiry is in no way connected with the president's board, Mr. Wilbur desires to have its report on the accident available if the board should want to examine it.

WILLIMANTIC

With the giving of authority to the ... committee of the common council ... to secure the necessary plans and ... specifications for changes and improvements in the local water supply system, Engineer Henry W. Taylor of New York City, working in connection with City Engineer Robert E. Mitchell, has issued a report based on his findings during an investigation, and giving his conclusions on necessary improvements.

Last June found Willimantic nearing the climax of a water condition which was growing critical. The big Hooker pumps at the station in Mansfield were being operated twenty-four hours at an approximate cost of $100 per day, the storage reservoir on Hosmer Mountain, which normally holds about 5,000,000 gallons had dropped to a point 11 feet below normal and continued to drop.

City Engineer Mitchell consulted Mr. Taylor at that time and found that by closing a number of the sewer flushers and lengthening the interim of flow in others they not only caused the water in the reservoir to return to normalcy but were enable to curtail the working hours of the pumps to 18 hours per day, as against 24. They had reduced the daily consumption from 1,350,000 to less than a million gallons a day. A further adjustment of the flushing system would reduce the consumption to 875,000 gallons a day.

Some twenty-five years ago when the two steam pumps were installed at the station, the officials in charge, including City Engineer Mitchell and Corporation Counsel Kelley had exercised foresight and planned the working capacity of the pumps to care for an increase in population, consequently of consumption of water. This, however, did not materialize as can be gleaned from figures which show that the consumption for 1925 has been less than corresponding date than in 1915. This has caused the pumps to be operated under full capacity during those years and along with the natural wear of time their efficiency has been decreased to about 65 per cent. This does not, however, mean that new pumps are necessary; but Mr. Taylor ... dilation of a ... water driven pumping unit device to use especially in times of ...

The present water pump at the station, in addition to the steam pumps is operated by a turbine, through which an average of 26 gallons of water must flow and be figuratively wasted in order to pump one gallon of water into the city reservoir.

The new water unit and attending machinery would cost about $18,000; but according to Mr. Taylor it would care fully for the pumping situation. A new intake and aerator is also recommended. Mr. Taylor concludes, contrary to the state department of health however, in stating that a filter plant for purely sanitary purposes is unnecessary and would assist only in removing color at certain times of the year. The cost of such a suitable plant would be about $50,000 and the operating and charging expenses would amount to $7,000 yearly. One of Mr. Taylor's most urgent recommendations is the installation of an extra four-inch line from the distributing reservoir to the center of the city. The cost of his recommendations if carried out is estimated at $72,450. It is further recommended that the city secure control of all available storage areas in pondage along the supply river.

Three traveling salesmen who parked their cars on property owned by Chauncey E. McFarlane, while spending the night at the Hotel Hooker, adjoining this property, were in police court Wednesday morning, to answer to a charge of parking automobiles on private property. The arrests were made by Motorcycle Officer Bombria, on complaint of Mr. McFarlane. One of the rear wheels passed over the man's back and one leg. The runaway horses continued to South Park street where the wagon collided with the Hupmobile car which was owned by the engineer of the steam shovel. He was connected with the local fire department for some years, having been foreman of the old Montgomery Hose company for a series of years and an engineer of the department He was a recognized leader in the activities of the democratic party here and at the last election was a candidate for the office of judge of probate on the democratic ticket, being defeated by Otto B. Robinson. For two summer seasons he has been sidewalk inspector for the city and was acting in that capacity at the time of his illness. He was a member of Willimantic Lodge, No. 1311, B. P. O. E. and San Jose Council No. 14, Knights of Columbus.

If You Tire Easily—Beware of Chronic Fatigue

Thousands are victims of chronic fatigue—and do not know it.

If you tire easily, feel "all-in" at night, and wake up unrefreshed in the morning—if you are always weak, nervous, headachy, etc.—nine chances out of ten the real cause is chronic fatigue.

Ordinary fatigue—the kind you feel after hard work, etc.—is normal. That's nothing to worry about. But chronic fatigue comes from within. Your nerves, muscles, etc., have become debilitated and cannot function properly.

To conquer it you must get at its cause—in the blood. For it is when your blood is thin and pale, lacking in sufficient iron, that you become rundown, and are a victim of chronic fatigue.

What you need is to strengthen your system by getting more iron in your blood. Don't take the older mineral iron medicines which many doctors now say do little good. Take organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which is like the iron in your own blood. Unlike ordinary mineral iron it does not injure the teeth or upset the stomach, but is promptly assimilated. Take Nuxated Iron for just 2 weeks and you'll be astonished how it begins to revitalize you and gives you new strength and endurance. Money back if not improved. At all good druggists.

No matter where crude rubber prices may go—Firestone advantages in securing raw material, in manufacturing and distribution are always active to make good the pledge of Most Miles per Dollar.

Racing drivers—hill-climbing and endurance record holders—taxicab, motor truck and bus operators—and hundreds of thousands of car owners—are daily emphasizing the unheard-of mileage and service delivered by Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords.

Gum-Dipping is one of the biggest factors in tire performance and long mileage, making Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords the most economical tires ever offered motorists.

The cord from the fabric mills is first delivered to a separate plant where it is treated in a solution of gum, which insulates every fiber of every cord. This protects against internal friction and heat, giving the sidewalls greater flexibility and additional strength.

Prove Firestone's many superiorities for yourself. If you have never had the safety, comfort and economy of these serviceable, long-mileage tires—go to the nearest Firestone Dealer—for Firestone only builds Gum-Dipped Cords.

Our primary object is to give you the best-tasting, best-smoking, mild cigar that can be made to sell at Blackstone prices. ANOTHER AUXILIARY ROAD FAVORED BY MANY

(Special to the Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Sept. 16—Along with the agitation attendant upon announcement of the program for building an auxiliary state highway through Broad stretet and via the Green Hollow road into the town of Plainfield, comes renewed discussion of the long-talked-of-plan to build another auxiliary highway through Franklin street, from Main at a point near the Quinebaug grist mill, over Christian hill, to connect with the Providence highway at the foot of Spalding hill, at South Killingly. This auxiliary road, about three miles in length, it is held, would serve to relieve the constantly growing congestion in the business district of Danielson by diverting through traffic. A checkup of out-of-the-state cars running through Danielson will establish that not five per cent. of them make a stop here. It is really through traffic, and for that reason the proposed auxiliary road via Franklin street would not in any worth while measure detract from local business interests. The proposed extension is part of one of the oldest stage coach routes in southern New England.

CHAIRMAN GILMAN ON THE JOB —DETECTED BRIDGE DEFECT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 16—Alex Gilman, who is chairman of the committee appointed to provide for the memorial plates, is naturally much interested in the work that is being done at the new bridge. In looking over the work a few days ago, he saw the plans of the structure and discovered that they called for a pilaster 48 inches in height. The bronze plate that will be attached is to be 24 inches high and this would not fit in with the wishes of the committee or State Highway Commissioner Macdonald. Mr. Gilman immediately got in communication with Mr. McDonald and at the latter's suggestion, went to Hartford and the necessary changes were ordered.

The pilasters will be 84 inches high and will be surrounded by metal posts with electric lights. But for this discovery the pilasters at the four corners which are to bear bronze tablets indicative of the four branches of the military service would have been just nigh enough to carry these plates and would have been unnoticed by occupants of the steady stream of cars that will cross the bridge.

TRIED TO CLIMB HORSE'S TAIL, FRANK MINER, 6, KICKED

PUTNAM, Sept. 16.—Frank Miner, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miner of Pomfret, attempted to mount a horse by climbing up the horse's tail. The animal kicked, inflicting two painful abrasions on the boy's face and leg. The fact that he was so close to the horse prevented him from receiving the full force of the kicks and probably saved his life.

Testing the Soil.

Ammonium nitrate performs an extremely useful function in fertilizing certain crops, especially grasses, as it enables them to take the best advantage of any phosphorus compounds present in the soil. When, however, the soil is a sandy one, ammonium nitrate is not the best fertilizer to use. The plants split it up into ammonia and nitric acid, and in a sandy soil they absorb more ammonia than nitric acid. This free acid, being left in the soil, accumulates, with the result that the soil is quickly rendered acid.

Many English Prisons Sold.

More than 20 prisons in England have been entirely closed since 1914, and the 40 remaining in use are only partly filled at any time. The total is less than 60,000, as against 167,000, 10 years ago. Prisons that are no longer needed are being sold by the prison commission.

Collected in the volume of small change that passes through the stamp window at the local post office, a new sort of nickel has been received, which is being retained as evidence of the engraving skill of some unknown artist. Reckoning in the low crowned derby, stubby beard and other characteristics, the whole job is that of a clever workman with the engraver's tool.

Unavoidably this may possibly occur again in the future, on account of the few numbers of prints which is made, controlled by the new law complication.

Early winter forecasts in this section, are generally based on the condition of the water in the streams and swamps. With the heavy rain of Wednesday morning, only a little short of an inch, indications are that the dry spell is over.

Local hunters are expecting no interference with this fall's sport, on account of dry woods, and the consequent issuance of an emergency proclamation by the governor.

Twenty-six years ago, an item in The Bulletin reads—The greatest excitement which the town has had for many a moon, was the event of a race against time, by a picked team from the A. A. Young Jr. Fire Co., which was scheduled for 4:15 Saturday afternoon. The feat to be accomplished was to run with their hose jumper, which weighed 820 pounds from the interior of the hose house to Lisbon bridge, a distance of 2,566 feet, the time limit being three minutes. They did it in two minutes and 50 seconds. G. H. Prior started the race with 2 strokes on the Baptist church bell. E. H. Hiscox acted as referee. The winners were, Eugene J. Caroll, Samuel Bottomley, Michael McCarthy, Charles Connell, Morris Shea, John McCusker, Joseph Cohoon, Joseph Farrell, P. F. Driscoll, James Burbee, Joseph Russell, J. F. Hannon, Timothy Welch, Joseph Gill, J. D. Sullivan, Peter Rivers, Thomas Connolly, John Fitzgerald and William Robertson.

There is evidence in this column today, that local advertisers are availing themselves of this method of reaching the close to three thousand readers of The Bulletin in this vicinity, every week day morning.

BIG MONEY PRIZE AWAITS NON-STOP ATLANTIC FLIER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(A P)—While there are several trophies in America offered for outstanding events in aircraft performance, officials of the National Aeronautic Association here know of only one cash prize now open to competition. This is the $25,000 prize, offered by Raymond Orteig of New York, and open to aviators crossing the Atlantic between Paris or the shores of France and New York on a non-stop flight, in either direction.

The money is now on deposit in an American bank and has been available since 1919. Recently two groups of aviators, one in France and one in the United States, have started plans to capture it. Mr. Orteig formally extended the time for the prize award until June 1, 1930.

Should a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight begin in New York, officials of the National Aeronautic Association would have charge of the official inspection. The Aero Club of France would handle the inspection at Paris.

Carl F. Schory, official timer of the National Aeronautic Association, explains that in non-stop flights, such as the Orteig prize contemplates, the gasoline tanks of the aircraft are sealed to prevent refilling. Officials are also able to keep tab on the movements of a non-stop aircraft through use of a sealed barograph. This instrument, which looks like a small box, contains a recording pen which works in harmony with the pressure of the barometer and registers on a revolving cylinder the height at which a plane flies and the time it remains in the air.

FAULT UNDER RIVER'S MOUTH BLAMED FOR QUAKE IN JAPAN

TOKYO, Sept. 16.—(AP)—A scientific opinion on the recent earthquake in the Tajima region of Japan, which took several hundred lives, has been submitted to Governor Hiratsuka of Hyogo-ken by Dr. Nakamura of the Tokyo Imperial University, the leading seismologist of the Empire. In his report Dr. Nakamura stated:

"The existence of an earthquake belt running from Aomori, in the north-east to the neighborhood of Sabae town, in Fukui prefecture on the Japan sea coast, has been well known, but in this zone no strong shock has ever been recorded. On the south western Japan sea coast including Inaba, Hoki, Idumo, Iwami, and Oki provinces, also no disturbance of importance has taken place since the establishment of Tokyo University.

"I am inclined to attribute the origin of the recent destructive quake to a deep fault below the mouth of the Maruyama River, as mentioned by others who have inspected the Tajima region. There might have been a local dislocation of strata near Kumihama in Western Tango province, and any immediate destructive shock is hardly conceivable in the vicinity of the river mouth mentioned. Anyhow, a sounding of the sea bottom near the river mouth might furnish valuable data.

ALASKAN ESKIMOS BECOME SUCCESSFUL FOX FARMERS

NOME, Alaska, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Frank DuFresne, in charge of the Seward Peninsula for the United States Biological Survey, reports that Eskimos are taking a full part in developing the farming of foxes and the marketing of their pelts into a bounteous Alaska industry.

The south side of the peninsula is on Bering Sea and the north on the Arctic Ocean. On the north coast line white men destroyed the Eskimo livelihood by annihilating the whales and burning the driftwood.

The Eskimos have taken to white foxes, and some families are making incomes of $2,000 annually. From catching wild foxes and selling the furs, the natives have gone on to develop simple ranches.

The women do most of the work—it's the aboriginal way—but, DuFresne pointed out, familes threatened with extinction are beginning to thrive, though father sits around the cabin that has replaced the igloo.

ALBINO BABY ALARMS SAVAGE TRIBE IN WHICH IT WAS BORN

SEATTLE, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Curtis King, a Memphis manufacturer, in Seattle this summer, returning from the Far East, told of an albino child that had been born to parents of the Mois race, a savage tribe wearing brass rings on ankles and wrists and whose ears are pierced with strange ornaments. King said he travelled hundreds of miles out of his way to the settlement of Djiring, French Indo-China, to take pictures of the youngster.

When the baby was born the parents and the rest of the jungle community were so amazed that they feared some evil was descending upon them, Kinx related. The child is now four years old.

Illiteracy in Brazil decreased from 84.2 per cent in 1872 to 75.5 per cent in 1920. In the latter year there were 11,401,715 illiterates over 14 years of age.

Wicked Flea Sticks to Chickens

During the recent spring there has appeared throughout central and south western Texas an unprecedented outbreak of the sticktight flea. The loss has been especially severe among young chicks, resulting in a scarcity of fryers on many markets. Egg production has also been severely cut, the reduction ranging from 5 to more than 50 per cent. The total loss this spring is estimated at more than $3,000,000 according to the Bureau of Entomology of the United States department of agriculture.

Is Disarmament a Delusion?

Seven years after the war to end all wars, remarks The Thrift Magazine, the Powers of the world maintain, on a peace footing, at least 4,000,000 troops, and the total organized reserve forces in the world are 24,000,000. The armed nations today, because of their mechanical guns, new chemical laboratories and air craft, are more formidable in their equipment than before the catastrophe of 1914.

The fleets of the world are stronger than in 1914. The air navies are being continually developed and expended.

PRIMARY RESULTS

Voters went to the polls in large numbers Tuesday and gave expression to their wishes in regard to candidates for office, and it cannot be said that there was any surprise created by the results that followed.

In New York city there was a strong feeling against Mayor Hylan disclosed. He has conducted the city in such a manner as to remove the support which he previously had and he has shown a disposition to bite the hand that fed him. Tammany put him forward and supported him in previous campaigns. It was with reluctance that it dropped him, but there was the handwriting on the wall. Whatever the mayor may have believed he would get in the way of support the primary must have disillusioned him. The democrats have turned him down and if he stands as a candidate it must be as an independent. Even with Tammany back of the throne the democrats seem to think they can expect different results from Walker than from Hylan.

Evidence of a strong belief that Waterman, as the republican standard bearer, can do much to bring the relief which New York needs is furnished by the backing he received for the party nomination. He is a candidate in whom the lovers of good government can safely unite and through such a course the people of New York can see an avenue of escape from their present undesirable conditions.

The closing of the primary means the opening of the election contest. There has been much blood displayed on the democratic side and interest now centers upon the possibility of Hylan heading an independent ticket. He cannot win but he can do a lot of harm.

In the Wisconsin primary the victory of La Follette was as anticipated. Wisconsin has given its support to the son of its once great political leader, who runs as a republican but with the declaration that he will not abide by republican policies and party principles. Sailing under false colors has not hindered his nomination and there is no certainty that it will stand in the way of his election.

These two primary contests ran true to expectations as did the choice of Mrs. Bowles as a republican candidate for congress in the second congressional district of Massachusetts.

BIG FIRE LOSSES

Preventive measures for the overcoming of the great losses from fires have been in progress for years. That they have accomplished great good it would be folly to doubt. That they will continue is to be expected, but there is no prospect that such measures will in the near future accomplish all that is desired of them.

America's fire loss is large, but it has been steadily rising. Last year the total exceeded $500,000,000 and this in spite of the efforts that were made for prevention, by fire marshals and by fire proof construction.

What is the answer to such a situation? Insurance Commissioner Wilde of North Carolina in a statement points to the fact that the loss from carelessness reached the huge total of $360,000,000 last year while from defective flues, chimneys, stoves, furnaces and wiring over $50,000,000 more could be added, while along with the fire losses in dollars and cents there were 17,000 lives taken.

Such losses contribute greatly to the national sinkpile, but when it is realized that such a large part of the yearly loss can be charged up to carelessness it becomes evident that while fire prevention has been urged with sound reason there is a yearly loss which stands out as one of the best arguments for driving home its importance. Certainly because there continues to be a large fire loss each year, larger than perhaps the year before, does not justify the belief that fire prevention efforts can be abandoned. Rather does it argue for increasing them until the time comes that more people realize the importance and need of replacing carelessness with care.

It is no easy task. It calls for the waging of a persistent fight. In too many instances there are those who require personal experience with fire as the result of their carelessness before they are ready to discard such practices and do the equally easy work of prevention. The sending home of this situation is made possible by the fire records which are kept from year to year. Fire departments help in the keeping down of fire losses, but there is even more effective work that can be done by eliminating the fire losses through preventing the fires.

NICARAGUA AGAIN

There was a high degree of satisfaction when the American marines were recalled from Nicaragua after a stay in that republic of nearly a dozen years. It indicated that conditions were much better there and that the people of that country could direct their own affairs, maintain a constitutional government and uphold law and order without having a police force made up of American marines.

There was no desire on the part of this country to keep its men there any longer than it was believed to be necessary. There was in fact no eagerness on the part of this government to act as monitor, but in the interest of peace in that region and for the good of the country concerned it was considered advisable to insist that lawlessness must give way to constitutional government.

Perhaps the effect of the stay of the Americans in that country has been given too high a rating. It may be that the reform in that country has been misjudged. While it is hoped not, it cannot fail to be noted that at the appeal of the American representative at Managua American warships have been sent to two Nicaraguan ports. No marines have been landed. Their presence is to be regarded as affording proper protection and to serve as a warning that their return can be expected if conditions get so bad as to warrant.

It is not to be expected that the government in a Central American republic will prove acceptable to everyone. That is a bit difficult in any republic, but it is to be expected that such adjustments as are believed to be necessary will be made in a sane manner, without revolution and without bloodshed. There is no more excuse for the people of Nicaragua to rush to arms in selecting new officials than for other countries to do so.

Serving as the peace guardian in Nicaragua Uncle Sam may have caused Nicaragua to place greater dependence upon such an outside influence and less upon its own efforts but it is being shown that those who stand for law and order can expect support.

PINCHOT'S EFFORT

Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania has been conferring with the head of the coal operators and the head of the coal miners. He has been getting their respective sides of the present situation, and such statements as have been made to and by him are being held in confidence.

The apparent effort of this undertaking is to get the operators and the miners to resume their deliberations with a view to reaching a settlement and ending the period of non production in the anthracite fields. No coal has been mined since the first of the month. There is a certain supply available, not a little of which is in the hands of speculators, but there is a disposition to turn to the use of substitutes and increased activity is noted in the bituminous mines.

Interest is attached to the Pinchot effort because of the steps which he took on the occasion of the last strike when mining was resumed after an increase in pay had been awarded the miners.

What his plan of action is under the circumstances has not been revealed. That he has been seeking out a basis for getting the heads of the opposing interests together is obvious. Time, and not so distant, should disclose the results, but conditions vary from what they did two years ago. There are different conditions involved, even though the demands are much the same. Firmness has characterized each side thus far and the consumer has shown indications of looking out for himself by making himself independent of hard coal for fuel. The consumer hasn't gotten much consideration in the past but when he shows that he can get along without the product he bids fair to get better treatment. Whatever the adjustment the consumer isn't looking for a bigger coal bill.

GIVE US THE FACTS

More will be known later concerning the claims which are being made that certain western senators are demanding a change in the president's cabinet. The members of the official family of the president are advisers selected by the president, men in whom he has confidence and who are in sympathy with his policies.

The resignation sought is that of Secretary Work of the department of the interior which has to do with public lands and their administration. It has control of something like 400 million acres of mining, grazing and forest lands and there is some squirming because those who are using these federal lands for their personal benefit are being asked to do so in a business-like manner.

It is expected that there will be a full airing of all this talk that is developing, and that is what should be expected. If Dr. Work is administering the department in a manner that indicates sound business there is no reason to expect that he will be asked to step out. If he has been acting in keeping with restrictions placed upon his department by congress that also can be expected to be brought to light.

It isn't to be expected that the department of the interior or its head is going to be made the political goat for the campaigns of those who seek office rather than the best interests of the country. If there are charges they should be made in the open and evidence presented to prove them. It will be upon such that they will be judged by those who are disposed to be governed by facts rather than the kicking up of a lot of dust to misrepresent.

COMMON VARIETY

It was Sunday afternoon, and Miss Belinda and her brother Ben were immersed in the seed catalogues with which their small apartment was flooded. The ringing of the doorbell interrupted a spirited discussion as to the rival merits of the Lazy Wife beans and the Kentucky Wonders.

"I have just run in," gushingly remarked Mrs. Lobette, the caller, "to say good-by to you dear people. You'll never guess where I'm going. I don't suppose you know that I was thinking of running down to my old home in Kentucky, but it's really painful for me even to think of going there since—well, since Mr. Lobette and I separated. We were so happy there during our engagement, and even after we were married before we became incompatible. You know we were really an ideal couple at one time.

"I have never blamed Louis, for he like myself, has too much temperament. I often envy people who are phlegmatic, and, yet, how dull their lives must be! Well, I decided that I simply couldn't bring myself to go back to the old idyllic scenes in Kentucky, but I did think that little Louise is old enough now to appreciate seeing the lovely blue-grass country, where her mother and father met and married. So I just sent her down to Mr. Lobette's aunt to stay until warm weather. I put her in charge of the conductor of the train, and she made the trip beautifully. Louise is a very sensible child. I could trust her anywhere.

"I just felt that I couldn't go away without running in to see you, dear Miss Belinda and Ben, too, for it's partly owing to your hospitality last summer that I am able to go to Florida now. Yes, Florida! Isn't that marvelous? You see, I gave up my room in the boarding house when Louise and I went up to stay with you at Hilltop last summer and then when our month with you was nearly over I wrote to other friends with country homes telling how much the fresh air and freedom was doing for both little Louise and me and the result was that we made a round of visits which kept us out of the city well into October. I often think what a joy and privilege it is to people who have summer homes to share them with their less fortunate friends.

"If it hadn't been for all those months out of town last summer I never could have got enough money together for this delightful trip to Florida. I feel that it will do me a world of good to bask in the sun by the sea for a few weeks.

"Change of scene is simply meat and drink to me. When Louie used to suggest sometimes that we keep house I simply couldn't be fettered by things—that my soul craved freedom. Suppose I had a flat on my hands now. How annoying it would be when I've managed by last summer's economy to be able to take this southern holiday. Next to a visit at lovely Hilltop I can't imagine any thing I could enjoy more than Florida.

"You mustn't think that for a minute that I shall not be true to Hilltop. I consider it the ideal place for a summer vacation. Florida is the thing for this season but in summer give me one of the beauty spots of Wisconsin and I don't know any place so beautiful as yours.

"I've been wondering, dear Miss Belinda, if you wouldn't like to lend me that Japanese embroidered crepe shawl of yours to take with me. I remember hearing you say once that the way to enjoy one's blessings is to share them, and that encourages me to ask this little favor. I know you aren't using it here in town, and I can just picture myself in it on a hotel veranda. Those lovely embroidered roses on the white crepe are absolutely harmonious with my idea of Florida.

"Oh, did you leave it up in the country? That's unlucky, but don't feel bad about it, for I have another friend from whom I can borrow one, I hope. Although it's not half so handsome as yours, I can make it do. Well, I must be running along. I'll send you cards from Miami and Palm Beach, and, perhaps, from old Kentucky, as I may stop there for Louise on my way back. Au revoir till Hilltop time."

When the door closed after their caller Ben gave his sisters a comical look of relief. "Talk about Kentucky Wonders and Lazy Wives," he groaned. "That particular combination of both varieties is not coming to Hilltop next summer. Not on your bean, my dear!"

"If we could only have poor little Louise without her mother," said Miss Belinda, laughing and sighing.—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Evolution

Mr. Editor: When in the library one day, I saw a book entitled "The Case Against Evolution." Now I must admit that I could not remember ever having read a book against evolution, and this being by a professor of theology, I thought would give me the position of my anthropomorphic friends. But George Barry O'Toole is not only a theologian but professor of animal biology, a sort of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

He has to admit that the great majority of scientists think there is enough evidence to support the theory of evolution. He says further, "Assent to evolution is advocated not alone by materialists, but by Catholic scientists, who seem to fear that religion may become involved in the anticipated ruin of fixism. Thus all resistance to theory of evolution is deprecated by Father Wasmann and Canon Dorlodot on the assumption that the ultimate triumph of this theory is inevitable and that failure to make provision for this eventuality will lead to just such another blunder as theologians of the 16th century made in connection with the Copernican theory."

"Recollection of Galileo incident doubtless salutory." Proved within fifty years. But that was a question of what is while evolution is a question of what was and much more difficult to prove. "Safest attitude on the whole an agnostic one." Some admission for a theologian! What?

When he argues that there is no evidence of mutation or change of one specie to another, I wondered if he was going to claim successive acts of creation for the very different orders of animals in the different geological ages, tens to hundreds of thousands of years apart in time. This is where you might expect the theologian to stand. But not so. He says, "In fact the abrupt and capricious insertion of "new creations" into an order already constituted, say, for instance the sudden introduction of Angiosperms in the Comanchion period, or of mammals in the tertiary would be out of reason and revelation. Hence a theory of origins compatible with the simultaneous in regard to his or similar use of his eidedly preferable to a theory which involves successive creations at random."

He says in one place, "To disprove the theory of organic evolution is a feat beyond our power to accomplish. We cannot rob the theory of its intrinsic possibilities."

Thus while practically the whole book is an argument against evolution, he is fighting a rear guard fight and takes the last possible ground for a stand against. Abiogenesis, or the spontaneous generation of living from inorganic matter. Even here he disclaims necessity of creation or anything miraculous. As scientists have no evidence of spontaneous generation of life, but like produces like with slight variations, as in the "disease germs (of measles) which no eye has yet seen, so minute as to pass through a porcelain filter, yet beyond a doubt self perpetuating, and of specific type." So, "obviously therefore the first organism was not a creation but a formation" (from pre-existent matter) "Given therefore, this impotence of inorganic nature" (of dead matter to become life) "it follows that an initial vivification of matter by Divine power was demanded by the very nature of things. The Divine action did not come in competition as it were, with existing natural agencies but were put forth in response to the exigencies of nature itself. It cannot therefore be regarded as miraculous."

I am afraid the scientist even here is getting ahead of the theologian. (Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde). On this subject he quotes August Weismann, "spontaneous generation, in spite of all the vain attempts to demonstrate it, remains for me a logical necessity."

Mr. O'Toole often quotes Bateson in in regard to this or similar use of his in printed copy of a letter from Bateson "creation" of primal organisms is de- Toronto address, in which he says in part: "We do know that the plants and animals, including most certainly man, have been evolved from other and very different forms of life."

Some Working Evolution

Mr. Editor: A recent correspondent of yours having something to say regarding the subject of faith or faiths in general, used as a trite illustration an aphorism like this: "Believing one's self to be a goose, does not make him a goose."

There is, however, a much older proverb which runs: "As a man thinketh so is he."

Both proverbs contain a truth. It is true that a man believing himself a goose does not just make him a fowl with wings and feathers, yet in line with the latter proverb, he may evince the intelligence and characteristics of the goose.

One of the principals in the theory of evolution is named "Natural Selection" to distinguish it from artificial or sexual selection and this principle is that by which the plant or animal becomes like the thing of its choice. In its relation to man its operations are termed psychologic and in the realm of faith it is religion, and it means the conformity of the man into the likeness of that which he worships.

This process is perfectly scientific and obtains in Christianity as well as in the grosser practices of idolatry, and faiths entirely human in origin and in scope. (No pun is intended here.)

It is a fact that the worshipers of idols become like the beings or objects they worship and it also follows that the man who worships nothing, will become like the nonculity of his devotion. This leads us to observe the importance not only of having some faith in something but to select for that purpose the highest known ideal.

The consensus of the foremost race in intelligence, ingenuity and culture, offers Christianity in first place and it furnishes, as its copy, a personality which no other civilization, past or present can show in comparison.

Not only this, it inculcates such precepts of his and such helps as will enable humans to become "conformed" into his image and become partakers of his divine nature. Yes, even in all this through a human as well as all this through a human as well as by divine impartation.

So convincing has been the evidences in human experience proving these facts, that one writer, in the ecstacy of his personal enjoyment of this experience, exclaimed: "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?"

The knowledge today of the existence of such a remedy for the ills of life, brings with it the obligation to embrace it, and make haste to set its operation agoing in our being at once.

Some may say, this all sounds like preaching. Why not? Preaching is a science and proceeds upon the highest postulates of science.

Perhaps it is less effectual today because of some lack here in this regard. The Master drew all his arguments and examples from real life, and mostly rural, at that. He was master in this art, if we may call it an art. His superiority in using it makes it appear an art to us, but it was a divine method and one which he taught his disciples to use in aiming at success and He drew the multitudes.

We do not say that he convinced every one who heard him but he sent many away to live better lives by doing his will and big presence and power is promised to attend his words even to the end of time. Whom he didn't convince he convicted of the truth of his words. Satan surely today has many apostles abroad speaking for him, but as the arch enemy was defeated in a hand to hand encounter, the followers of Jesus need not quail if they keep close to him and follow his method.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Scott Ferris, who according to rumors current in Oklahoma is likely to become a candidate for the governorship of that state next year, is a former congressman who became a nationally known figure a few years ago as chairman of the congressional campaign committee of the democratic party. Mr. Ferris was born in Missouri and received his professional training as a lawyer in Kansas City, following graduation from high school. Early in his career he took up his home in Lawton, Okla., and was sent to congress after several years of experience in the state legislature. Entering congress in 1907, he soon developed qualities of political leadership which led his associates to choose him for the post of campaign manager. Mr. Ferris continued to sit in the national house of representatives through the Sixty-sixth congress. After his retirement he tried for a seat in the United States senate, but was unsuccessful.

WELL ONE DAY IN BED THREE

That Was the Life of Mrs. Hollister Until she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyandotte, Michigan.—"After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shoulders. I would feel well one day and then feel bad for three or four days that would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before was half taken I got relief. After was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand."—Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R.F.D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Mich.

From Small Beginnings

He'd Rather Have a Goat

He is the proud father of a two-months-old son. The other day a young nephew called at the house. The father thought he noted great admiration in the nephew's eyes as he looked at the young son.

"Isn't he a dandy? Wouldn't you like to have a little brother like that?" queried the father.

"Naw," said the nephew, "I'd rather have a goat."

One on Him

It seems that along with other literary folk he has a deep seated aversion to seeing any of his papers or magazines diverted from their original purpose, and he guards the stock most zealously. He dislikes to spare a paper for household purposes. Not so long ago he was coming up the cellar stairs when he noticed the front page of one of the best loved of his papers covering the shelves at the side. Sprawled over it was a motley array of bread mixer, chopping bowl, cookie jar and other household articles. Righteously he removed the offending articles, and fairly exuding wrath and indignation he sat in state in the library browsing on the salved pages.

"How can anyone," he asked the wide world, "be so thoughtless as to use a late, yes, even this very week's paper to cover shelves? How could such a thing be?"

Friend wife, doubtingly looked over his shoulder as she sought to solve the mystery. True enough it was the paper he had declared and it was issued the second week in September, but it was just one year old!

Stories That Recall Others

Paul Revere the Silversmith, Hero of a Great Ride

Everyone knows of The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere, but very few people know anything else about the man who rode so madly from Charlestown to Lexington in 1775, scattering the fire of the American Revolution.

When Paul Revere made that famous ride he was 40 years old. He was an intense patriot, and had done much in the service of the Colonists. In the months preceding he had engraved many comic pictures of the British—for he was an engraver and a silversmith by trade, having learned the work of engraving from his father, who had a small shop in Boston.

Although the father worked in precious metals the family had little money for itself. Just as soon as Paul Revere was old enough to work the father took him from school and set him down at a bench in the shop. Thus, early in life, without any real education, Paul found himself obliged to help support the family.

In those days every young man was a soldier, and at 21 Paul Revere was away with troops in the great movement against the French in Canada. Just before the Revolution he was quietly following his trade—but a most active and interested patriot as well. In fact, he was one of the men who helped throw the British tea into Boston harbor. He was so active and vigorous a patriot that he was chosen for the carrying of the alarm on April 19, 1775.

In the American Revolution he never became a general, nor ever a colonel, but he served in various military capacities in New England. At one time he was in charge of the fort that protected the city of Boston from attack by sea. Wherever he went, he carried with him the same burning patriotism that he had shown on that wild night ride. Once, when he had been sent to Philadelphia to learn about the making of powder, the jealous people there led him very quickly through the powder mill. His keen eyes saw everything, and he carried back a full report. Once, too, he was court-martialed but found free from blame. In his later days he was a leading citizen of Boston and founder of a great charity. He died at 83.

RUBBER

How far does rubber stretch? Scientists have discovered that raw rubber stretches throughout the tropics and even in our own American meadows.

"Milkweed is one of the hundreds of varieties of plants, bushes, trees, roots and vines in the world that contain rubber," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C. "Milkweed, however, cannot supply screws which will stand the strain demanded of the commercial product.

"Plantations of the Malay states, Java and Ceylon monopolize the famous 'Para' rubber, but, with one exception they do not control the other rubbers. Para rubber is now an orchard crop. But the other commercial rubbers, gutta percha, balata and chicle have not been raised to straight rows. As 'Para' rubber was sought 30 years ago so these others must be wrested from the wild jungle today—Indians do the work in Central and South America and native Malays in the Far East.

"Latex makes the rubber family. Latex is milk from irrigated plants. Like cow's milk, its color is white. It is the source of rubber and is suspended in the water more like globules of fat, and it will sour quickly if not preserved. The function of latex is different from that of milk and different from the function of sap, with which it is often confused. Nature uses it as a combination lip paper and automatic windsealing patch.

"Milk of the milkweed, familiar to every boy and girl, is essentially the same as the milk of the king trees of the rubber world. But milkweed milk has only a fraction of rubber in its latex while the best rubber trees give from one to two quarts of rubber per gallon. The latex occurs in a layer of cells between the outer and inner bark. It brings certain death to a bruise that attempts to bore into the tree. Having killed the borer the latex proceeds to heal the wound by oozing into a little patch of rubber. Hairs in this patch were hard and brittle, the tree's swaying would break it open. Foresighted nature prevents new wounds by filling a part which stretches. She is such a good contriver that hundreds of chemists wrestling for a rubber substitute have not excelled Nature's elastic.

"In practice, Britain's key port of the East Indies is the world market for gutta percha, one of the most important three rubbers, just as it is for 'Para' rubber. Big 'pescha' trees which natives slash for 'gutta' (gum) are found in the jungle forests of Indo-China, Siam, Malay states, and in adjacent islands. Although climatic preservation is causing the gutta percha still commands the commercial field first invited, submarine cable insulation. Of late years it has found a new use in golf balls. Golf balls combine gutta percha and another rubber; the interior is wound with thread rubber thread; the whole is bound by a gutta percha sheath.

"On first sight there seems to be no good reason for the existence of that Vista De onte town on the Rio Branco, an Amazon tributary, a big as the Ohio river. Clove-rating by new rich who want to travel 'soon' is for jungle from Para at the Amazon's mouth, will disclose that beauty is one reason. Balata is a heavy, stiff rubber. It is obtained from the bully tree in the same manner the world's entire supply of fine hevea rubber was once harvested in the Amazon Valley. The demand for balata to make rubber belting has been compensated for the blight brought on the Amazon trade by the East Indies' capture of the Para rubber business.

"Balata is a close relative of chicle, the Mexican and Central American rubber which serves America's nervous jaws. Over 10 millions pounds of chicle came from Yucatan and British Honduras to the United States last year. Indirectly, the American people's demand for chewing gum has boosted the cause of archeology, since many of the Maya ruins have been discovered by chicle hunters. The standing reward for discovery of forgotten, jungle-swallowed cities which one scientist offered to chicle gatherers brought many finds.

"There are the main commercial rubbers. Each has a different quality. There are many others which give more or less good rubber more or less generously. Later plants are typical of many plant families in their distribution. Quite opposite from the human race, the most ambitious members of the rubber family inhabit the Tropics. In Central Africa, the East Indies and the Amazon the rubber brothers and sisters or cousins are tree giants or great vine dragons of the jungle. In northern Mexico they have become bushes, in parts of the 1920's the Far East's Hugo made rubber tree live a snug life as the rubber plant. Our cherished temperate zone can produce natives only latex-weed pygmies; the milkweeds, Indian hemp, bell flower, and sow thistle. It was from the sow thistle that Germany extracted some rubber during her war-time isolation."

Ancient Roman Coin Hoards

Two hoards of coins were brought to light by an expedition excavating on the site of ancient Karania, in the Fayoum. Both hoards belong to the period of the Roman empire. One was found in the earthern jar which contained 1,183 well-preserved small coins of the sort known as minimi. They date about the end of the fourth century, and a large number bear the names of Theodosius and Arcadius. The second hoard was found in the sand under a hole in the floor. It comprises 816 coins in exceptionally fine condition. These are dated in the second and third centuries, from Marcus Aurelius to Maximus.—Family Herald.

The Great Surprise of Buster Bear.

Disaster to another may Bring opportunity your way.
—Buster Bear.

Buster Bear was just wandering about after the storm, the great storm which had blown down so many trees in the Green Forest and done so much damage. He wasn't bound for any place in particular. He was out to see the sights, just as boys and girls like to go out and see the sights. So he roamed about idly and it was just by chance that at last he found himself over near the big tree in which Busy Bee and her friends had their store of honey, the tree he hadn't been able to tear open or push over.

When he found himself near that tree he shuffled over to longingly look up at that little round entrance, the knothole where the bees went in and out. He did it from force of habit. For some time that had been the regular thing to do whenever he came that way. So he sat up and looked up and his mouth began to water before he really saw anything at all. Then such a surprise as Buster Bear got! My, my, my, such a surprise! He winked and he blinked and he rubbed his eyes, and still he couldn't believe that he saw what he knew he did see.

What was it? It was a great change in that tree. It didn't seem as if it could be the same tree. Something had happened to it. Something had happened to it in the great storm. It has been struck by lightning and torn right open. A great piece of it lay on the ground. Buster went over to it. Some pieces of honeycomb full of honey were still clinging to it, and around it and crawling over it were bees and bees and bees. Buster didn't pay any attention to those bees; he just gobbled that honeycomb, bees and all, like the greediest little boy that ever lived. Bees stung him but he didn't know it. He couldn't think of but one thing at a time and that one thing was how good that honey did taste. It didn't take Buster long to eat all there was on the ground. Then he looked up in that tree. I wish you could have seen the grin on Buster's face as he looked up. I wish you could have heard the sigh of satisfaction as he started to climb. How he did scramble up there! The lightning had split that hollow wide open and Buster could get his whole head in there.

The bees settled on him in a cloud. But it wasn't easy to crawl down through his long hair, and when they did get down through it his skin was tough. Apparently Buster didn't know any bees were there. He would plunge his head in and get a mouthful of comb dripping with honey and then gulp it down as fast as he could. Such a sight as his face was! He was smeared with honey from behind his ears to the tip of his nose. It was running down his black coat. When he couldn't reach with his mouth he would thrust a long arm down and scoop out a big pawful. Such a feast! The best part of it was there was actually more than he could eat. That meant that there would be more the next day. At least he thought it did. When he couldn't eat another mouthful he backed down that tree. Such a looking bear you never have seen.

"That was a perfectly splendid storm," muttered Buster as he tried to lick himself clean. "That was the nicest storm I ever knew. I wish my stomach would hold more. I just can't eat another mouthful. But anyway, I'll have another feast tomorrow morning. Just now I want to lie down."

Perhaps some of you small folk know how Buster felt.

Piles Go Quick
Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 95 per cent. and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Lee & Osgood today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you

TEN IN MACHINE THAT UPSET ABOVE TAFTVILLE

About 12:30 o'clock this (Thursday) morning a Cadillac sedan owned by Anthony Flora of Westerly, R. I., and containing ten people, five local girls and five young men, turned over on its side while rounding a curve at a high rate of speed, just north of Taftville. Nine of the ten men and girls in the car were injured, the injuries consisting of slight scalp wounds, bad bruises and lacerations. None of the injuries are thought to be serious.

The Cadillac was being driven by Arthur Flora of Westerly, brother of the owner of the car. All had attended a surprise party on High street, this city, and after the party started out for a ride. The accident happened while they were returning to Norwich. From marks in the road it was evident that the machine was travelling at a good rate. The driver, it is said, was not familiar with the road, and the curve is confusing, especially at night. Coming around the curve he applied his brakes in order to avoid a pole by the side of the road, the machine skidded and some feet further on turned over on its right side, at the street left hand side of the road. Passing machines took in the injured girls and men, and carried them to physicians where their injuries were dressed.

John Murano, No. 57 Tower street, Westerly, was taken to the office of Dr. George Thompson in Taftville. He has a long cut on the top of his head, requiring several stitches to close. Anthony Fiore, the owner of the machine, and the five girls were taken to the office of Dr. Edward J. Brophy, Central avenue, where their injuries were cared for. The names of the injured girls could not be learned.

Police headquarters was notified by telephone of the accident and the patrol wagon with Officer Murphy and Officer Frank Gwicydowski, were rushed to the scene. When the officers arrived all the injured had been taken to the doctors' offices. Arthur Flora the driver escaped with only a bruise on one of his knees. Antonio Puca was uninjured.

The sedan was quite badly damaged. The headlights were smashed, hood torn off and other damage done.

EASTERN POINT BARN WITH AUTOMOBILES BURNED

Fire of unknown origin totally destroyed a large two-story barn, three automobiles, two touring cars and a truck and caused the death of about 40 chickens, early Wednesday morning at Eastern Point, near the Plant estate. The barn was owned by Mrs. Minnie Spicer of Eastern Point road. The damage is estimated at azout $4,000 of which only one-third is covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered about 4 o'clock by Mrs. Henry Trail of Eastern Point road. A telephone message was sent to the Pioneer Hose company of Groton. An alarm from box 39 was turned in from the department headquarters. The fire fighting apparatus was driven out immediately to the scene of the fire.

When the firemen arrived the barn was a huge mass of flames. Glowing cinders were blown about by the wind in the direction of the Trail home, about 100 feet away. The cinders landed on the roof of the house, but fortunately the roof was wet. Sparks flew out as far as a small garage situated about 200 feet from the barn. A pear tree near the barn was scorched and a tent was destroyed by flying embers.

The firemen were handicapped in fighting the fire by the lack of a hydrant. There was none that could be reached with the hose equipment of the Pioneers. An attempt was made to pump water from a duck pond on the Plant estate nearby, but the water was too low to be of any use. A stream or water was finally obtained from the river several hundred feet from the barn. At first the hose sucked mud, but this was remedied when the firemen sank a rowboat and placed the hose in it.

From a single hose 800 feet long, the firemen played a stream on the barn, which had already been partly consumed by the blaze. Shortly after the firemen began their work the building collapsed in the middle. The gasoline tanks of the three automobiles were all partly filled with fuel, but fortunately none of them exploded.

The fire is believed to have started in a portion of the barn formerly used for stalls.

Only two of the chickens in the flock been extinguished a fireman, explored about 40 escaped. After the fire had ing the ruins, heard the squawking of a rooster and tipping away some of the fallen timbers, rescued the bird. The fire was checked Wednesday morning at about 7:30 o'clock.

SUPERIOR COURT CLERK TO RETIRE AT HARTFORD

George A. Conant, for thirty-one years a clerk of the Hartford county superior court, expects to retire from the office October 1 and filed a petition Wednesday with the state board of control to be retired under the state law providing for retirement of state employees. After the board of control acts on the petition the superior court judges at a monthly meeting or a special meeting will name Mr. Conant's successor.

Lucius P. Fuller has been assistant clerk of the court for a number of years and is likely to be promoted.

Mr. Conant came to the superior court office as assistant clerk July 1, 1894, succeeding Francis Chamberlin. Three years afterward, on July 1, 1897, Mr. Conant succeeded the late Charles W. Johnson as clerk.

Born June 27, 1856, in Ithaca, N. Y., Mr. Conant came to Connecticut at the age of four. He attended the country school in Mansfield, was graduated from the Natchaug High school in Willimantic in 1874 and from Amherst college in 1878. He then attended Boston law school for six months and afterwards studied law in Willimantic with John M. Hall, afterward president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company. Mr. Conant was admitted to the bar at Brooklyn, Windham county, by Judge Culver in May, 1880.

Mr. Conant practiced law in Willimantic from May, 1880 to 1888, when he took an office in Hartford, but also kept his office in Willimantic for three years more. While occupying his office in Hartford Mr. Conant in August, 1898, was induced by the then State's Attorney Arthur Eggleston to move into the office of Buck & Eggleston and assist in the preparation of criminal court cases. Thus Mr. Conant became the first assistant state's attorney that Hartford had.

Mr. Conant is apparently in good health but feels he needs a long rest after the exacting duties of his office for thirty-one years.

THEATRE SLANDER SUIT HAS BEEN DROPPED

The slander case brought in the superior court by the Norwich Amusement Co., and Edward L. McAvoy, as operators of the Palace theatre, against Abe Davidson and others as operators of the Broadway theatre, has been dropped. Notice of withdrawal of the case without costs was filed Wednesday at the office of the clerk of the superior court.

Damages of $7,500 were sought in the suit which was brought on the claim that two certain newspaper advertisements used by the Broadway Theatre were aimed at the Palace theatre and were libelous, false and malicious.

Th following were the words used in the advertisements which were quoted in the complaint when the suit was brought:

March 10, 1925—"We give what we advertise and advertise what we give," followed by the words "We don't have to lie, fake and misrepresent to the public."

Dec. 31, 1924—"A message to the dear old angels! The Bible says: Ye shall not steal. You shall not lie or misrepresent."

DOCUMENTS MISSING IN ESTATE OF GILPATRIC

The question of whether certain bonding companies may be called upon to make up shortages of G. Harold Gilpatric as executor or trustee of the estate of Joseph W. Cutler, late of Putnam, may hinge on the location of certain papers which have mysteriously disappeared from the office of Probate Judge David Flagg of Putnam. In the superior court at Hartford Tuesday before Judge E. G. Simpson, Judge Flagg told of the disappearance from the files of his court of the original Cutler will, the inventory of the property, and the application of Gilpatric to sell the personal property under the provision of the will.

The action before the court was that of the State of Connecticut ex rel The Hartford-Connecticut Trust Co., trustee, against the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. of Baltimore, Md., and the Royal Indemnity of New York, in which the plaintiff seeks damages of $40,000 and a decision fixing the respective liabilities of the defendant bonding companies.

Judge Flagg was unable to inform Judge Simpson what had happened to the documents, which had been presented to him for approval, and which he claimed had been placed in the file. The document he identified in court was a copy of the will. The will had never been recorded and there was no written record of the document. He had passed an order for the sale of real estate in the towns of Putnam, Killingly, Woodstock and Niantic, but the application and the order of sale had not been recorded.

SHOWED LLOYD FILM AT UNCAS-ON-THAMES

Through the courtesy of Manager E. L. McAvoy, manager of the Palace Theatre, the patients at Uncas-on-Thames enjoyed an unusual treat Wednesday morning by having the Harold Lloyd picture play, "The Freshman," shown for them.

Many in the audience had not been inside a motion picture house for many months so that it was truly a real treat to have this picture brought right to them, with a full orchestra of eleven men, stage hands and electricians that left nothing lacking for a complete production. Two portable machines, which were loaned and operated by Master George Butts, were used so that there was no interruption in showing the entire picture. When the orchestra members, directed by William S. Jeffs, sang certain parts of the music, many of the patients joined heartily with them and when the show was over a rising vote of thanks to Manager McAvoy and his staff was passed.

The transportation of the musicians and their instruments was provided through the courtesy of Harlow Bogue of the Irving F. Bogue company.

A workmen's compensation award for the death of Max Dempski, 23, an employe of the Connecticut Co., has been made by Commissioner J. J. Donohue in favor of Antone and Theresa Dempski of 132 Boswell avenue, parents of the young man.

Dempski sustained a fractured skull by a fall from wires where he was working on Main street near Franklin square on the morning of Aug. 4 in connection with the work of shifting the trolley company wires to the new white way poles.

A hearing was held before the commissioner on the question of dependency, from which the award was made that the mother of Dempski shall be paid forthwith the accrued compensation from Aug. 8 to the date of the award, at the rate of $18 a week in a lump sum and that future payments shall be made at that rate every four weeks during the remainder of the 312 week period. The sum of $100 shall also be paid toward funeral expenses, all medical and hospital bills having previously been paid by the respondent.

CONQUERS DEEP MUCK IN PATCHAUG RIVER

Mischievous mud causing an excessive settlement in the abutments of a new state highway bridge over the Patchaug river on the reconstructed Boston Post road between Westbrook and Clinton has been conquered, State Highway Commissioner MacDonald announced this week, and the last link of the reconstructed highway will be thrown open in time for winter traffic.

Conditions encountered in the construction of the bridge resulted in a movement of the piles supporting the west abutment more than five inches toward the center of the stream and a lesser movement of the east abutment. These the department combatted by replacing treacherous, cozy muck, which failed to support the piles, with dams of solid earth, and by constructing special concrete approach spans. The incomplete bridge was then permitted to stand several months until settlement had ceased.

Commissioner Macdonald said that the work will now be pushed to completion. The erection of the steel work and the west approach span has been finished, he said, and it is expected that the east approach span will be completed by the middle of next month.

In view of similar difficulties invariably experienced by the railroads the state highway department in the construction of bridges along the shore, the department, in undertaking the reconstruction of the Boston Post road at this point, in the spring of 1924, made provision for handling the heavy traffic during the endurance test which was anticipated with the muck in the salt marshes on either side of the river. To avoid the expense of erecting a temporary bridge to accommodate the traffic in the meantime, the old outgrown bridge on the existing route was permitted to stand while the department laid out a cut-off route to include the new bridge which was required to be heavier on account of the increased demands of modern highway traffic.

The department started out with the idea of using 25-foot piles to support the bridge abutments. Its borings, however, showed that it would be necessary to go through fifty-five and fifty-six feet of muck to reach firm footing in sand for the piles. The same conditions were found to exist at the location of the old bridge. Consequently, special hemlock and yellow pine piles, sixty feet long, were ordered from Maine and driven through the muck by the contractor. The concrete abutments were then built on this foundation, in accordance with plans approved by the United States bureau of public roads in agreeing to share the cost of the project on this federal aid road with the state.

The piles stood so high in muck, however, as to permit the perpendicular movement when the muck, instead of giving support to the piles, oozed between them due to the pressure on the muck of the solid earth fill placed on the surface of the marsh. Highway department engineers met the conditions by excavating muck back of the abutments as fast as it was pushed up by the weight of the fill. This process had to be continued day after day over a long period of time. Usually, surface of the solid earth fill would sink three feet over night, displacing muck which was removed as it accumulated, until, by this gradual process the solid earth fill had settled to a depth of thirty feet, forming a dam of stable material to support the piles. This, with the concrete side, had the desired effect, Commissioner Macdonald said.

In anticipation of such an experience, highway department engineers had made allowance in the plans and specifications for a six-inch movement, and, slightly in excess of five inches, this was inadequate in the erection of the 125-foot steel span. The additional cost entailed has amounted to approximately $9,000, making the total cost of the bridge about $47,000. The four-mile stretch of road, being constructed will cost approximately $300,000, including two short stretches over the salt marshes where temporary surfacing has been laid pending final settlement of the road foundation.

CURTAIN IS RUNG DOWN ON NORWICH TWILIGHT LEAGUE BY THE MANAGERS

The Norwich Twilight league passed into history Wednesday evening when the managers of the various teams in the league voted to abandon the schedule owing to inability to play a seventeenning game at this season of the year. This action was taken at a meeting held at the Duwell A. C. rooms Wednesday night and leaves the standing the same as on last Monday with the Centrals in first place and the East Ends and Hallville tied for second place.

The tie for second place is also the result of the action of the meeting in deciding on two forfeited games. A victory by forfeit was given the Nuggets. It is probable that a three game series may be played between the East Siders and the Hallville team to decide second place.

The awarding of prizes will take place at the next meeting of the league to be held on next Tuesday evening. It was voted to increase the first prize money to $50 instead of $40 as originally decided.

The meeting voted to add the name of Myles E. Standish to the committee to select the most valuable player of the league, the committee being Earl S. Brigham, Earl Masterson, Jackie Wilson and M. E. Standish. This committee will hold a meeting this week to decide on the player to whom the honor should go.

A banquet will wind up the season and a committee will be appointed at the next meeting to arrange for the date and place. This banquet is for members of the various teams, managers and others that have been connected with the league this season.

ACADEMY TEAM HAS LIGHT WORKOUT ON WEDNESDAY

Coach Whitney gave his Academy squad of forty five men their first blackboard talk of the season Tuesday afternoon.

Whitney has but three letter men left from last year's eleven, namely Captain Williams, Polsky, and Stefano. However, if the same spirit is shown in this year's squad as the baseball team showed last spring, the Academy, in spite of great handicaps should put out a determined, fighting team that will give their opponents a hard, fast battle.

For the center position Schwartz looks like the most promising with Sullivan, Murphy and Bell pushing him hard; at guard Connell and Polsky who were members of last year's squad, show up fine but with Fidell and Moore fighting hard their positions are none too sure. Stefano, a last year's letter man and Mullens, team well as tackles but will also have to do some speedy playing to hold down their berths. On the ends of the line Waters, Cimikoski, and McCluggage are demonstrating some fast rivalry. Captain Jimmy Williams at quarter will undoubtedly show the same speed and stamina this year as last. The remainder of the backfield have to be built entirely of raw material. Tombari and C. Brewer from present indications should form a fast pair of half-backs while Radio Ed Brewer looks good at full. Other candidates for backfield are: Kopteino, Dion, Courbois, Tirrell and Vitagliano.

The team has in Cortland Whitney as good a coach as any high school has in this part of the state. Whitney has had the advantage of being under the instruction of one of the best coaches in eastern college football and knows all the fine points of the game. He is faced with the heart-breaking task of whipping together a team from practically all raw material. It is up to the players themselves to work, and work hard to produce a winning team. It can be done. And if the same pep, fire and action the baseball team showed in the Bulkeley game this past spring is displayed the Academy football team will be invincible.

DUMMY SCRIMMAGE FEATURES YALE PRACTICE

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 16—(A. P.)—A dummy scrimmage practice followed the usual rudimentary drill of the Yale football squad today. This is the earliest that a dummy scrimmage has been held in football practice here in many years, was made possible by the continued cold weather. It lasted only a few minutes and the varsity was on the defense throughout.

The varsity lineup for the scrimmage was Gill and Wolfe, ends; Butterworth and Webster, tackles; Root and Wortham, guards; Sturhahn center; Bunnell, quarterback, and Allen, Kline and Cottle, backs.

During the signal drill which preceded the dummy scrimmage, Osborne and Potts, were tried out as end for a few minutes, while Cutler was in the backfield in place of Cottle. All of the linemen had an hour's work tackling the dummy while the backs ran back kicks and did considerable passing. The entire squad spent several minutes at falling on the ball.

Captain Joss and Lindley, one of the halfbacks, had colds today and did not report at the field. Two letter men, Benton, a tackle, and Richards, a likely candidate for guard, have not reported yet.

In addition to the regular staff of coaches Heyliger Church, who was an end on Captain Black's team, and Jack Field, of 1911 watched the practice.

NEW RULE TO PREVENT FOULING IS ADOPTED

OCEAN CITY, N. J., Sept. 16—(AP)—A departure in basketball scoring was taken by the executive committee of the Eastern basketball league today in the adoption of new rules designed to curtail fouling.

Under the league's plan, players guilty of fouls will take the penalty shots, rather than the victims of their violations, as has heretofore been the practice. If the offending player then succeeds in netting the ball, neither side will receive an additional point. But if he fails to make the shot, one point will be credited to the team against which the foul was committed, the ball remaining in play after the attempt.

A schedule calling for the opening of the season on November 9 and requiring each club to play 40 contests was adopted.

Shift To Harvard Squad

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 16—(AP)—Two members of Harvard's backfield found themselves in the line on the second day of this year's football practice. Madison Sayler, last year's halfback, played on team A at right end, and Roger Doherty, also a 1924 halfback, was placed at left end by Coach Fisher. Clement Coady, a tackle last year, is being trained as a defensive back.

Pirates Buy Johnson

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Sept. 16—(A. P.)—The Pittsfield club of the Eastern league today announced the sale of Elbert Johnson, a right handed pitcher, to the Pittsburgh Nationals. Johnson, owned by the New York Yankees in 1924, will not report to Pittsburgh until Spring. The local club also announced that the Portland club of the Pacific league had exercised its option on first baseman Charles Thomas.

BOROTRA IS DEFEATED EASILY BY WILLIAMS

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 16—(By the Associated Press)—Jean Borotra, the "bounding Basque," and hero of France's gallant Davis Cup fight this year, faded from the competitive picture for this season when he met crushing defeat today at the hands of R. Norris Williams, veteran captain of America's Davis cup forces.

Williams, staging a comeback which lifts him to a contending position in the national singles championship for the first time in several years, outgeneralled and outplayed Borotra to score the outstanding triumph of the day by the decisive margin of 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

It took Williams less than an hour to turn back the agile Frenchman, who lacked at any stage the fiery aggressiveness and accuracy which characterized his victories against the Australians, Anderson and Patterson, and his gallant battle against the national champion, Tilden, in the Davis Cup challenge round.

Altogether it was a bad day for France and the foreign contingent as a whole in the third round of the national tournament. The last two Japanese representatives, S. Onda and Takeichi Harada, were put out along with James O. Anderson, Australian captain, who fell a victim to Wallace Johnson's chop strikes, while Rene Lacoste, France's Wimbledon champion, was forced to five sensational sets before he downed Brian Norton, the former South African, now a resident of St. Louis, by scores of 6-4, 2-6, 8-6, 3-6, 8-6. In the most exciting encounter of the afternoon.

America's forces, on the other hand, headed by the defending titleholder, William T. Tilden, dominated their matches in decisive fashion. In addition to Williams' decisive victory, William M. Johnston and Vincent Richards, two outstanding native contenders for the crown, advanced without serious opposition, all scoring straight set victories.

Tilden, playing as he pleased, disposed of the Japanese, Onda, in sweeping fashion, by scores of 6-2, 6-2, 6-2, while Johnston's withering drives spelled the downfall of the plucky Chicago youngster, George Lott, at 6-1, 6-2, 6-2. Richards, although forced to deuce in his final set, was not seriously threatened to down the remaining Oriental entry, Harada, 6-2, 6-0, 6-4.

MAKOFSKI AND ZOLLIN REPORT TO AGGIE COACH

(Special to the Bulletin.)

STORRS, Conn., Sept. 16—The return of William Makofski and Arthur Zollin to the Connecticut Aggie football squad brightened things considerably in the Storrs camp today. Both are lettermen, Makofski in the backfield and Zollin at tackle, and they will help considerably in filling the gaps caused by the graduation. Nanfeldt is the only regular of last year's team yet to be heard from, and it is hoped that he will put in his appearance within the next few days. Weighing close to 190 pounds, Nanfeldt is one of the best tackles ever developed at Storrs and a strong man offensively and defensively.

Today's wet weather gave Dole an opportunity to have the squad work with a slippery ball, and he made the most of it. Practice was given in blocking and handling punts, passing, and a long signal drill. The team worked on nothing more than a few simple plays which Dole gave out yesterday, and until the details of these are completely mastered, nothing more difficult will be attempted.

The Aggie squad numbers twenty men at present, and even with the opening of college next week, it is doubtful if Dole will let it go over thirty. Arthur Mitchell, '22, who was expected to assist Dole for the first two weeks of practice has sent word that he will be unable to come to Storrs, and with Alexander's squad reporting next week, Dole's only assistant will be Ashman '23, who will work with the line. Because of this, Dole plans to keep his squad down, selecting only the most promising candidates, and concentrating on the development of these men.

FIFTEEN YEARS OLD GIRL WINS BRITISH GOLF TITLE

STOKE POGES, England, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Playing with her pigtail tucked down the back of her sweater, Miss Enid Wilson of Chesterfield, 15 year old and the youngest entrant in the tournament, today won the British Girls' golf championship. She defeated Katharine Nicholls of Kidderminster in the final round, 5 up and 6 to play.

The champion of 1924, Mlle. Simone Thile De La Chaume, did not defend her title.

Although the youngest competitor, Miss Wilson was physically the largest and most powerful girl in the tourney her opponent in the finals, Miss Nicholas, was the smallest and still the oldest girl entered, being 19

Herrups At Jewett City Sunday

Sunday afternoon at Ashland Park the Ashland A. A. meets the fast traveling Herrups of Hartford one of the leading semi-pro clubs in that part of the state.

This club needs no introduction to the fans of this vicinity as they have played throughout this section for the last two seasons and have always given a good account of themselves.

In a letter received last night Manager "Ken" Barnard of the Herrups states that he is bringing to Jewett City Sunday the strongest lineup that has ever represented the Herrups, and is out to win, so the boys from the borough will have to shake it up if they expect to come out with the long end of the score. Lineup for both clubs will be announced in Saturday morning's Bulletin.

MYSTIC

The work of strengthening the foundations of the Riverside block has been carried on the past week. Nearly everyone crossing the bridge stops to watch the driving of the piles and the workmen and then for a change they can look up and see the force of men painting the iron drawbridge. When the bridge was being built the public was greatly inconvenienced but all agree it is a lasting benefit as the time for opening and closing is short with the up-to-date equipment and the tender of the bridge Fred Williams, is on hand when needed.

Most Powerful Car of Its Size and Weight

—a One-Profit Value

THERE are (as you probably know) only two manufacturers who actually build their cars complete—make all their own bodies, engines, clutches, springs, gear sets, differentials, steering gears, axles, gray iron castings and drop forgings.

One of these is Ford—in the low priced field. The other is Studebaker in the fine car field.

This one-profit principle of manufacture makes possible four great advantages.

1. It eliminates the extra profits and overhead that many other manufacturers have to pay and include in the purchase price to you. This keeps Studebaker prices low.

2. It enables us to build a better car because the vital parts are designed, engineered and manufactured complete by one organization. Being built as a unit—Studebaker cars function as a unit, with all of the advantages of unit over assembled construction.

3. It makes possible finer quality because Studebaker, being an independent manufacturer, with no subsidiary or allied companies to favor, is free to buy on the open market, demanding the finest materials at the lowest possible price. Studebaker purchasing agents are unrestricted in their search for quality and value. Studebaker designers and engineers are unhampered by outside interests.

4. And, finally, because of these one-profit savings, Studebaker is able to offer you a sturdier, more substantially built automobile. We pay a premium for the finest steel. We use hard wood in body construction. Plate glass in the windows. The finest grades of upholstery. Genuine full-size balloon tires. Unusually fine interior trim with no exposed tacks, and heavy hardware. Throughout the entire car—in hundreds of hidden places—you find the same high quality of materials and workmanship that you see out in the open.

The Standard Six Coach shown below is a splendid example of One-Profit value.

It offers greater power than any other car of its size and weight, based upon the rating of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. And luxurious riding comfort made possible by the big balloon tires, resilient springs, comfortable cushions and ample roominess.

But the only way to judge this car is see it—drive it! Feel the luxurious upholstery. Sit in the deep, soft, comfortable seats. Experience the surge of its tremendous power. And then compare it with other coaches.

The recent Studebaker price reduction and policy of "no yearly models" only serves to emphasize the logic of this reasoning.

If you seek a bargain in a quality car—by all means see this One-Profit Coach.

POETRY

Solitude

As one advances up the slow ascent
Along the pathway in the woods, the trees
Change aspect, nor alone in this, but change
In stature and in power till Solitude
Seems cut out of the ancient forest. Here
Was Solitude! where man had lived of old,
Loved, serving God, and built himself a home.
Man smooths an acre on the rolling earth,
Turns up the mold and reaps the gifts of God;
Plucks down the apple from the tree, the tree
From empires in the forest, builds a home;
Turns for a bout among his brothers, wins
A sister to his wife and gets an heir;
And then as here in Solitude departs
And leaves small mark behind. The place is rare
In this high epic of the human life.
Where wildness has been wilderness shall be,
But God give times, and life is but a span.
Nine inches, while before it and behind
Stretches the garden of the cosmic gods;
For after London, England shall be wild,
And none can thaw the iceberg at the pole,
In Solitude one sees the winding trace
Of what had been a road, a block of stone
Footworn, that lies along the dim pathway
Before one old foundation and the rest
Is freaks of grass among the rising growth
Of birch and maple that another year
Shall see almost a forest.

—Philip Henry Savage

Simple Nature

Be it not mine to steal the cultured flower
From any garden of the rich and great,
Nor seek with care through many a weary hour,
Some novel form of wonder to create.
Enough for me the lusty woods to rove,
And gather simple cups of morning dew,
Or, in the fields and meadows that I love
Find beauty in their bells of every hue
Thus round my cottage floats a fragrant air
And though the rustic plot be humbly laid,
Yet, like the lilies gladly growing there
I have not toiled, but take what God has made.
My Lord Ambition passed, and smiled in scorn;
I plucked a rose, and, lo! it had no thorn.

Breed Theatre

Tom Mix fits the role of Jim Lassiter in his latest William Fox production, "Riders of the Purple Sage," so perfectly that it seems Zane Grey must have had the cowboy hero in mind when he wrote this, his greatest novel. It is a typical Mix role, with ample opportunities for Tony, his wonder horse, to share in the daring deeds of his master.

"Riders of the Purple Sage" will come to the Breed Theatre for three days commencing today. It is a picturesque romance of the West of forty years ago. Mix plays the role of a chivalrous soft-spoken cowboy who comes riding forth to avenge his sister, kidnapped by an unscrupulous lawyer.

Pausing in his quest for his sister's abductor, Mix wins the love of a girl rancher while protecting her from the persecution of a villainous cattleman who wants to marry her. In triumphing over a crooked judge, Mix learns he has revenged himself on the man who wronged his sister.

This romantic role shows Mix to best advantage. There are many thrilling episodes in which he displays his superb horsemanship, his skill with the lariat and his quickness in handling a brace of sixshooters.

The charming Mabel Ballin plays the role of the girl rancher, and Marian Nixon, a graceful figure in boy's clothes, acts the part of Lassiter's niece. Beatrice Burnham does a dramatic bit as Lassiter's sister. Harold Goodwin is the gallant young cowboy who aids Lassiter in defense of the ranch.

Palace Theatre

With the visit of his advance representative to this city, arrangements were completed for the appearance here at the Palace Theatre of Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa, who is now on his third-of-a-century tour with his famous organization. In spite of his seventy years, the "March king" is as spry as ever, as is witnessed by his present trip which lasts thirty-five weeks, and takes him into 202 cities in forty-three states and four Canadian provinces, where he conducts no less than 432 performances. He is accompanied this year by an organization of more than 100 bandsmen, as well as soloists.

The Sousa programs this season are more Sousaesque than ever since he began his independent career at Plainfield, N. J., on September 6, 1892. Sousa has made it a custom to write at least one new march each year. This season there are two, "The National Game," destined to be the nation's baseball march, and written at the invitation of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of organized baseball, and "The Black Horse Troop," dedicated to the famous Cleveland military organization. He is also reviewing "The Liberty Bell," which was featured the season of 1893-1893, and which, having been composed on Independence Day, 1893, is older even than Sousa's band itself.

Children Sent to School Healthy

Many of the children in Connecticut entering schools this fall will start their school career in a normal, physical condition. This has been made possible by the money to attendance at the well child conferences for preschool children, which have been held in 41 towns in Connecticut.

Each child has received a thorough physical examination, and mothers who are most interested in their welfare have been in touch with their family physicians so that all handicaps in the shape of physical defects have been corrected.

This is worth while work. There is a monthly Well Child Conference in Moosup. Mothers should avail themselves of this opportunity by attending the September conference in the Franco-American Hall Friday, September 25, from 2 to 4 p. m.

Palace Theatre

New York taxi drivers may be a dark and sinister mystery to the average person, but to Rod La Rocque they are like an open book. Rod's knowledge of the flivver chaperones comes from an intensive study of their lives and problems made in the interest of his two latest film appearances. Both in Allan Dwan's "Night Life of New York," and in "Wild, Wild Susan" with Bebe Daniels in the star part, La Rocque has played the role of a taxi driver.

During the filming of exteriors for "Wild, Wild Susan" La Rocque cruised about in a taxi, followed by another taxi in which were concealed the motion picture cameras. As he drew up to the hack stand near the Hotel Astor, a would-be passenger approached him. When he told the woman his cab was not for hire, she became abusive and went into a long tirade against him and all his confreres.

"Wild, Wild Susan," opening tomorrow at the Palace theatre, is an adaptation by Tom Geraghty of the Liberty magazine story, "The Wild, Wild Child," by Steuart Emery.

Palace Theatre

"The Pony Express" produced for Paramount by James Cruze and opening a run of 4 days at the Palace Theatre this afternoon is a well knit and thrilling story of the West just prior to the election of President Lincoln, when California was hesitating between North and South, showing the inauguration and operation of the famous pony express and giving a glimpse of the young Mark Twain.

This is a story combining historical fact with the element of romance that distinguished the west of former days.

Betty Compson, Ricardo Cortez, Ernest Torrence and Wallace Beery are featured in the cast of the production. The story is by Henry James Forman and Walter Woods.

The biggest thing Cruze has done yet is what Paramount claims of "The Pony Express."

Broadway Theatre.

There are only two big shows in Norwich the last half of this week. One is the Norwich fair and the other is the Broadway theatre attractions. We can certainly vouch for both to be above the ordinary.

The five B. F. Keith acts are above the ordinary in every way and you are going to see two and a half hours of the finest entertainment you've ever seen when you go to the Broadway. Here are the attractions that will make it so:

The Three Vedettes, a trio of international stars, Jacques Manoff, Jos. Martin and Marion Lane, in a brilliant blend of music and dance.

Homer Romain in aerial eccentricities.

Jack Casey and Kitty Faye in "Monkey Business."

Florence Dana and Robert Mack will offer the 1925 version of Little Red Riding Hood.

The Warren Boys, the kings of harmony.

There are many outstanding features in the feature picture, The Sporting Chance, a Tiffany production, at the Broadway theatre—but the scene that will give the most blase motion picture fan a real honest-to-goodness thrill is the stirring horse race between a field of real race horses, who hold the audience breathless until the winner is under the wire. This and other gripping scenes go to make The Sporting Chance a picture that will give real entertainment.

The work of Miss Dorothy Phillips, who has just returned to the screen after an absence of two years, is highly praiseworthy, and Lou Tellegen, Hobart Bosworth, Theo. Von Eltz and Sheldon Lewis complete a great cast in a great picture. And Kentucky Fay bears out the judgement of his owner that he is a great race horse.

COST OF SCHOOL SYSTEM IN PHILIPPINES INCREASES

MANILA, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The annual report of Vice-Governor Eugene A. Gilmore, ex-officio secretary of public instruction, shows that the Philippine government spent $7,336,000 for public schools during 1924, an increase of $115,000 over the previous year.

There was a total enrollment of 1,126,736 in the 7,746 schools in the Philippines, the males numbering 674,232 and the females 452,504. During the year 26,339 teachers were employed, including 326 Americans. Discussing the private schools of the Philippines, the report says.

"Much remains to be accomplished in the improvement of the education offered by private schools. The instruction is too academic in character. Industrial education, although it has received greater attention than heretofore by the authorities of the private schools, still needs development. It may be stated that one-half of the schools do satisfactory industrial work, one-fourth do the work fairly, and the other fourth do nothing at all.

"One of the problems of the private schools is found in the teaching staff. Many excellent teachers are being employed, but the majority do not possess qualifications needed for effective instruction due to the low salaries and temporary employment and the fact that the majority of such teachers are employed in other places."

WOLF EARS MADE TO ORDER TO WIN MUNICIPAL BOUNTIES

BRANDON, Man., Sept. 16.—(AP)—A get-rich-quick scheme whereby Indians on a reservation at Griswold, Manitoba, collected municipal bounty on wolf ears manufactured from skins of wolf cubs was discovered here this summer by municipal officers.

To collect bounties on wolves slain, the animal's ears must be turned in. The Redskins received bounty on the artificial ears for some time before officers discovered the ruse. Three men and a squaw pleaded guilty and were warned with a year's suspended sentences.

Birthdays Easily Remembered

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Sept. 16.—(AP)Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Douglass Johnson of this city have no difficulty in remembering the birthdays of their three children. Bernice Marian, the eldest, was born May 8, 1920, and three years later Elizabeth Julia made her appearance on the same date. Little Olive Nona kept up the family regularity as to birthdays by arriving on May 6 this year.

Opera Successful in Palestine

JERUSALEM, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Hebrew Opera Company, organized only two years ago, has proved that it can successfully conduct opera in Palestine. The company has produced seven operas with a total of 51 performances and the proceeds have been more than enough to cover investment and expenditures.

The company has grown from a small group of enthusiastic opera lovers, mobilized by Dr. Golinkin, a former conductor of Lenigrad.

Bavaria's Population Grows

MUNICH, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The recent census, taken in Bavaria shows the population to be 7,398,677. The total represents an increase of 355,211 since 1919, and of 516,440 since 1910.

PARLIAMENTARIANS HONOR HELD BY FIVE AMERICANS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—Only five Americans hold life membership in the Interparliamentary Union, which meets here early in October. This honor is reserved for those who have rendered signal service to it and have been elected by the Union's council as life members.

Although the rank and file of parliamentarians in active service make up the gathering which will be held in the capitol, these five Americans—but one of whom remains in legislative harness—will have a voice in its proceedings. Elihu Root of New York, who served as Senator and as both Secretary of State and War, as well as being actively identified with international effort, is one of the five and is expected to be one of the notable figures at the conclave.

William O. B. Ainey of Harrisburg, Pa., now chairman of Pennsylvania's Public Service Commission, is another of those who have been particularly honored by the Union for his work in the international field, notably in the Far East. Representative Burton of Ohio, the only man in the present House who has had service in the senate and who is a member of the executive committee of the American group of the Interparliamentary Union, has been exalted to life membership on its rolls. He is the only member of the five that is still in legislative life.

J. Warren Keifer of Springfield, O., a former speaker of the house, and Richard Barthold of St. Louis, where the union in 1904 held its only previous meeting in the western hemisphere, are the other Americans who enjoy life membership in the organization.

VETERAN RECALLS SCENES MARKING END OF CIVIL WAR

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Scenes akin to those that marked the beginning of the armistice that ended the World war were enacted at the close of etaoin etaoin etaoin in surrender of General Robert E. Lee at the close of the Civil war, George N. Stormes of this city, who witnessed Lee's surrender, declared recently.

"My, what a rejoicing there was when news came that the 'Johnnies' had enough and that the war was over," he said. "There was just one big, prolonged bedlam. Everyone was shouting and yelling at the top of his voice, hugging each other, clapping each other on the back, shaking hands, throwing caps, coffee cups, canteens, old muskets, anything at all that was movable, up in the air or at each other, just as they could give vent to the world of emotion that had been pent up within them during four long years of hardship and sorrow."

The actual surrender, Mr. Stormes said, did not take place at Appomattox Court House, but at Clover Hill, about three miles away. However, he declared, it did not actually end the hostilities in that locality.

"A short time after Lee had surrendered, I was one of a detail of soldiers which was sent to dig up some 127 graves that the Confederates had made near the court house," he said. "In those graves we found 137 Confederate cannon, and not one of those guns was spiked."

Mr. Stormes served in the 124th New York regiment.

INDIANA TO DEDICATE NEW STADIUM AT PURDUE GAME

BLOOMINGTON, In., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The new memorial stadium of Indiana University will be dedicated November 21, the ceremonies preceding the Indiana-Purdue football game. The stadium represents a gift of $250,000 from alumni and friends and is one of the projects of a $1,600,000 group of memorial structures commemorating the part of Indiana University and its students in the World war.

A $400,000 women's dormitory, provided for by the fund, will be opened this fall and a men's union building remains to be constructed.

The stadium will seat 22,000 persons and is designed to permit enlargement to a seating capacity of 50,000 if that need arises. It can be emptied in five minutes through four ramps on its sides and exist on the curved surface, the top of which rises only slightly above the natural amphitheatre into which it is set.

In the preparation of the football field several feet of limestone were blasted out. New ground was brought in and leveled and a depth of six inches of cinders rolled into the surface. Twenty inches of selected sandy loam surmount the cinders and on top of this is a two-inch covering of sod. A network of buried tiles assures perfect drainage.

The new field will be used for four games previous to the dedication, including that with Syracuse University October 17.

CHEMISTS SEEK TO STOP BOOTLEG OF LEGAL ALCOHOL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—Chemists in the Bureau of International Revenue have been experimenting for many months to find some substance which, if put into commercial alcohol, will prevent its being used for beverage purposes when diverted into the hands of bootleggers. Quinine and other chemicals have been used, but it has been a puzzle to get a specific that cannot be taken out by chemical processes.

Patent medicine manufacturers utilizing alcohol in their wares are required to submit samples to the Internal Revenue Bureau, where chemists ascertain if the products might be used for beverage purposes, because of the alcohol that is in them. If the medicines might become available as passable substitutes for whiskey or wine, the government disallows the applications. Inspectors in the field follow up the chemists' test by an inspection of the physical properties of the plant, to see that the manufacturer has the apparatus to turn out the quantity of product he intends and to insure that no alcohol might get into bootleg channels.

FIVE RAILROADS CONTEST FOR TEXAS AREA CONTROL

PLAINVIEW, Tex., Sept. 16 (AP)—Rail control of a fertile area of approximately 10,000 square miles is the prize for which five railroads, three of which are connected with main systems, are contending before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

C. E. Boles, examiner for the commission, said he expected to make his recommendation before October 1. He said the fight may be the last of a competitive nature.

"Only in southeastern Oregon is there a contest among railroads approaching in consequence that of the South Plains contest," he declared. "It probably will be settled before our problem."

Railroads involved for the future control of the South Plains, an area now populated by about 140,000 people but destined to support millions, are the Panhandle and Santa Fe, an Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road, and the only road now directly serving any part of South Plains; the Fort Worth and Denver City, a Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad; the Quanah, Acme & Pacific, a subsidiary of the Frisco system; the Texas, Panhandle and Gulf, and the Gulf, Texas and Western.

BRITISH SCIENTISTS DIG UP PART OF PRIMITIVE SKULL

JERUSALEM, Sept. 16—(AP)—What appears to be a very substantial missing link was discovered recently near Tiberias when the front part of a primitive human skull was unearthed in a cave among well defined Mousterian flint deposits.

The new skull is characterized by prodigious development of the supra-orbital prominences and depressed forehead as in a chimpanzee, and conforms closely to the Neanderthal European type not previously found on the Continent of Asia.

It was the excavation by the British School of Archrology of Jerusalem in a cave at Tabgha near Tiberias that was rewarded with this remarkable discovery, which was made by Mr. Turville-Petre, formerly of Oxford and now a student of the school here.

FLUCTUATIONS OF FRENCH FRANC ANNOY ISLE OF TAHITI

PAPETTE, Tahiti, Sept. 16.—The instability of the French franc has revived talk in Tahiti of establishing a local unit of value independent of the fluctuations of the franc. Opinion is expressed that as Tahiti is so remote from France, and is in the position of having a constant credit trade balance, the financial difficulties of the home country should not be allowed to unsettle values and disturb business in this colony.

As a matter of fact, the money used in the colony is a local paper currency issued by the Tahiti branch of the Banque d'Indo-Chine, but it fluctuates in sympathy with the franc.

A settled form of money is the only thing necessary to usher in a period of great prosperity to the island. But the vanilla and copra yields are increasing and are commanding good prices.

Rare Butterflies Lost.

"Don't swat the butterfly" has been the appeal broadcast throughout England in an effort to save the rarer sort of English butterflies from extinction. The butterflies it seems, are suffering from a too intensive study of nature by schools and collectors, and thousands of the rare kinds have been pinned down under glass cases.

A committee, representative of the leading entomological societies, has been appointed to conduct a "save-the-butterfly campaign," and it has been suggested that America should be appealed to for a new supply of butterflies.

Dr. B. Daydon Jackson, secretary of the Linnaen society, says the famous large Cooper butterfly is now extinct, specimens of these bringing as high a price as $200. America, he adds, is having similar difficulty, and the experts of both countries might well unite to save the butterfly from the greedy collector.—New York Times.

Heartbeats Heard by Telephone.

Members of the French Academy of Medicine recently sat in a hall and with the aid of telephones heard the heartbeats of many different patients in different hospitals throughout Paris. The test was sufficiently satisfactory to the 40 members present that all agreed that long-distance diagnosis would soon be feasible and accurate.

A Fire Every Three Minutes.

Statistics compiled by the National Board of Fire Underwriters show that there is a fire in some home in the United States every three minutes. This is an average for a period of five years. At this rate a town the size of Dallas, Tex., or Dayton, O., would be destroyed regularly every five years. Defective chimneys and flues cause the greatest loss due to any individual cause, though sparks on the roof rank next. Electricity ranks lowest among the avoidable causes.

HOW TO ROT STRAW FOR FERTILIZER

Many inquiries have been received for further details of the British method of transforming straw or vegetable refuse into manure. So far in this country only experimental work has been done with this process, the Maryland university experiment station being one of those at work upon it.

The reagent used by Rothamsted station in England is a mixture of sulphate of ammonia and chalk. For chalk ground limestone is being submitted in experiments in this country. Burned lime must never be used because it would obliterate the ammonia too rapidly. Straw and refuse are rapidly broken down, we are told, when treated with nitrogen, due no doubt to the nitrifying bacteria. Sulphate of ammonia is used in preference to nitrate of soda because it does not leach out, but, being somewhat acid, it needs an alkaline reaction, for which purpose the chalk or ground limestone is used.

For general purposes Rothamsted advises about 24 pounds of the sulphate of ammonia and 112 pounds of chalk (or limestone) to each ton of straw or refuse. If green refuse rather less would be required. The straw should be piled up in layers, lime and ammonia being sprinkled heavily over each layer. Water is essential, so that when dry straw is used it should be thoroughly drenched before being built up into a stack.

In the garden refuse may be heaped up in layers and dressed with lime and ammonia as it becomes available. The heaps should not be made larger than one or two tons each, as the rotting down is very rapid, the finished fertiliser being ready in about three months.

In England the Rothamsted station distributes a reagent made from a perfected formula under the name of Adco, which is a gray powder, and is more efficient than the raw chemicals. It is said that 100 pounds of this reagent will manufacture three tons of manure. There has been no manufacture of this substance in the United States so far, and probably will be none pending the result of experiments to determine what is best for conditions on this side.

In the meanwhile there is nothing to prevent amateur gardeners from making their own experiments with the dried leaves this fall, ground limestone, which can be obtained at any building material yard, and sulphate of ammonia, which all seed stores can provide.

The product of this formula is said to be almost identical with animal manure, but entirely to lack its odor, and to retain its fertility much better when exposed to the weather. All gardeners know how slowly leaves and straw decay and how difficult it is to handle them. They should never be spaded into the garden soil before decay, unless deeply buried. A method of transforming them quickly into the equivalent of well-decayed manure will be a boon to home gardens.

FINISHING PULLETS FOR WINTER CONSUMPTION

Much has been written about holding pullets back from early laying, leaving the impression that any treatment that retards production will be helpful. The real problem involved is not simply to retard production, but rather to put the pullets in such physical condition that they will be able to lay good-sized eggs and continue reasonably steady production throughout the season.

The first requirement is a large, well-grown frame. This is usually obtained during the growing season under any reasonable feeding practices. The second is a heavy, well-fleshed body. This cannot be obtained unless sexual maturity is relatively slow. To accomplish this end, the pullets must be fed liberally throughout the growing and finishing season.

Mash feeding should be continued, but the amount of beef scrap can be reduced one-half or entirely dropped, if a small amount of milk is used. When beef scrap feeding is discontinued, mineral in some form should be supplied. A very good mineral formula may be made up as follows: Fine salt, 12 pounds; powdered sulphur, 10 pounds; calcium carbonate (or ground limestone), 10 pounds; bone meal, 50 pounds; unleached wood ashes, 5 pounds; and charcoal, 10 pounds. Four or five pounds of this mineral mixture should be used in each 100 pounds of dry mash.

The scratch grain should be fed liberally, at the rate of two pounds of scratch grain to one pound of mash. This can easily be accomplished without difficulty. However, it would not be wise to limit the amount of mash in attempting to reach this high proportion of scratch grain consumption.

Many poultrymen are becoming very much interested in the use of whole corn rather than cracked corn for winter feeding. There seems to be considerable evidence that the loss of corn hearts and corn oil through cracking and holding is a real factor in feeding. Pullets do not readily take to whole corn—unless they become accustomed to it when they are in the growing stage. It would be advisable to start with a small amount and gradually increase, so that practically the entire night feeding would be whole corn during late November, December, and January—when the days are shortest and high egg production is most difficult to obtain.

Hopper-feeding of scratch grain is practiced by many poultrymen for poultry on range with very good results. When the pullets are placed in winter quarters, the amount of beef scrap in the mash may be gradually increased, but even then it is not advisable to use the full amount. It is more important to keep the pullets in good flesh than to obtain high egg production at the start.

The proper time to house pullets in the fall is when they start to lay. This means that any large flock of pullets should be looked over several times, and only the mature pullets transferred to winter quarters. Pullets that are not laying will not mature anywhere nearly as fast in confinement as on range, while the pullets that are ready to lay will more heavily and lay larger eggs if confined as soon as production starts. It is a mistake to let pullets out at all after they are once placed in winter quarters.

Pullets taken from the trees or open roosting houses must be given an abundance of fresh air in their quarters, else they are apt to crowd and become overheated, which may lead to colds and sickness. Allow ample floor space and provide plenty of green food. These two factors seem to have a direct bearing on canabalism and similar troubles.

Do not under any conditions start using artificial light on pullets as soon as they are housed. Unless pullets are unusually early hatched, lighting should not be started until November 1st.

BETTER COWS NEEDED TO KEEP PACE WITH CONSUMPTION

The number of dairy cows in the United States is increasing, as well as the number of people, but not at the same rate. In only two years out of the last six has the dairy-cow population increased in proportion to the increase in human population.

The United States department of agriculture has just completed a study of the utilization of milk, in which it is shown that slightly more than 1,000 pounds of milk per capita is used annually in one form or another. In other words, a grand total of 114,666,201,000 pounds of whole milk is utilized in this country by manufacturing it into various products, by feeding it to calves, an average production of 4,368 pounds of milk per cow.

During the last few years the increase in population has been around one and a half million people annually. This would mean that with cows no better than those we have at present the milkcow population should increase at the rate of 375,000 a year to supply the necessary 1,000 pounds for each person— of one cow for every four persons. It is also interesting to note that the per capita consumption of milk in 1924 was 14 pounds more than in the preceding year.

Since our average production is much too low, it is not wise to consider meeting the demand for increased supply by having more cows of the kind we now have, but it would be much better to meet the situation by breeding better cows. Not more cows but higher-producing cows are what is needed to keep pace with the increase in population.

PROCESS OF "WORMING" IN PEACH ORCHARD

Most every peach grower is familiar with the process of "worming." This has long been the principal method of eradicating peach borers from the orchard. Nevertheless, it is a slow and tedious process. Experiments have been under way for many years to determine the value and the most efficient method of applying paradichlorobenzene. This crystalline substance has been used with very effective control of borers for peach trees six years old or over. For young trees, by using extreme care and taking into consideration the weather conditions, borers have been controlled without any amount of injury to the young tree.

This mater il gives better results when used in the fall during the month of September than when used in the spring season. Only the pure article should be bought for use. The chemical should be finely divided, of a grade similar to granulated sugar, as it vaporizes much more readily when not too coarse. Applications of the crystals should not be delayed until soil temperatures are so low the proper volatilization of the chemical will not result.

In preparing the trees for an application of para-dichlorobenzene the earth for a foot and a half around the base of the tree should be cleaned of grass and weeds and leveled off without loosening the soil any more than necessary on the surface. If borers are present in the trunk of the trees above the ground level a bed of earth should be banked up around the trunk to the hight, or a little above the hight, at which the borers are working. Excessive gum and grass should be removed and the bark scraped lightly covered by a layer of soil, as these are more liable to injury by gas fumes than the bark of the trees.

The crystals are applied evenly in a circular bend an inch or two wide, entirely around the tree, keeping this band about two inches from the tree trunks. The usual dose per tree is one ounce. For very large trees a little over an ounce will be plenty. As soon as the chemical has been applied it should be covered with several shovels of dirt, making a cone-shaped mound around the tree trunk, and the earth should be packed solidly by tamping with the back of the shovel.

Under average fall weather conditions most of this "para-dichlor" under the soil covering will have evaporated in four to six weeks and a control of borers from 90 to 100 per cent may be expected. Cold weather or cold rains will retard the evaporation of this material, and under these conditions it would be a good practice to remove the mounds five or six weeks from the application of the chemical to avoid subjugating the tree to injury from the gas through prolonging the period of evaporation.

The use of this material on trees younger than six years of age is not recommended, for even in the hands of experts there will be some injury to the bark that many result in a dead tree.

LOUISIANA CATHOLICS PLAN GREATER SHRINE TO ST. ANN

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 16—Thousands of devout Catholics, both in the Old World and New, will turn their eyes to New Orleans and the Shrine of St. Ann, to make the pilgrimage to the new Archconfraternity, the only one in the United States, when it is constructed at Urselines Avenue and Bampart streets.

Petition is now on file for investigation and report by the committee of Cardinals who will make their report to the Pope. Pending action of the Vatican, the parishioners of St. Ann, now numbering more than 4,000, are planning a new and greater shrine.

The church has a relic of St. Ann a small piece of the wrist bone brought from Rome by Bishop O'Sullivan and presented to the shrine. Marvelous cures are attributed to the saint through whom hundreds of devout Catholics have sought favors, spiritual and temporal.

The shrine is located in a cosmopolitan section of the city where descendants of the old French and Spanish families now live and where many of Italian and German descent reside.

During a recent novena more than 2,000 worshipers gathered daily before the altar on which the sacred relic was exhibited.

The fame of the shrine already has spread beyond the seas and thousands from foreign lands have knelt in prayer seeking help through the intercession of the saint.

The Rev. Father Francis Badeaux has worked faithfully for the shrine and is assisted by Rev. Father Thomas Gaffney and Rev. Father Bernard Hamerstein.

RHODES SCHOLARS FIND FUND GRANTS INADEQUATE

OXFORD, Sept. 16—(AP)—It is estimated that the average cost of an Oxford education is somewhat more than $1,500 a year. For Americans the cost is higher, as they are unable to spend the vacations cheaply at home. Present costs are nearly double those of pre-war years. When the Rhodes Scholarships were instituted their stipend of $1,500 a year was most ample and some scholars managed to save enough from it during their three years of residence to finance a fourth year either in Oxford or abroad. An increase of $250 has been added to the scholarships, but they are still inadequate.

Further increases have been proposed, but have been voted down by the Rhodes Trustees on the ground that they would make the position of a Rhodes scholar better than that of the holders of English college scholarships and thus lead to envy and discontent. It is now common for public-spirited men of wealth in the Dominions to provide Rhodes scholars from their districts with the additional money required by present conditions in England.

RUSSIA WOULD PUT END TO ROAMING OF GYPSIES

MOSCOW, Sept. 16—A bill providing permanent settlement for gypsies and forbidding them to continue their wandering customs, is now under discussion by the council of commissars. A report by the commissariat of agriculture shows Russia had before the revolution nearly 60,000 gypsies. The annexation of Bessarabia by Rumania, it is estimated, reduced this number to 40,000.

Before the revolution gypsies had no land and could not live the life of a peasant working in agriculture. Considering that according to the labor code of the soviet republic every citizen must participate in useful productive work, the commissariat of agriculture proposes to assign a special area of land in the southwestern districts to Russia for the settlement of gypsies.

According to the project, all gypsies in Russia must within three years from the date of publication of the decree, take up a special place of abode, either in the towns or in the villages; failing that, all gypsies will be deported to the far outlying districts of the federation, where free land will be assigned to them. Should they desire to avail themselves upno the government's offer, they will be afforded similar privileges to those extended to emigrating peasantry. The government will bear all the cost of transportation and part initial expense for homesteaders.

PERMANENT SUMMER TIME DATES FIXED BY BRITISH

LONDON, Sept. 16—Summer time will end this year in the morning of Sunday, October 4, says a notice from the Home Secretary's department.

Summer time in the future will begin at 2 o'clock Greenwich mean time on the morning of the day after the third Saturday in April, or if that day is Easter Day, the day after the second Saturday in April. It will end at 2 o'clock Greenwich mean time on the morning of the day after the first Saturday in October.

This is in accordance with the Summer Time Act, which was recently passed, to establish summer time permanently.

Ruskin's Home to be Sold

LONDON, Sept. 16—John Ruskin's home, "Brantwood House," Coniston, Lancashire, where the poet lived for 25 years and died in 1900 is to be sold. In 1885, by deed of gift, Ruskin made over his house and contents to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Severn, "praying them never to sell the estate of Brantwood, nor to let any portion of it upon building lease." He also requested that they "accord during 30 consecutive days in each year such permission to strangers to see the house and pictures as I have done in my lifetime."

Exigencies of fortune are believed to be the reason for the sale.

Poland Has Week-End Prohibition

WARSAW, Sept. 16—The Polish government has prohibited the sale of alcoholic beverages from 3 p. m. on Saturday until 10 a. m. Monday. An exception to the decree is beer with a maximum of two and one half per cent alcohol.

Enforcement of this prohibition has led to a series of mass demonstrations in several of the larger cities of Poland.

German Beer Production Halved

KARLSRUHE, Sept. 16—The consumption of alcoholic beverages in Germany is much less than in prewar days, notwithstanding the annulment of the majority of the restrictions imposed during the inflation period. The production of beer now is only about 50 per cent that of former days.

TWO GERMAN NEWSPAPERS LAUD STRESEMANN'S WORK

BERLIN, Sept. 16—Conspicuous among newspaper comment on the second anniversary of Dr. Gustav Stresemann as foreign minister are those of the conservative Taegliche Rundschau and the democratic National Zeitung, both of which stand out as exceptions to the general run of criticism.

The Taegliche Rundschau recalls his courage in taking over the post of chancellor at a time when "the distress of the Ruhr and Poincare's victorious insolence" had reached a climax Dr. Stresemann is congratulated for having been the first to note "a silver lining in the gloomy clouds darkening Germany's political horizon" and that subsequent developments proved that he was right, as is shown by the fact that Germany is unquestionably progressing.

The National Zeitung, after summarizing events of the last two years, comes to the conclusion that Dr. Stresemann's policy has led Germany forward. Then discussing German foreign policies it concludes: "Such a tenacious struggle does not readily induce popularity, though it is to be hoped that it may come to be appreciated in later years."

J. F. HIGGINS, N. LONDON CONTRACTOR, DIES AT WASHINGTON WEDNESDAY

NEW LONDON, Sept. 16—John F. Higgins, 51, of 41 Sherman street, died at the residence of his mother, Mrs. Margaret Higgins, Washington, D. C., this morning, death resulting from a complication of diseases. Mr. Higgins, besides his mother and wife is survived by five children, Thomas, Robert, Waldron, Kathleen and Evelyn Higgins, all of this city; a sister, Mrs. Minnie Downey of New London and three brothers, Lawrence, William and Hugh Higgins of Washington. He was a member of St. Joseph's church and of Pequot Hose company. Mr. Higgins was a contractor and went to Washington about 10 days ago, on account of ill health.

Coast guard sailors are establishing a reputation for lawlessness that is not to their credit. Four of them were in the police this morning, three for attempting to steal automobiles from the streets and a fourth for the reckless operation of an automobile on the Thames river bridge. State Policeman Fred Cyron made the arrest in the latter case, when he came upon Albert G. Dias hitting a pace of 30 miles an hour at a time when there were perhaps forty automobiles in a line waiting to move. Dias made the excuse that he had overstayed his leave and was anxious to get to the base for roll call. That was not deemed an excuse in a man who admitted he had driven a car two years, so he was fined $25.

Policemen John P. Sullivan and Howard Sloan detected sailors Briton, Ritter and Miller monkeying about automobiles in the street, early this morning and arrested them. Ritter, according to Officer Sullivan was in a car on Pearl street and was endeavoring to start the machine. They had been in a Buick that was in front of the Capitol theatre on Bank street a short that before that, but the man who saw them could not identify the sailors as all the "boys in blue" look alike to him. LOUIS GORODITSKY, NORWICH, PAYS $209 FOR BOOTLEGGING

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 16—Louis Goroditsky, who gave his address as 338 Main street, Norwich, was before Judge Frederick Dimmock in the Waterford town court late this afternoon charged with violation of the liquor law, in the transportation of alcohol from New Haven, which he intended to deliver at his place of business in Norwich. He pleaded guilty of the charge and a fine of $200 and costs, the latter amounting to $9.53 was imposed. He paid.

Goroditsky was operating his Ford commercial car through Waterford last Saturday afternoon with a load of approximately 100 gallons of alcohol. State Police Officer Joseph Bobnick, of Groton barracks, was scanning the Waterford highway for drivers of automobiles who were violating the automobile law, as there were many autos on the road on their way to spend Labor Day in various parts of New England. When Goroditsky's car came along it was observed by Bobnick to be heavily laden and the officer decided to investigate its contents. Signalling Goroditsky to bring the car to a stop, the order was complied with and when Bobnick uncovered the load he recognized it to be that of alcohol. There were about 20 cans, each of five gallons, stored in the machine. Goroditsky was placed under arrest and the machine and its contents were stored at the state police barracks. Goroditsky furnished a surety on his bond of $1,000 for his court appearance. This afternoon when presented before Judge Dimmock, he decided to plead guilty to the charge and not fight the case.

Charles Lindsay, a sailor attached to the submarine base, pleaded guilty to the charge of reckless driving, but he was adjudged guilty from the evidence introduced and fined $25 and costs, which he paid. Lindsay was inclined to enter an appeal, but decided not to take that course.

Lindsay was arrested a week ago Saturday following the machine he was driving being in collision with an automobile owned and driven by Joseph Alfiero, on the Hartford turnpike.

Lindsay's machine collided with the Alfiero car, smashing two wheels on the latter machine and then traveling along the highway a distance of 65 feet before it came to a stop and after it had crashed through one of the state's highway fences. In view of this testimony Lindsay declared that he was not operating his car at a fast rate of speed.

DR. J. K. BUCKLYN, MYSTIC DIES VISITING PATIENT

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 16.—Dr. John K. Bucklyn, 60, of Mystic, a well known practicing physician equally well known in New London, died suddenly at the residence Cavin Burrows, at Poquonoc Bridge this morning. Death was caused by an acute attack of diabetes, from which malady Dr. Bucklyn had been a sufferer for several years, and from a weakened condition of the heart. He is survived by his wife, Dr. Bucklyn was a son of the late John K. Bucklyn, for many years president of the Mystic Valley Institute.

Dr. Bucklyn was summoned to the home of the Burrows family about 8 o'clock and while prescribing for his patient was seized by the heart attack and collapsed. The physician became unconscious immediately and although a doctor was hurriedly summoned, Dr. Bucklyn died before aid could reach him.

Dr. Bucklyn had been practicing in New London and vicinity about two score years and although his health had been impaired about two years, he was an almost daily visitor to his patients in this city, some of whom were anticipating a visit from him during today.

CAPT. W. L. SPICER'S BARN BURNED AT EASTERN POINT

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 16.—Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the big barn of Capt. William L. Spicer, Eastern Point, Groton, early this morning together with the major portion of the contents of the structure, including several hens, a large quantity of hay and farming implements. The fire was discovered about 4 o'clock when occupants of the Spicer farm, which was formerly owned by Mrs. F. Plant, were awakened by the illumination of the burning structure. The barn at the time was a mass of flames and there was but little time to save any of the farming equipment, although the greater number of a flock of hens in the building were released, not more than a dozen being destroyed.

The fire when discovered was located in the hay loft and the flames had broken through the roof and side of the structure. An alarm was rung in from a nearby box and the Pioneer Hose company responded, but when the firemen reached the burning building it was doomed to destruction. Streams of water were poured upon the building, which was reduced to smouldering embers a half hour after the blaze was discovered. The flames illuminated the heavens and were visible from New London, Waterford, East Lyme and Montville.

DANISH INTERIOR MINISTER SEEKS DATA ON GREENLAND

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 16—Unable to make decisions in matters concerning Greenland, with the desired accuracy, C. N. Hauge, Danish minister of interior, determined to visit the colony and seek first-hand information of conditions with which he was not familiar.

Before his departure Mr. Hauge said criticism of decisions made in the past had been very searching, and seeing that Greenland questions were of vital importance not only to the Eskimos but to Denmark itself, it was necessary for the administration to reduce any chances of future mistakes to a minimum.

"I wish especially to examine the possibilities of developing agriculture in southern Greenland, first and foremost the prospects of rational sheep breeding," the minister said.

"In southern Greenland there are large valleys where the old Scandinavians hundreds of years ago carried on their agriculture, until finally they were exterminated by the Eskimos."

Two government agricultural experts, Messrs. Hansen and Knudsen, will follow Minister Hauge to assist him in this task.

WEALTHY PRINCE OF INDIA TO VISIT SOUTH AMERICA

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 16—It is announced that the Maharajah of Kapurthala, one of India's wealthiest princes, will soon be a guest of Buenos Aires, having already reserved an entire floor in the city's largest hotel for himself and suite. The Maharajah will be the first ruling prince of India to visit Argentina and he is expected to arrive a few days before the Prince of Wales.

This Indian prince, who has been a ruler since the early age of three years caused a sensation some years ago by marrying the Spanish dancer, Anita Delgado, and is a well known figure in the capitals of Europe. He always travels in great state, with a numerous retinue, and an extraordinary quantity of luggage. The Maharajah proved his loyalty to the British Empire during the World War by pledging his entire yearly income of more than $3,000,000 at the disposal of the British Government.

AMERICAN METHODS HELP RUSSIAN ARMENIAN ORPHANS

LENINAKAN, Russian Armenia, Sept. 16—A novel experiment in education is being tried with signal success by one of the great American orphanages here. Each child is treated as an individual, and a separate timetable is drawn up for his benefit. Class work is largely abolished in favor of individual training in workshops and at daily household tasks. Each child is encouraged to specialize in the particular work for which he seems to have capacity and inclination.

This system is particularly necessary in these Near East Relief institutions, because every child is required to leave the orphanage at the age of 16 by which age he must be equipped to earn his own living at some trade. Twenty-nine different trades and handicrafts are being taught in the workshops, and the graduates who have been apprenticed out during the past three years are now employed in 250 different occupations, many of them showing great promise of success.

PARTS OF BEAR'S ANATOMY SOUGHT AS HEALTH CHARMS

OLYMPIA, Wash., Sept. 16—Chinese faith in the curative qualities of selected portions of a bear's anatomy has resulted in several unique assignments for government hunters operating in this state, declares Dr. Glenn R. Bach, field leader for the federal bureau of the biological survey in the Washington district.

Recently, a Chinese resident of Washington, D. C., requested the feet of a bear while some months ago another asked to ra bear's gall bladder in the case of the bladder, the information was volunteered that it was wanted as a health charm. Such a talisman when worn around the neck, it was averred, assured the wearer 1,000 years of life.

Although the supposed curative qualities of bears feet were not discussed, the hunters have been instructed to forward the first set of bruin's feet available to the Olympia office for reshipment to Washington. They also have been instructed to use salt unsparingly in the curing process. This essential was neglected in the case of the gall bladder, with the result that the talisman arrived in such a condition that officials were prone to believe that the warmer the weather the more powerful the charm would prove.

Once Apologized to Him.

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 16—(A. P.)—John G. Crouch, 82, believes he is the only person who ever received an apology from Abraham Lincoln.

Crouch was born on a farm in Rochester, Sangamon county, eight miles from Springfield, Ill. As a youngster he often went to the capital with the farm help to dispose of produce. On one occasion he entered the stable on Lincoln's property and was leaving, when Lincoln arrived and searched his pockets, saying that eggs had disappeared from the place.

A week later the Crouch boy was told by his father to visit Lincoln's law office. This he did.

"You are Davis Crouch's son," said the future emancipator "I wrongfully suspected you of stealing eggs and I want you to forgive me."

Crouch lived in Sangamon county 60 years and saw Lincoln many times. He often sold apples to Mrs. Lincoln. On May 4, 1865, Crouch viewed the body of the assassinated president.

Telegraph Terrified Many.

When Prof. Samuel F. B. Morse, inventor of the practical telegraph instrument and code, first put them into practice in 1845 many intelligent citizens were actually terrified. Some of the more skeptical spoke of him as being in league with the devil. The first message sent over the line that had been constructed for the practical tryout was: "What hath God wrought!" Morse was a painter, and not an electrician, but he combined the principle and devices that electrical scientists had produced up to that time and in that way won credit for the idea. He met with great opposition in getting the idea accepted.

RESOLUTIONS

At a meeting of the directors of the Masonic Temple Corporation held at the Temple on Broadway, Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 16th, the following Memorial was adopted:

Mr. Frederick W. Lester, 33rd, became a member of this corporation, January 6th, 1911 and was elected a director and secretary of this board in January 1916. We were long associated together in Masonic labor and to every position and every responsibility he brought a dignity and a faithfulness that endeared him to all who came in contact with him.

His Masonry was in his heart and radiated through his life in all its relationships. With a remarkable memory infinite patience and an efficient grasp of every detail he proved himself a valuable factor in the upbuilding of Masonry in this community.

His was a firm character, a noble manly and sympathetic nature and with these endowments he combined a devotion to duty that meant personal self sacrifice at all times.

We shall miss him in the counsel of this board for his judgments were at all times sensible, conservative and valuable.

Resolved that this minute be spread upon the records and a copy sent to his family.

FOR SALE—In the quietness of the little section of South Canterbury where runs a rippling never failing brook is located a colonial and stately farm house in excellent condition. It is interesting to know that a railroad station is within 3-4 of a mile and also school and post office. MARKET WAS SPECULATIVE

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—(A. P.)—Speculators for the advance regained control of the price movements in today's stock market, rallying the general list by staging another series of bullish demonstrations in the motor shares. A further softening of call money rates, reports of increased railroad buying of steel products, and heavy over-subscription of the German loan all influenced the buying support and their subsequent covering operations gave additional impetus to the advance.

Chrysler resumed the leadership of the motor group by soaring nearly nine points to a new record top at 158 3-4. Mack Truck showed a net gain of 3 1-2 points at 210 1-4 and General Motors crossed par for the first time since its recapitalization. Net gains of a point or more were recovered by Chandler Motor Wheel, Packard, Pierce Arrow common and preferred and Stewart Warner. Stromberg Carburetor, Studebaker and White. Trading in Willys Overland common showed a marked contraction in volume although the stock closed fractionally higher at 27 1-4.

With the exception of American Can, which closed slightly more than 3 points higher, at 244 1-4, after having touched 247, the standard industrials moved within relatively narrow limits. Baldwin showed a small fractional loss at 110 1-2 and United States Steel common closed 1-2 higher at 124. Independent Steels showed only fractional changes with the exception of Gulf states, which advanced a point to 83, and United Alloy Steel which recorded an extreme advance of 3 points at 31 3-4, reports of its possible merger with other recompanies in the Mahoning Valley district.

In the railroad group, Pennsylvania crossed 49 to a new high record for the year, but most of the other rails showed only minor changes. Carloadings for the week ended September 5 were 51,490 cars under the record established the week before, although it was the eighth successive week that the million car mark had been crossed.

Pullman was one of the outstanding individual features, soaring nearly ten points to 160 1-4, the highest since 1917. Railway Steel Spring jumped 7 1-2 points t oa new peak at 153 1-2, and net gains of 3 points or more were recorded by Childs Company, Dupont, General American Tank, General Electric, International Harvester, Kresge Stores, Standard Plate Glass, United Drug, United States Cast Iron Pipe and Western Union.

There were several interesting movements among the medium and low priced shares. Gimbel Brothers touched a new record top at 63 3-4 on reports of a marked expansion in earnings. New peak prices also were attained by American Safety Razor, American Tobacco, Armour and Company, Arnold Constable, Continental Motors, Endicott Johnson, Indian Refining certificates, Porto Rican Tobacco, Simmons Company, and Weston Electric Instrument common sent that stock up over two points to 19 1-2.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent, and then dropped to 3 1-2, the lowest rate in two months. Time money and Commercial Paper rates were unchanged.

Sharp recessions in the Scandinavian currencies featured the reactionary foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held firm around $4.84 3-8 and French francs were fairly steady about 4.70 cents. Norwegian kroner broke 80 points to around 20.85 cents and Danish kroner ruled about half a cent lower around 24.32 cents.

BONDS OF HASTY MARRIAGE DISSOLVED BY COURT

But few young men take a girl for a ride one evening, marry her the next day and lose her the day following, but such is the case with Howard L. Palmer of Stafford Springs, who secured a divorce from Cordelia Rebecca Palmer in the Tolland county Superior court this week. The divorce was granted on the grounds of fraudulent contract.

At the hearing it was brought out that Palmer and a friend met two girls on the Monson-Stafford road November 29 last, who said they were looking for a man named Williams, but were unable to find him. Palmer took them to his home and was married to one November 21. The next day she was taken into custody by an attendant of the Belchertown, (Mass.) Institute for the Feeble Minded.

Dr. George E. McPhearson, superintendent of the institution, testified in court that she escaped November 19, found a man and was married within two days. She is 24 years old, he said, but has the mind of an eight-year-old child. He is now planning to have her transferred to the state hospital for the insane, he announced.

ROTARY 30TH DISTRICT CLOSES CONCLAVE AT EASTERN POINT

The fall conclave of the 30th district of Rotary international was brought to a close at a real Vermont breakfast at the Hotel Griswold, Eastern Point, on Wednesday morning. When the term "Vermont Breakfast" is used it means something to those who like to appease a gastronomic craving. At the breakfast everything served on the menu was a product of the Green Mountain farms.

First came the apples, from the orchards of Ben Buxton, president of the Rutland club. Ben's orchards contain 20,000 trees and Ben is known as the apple king of the district. The sausages, bacon and eggs were also the products of the Vermont state. Then came the real Vermont maple syrup in which floated the buckwheat cakes that in themselves were a delicacy. Vermont apple pie, cheese, doughnuts and coffee concluded the menu.

The breakfast meeting was presided over by President Ben Buxton and Bert Brewer of the Pittsfield club was enlisted as song leader. The divine grace was asked by District Governor Rev. Allison of Holyoke, Mass. The singing included the Songs of Vermont, Auld Lang Syne and in closing 'Till We Meet Again.

The closing addresses of the conclave were given by C. S. Waterman of White River Junction, Bert Emery of Newport, Vermont, Don Adams, International president and Capt. Horace French, honorary member of White River Junction.

Mr. Waterman gave a brief resume of the conclave, touching on the bright spots of the gathering and urging all Rotarians to go back to their clubs with a new spirit of endeavor to bring the 30th district to the front.

Bert Emery called attention to the fact that the 30th district had three things of which to be proud. In the 30th district we have the international president, Donald A. Adams of New Haven; Paul Harris, founder of Rotary was a Vermont boy and although in Chicago still maintains a keen interest in the Green Mountains. Then the President of the United States, Calvin Coolidge, is an honorary member of the White River Junction Rotary club. Mr. Emery remarked that this was quite some trio for any other district to duplicate.

Capt. French, hale and hearty even at the advanced age of 39 years, who enjoys with President Coolidge the distinction of being an honorary member of the Rotary club of White River Junction, gave his impressions of Rotary and the conclave. He said that he was as young as any member in spirit and was thoroughly enjoying the finest time of his long life. He also spoke on the principle of service above self, saying that he never had such a happy feeling as when he was able to help some one in need.

As it was the 34th wedding anniversary of past District Governor George Cooper and Mrs. Cooper of Pittsfield, Mass., Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of the Norwich club, presented a handsome basket of flowers to the couple with the congratulations of the conclave and best wishes for continued happiness in Rotary.

Past District Governor Al Lavery of Bridgeport also complimented George and Mrs. George on the event and presented a vivid and handsome neck scarf to George saying that he hoped that he would wear it in remembrance of this conclave.

George feelingly responded for himself and his bride and George's countenance just radiated his love and good will for Rotarians and Rotary. He spoke also on the Denver conference and urged support of President Adams at this great international gathering. He complimented Vermont on the breakfast and told several of his experiences in that state as governor. In closing he suggested 20 seconds of silent prayer for the continuance of Rotary and its principle of universal brotherhood. The gathering stood in silent prayer according to Mr. Cooper's suggestion.

Just before dismissing the conclave Governor Alison called the two dear old souls of Rotary to the head table, Mother Cook, whom all Rotarians know and love, and Capt. French, that grand old man of the Green Mountains, who has won many friends with his sunny disposition and quaint philosophy. Gov. Alison called upon the conclave to look upon these two, who were climbing life's hill to the snow line, then on to the summit and higher heights of sun kissed and radiant glory, and pattern after them in their devotion to Rotary and its principles.

Don Adams expressed his appreciation to the conclave for the courtesies extended him and his wife and made a closing plea for renewed action in Rotary toward the goal which it is striving.

In dismissing the conclave Gov. Alison made a final plea for better service and faithfulness in Rotary and urged that all take with them something of the thoughts that had been expressed by the various conclave speakers and apply them to their daily lives as citizens and members of Rotary.

The convlace came to a close with the singing of 'Till We Meet Again and the Rotarians with hearty goodbyes left for their homes, except those who were entered in the golf and tennis finals.

GOLF HONORS GO TO TWO NORWICH PLAYERS

F. Russell Smith of the Norwich Rotary club and Mrs. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich carried off honors as champions in their respective divisions in the fall conclave golf tournaments, when the finals were played Wednesday morning at the Shennecossett club, Smith defeating B. C. Buxton, runner up in the fourth flight of the men's tournament, and Mrs. Campbell defeating Mrs. B. C. Buxton, runner-up in the women's tournament.

The prizes in the four flights in the men's tournament were silver loving cups, while Mrs. Campbell as champion of the women received a silver water pitcher, and Mrs. Buxton, runner-up, received a silver syrup mug.

In the first flight of the men's play William G. Park of the Norwich club was defeated by F. G. Patience, who by reason of his position in the first flight became champion of the 30th district. In the second flight W. Judd defeated John L. Ahern of the Willimantic club for championship of the second flight, and C. B. Perry won the championship of the third flight by defeating A DeBussey.

The sports program of Wednesday consisted solely of golf as all other tournaments had been completed on Tuesday and the prizes awarded during the dinner given in honor of Donald A. Adams, president of Rotary international.

Eastern Connecticut placed exceptionally well in all major sports, Norwich having two champions in F. Russell Smith and Mrs. Hugh B. Campbell and a runner-up, in the first flight while Willimantic club through John F. Ahern finished with the runner-up in the second flight.

COURT POSTPONES ACTION ON MANDAMUS PETITION

Sitting in the superior court at New London Wednesday, Judge Allyn L. Brown gave a hearing on the mandamus petition of Samuel Shapiro and Louis Kenyon to compel the common council at New London to issue them a building permit to erect a store on Jay street. Action was postponed pending action by the city council at its meeting next Monday on a permit application that Shapiro and Kenyon are to file. Although papers in the action were served on each member of the council, all failed to appear at the hearing before Judge Brown, and the only representatives of the city present were Director of Law Charles B. Whittlesey, City Clerk Julian D. Moran, and Building Inspector Benjamin Linicus.

Mr. Whittlesey contended that the application of the proposed structure submitted by Kenyon and Shapiro was not signed by them, and that the plans were not sufficiently specific. Replying to the charge, Attorney Lubchansky, counsel for the petitioners, called the court's attention to the fact that the application, was signed by the building inspector with the approval of the applicants and that the rough draft of the plans was sufficiently specific to warrant approval of the permit.

Mr. Lubchansky claimed it was customary to approve applications signed by the building inspector with the approval of the building inspector, and that the city council has been granting permits right along on plans roughly drawn and was prepared, if necessary to question Building Inspector Linicus on these points. Attorney Lubchansky argued that the charges of the city were untenable and the court indicated that it agreed with the counsel for the petitioners.

Judge Brown suggested that the plaintiffs, in order to overcome the city's objections, file a new application and new plans. Attorney Lubchansky coincided with the suggestion and a new application and more specific plans will be submitted to the council for action at Monday night's meeting. Judge Brown announced that if the council failed to approve the hearing of mandamus action would be completed at Tuesday's session of the court.

RESERVES DECISION IN SUIT FOR $5,000 DAMAGES

Before Judge Allyn L. Brown in the civil superior court at New London Wednesday the $5,000 damage suit brought against John and Edward Flynn, Mystic automobile dealers by George Williams of Greenmanville, Groton, was tried. Damages were asked by the plaintiff for injuries received when he fell through a hole in the Flynn Bros. show rooms on March 11, last. Upon conclusion of the case Judge Brown took the papers for consideration and reserved decision.

Uncontested Divorces

Two uncontested divorces are on the list for trial at the Superior court short calendar in New London on Friday of this week. These are the suits of Clara E. B. Murphy vs. Albert F. Murphy and Alice V Stamm vs. Walter Stamm.

The French emancipated their negroes in 1848.

COUNTY DETECTIVES ARE CONTINUING ON JOBS

The differences of opinion between Governor John H. Trumbull and the state's attorneys regarding the appointment of county detectives or investigators which developed following the governor's declaration that all such investigators must join the state police force before he would approve their appointment under a statute passed by the last session of the general assembly, are still no nearer a settlement than they were two months ago when the governor heard the vigorous opposition of the attorneys to his plan at a conference held in the executive chambers in the capitol. Following this conference Governor Trumbull asked Colonel Ernest L. Isbell of New Haven, chairman of the state police commission, to take the matter in hand and attempt to make arrangements with the state's attorneys which would satisfy them and their investigators and at the same time meet the governor's own desire to place these investigators under the state police department.

No headway has been made in this attempt and the investigators are going about their work as usual. Colonel Isbell said Wednesday that the vacation season had greatly delayed him in getting to see the state's attorneys though he hoped to be able to do so in the near future.

It is the governor's contention that the investigators must be placed under the state police department to insure the proper degree of co-operation between the state's law enforcement agencies and as a measure of economy. On the other hand the attorneys declare that the governor's plan will hamper them in their investigation of crime will lead to a confusion of authority, and that the governor has gone beyond the intent of the law granting him power of approval over the nominations made by the attorneys. The general assembly failed to pass a bill that would have abolished the office of county investigator and it is contended that the governor's action virtually carries out the intent of this defunct bill by forcing the attorneys to use investigators under the authority of the state police.

WILL MAKE STUDY OF CONN. VALLEY AGRICULTURE

STORRS, Conn., Sept. 15.—Connecticut Agricultural College, with the endorsement of the Connecticut Valley Tobacco Association, is undertaking a study of the agriculture of the Connecticut Valley, with particular reference to solving the problems of the tobacco industry. This was the statement today of Professor Irving G. Davis, head of the economics department at Storrs, and under whose direction this survey will be conducted. Professor Davis, in company with Clarence I. Hendrickson and Fred V. Waugh, also of the economics department, and assisting in the study, will meet with the directors of the Connecticut Valley Tobacco Association today, when plans for the work will be discussed.

As outlined by Professor Davis, this survey will consist of four complete phases, which when complete it is hoped will lay the foundation for a continuously sound agricultural program for the Connecticut Valley. These phases are as follows: first, analysis of supply and demand of cigar leaf tobacco; second, determination of the combination of farm enterprise which are best adapted to each of the main soil types in the Connecticut Valley; third, determination of extent and character of markets available for products which Connecticut Valley farmers might produce in place of tobacco in case it should be necessary to reduce the acreage of that crop; fourth, determination of the most profitable systems of farm management for the various sets of marketing and physical conditions in the Connecticut Valley.

The first phase of the study, dealing with the analysis of supply and demand of cigar leaf tobacco, particularly the Connecticut Valley types, has been under way for three months. Preliminary results made already available, and will be presented to the farmers at a series of institutes to be held in conjunction with the Connecticut Valley Tobacco Grower's Association during the fall months. The first of these comes next Monday, September 21, and it will be held in the Higgins School Hall, Thompsonville. Others are as follows: October 5, Simsbury Casino; October 19, East Hartford High School Auditorium; Nov. 2, Suffield Town Hall; Nov. 16, Higgins School Hall, Thompsonville; December 21, East Hartford High School Auditorium.

Professor Davis, A. W. Manchester, professor of farm management at Storrs; and Fred V. Waugh, extension economist, will constitute the speakers for these institutes.

The study of the first phase reveals the fact that if present conditions for demand for cigar leaf tobacco continue, there must be a curtailment of tobacco acreage in the Connecticut Valley.

Designed to determine the combination of farm enterprises which are best adapted to each of the main soil types in the Connecticut Valley, as well as set up a basis for reducing costs of tobacco production, the second phase of this study will be largely based on studies made in the town of East Windsor and Ellington. It will include an intensive farm survey of every farm in those towns. Information secured from individual farmers will be held absolutely confidential, and only the averages of large groups will be used for the purpose of making conclusions. This phase of the work will be carried on by the Storrs Experiment Station with Clarence I. Hendrickson, of the station staff, in charge.

The Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station at New Haven is already conducting an intensive soil survey in the Connecticut Valley, and work is progressing rapidly in the towns of East Windsor and Ellington. This work will constitute the physical basis for the farm surveys which were begun Sept. 1.

The third phase will be worked out by the extension service and the Storrs Experiment Station co-operating, with Fred V. Waugh, extension economist in charge. This will involve the determining the extent and character of the markets which are available for the products which the Connecticut Valley farmers might produce in case it should become necessary to reduce the acreage of that crop.

The fourth phase of this study involves the co-operating of between fifty and a hundred farmers in the keeping of rather detailed farm accounts, which will be analyzed as the basis for determining the most profitable systems of farm management for various sets of physical and marketing conditions in the Connecticut Valley. This study will begin about January 1, 1926, and will be conducted by Professor A. W. Manchester in charge.

Professor Davis stated that results of value are likely to become available from season to season, or month to month during the next two years. The complete analysis of the whole problem, however, which will outline a sound agricultural program for the Connecticut Valley, will require at least three years, and probably longer.

That the results obtained in Connecticut would in a general way be applicable to Massachusetts conditions, was also stated by Professor Davis.

Heartburn, Pressure Around Heart Palpitation, A Feeling of Fullness Shortness of Breath

THIS SIMPLE 3-MINUTE TEST TELLS WHAT'S WRONG

While there are many people who really have Heart Trouble, there are many thousands more who are literally "scared to death" because they think they have it.

To live in constant fear of Heart Failure is a terrible handicap, especially when probably 90 per cent of the self-diagnosed Bad Heart symptoms—Palpitation, shortness of breath, difficult breathing, a feeling of fullness or pressure around the Heart—are mainly caused by a sour, gassy, upset stomach. STONINGTON WOMAN CHARGES HER SISTER WITH FRAUD

Fraud in securing a warranty deed to property on Garden street, Pawcatuck, Stonington, alleged to be worth $5,000 over and above all incumbrances, is claimed in a suit brought by Joanna V. Sullivan against her sister, Annie J. Kennedy, both of Stonington. The suit is returnable in the superior court in October.

The plaintiff alleges that she signed a paper which her sister represented was to transfer a mortgage for $1,753 on the property from one bank to another, but it was a warranty deed to the property which the defendant is now using for her own benefit and to the prejudice of the plaintiff.

Upon learning of the alleged fraud, the plaintiff claims that she immediately made demand upon her sister to convey the property back, which her sister has several times promised to do but has failed to carry out these promises.

It is further alleged that the deed is void because it was not executed according to law, since it was not attested before two witnesses, neither did the plaintiff acknowledge it to be her free act and deed before a proper authority as provided by statute. The deed purports to be attested by one Joseph T. Murphy who was not present when the plaintiff signed said writing, the signing thereof taking place on the Pawcatuck premises and the said Joseph T. Murphy signed it as a witness in his office in Westerly, R. I., and at a time when the plaintiff was not present. The plaintiff, Joanna Sullivan, did not acknowledge the signing of the writing to be her free act and deed before a proper authority, it is claimed, but the acknowledgment form was filled up by one Joseph T. Murphy at his office in Westerly, R. I., at a time when the plaintiff was not present; and at no time did the plaintiff make any acknowledgment in the presence of Joseph T. Murphy or any other person that the signing of the writing was her free act and deed.

The plaintiff sues to have the writing declared void, to have her sister produce it and deliver it up to be cancelled, to have her enjoined from making any conveyance of title and to compel her to account to the plaintiff for rents, profits, etc., from Sept. 2, 1913 to the day of trial.

FALL TINTS REPRODUCED IN NEW MILLINERY

No better weather for a Fall opening could have been the portion of the millinery departments of the stores than was that of Tuesday, for there was a decided autumnal tang in the air, in sharp contrast to the previous day's post-summer heat. Good crowds were out to inspect the new headwear and there were some very satisfactory first sales.

Perhaps the most striking characteristic of the models on view was the wide latitude as to shapes and sizes. While large hats are to have a pronounced vogue, medium and close shapes still stand high in favor.

As to colors, cuckoo, which is a pheasant shade, black, pencilblue, a green of a shade still called apple, were conspicuous in the great variety of hats shown. Hand-painted effects on crown and brim are a novelty. Much gold is employed in producing results in effective trimming. Pencil blue and gold are combined in some beautiful examples. What is known as pheasant red is a tint greatly liked.

In most of the small shapes, the models are built high. Many are self-trimmed and smartly tailored hats are quite as strong in favor as ever Hatter's plush, satin, velvet and some French felt are the leading materials employed.

In the line of trimming, besides the metallic effects, there is wide use of soft peacock, much more artistic than the familiar burnt ostrich of former seasons. Ribbon-trimmed hats figure largely in the display—grosgrain, moire and satin ribbons being used, with a limited use still of lacquered ribbon.

Many of the best liked designs roll from the face; while the majority of close hats tuck the back brim—a surrender to the claims of the high fur coat collar, for one reason.

Now is the wise time to choose a hat, for before many days the new modes will have become a familiar sight and there is great satisfaction in having one's pick of the newest of the stocks and styles.

AVIATOR KILLED WHEN PLANE FELL INTO THE CONN. RIVER

Harry M. Ludwig of Hartford the Victim—It is Believed Ludwig Either Misjudged the Distance to the Water or Else Slipped and Pushed the Control Lever—Aviator's Head Was Crushed—Was Flying From Branford to Hartford and Had Followed the River From the Sound—New Haven Man May Have Been Passenger on Ill-Fated Plane.

CHESTER, Conn., Sept. 17—(A.P.)—Harry M. Ludwig, 30, of North Beacon street, Hartford, was killed late this afternoon when his seaplane fell into the Connecticut river about opposite the place owned by Harry Bond, of Hartford, above here. He was flying to Hartford from Branford and had been following the river in from the Sound.

It was first believed that Ludwig had had a passenger with him in the plane, but a search of the wreckage failed to disclose another person.

Ludwig was found in the bottom of the cockpit, skull crushed and his body wedged in so tightly that it was necessary to hack into the wreckage to remove it.

Persons who had seen the plane winging its way up the river, said that the pilot dropped the plane to a low altitude as if to land on the water. As it neared the surface, the plane suddenly went into a nose dive and collapsed in the river. Just before the plane hit the water, Ludwig was said by some to have stood up in the pilot's seat.

George Holmes, who lives near the river saw the plane fall and rushed to the river's edge. He removed part of his clothing and made ready to swim out to the plane. Meantime two row boats put out fro mthe opposite shore for the wreckage. The men in them had difficulty in attaching a rope to the plane and Holmes swam out.

It required several minutes search of the remains of the seaplane to locate Ludwig's body and considerable more to get it out. When he was finally lifted out, it was found his head was crushed and it is believed that he died almost instantly.

State Airplane Inspector George Pranitis said that Ludwig either misjudged the distance to the water in trying to land, or else slipped in his seat and pushed the control lever.

Coroner L. A. Smith has summoned six witnesses for an inquest which he has called for Monday morning at Middletown. He said that he had learned that Ludwig had been taking up passengers at Branford. Early tonight, however, he was unable to verify reports that there had been another man in the plane.

P. H. Spencer, connected with Brainard field, Hartford, and other fliers from Hartford came here during the afternoon.

The engine of the wrecked plane was taken out and sent to Hartford. Souvenir hunters began to remove small parts of the wings and fuselage soon after the wreckage was pulled ashore.

MAY HAVE BEEN PASSENGER ON THE ILL-FATED SEAPLANE

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 17—(A. P.)—Brewster Pratt, of New Haven, reported to have been a passenger in the seaplane in which Harry Ludwig of Hartford lost his life today when it fell into the Connecticut river at Chester, could not be located here tonight. Ludwig, after leaving Branford this morning, flew his plane here where he took on gas. At that time another man was in the plane.

STATE POLICE SEARCHING FOR BODY OF BREWSTER PRATT

MIDDLETOWN, Sept. 17—(A. P.)—State police late tonight began a search of the Connecticut river above Chester in an effort to locate the body of Brewster Pratt, 37, of New Haven, believed to have ben a passenger in the seaplane in which Harry M. Ludwig, 30, of Hartford, the pilot, lost his life, when the plane fell into the river south of here this afternoon.

The search was ordered by Coroner L. A. Smith after he had exhausted every effort to trace Pratt in Branford and New Haven. Reports from Branford were that Pratt, dressed for flying, had said he was going to Hartford in the plane with Ludwig and that his car, locked, had been found there tonight.

Ludwig flew the plane from Branford to New Haven this morning to take on gas. At the time another man was with him. His description, slip boots, flying coat and goggles, agrees somewhat with the description of Pratt. Pratt could not be located at his home in New Haven.

The coroner said that if Pratt or his body is not found tonight, he will have the river in the vicinity of the accident dragged tomorrow.

LUDWIG WAS PRACTICING FOR A PILOT'S LICENSE

HARTFORD, Sept. 17—(A. P.)—Excitement was tense at Brainard field, where both men are well known, when the accident was reported. P. H. Spencer and Mechanic Charles Arnold took off from the field for the scene immediately and were followed a few moments later by Lieutenant Earl W. Fleet with Aviation Inspector George Pranitis of the state police.

Inspector Pranitis immediately identified Ludwig on arrival. He found the plane a total wreck but said that the controls apparently were in good condition at the time of the accident. He said that Ludwig had apparently been thrown forward against the cockpit when the plane started its nose dive and that the blow doubtless killed him instantly.

Information given by witnesses of the accident was to the effect that they could observe only one person in the plane and that the pilot had tried to stand ro jump when the dive to the river began.

The state police made efforts to determine whether two men were in the plane at the time of the accident. Investigation at Branford determined that two men, Ludwig and Pratt had left there this morning for Hartford with the intention of making practice landings along the route. It was Ludwig's intention to take the examination for a pilot's license on arrival here, it was reported. Ludwig had not been licensed as he had not operated a plane the requisite number of hours.

DRIVER OF BEER TRUCK GIVEN THIRTY DAYS IN JAIL

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 17—"Seeing the inside of jail" has a salutary effect upon drivers of trucks carrying cargoes of beer without government permits, although their guilt is not commensurate with that of their employers who reap large profits from violating the liquor laws, it was remarked by Judge George H. Hinman in criminal superior court this afternoon when he sent Harry Noonis, 24, Brooklyn, to jail for thirty days and fined him $200.

Noonis was arrested in Fairfield at the wheel of a truck containing beer. He is employed by the Bushwick garage, Brooklyn, and transported the load at the instigation of his employers.

"If I had his employer here—and I wish I had—it would be a different thing," said Judge Hinman. He pointed out that a fine imposed upon a truck driver in like cases was not sufficient punishment, the persons who employed him to carry the load paying the money, "and they probably ought to" the judge added. Noonis will "see the inside of a jail" for a month.

BODY FOUND HANGING FROM LIMB OF TREE

CHESHIRE, Conn., Sept. 17—Search for George Adams, 40 of Shelton, who disappeared from Woodacres, a sanatorium, three weeks ago tomorrow, ended today when his body was found hanging from a limb of a tree about a mile from here. Dr. C. E. Denison, medical examiner, who viewed the body after it had been discovered by a government employe searching for gypsy moths, expressed an opinion that Adams had hanged himself on the day he left Woodacres. The body was badly decomposed.

Adams went to Woodacres about six weeks ago on the advice of Dr. Diefendorf of New Haven. He was said to have been suffering from a nervous disorder. When he disappeared three weeks ago, it was thought that he had returned home, according to Mrs. M. Godman, in charge of Woodacres. He leaves a wife and family.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—(A. P.)—A telegram protesting the action of the state department in refusing to let Shapurji Saklatvala, communist member of the British parliament, enter the United States was sent today to Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg by the Civil Liberties Union.

At the same time the union cabled Saklatvala, offering him legal aid in case he wishes to test the state department's ruling and "if there is any way in which the matter may be brought before the courts." The organization has also planned to call a public protest meeting against Kellogg's action, Forrest Bailey, its associate director, announced.

Mayoralty Contest Is Developing In Boston

Mayor James M. Curley Has Announced That He Will Give Support to Theodore A. Glynn.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The tangled political situation which has developed about the election in November of a mayor of Boston for the next four years took a new turn today when Mayor James M. Curley announced that he would support Theodore A. Glynn, city fire commissioner. Mayor Curley is completing his second term with a four year interval between. The city charter prohibits two consecutive terms.

Glynn is one of thirteen candidates definitely in the field. Although the election is non-partisan, most of the candidates have made much of their party affiliations. The city is normally a democratic stronghold.

The democrats are Glynn. District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien, Sheriff John A. Keliher, City Councillors James T. Purcell and James T. Moriarty, W. T. A. Fitzgerald, registrar of deeds; Brigadier Gen. ohn H. Dunn, who recently resigned as city commissioner of soldiers relief and W. G. McGauley, a dentist. The republicans are Malcolm E. Nichols, former collector of internal revenue, Miss Frances G. Curtis a member of the school committee, Charles L. Burrill, former state treasurer, Alonzo B. Cook, state auditor, and Hammond T. Fletcher, a west end politician.

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald and Major General Edward L. Logan, who have been mentioned as possible candidates, are expected to make definite announcements of their position tomorrow. Still others are considered as likely to join the field.

The democratic city committee has invited several of the candidates to appear before it tomorrow night to submit to questioning. Whether the committee will endorse any candidate has not yet been decided.

Much interest centers in the action of the Good Government association. This organization before each city election makes public summary of the careers and qualifications of the candidates and its endorsement is considered a strong asset.

MOORS DISCONCERTED BY LOSS OF EL BIBANE BRIDGE

PARIS, Sept. 17—The capture of El Bibane ridge by the French in their Moroccan operations has created a deep impression among the Beni Ubriaguel and Beni Zerual tribesmen, late advices state.

The French offensive, experts in military matters aver, has reached all its objectives and the French troops command the entire territory north of El Bibane and are masters of the northern slope of the Atlas Mountains, north of of the Ouergha river.

The operations of the French troops have succeeded beyond the calculation of Marshal Petain, the commander-in-chief it is declared by the military authorities. This is the reason why the French must consolidate the territory conquered, to serve a jumping off place for projected crushing of the Riff defenses.

In spite of the optimistic reports the general opinion prevails that the French will have to spend the winter upon their present positions.

CONTEST OVER SEIZURE OF MOTOR YACHT CONEJO

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 17—When informed that the 30-knot motor yacht Conejo had been seized at Boston at his request as the craft which is alleged to have landed 1,000 cases of synthetic whiskey at a South Freeport shipyard two weeks ago, Federal District Attorney Frederick R. Dyer arranged to have her brought here by the cutter Ossippee.

Before the cutter could take on coal and get underway, however, another message came from Boston to the effect that Judge Morton had ordered the United States marshal there to assume custody of the yacht, and the Ossipee's instructions were cancelled.

Judge Morton set next Monday for a hearing on two libels, one upon authority of which seizure of the craft was made, and another filed by Captain Lyman Alexander Bush, who claims to be master. The latter is what is known as possessory libel, seeking to regain possession of the yacht.

President Palmer of Fleet Corp. Overruled

Shipping Board Rejected Munson Steamship Company's Bid of $3,080,000 for Four Ships

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17—The shipping board today again over-ruled President Palmer, of the fleet corporation, in the matter of ship sales.

By a three to three vote, it failed to affirm the recommendation of Mr. Palmer that four ships operated by the Munson steamship company as the Pan-American line, be sold to that company for $3,080,000. Commissioner Benson did not attend the meeting.

Commissioner Haney whose repeated efforts to have Mr. Palmer removed from office, have brought a request from President Coolidge for his resignation, which he refused, was one of the three voting against the sale. Chairman O'Connor and Commissioner Thompson were understood to have voted with him.

Commissioner Haney announced afternoon that he cast his vote in the negative only after the board defeated 4 to 2, his motion delay consideration of the bids until Commissioner Benson could be present.

It was the second time that the board declined to concur in President Palmer's recommendations, it having turned back to the fleet corporation some weeks ago offers for 200 ships for scrapping.

The negotiations were reopened and the ships were subsequently sold to Henry Ford.

The Munson company offered $770,000 for each of the four ships of the Pan-American line. The same figure was bid by the Moore & McCormack Steamship company, but the Munson concern, by virtue of a provision in its contract with the shipping board, was privileged to equal the highest bid.

Commissioner Haney, in opposing the sale, said the ships had been placed on a paying basis and should be given a higher valuation. He believed they should bring not less than $1,000,000 each.

The commissioner did not press for action today on his resolution to putting the shipping board on record as favoring removal of President Palmer. He said he would let the subject rest until Commissioner Benson, who has just returned from a leave of absence, could attend the board meeting.

Commissioners Lissner and Hill, who with Commissioner Plummer, voted for the sale today, were understood to have delayed plans to leave Washington in order to attend the meeting.

President Palmer was undecided today as to the next step in the negotiations.

PROHIBITION NEVER HAS HAD UNIFIED SUPPORT

Research Mentions as Deterrents to Enforcement: President Wilson Was Opposed to Volstead Act; President Harding Maintained a "Hands Off" Policy; Secretary Mellon "Has Never Been a Prohibitionist"; Congressional Appropriations "Delinquent"—Fate of the Volstead Act Hangs Upon the Measure of Success General Andrews Achieves as Director of Enforcement.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(AP)—A hope that the recent prohibition reorganization may end an enforcement regime which "has left very much to be desired" was expressed tonight by the Research and Education department of the Federal Council of Churches in a comprehensive review of dry law enforcement.

The resume, which was a part of the department's special report on the social consequences of prohibition, declared among other things that after making all due allowances for the difficulty of the task, it was impossible to avoid the conclusion that prohibition enforcement "under the bureau of internal revenue has, until recently, been undertaken with much less seriousness than the situation demanded."

It was asserted also that the prohibition unit "has undoubtedly given the impression of a propaganda bureau, and this impression has cost it something in respect and co-operation that "a certain demoralization" of the prohibition work of the Justice department has arisen from various complications; and that Secretary Mellon, who "has never been a prohibitionist" has failed to give the prohibition enforcement cause the same kind of leadership he has contributed to the conduct of other official duties.

In addition, prohibition agents, like other government employes, were said to be underpaid and congressional appropriations "delinquent" while as till further complication was presented by the disposition in congress and elsewhere to regard prohibition appointments as political patronage.

President Wilson was opposed to the Volstead act, and was unable to give attention to its enforcement," the report continued, and President Harding encouraged a "hands off" policy on the part of responsible treasury officials, so that "it has remained for the present administration to develop a strong policy which, however tardy it may be, inspires new hope."

After pointing out that Secretary Mellon "has until recently held distillery properties," and that as a financier he has been absorbed primarily in business questions, the report declares he "has seriously disappointed the friends of prohibition by failing to develop a vigorous policy and to assume responsibility for it."

"There has been no indication that the responsible administrative officers of the government have given the requirements of more effective prohibition enforcement anything like adequate attention," the report continued. "All along the line the history of enforcement discloses lack of leadership and conviction in places where they would have been most effective.

"This picture has now, however, been relieved by the toning up of the policy of the government with reference to the national prohibition act, through the appointment of General Lincoln C. Andrews as assistant secretary of the treasury, carrying responsibility for supervising the customs, the coast guard and the prohibition unit. No final judgment can be pronounced on the enforcement situation until the new policy has been fairly tried. Certainly the initial effect of the change has been wholesome. It should be said also that the new regime has the full approval and support of the secretary of the treasury and the commissioner of internal revenue. Without such approval the plan could not have been put into effect.

"It seems safe to predict that if the efforts of the federal government do not meet with a considerable measure of success there will be a lessening of administration pressure to secure appropriation for prohibition enforcement and an increasingly receptive attitude on the part of congress toward proposals for a modification of the Volstead act."

PN-9 NO. 1 CREW SAILS FROM HONOLULU FOR 'FRISCO

HONOLULU, Sept. 17—(A. P.)—Quietly and without ostentation, Commander Rodgers and his four co-navigators of the navy seaplane PN-9, No. 1, which started a journey from San Francisco to Pearl Harbor in the air but finished it on the surface of the Pacific, slipped out of Honolulu this morning.

The five men last night went aboard the U. S. Idaho, on which they will retrace their route to San Francisco, At 8:35 o'clock. Ithout any particular farewell" ceremony, the battleship weighed anchor, and headed for the coast.

Shortly after the ship got under way, however, three planes from Pearl Harbor, under direction of Lieutenant Commander Millington McComb of the naval air station, appeared and circled over her, showering yellow paper Leis on the ship and the waters nearby, as the air service farewell to the men who have added so much fame to it.

The Honolulu Advertiser, which appeared this morning, was almost a "PN-9, No. 1" edition. An eight-column streamer on the front page said "Good-bye John Rodgers. We're Strong For You." The leading editorial was headed "Aloha and Good Luck, John, But Hurry Back." The editorial highly praised members of the seaplane's crew.

DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE WAS TOPIC AT GENEVA

GENEVA, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The event in Geneva today which excited the greatest interest was Great Britain's opposition to any immediate inauguration of technical preparations by the League of Nations for a general disarmament conference, Sir Cecil Hurst, in the disarmament committee of the assembly, declared it would be a great mistake to give a world wide impression that the millenium had arrived and insisted that it would be preferable to go slowly and leave the matter in the hands of the council.

The British stand provoked comment in the lobbies as being possibly connected with the desire credited to President Coolidge to have the disarmament conference held in Washington.

Sir Cecil told the committee that the league must not make another unsuccessful effort towards disarmament technical preparation by the war and navy departments of all nations should be started forthwith, but each national should make an inventory before the league was called into play.

The sentiment dominating the assembly is that everything will depend upon the outcome of the security pact conference which it is believed may be held at Lucerne and which may be attended by the Italian Premier Mussolini.

COURT MARTIAL OF COL. MITCHELL IS PROBABLE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.(AP)—Court martial proceedings which may be instituted against Col. William Mitchell of the army air service are virtually certain to be ordered in Washington instead of San Antonio, Texas.

While the routine necessary is still to be completed, department officials are satisfied that ground for a military trial exists and that the ordering of a court will be necessary.

In view of the condition they have given attention to the question of where the trial shall be held and are understood to have decided informally upon Washington as the best location in fairness, both to Col. Mitchell and to the war and navy departments which were involved in his charges.

The documents in connection with the disciplinary proceedings in Colone Mitchell's case are not expected to reach Acting Secretary Davis until next week. As army procedure requires that the charges and specifications when drawn against an officer shall be submitted to him before he is called before a military court, another week may elapse before a court martial can be convened here.

Following a stroke of paralysis last March Morse was taken to Bath, Maine for a rest in the open. The paralysis progressed however, and Mrs. Morse returned with her husband Monday night.

WILLIMANTIC

The sum of $175,000 will be asked for at the annual town meeting for the maintenance of the public schools during the year, following the drawing up of a budget by the town school committee. The petition for the amount will be placed before the meeting by George W. Hickey and Dr. W. P. S. Keating. The action was taken at a meeting of the committee held this week when reports of the chairmen of the committees and that of superintendent of the Schools Egbert A. Case were heard. In reporting for the properties committee, George W. Hickey reviewed the work done during the year at the High school and Natchaug grammar school. The parapet walls on the high school building had started to crumble and were reconditioned. The auditorium was redecorated. At the Natchaug school the woodwork was repainted in a most satisfactory manner and at every reasonable price. The committee further plans to have the dangerous stones which protrude in the yard of the Natchaug school removed this fall and the playground graded.

The application of John A. McKenna for appointment of truant officer for the ensuing year was read and accepted. Dr. W. P. S. Keating received a reappointment as town school physician.

Secretary Egbert A. Case then read the report of the school committee and his own report as superintendent of schools. This report will appear in bound form and be distributed on election day, Monday, October 5. Superintendent Case's report showed that the first grade at the Windham street school was overcrowded, with more than one hundred pupils in that one grade and the accommodations poor. The board of selectmen will be requested to provide quarters for at least forty of that number at some place convenient to the main school building. In addition to listing the expenses and income of the schools and the budget for the year 1925-1926 the report contains urgent recommendations for some action on the school situation which Windham faces through constant growth in registration. At the high school alone the registration is so great that Superintendent Case believes it will become necessary to check the influx of pupils from some of the outside towns. There has been an increase of 603 in the daily average attendance in the schools. To take care of this increase eight rooms were built as an addition to Natchaug grammar school. These will accommodate at the most 160 pupils. Thwarting this plan to relieve the crowded conditions came the destruction by fire of the Model school with the loss of four rooms. The increase in attendance last year is the greatest in the history of the town and from indications, within the next ten years at least twenty-five more school rooms will be essential.

A new Chrysler sedan with the radiator partly stove in is being held at the local temporary state police barracks pending the appearance of the owner, who apparently abandoned it after a collision of some nature late Wednesday night, or early Thursday morning, about three hundred yards southwest of the bridge over the Willimantic river, in the town of Columbia. The registration numbers had been removed from the machine and the only clue to the identity of the driver is a small shield bearing the initials "R. S. B." which had been pried from the sides of both doors and thrown to the ground. Chief of Police McArthur was notified of the abandoned car but it being out of his jurisdiction he turned the matter over to the state police. Officer Henry Heinold conducted the investigation. The machine was found ten feet in a lot opposite a sharp curve. The machine had collided with two posts on the state fence.

Bystanders at the railroad station Wednesday realized how apt the expression "He escaped by an inch of his life" may be. Don't get excited! It was a pigeon. Just as a train came along, Mr. Pigeon decided to alight on the rail regardless. The wheels took off every tailfeather quicker than scat but left the astonished bird's body intact. He flew a short distance away and sat on the ground apparently meditating as to where the rest of his wearing apparel had gone so suddenly when he finally decided to go to safer regions he acted as if he had lost his rudder, and couldn't get his bearings.

AUTOS KILL TWO EVERY HOUR IN UNITED STATES

CLEVELAND, Sept. 16—America's death rate due to automobile accidents leads the world, being 14.8 fatalities for every 100,000 population against 5.2 in England and Wales, 4.3 in Scotland, 4.6 in New Zealand and 3.6 in Canada during 1924. Figures for 1924 show that for 158 American cities the automobile accident death rate was 19.4 per 100,000 population, causing not less than 17,000 deaths in automobile accidents, not counting accidents which involved railroad trains or street cars, and automobiles.

The toll of human life taken by motor vehicles last year in this country was at the rate of more than two for every hour in the day. These statistics have been compiled by the National Safety Council for consideration at the Fourteenth Annual Congress which will open here on Monday, Sept. 28.

Among the speakers and their subjects are: Dr. L. T. Dublin of New York, who will present the annual report of the Statistical Committee of the National Council; E. W. James, chief, division of design, and Bureau of Public Roads, Washington D. C., on "Street and Highway Signs, and Progress Toward Standardization;" M. O. Eldridge, director of traffic, Washington, D. C., on "Traffic Control Systems;" Major Thomas H. Allen, Commissioner of Fire and Police, at Memphis, Tenn. on "Pavement Markings;" F. F. Rogers, State Highway Commission, Lansing, Mich., on "Safe Construction of Equipment of Highways;" H. W. Lueck, Chicago on "Non-Traffic Street Hazards;" O. J. Brown, president of N. Y. State Automobile association, on "Why We believe in a Driver's License Law."

ITALIAN QUEEN AS BABY BEGAN DUTIES OF MOTHER

ROME, Sept. 17—Discussing the duties of a mother with a visitor recently, Queen Helena told her guest that she had always been a mother. "When I was a baby," said the queen, "I mothered my dolls, loving them, bringing them up and educating them as though they were living creatures. As a young girl, I was a mother to my youngest brother. When he was born my mother was seriously ill, and the infant was turned over to me. I did more for him than I did for my own children, because for them I had the aid of nurses."

Queen Helena recalled a story of the crown prince when a toddling tot. The youngster had been crying and quickly dried his tears when his mother invited him to aid her in a minor domestic task.

"Now you are a fine little man," said the queen to her now smiling son. "And to think just a little while ago you were crying like a naughty child."

"Oh, mother," replied little Humboldt, "that was not I crying, it was another little boy."

JAPAN MAPS OUT EXTENSIVE PROGRAM OF ROAD BUILDING

TOKYO, Sept. 17—Good roads in Japan are as hard to find as the proverbial needle in the haystack, but if a bill which is being planned by the home department is enacted by the next Diet, automobiles in this country will come in for their own. The proposed plan is either to build new highways or improve the present ones at a cost of some 300,000,000 yen, one-third of which will be furnished by the government.

Under the proposed bill the government grants would come in ten yearly installments, the first beginning next year. It is planned to widen and pave the important highways in rural districts, which at present are unfit for automotive transportation, and to improve such public roads over which railroad construction is projected.

Wink Proved Guard Was Alive

LONDON, Sept. 17—London is full of tourists from practically all countries and most of the overseas visitors never fail to be interested in the stalwart guardsmen on duty at the Horse Guards headquarters in Whitehall.

Some stare at them deliberately and one French girl refused to believe one motionless figure was alive. She stood alone and gazed harder, then suddenly joined her English friends looking somewhat flushed. She explained that the soldier was real after all—he had deliberately winked at her.

May Fly Never Eats

A strange creature, the dainty May fly. One of the strangest things is that it eats nothing from its cradle to the moment of its death.

Thrust into a world where nearly every living thing is constantly in search of food, the May fly goes its way with never a thought of food writes W. A. DuPuy in Nature Magazine. Surrounded by creatures that lie in wait and devour each other, the May fly eats not nor thinks of eating. It does not even possess a mouth which it might eat if it felt so disposed. It comes into the world with a certain amount of vitality in its frail body, it dances gaily until that strength is gone and dies.

Equally strange is the birth of the May fly, a birth which almost any observer may witness if he happens to be sharp-eyed by the waterside almost anywhere at just the right minute. If he watches closely, he may see many tiny creatures as big as house flies emerging from the mud at bottom of the lake or stream.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Once again a movement is under way that may lead to an arrangement under which clerks in Danielson stores may get a half-holiday each week throughout the year with the exception of holiday seasons. It is hoped to effect this arrangement without closing of the stores excepting as during the past summer. Advocates of the plan are suggesting that each clerk be assigned a half day off each week. That is the plan is generally favored is indicated by a statement that but two or three business men who have been approached have not agreed to the plan. The clerks seek a half-holiday on the ground that such a concession is granted to millions of workers in the United States and is practically universal in organized trades and in factory organizations.

At St. Joseph's Church in Dayville plans are being considered for the decoration of the interior. To this work a fund of $1500 that has been accumulated will be applied in part payment. Rev. Ignatius Kost, the pastor, intends that the scantuary altar and statues in the church will receive attention during the coming fall. Further work on the interior will be carried out as funds for the work are available. The decorative arrangement under consideration is one that will materially add to the beauty of the church. The parish property has been steadily improved by Father Kost during the past few years, and this is now one of the most attractive of the smaller parishes in this corner of the state.

Mention in this column that there are those who favor the construction of a new high school building, instead of building wings onto the present building, and use of the present high school building as a graded school building, has brought forth comment indicating that this suggestion will receive very serious consideration prior to and at the annual town meeting on the first Monday in October.

The death at Westerly of Frank Larkin and mention that he was one of those who received a gold medal struck by special act of congress, attesting his courage in saving lives from the wreck of the steamer Metis off Watch Hill in 1872, recalls that the late Eugene Nash, of this town, had a similar medal for like service performed. These medals were unusually large and beautiful. Mr. Nash also possessed souvenirs of the wreck, one of the most tragic in the history of the locality where it occurred.

Publicity given in this column to the fact that an airship landing is desired and that Warden Walter Anderson is handling the matter has brought from Harry W. Clarke the offer of the use of land he has near South Killingly, about three miles east of Danielson for this purpose. On a farm that Mr. Clarke owns there is a fine field for such a purpose as has been mentioned.

There are those who contend that the northeaster of the past two days is the line storm annually expected about this time of year. There are others who maintain the line storm is nothing more than a myth. And there are still others who frankly admit they know nothing about the subject one way or another, and hint their idea that no one else does. And there you are. However, thousands have heard of the line storm for many years and look for a long drawn out storm about September 21, a few days before that date or a few days thereafter.

From various points in New England where horse races have been held in the past fortnight to other points where races were to be held, race horses have been trucked through Danielson on their overland voyaging. Here is a particular line of special transportation that seems to have been practically wholly lost to the railroad within the past few years. About every stable of consequence now has motor truck equipment ample for all the stable's transportation requirements. In other cases such transportation is available at a price. Some of the big vans in which horses are being carried about the country are interesting in their appointments and afford comfortable transportation for the animals to be transferred. There is also place for sulkies and other racing equipment.

Automobiles are cantankerous things. One of Danielson's experienced motor mechanics will attest to that. Having thoroughly overhauled his own machine, he took it out for a run, only to be stalled a little distance from home. Minute inspection for every possible trouble failed to uncover the difficulty. And then a farmer boy appeared and promptly found out what ailed the automobile. It was a loose wire. A minute adjusted the trouble and put the car into running condition again. All of which once more illustrates the old saying that two heads are better than one!

Danielson is one more town that will welcome the return of standard time keeping of that large area, in southern New England where daylight time has been in vogue since early spring. That boon will be realized a week from Monday. While doing business with people in this immediate territory, people here have found little to confuse them in keeping tabs on engagements or appointments. But most people have outside interests and no end of confusion has resulted in attending to these, due to the fact that standard time was being observed here and fast time elsewhere. One has heard an innumerable number of times from some disappointed or disgusted person "I don't care what kind of time we have, but let's have one kind or ther other; make it universal." Some one has arisen to remark "Connecticut has a law against daylight saving time." So it has, and just about as workable as some other laws one might mention.

Rev. Ignatius Kost, pastor of St. Joseph's church at Dayville, has planned a mission for the French-speaking peoples. A mission will be conducted for a week at Dayville and for another week at the Church of the Five Wounds, a mission of St. Joseph's parish, at Ballouville.

The Brooklyn baseball team will try conclusions with the Old Timers' team here Sunday afternoon. The Brooklyn team has been strengthened for the contest.

Frank H. Cordier and Daniel Weeks will start today (Friday) or Saturday by automobile for Florida. They will make the trip by easy stages stopping at the principal cities along the route. A camping outfit will be carried with facilities for cooking their meals. They intend to view the Get-rich-over-night country with their own eyes, and may decide to remain there during the winter.

A large part of the population of Putnam was at Woodstock Fair Thursday. Thursday afternoon is a half-holiday when the stores are closed and will continue so for the remander of the month. This gave managare and clerks an opportunity to visit the Fair. The sun didn't shine and rain threatened throughout the day, but in spite of that there was an immense crowd at theFair.

Twenty-five candidates have reported for football to coach O. F. Smith at the Putnam High school. The first game of the season will be against Palmer High School at Palmer, Mass., October 3. William Valentine of Pomfret is the captain and George Gilpatrick manager of the team this year.

Miss Ester Gustafson, of Pomfret, has taken up her work as head of the department of dancing at Rochester, N. Y., in the Eastman School of Music. She has had but a brief vacation, and will be at Pomfret during the coming winter only for the Nativity play at Christmas. Her work at Rochester, however, will leave her free for recitals and she will fill several engagements in New York that are already booked.

The merchants' committee of the Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the Shenandoah method of street decoration for celebrations of any kind that has been adopted in Norwich and other cities. An effort is being made to have it put into effect for the observance of the public dedication of the new bridge on Armistice Day. Not all of the members of the committee were present at the meeting, but all who were heartily approve the proposition. Otto E. Wulf had a detailed statement of the way it has worked out in Norwich. There the standards are set 24 feet apart as far as practicable. Where the frontage is considerable a store may have more than one standard.

The holes are made in the sidewalk next to the curbing and a metal cap is provided for the hole when it is not in use as a socket for a flag staff. The cost is surprisingly low and along the business streets of Norwich every merchant joined in the movement. It requires but a few minutes for a business house to be dressed for a parade and the effect is said to b every attractive.

On an occasion like the Armistice Day celebration this would provide a system of decoration, a display of the national colors along the business streets, that would be uniform and attractive. It would also relieve the business men of the annual burden of paying some out of town firm from $5 to $1,000 for decorations for local celebrations. For the Come Back Days last fall a firm of decorators took about $2,000 out of Putnam for decorating the fronts of the buildings.

Aaron M. Buwen, Eastford's prominent citizen known throughout the state for his correspondent's column in county newspapers filled with wit, philosophy and homely sayings, was the victim of a holdup recently when returning to his home from his store. Two men sprang at him from the darkness and proceeded to take all the money he had. In their haste they overlooked one pocket in which he had considerable cash.

As was his custom he closed the store about 9.30 and was on his way home, which is a short distance from the store, when the men jumped at him, one placing his hands over Mr. Bowen's mouth, while the other went through his pockets. Mr. Bowen is not sure, but thinks they secured less than $100. The suddenness of the attack and the darkness prevented him from getting a good look at the men, and is unable to say whether or not they were masked.

It is believed that the attack had been carefully planned for the night before, as it was discovered a portion of the barbed wire fence had been cut at this point where the men came through. The fence had been repaired but was discovered again cut. On the previous night a son of Mr. Bowen had accompanied him home.

For many years Mr. Bowen has written for the newspapers in a manner that has attracted attention because of the peculiar styles followed by him. He is widely known and much indignation is felt over the attack and robbery.

Mr. Bowen thus describes his experience:

"Hold-ups have come to Eastford. Two swarthy fellows about thirty attacked your correspondent while near home from store. They were a little quick for me as they cut the telephone wire so as to make a sure getaway. They were huge fellows and relieved one pocket as they had me down on my side with hand over mouth. We got sheriff and two state police here shortly and the trail is fresh. We will tell more later."

One hears talk of a plan to form a Rotary club in Danielson. Norwich, New London, Willimantic and Putnam have Rotary clubs.

Julius A. Blanchette has returned to his home in Spencer, Mass., after visiting friends here for a few days.

Arthur C. Spense of Worcester was a visitor with friends in Danielson Thursday.

Two cases in which the accused will be charged with speeding, are scheduled to be heard Saturday in the Killingly town court.

A loom at the plant of the Edward Bloom Silk Company was put in operation for the first time Thursday and a finished piece of silk crepe was produced. Mr. Bloom was here to witness the first product of the new plant. He is exceedingly anxious to get machinery installed and active operations begun. To accomplish this, Mr. Metcalf, resident manager, has been working overtime, in dismantling and removing the machines of the Putnam Mfg. Company. Because they were of obselete type he junked many looms and thousands of spindles, while others were sold and the remainder stored.

Three floors have been cleared for the silk-making machines which are being put into place as rapidly as possible.

LUNCH OF 27 EGGS PUT AWAY BY SALESMAN

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 17.—At an all-night lunch cart last night a middle-aged man, a salesman who visits Putnam at regular intervals, stopped with a party of friends and ordered a midnight lunch which included three soft-boiled eggs. Afterwards he said that he didn't feel that he had had enough, that he could eat two dozen more eggs. "You couldn't on a bet," said one of the party with him. The first man stood by his assertion, a bet was made, the stakes, not large ones, were put up, and the eggs were ordered, the only condition by the party of the first part being that they should be soft-boiled, about forty seconds of cooking to each egg. He consumed them, making 27 in all, collected the wager, watched the loser pay for the eggs, and then retired to his room at a hotel, where as far as known he passed a peaceful night. At any rate he was around as usual this morning.

THE SPECIAL TOWN MEETING VOTES $2,500 FOR BRIDGE DAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 17.—A special town meeting held this morning in the Municipal building voted a sum not to exceed $2,500 to defray the cost of the public dedication on Armistice Day of the new Memorial bridge.

Byron D. Bugbee, chairman of the finance committee of the citizens' organization which has the celebration in charge, said that he thought it was eminently fitting that the Town should bear the expense of the celebration, that it was a matter in which every citizen should take pride. He offered a resolution providing for the appropriation and for its expenditure under the direction of the finance and the program committees and this was adopted unanimously, as was his later motion that the town treasurer be authorized to borrow what sum may be necessary to meet the outlay, in anticipation of the 1926 collection of taxes.

It was explained that in making up the budget it was believed that $2,000 would be ample to take care of the cost, but as the affair was two months in the future there might be necessity for unforseen expenditures, and it would be better for the committee to be empowered to use more than it was thought now would be needed, and to turn back the unexpended part of the appropriation rather than to face a possibly deficiency.

John J. McGarry was chairman of the meeting, and David Flagg was clerk.

A Red Pepper Use

Red Pepper that makes you sneeze has found a respectable and worthy use in the world, says Popular Science Monthly. It can save human life. Capt. Frank B. Gorin, secretary of the Chemical Warfare association, recently disclosed this discovery.

A volatile oil is derived from the red pepper. This can be mixed with the illuminating gas that flows through your gas mains. Then if the flame should blow out, and gas escape into a room, any one breathing it is seized with such violent coughing and burning of the eyes that he has to run from the gas-laden atmosphere. This accidental asphyxiation is prevented.

ENTIRE UNITED STATES IS CLAIMED BY ITALY

That troublesome question of Italy's debt to the United States has been settled, at least by one Italian newspaper, and the United States owes Italy ever so many billion dollars. The newspaper in question recently published a facsimile of a letter written by Christopher Columbus to his son soon before beginning his momentous cruise across the ocean. In this letter the explorer promised to bequeath to his son all the land that he might discover. It is obvious, comments the paper, that the Italian people, the logical heirs of the Columbus family, have a legal title to everything in America. The Italians, however, are willing to credit the United States with the $2,000,000,000 trifle they owe and accept several billion dollars in the form of oil stocks or steamships, or in any other form America finds most convenient.

A Queer Icebox

An artificial icebox that operates like a coffee percolator and generates cold from heat has been invented by two young Swedish engineers of the Stockholm Institute of Technology, Carl Munters and Baltzar von Platen. When heated at one point, either by gas, electricity or kerosene, it cools the usual kind of food chest, and for ordinary household purposes needs to be run only a few hours a day. When operated with gas at the Stockholm prices it produces the equivalent effect of eight pounds of ice at the cost of one cent.

The construction of the new ice chest is extremely simple. It has no movable mechanical parts, no pistons, fans, pumps, ventilators or any gears to get out of order. The action is initiated by heat which sets an ammonia solution in motion in a small boiler. The ammonia then passes through condensation tubes, and while trickling down a generator mixes with hydrogen and by thus evaporating absorbs enough heat to cool the food in the refrigerator. In a third cylinder, called the "absorber," the ammonia is washed free from the hydrogen and then percolates down through a set of tubes into the boiler again, where the heat once more sets it in motion. While this action is kept up the refrigeration process continues. To effect the condensation, running water has so far been used, but an air cooling system is being devised by the inventors.

For the launching of the new idea the Royal Board of Trade has granted a loan of 300,000 kroner and manufacturing has already started on a commercial scale.

Smoking Car Now Passing.

In some parts of the country the smoking car, for years a part of every train almost, is being taken off as an unnecessary "luxury" in these days when the railroads face reduced passenger travel due to the automobile inroads and the development of bus lines. The Kansas railroads have all entered into an agreement to eliminate the smoker on local trains at least. The smoker has been operated for more than 50 years as a "dead expense." It is said it costs 11 cents a mile to operate the car.

A New Weed Killer.

Those who dislike having garden paths overgrown with unsightly weeds will welcome details of a recent German patent. Certain benzine derivatives known as the sulphonamides are either powdered on to the weeds or else dissolved in water and sprayed on them. The most potent of these compounds recommended by the patent are the sodium and calcium paratoluene sulphonamides. By the sound of it it should kill any weed. The compounds, it is said, may be added to the gravel before laying the paths in order to prevent any weeds from growing.

Cast Iron and Steel.

To know the proper definition of everyday substances is sometimes very useful in argument. The latest for steel and cast iron are given us by a Japanese chemist in the Imperial University of Tohoku. Steel he defines as "an iron-carbon alloy with a content of carbon lying between 0.035 and 1.7 per cent." Cast iron is similarly "an iron-carbon alloy," but with a carbon content of "between 1.7 and 6.7 per cent."

Elderberry Pie Gone

There is one flowering shrub that is found in nearly every part of temperate North America, at least where the soil is moist. Enormous flat clusters of tiny white fragrant flowers nod at you along the country roads in July, with clusters of blackberries in September.

This is elder (Sambucus canadensis) one of the familiar shrubs of swamp and wet meadow, and worthy of greater appreciation, says Nature Magazine, of Washington. There is really no other shrub in the wild with which you can compare it.

The leaves are seven or more leaflets, sharply toothed, and opposite on the stem. Very few American shrubs have opposite compound leaves, and this fact, plus odor and pith, makes its identity certain.

The flowers are soon little green berries, and then black and ripe. The clusters no longer stand erect, but hang in weighted loads for a long time. Birds eat many of them and plant elder seeds all over the swamp. Children eat them, but the flavor is not as good as of the blueberries on the nearby bush. They look better than they taste, and the seeds are much in the way of rapid mastication. For staining hands and clothes they are much more rapid than blackberries.

In pioneer days they were made into pies in imitation of blueberry, and when properly flavored you have another good one of the great American desserts. But the seeds must be taken out before the pie is assembled and the juice thickened, or when the pie is opened the contents will be colored water of good flavor, filled with sandlike goods. A seedless berry would be a great convenience. Yet the pie is now a rarity, though the bushes now shake violently every September.

Won't Quit Shipping Board At President's Request

KEYSTONE VIEW CO., NEW YORK

Bert E. Haney, of Portland, Ore., member of the U. S. Shipping Board of the North Pacific Coast, who has refused to resign despite the request of President Coolidge. The latter has called attention to the report that Haney desires to get rid of Rear Admiral Leigh C. Palmer, President of the Fleet Corp. He really accuses Haney of "double crossing" as Palmer was appointed by the President's suggestion. Haney has stated that the Shipping Board is being run wrong under Palmer. Also, the Shipping Board is responsible primarily to Congress, not the President.

HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS

In his September bulletin Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Stoeckel deals with the matter of fatal accidents and lays particular stress upon the importance that is attached to all users of the highway to be mindful of their own safety. The adult pedestrian, he finds, usually gets into a fatal accident through his own negligence. He is aware of the surroundings and is supposed to do his share to avoid accident, but with children it is different. They are dependent, need to be taught and the drivers of vehicles must be careful to look out for them. Recklessness, he points out, figures most in those accidents causing deaths to operators or occupants of cars.

With the increase in the number of automobiles it becomes, or should become, evident to all that the highway conditions are much more perilous today than they were a couple of decades ago. Consequently they must be treated accordingly. Because it was possible to walk or play in the street when or where it was desirable years ado does not justify it now. The fast and quietly moving motor vehicle has changed the situation and it cannot safely be disregarded.

In putting emphasis upon the importance resting on the pedestrian to look out for himself, Commissioner Stoeckel is directing attention to a situation which can be easily corrected. It is a case of using the head and not throwing all the responsibility upon the drivers of vehicles. Where both show the right disposition there is no excuse for accidents.

With children it is decidedly different. They need to be taught the dangers of the street and to keep out of the highways whenever possible as a general policy. Running into the streets to play, dodging from behind other vehicles or suddenly darting out to catch a ride on the rear of some vehicle have caused many fatalities, while nothing gives an auto driver a spell of nerves more than to see a group of roller skaters in the street or a youngster or two on a bicycle ahead and no telling what he is going to do or where it can be figured he will take a spill.

Highway accidents can be greatly reduced by the use of care on the part of all highway users. Such a requirement is slight for the benefits to be gained.

COMMANDER RODGERS' STATEMENT

When Colonel Mitchell launched out upon his tirade against the manner in which the air service of the army and navy has been conducted he was talking for the purpose of bringing his own views to the attention of the country in the expectation that he would start something. He had much to say but he admitted that he was not acquainted with the facts. And yet he was free with his denunciations and he used the supposed loss of the seaplane which attempted the flight to the Hawaiian Islands as part of his text. That with the loss of the Shenandoah inspired his charges.

The commander of the Shenandoah isn't here to either uphold or denounce Colonel Mitchell. Commander Landsdowne was among those who lost their lives when the big airship fell, but Commander Rodgers of the PN-9 No. 1 was found alive and well and he has had a chance to learn the criticism that was volunteered in connection with his flights. He doesn't say that it was partly right, that certain features of it were correct, but he denounces it entirely. He deals with "criticisms" which were made and says that "control of this entire project was in my hands. Every arrangement and suggestion was made subject to my approval and everything done met with my approval. With this control went responsibility therefor, and ineyitably the responsibility, if anything went wrong, must rest upon me."

That is an expression from a man who knew what he was talking about, who participated in the flight, who set out under most propitious conditions, who knew what happened and assumed the responsibility. This shows no evidence of being ashamed of wearing the uniform of the service, no fault finding about the unfitness of the seaplane and only praise for the support given him as commander of the flight both by the department and by those who accompanied him.

If the investigating committee calls Colonel Mitchell before it, it certainly will want to hear what Commander Rodgers has to say.

CONTROL OF MOSUL

Can the league of nations prevent war between Great Britain and Turkey over Mosul? It is a question that has been asked before. It is a matter that has been hanging fire for months. The hope has been that it might could, that there would be an adjustment which would prevent bloodshed. Both countries have suffered severely as the result of the late war. Neither can afford to throw more men and money into a conflict, and yet there have been developments which make it apparent that the league has no small task ahead of it if it is going to prevent it.

The British hold a mandate from the league for the control of a certain section in the near east. They claim that Mosul is or should be included therein. Turkey disputes that, and a year ago the governments agreed to have the matter settled by the league council. Though drawn up and ready for a clash it was agreed to make no move but give the league a chance.

Turkey has recently insisted upon a vote of the people in the Mosul district as a final decision. This comes when the league is about ready to render a decision, and is not to the liking of the British, who claim that the Turks have been attacking Christian people and villages and forcing them out of that territory. As to whether there is any merit to the Turkish claim that there are no Christians there there should be no difficulty in reaching a decision. Likewise it can probably be shown without trouble whether the Turks have been engaged in atrocities.

In such a dispute it is inevitable that there should arise the question as to what part oil is playing. That can be easily used to cloud the real issue, but it cannot be employed to extend toleration to the policy of cruelty exercised by the Turks in the past and which it is claimed has been revived.

NEEDLESS NOISES

While there are steps being taken in certain communities to have zones of silence respected in the vicinity of hospitals, the problem of decreasing the needless noise in the streets has been tackled in the city of Philadelphia with the result that a law has been enacted prohibiting it.

While there are points where the sounding of horns is quite necessary, it is also evident that there are those who overdue it, who depend upon noise instead of care to prevent an accident, and those who live or do business at such points are obliged to stand such a bedlam day and night.

Philadelphia believes there can be a great curtailment of such noise and it provides, by its new law, that "No person operating a motor vehicle on the highways of the city of Philadelphia shall use or sound a horn or signalling device which shall make a noise or noises which are so loud or shrill as to disturb the peace; nor shall any motor vehicle be operated on such highways if the exhaust from such motors makes a continuous loud or disturbing noise due either to mechanical construction or mechanical defects; nor shall any motor vehicle be operated upon the highways of the city of Philadelphia when the condition of its mechanical parts or the load placed upon the vehicle causes it to make a loud peace-disturbing noise."

That may call for good judgment in complying with and enforcing the law but it nevertheless places the responsibility upon the motor vehicle driver to have some regard for the peace of the community, something which is needed in other cities than Philadelphia.

WORCESTER'S SCANDAL

What appears to be a serious condition is that which has recently been disclosed in Worcester where charges have been made against physicians for the illegal distribution of narcotics, that school boys and girls have been able to obtain the habit forming drugs, that certain members of the police force have been protecting men charged with selling dope and that prisoners in the jail have been furnished drugs.

That state of affairs indicates deplorable laxity somewhere and a disposition to look upon the narcotic law in much the same manner as the dry law is regarded. The disclosures however are such as to make it impossible to ignore the situation longer, for with two physicians, two druggists and three dope peddlers summoned in the clean up campaign, it is not difficult to understand the need of putting a stop to such disregard for the law and of applying such punishment that it will be a valuable lesson to all others.

Those who have a hand in the distribution of dope in violation of the provisions of the law are more interested in the dollar than in human life. They care not for the wreckage they are causing, or are ready to cause, when there are already too many human derelicts as the result of the use of narcotics. There is no ground for sympathy or leniency for those who are caught in such a line of business.

MARKING THE ROAD

"My old girlhood friend Sally Bartle is coming through town next week," began the worried mother, who had become convinced that she never should get her daughter to marry and settle down. "I shall have her out to lunch and I hope you will arrange to be home Tuesday, because I want Sally to see you. Your new dress will be done by then—"

"Has she a son?" demanded the impossible daughter, with maddening acuteness. "Or can it be that she is blessed with two sons? Unless they are very good looking I think I shall have to join the girls for lunch downtown, as I had planned. If you were doing this affair up properly you would have had their photographs and Bertillion measurements before you arranged the occasion—"

"I am sure I don't know what you "Sally is naturally interested inkkkk are talking about!" declared the worried mother, acting very innocent. "Sally is naturally interested in seeing what you are like—and I'd get a marcel the day before if I were you."

"Oh, she must have a son!" mused the impossible daughter to herself. "And I'll bet you've seen his picture and know all about him, and who the bridesmaids are going to be, don't you, angel?

"My first summer at the lake lingers a dark blot in my memory all because your old friend Susan Parker had taken the next cottage and her son came up for week-ends. You both held your breath when George and I were introduced as though holding the hope that we would simultaneously chorus. This is the one! and fall into each other's arms.

"The air from Saturdays to Mondays was full of twitterings such as, 'George dear, why don't you and Isabel go canoeing?' 'Oh, Isabel, won't you run over to the Parkers with this magazine?'

"Whenever George and I failed of flight and were cornered and driven off together we didn't exactly spit fire like the Siegfried dragon but we eyed each other with hostility and suspicion. The main rule in failing in love is that the contestants must discover each other with no outside help.

"It is necessary that he shall burst upon one as her own original discovery, dug out from the mass of men by her special acumen and foresight, and no man on earth ever has liked a girl whom anybody has explained to him that he should like. She might be absolutely beautiful, unbelievably clever and a duchess in her own right, but she wouldn't make a dent on his consciousness. He'll turn right around and fall in love with a snubnosed little nobody whom he thinks is the most wonderful girl on earth, all because he found her himself with nobody's help, thank you! Looking back at George I suppose he would rate fair as men go, but at that time I was as fond of him as the smallpox, and I am positive he loved me as he would a bill from his tailor.

"When Jerry Limerick and I were introduced to slow music, his mother and you in the background, hands on hearts, both of us knew the worst. He seemed intelligent, so I asked him right away if he realized I was another of those 'daughters of old friends' just picked for him, and he said heeray, he expected then that I knew he was another son-of-the-nicest-girl-I grew-up-with and so we cleared the air and had a real good time together while he was here. You see it is just as impossible to fall in love with somebody you are expected to fall in love with as it is for a humorist to sparkle when the girl next him at dinner coos, 'Oh, they say you are simply a scream! Do say something funny, just for me, won't you?' In the case of this Sally Bartle's son—"

"She hasn't got a son at all!" the worried mother cut in triumphantly. "So you see how unjust—"

"I'll bet she has a nephew then!" the impossible daughter declared darkly. And the worried mother hadn't a single word to say.—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Col. William Mitchell, the "stormy petrel" of the army air service, was one of the first officers of the U. S. army to take up flying. He was first chief of air service, Zone of Advance in France, and ordered there as chief of air service, group of armies. For his war services he was decorated by the governments of Great Britain and France and received the American Distinguished Service Cross. In 1921 he proved that airplanes could sink battleships, himself in an airplane sinking the former German warship Frankfurt off the Virginia Capes. Col. Mitchell is a son of the late John L. Mitchell, who was United States senator from Wisconsin. The son received his military training at West Point. He has written extensively on the science of aviation, his works including a book entitled "Our Air Force."

Stories That Recall Others

Feet Too Sore to Report

The thief who stole Joshua's automobile played him a dirty trick for evidently that deprived him of his only means of locomotion.

When the authorities were informed of the theft they asked Joshua why he had not reported it sooner. He said his feet were sore and he didn't wish to do the necessary walking to make the report.

Why He Talked Too Much

He was normally a man of few words, and after he had returned home from treatment for a mild mental disorder he had maintained an almost unbroken silence. He had had all his teeth extracted and in due time acquired a full set of "store teeth" from a mail order house.

To the amazement of all who knew him he suddenly became talkative. His wife, alarmed at what she thought might be a new turn of his malady, consulted the family physician. During his call he was told of the new teeth and permitted to inspect them. The mystery was solved. On the plate was found the words, "Made for Women." The shipping clerk at the mail order house had made a mistake.

A man in Milan, Italy was killed in 1654 by being struck by a meteorite.

Buster's Great Disappointment

The selfish still more selfish grow.
I don't know why, but it is so.
—Old Mother Nature.

Buster Bear is a great hand to growl around at night, but the night after his feast on honey from the tree which had been split open by lightning, Buster didn't roam about. He slept. There is nothing like a full stomach to make one sleep unless that stomach happens to be too full. Buster did a lot of dreaming, but he slept just the same. When he awoke the next morning, jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun was already high up in the blue, blue sky. Somehow Buster didn't feel hungry. He didn't feel hungry enough to get up. He just lay there on his comfortable bed and dreamed day dreams instead of real dreams.

It was afternoon before Buster felt his appetite returning. "I'll go finish that honey," said Buster. "My, two feasts of honey! Never was I so lucky before. Those bees must have been using that tree for years".

Buster yawned and stretched and stretched and yawned, licked his chops, and finally started off through the Green Forest. He headed straight for that tree which had been struck by lightning. When he got there he stopped and sniffed at the piece on the ground from which he had taken all the honey the day before. Then, with his mouth once more beginning to water, he started up that tree. His appetite was back now. The nearer he got to that opening in the tree the greater his appetite became. He was quite ready to stuff himself as greedily as he had done the day before.

But when he reached the place where he had feasted so heartily the day before, a sad surprise awaited him. The honey was gone. Oh there was some there, but only enough to aggravate him. He plunged his arm way down, expecting to bring up a paw full of dripping comb. He got some comb, but it wasn't dripping. It was quite empty. There was only enough to give him a taste and make him want more.

"Someone has stolen my honey," growled Buster in his deepest, most rumbly, grumbly growl. "Someone has dared to steal my honey."

"Buzz-z-z-z-z-z," said a voice right in Buster's ear, "buzz-z-z-z-z. Who's honey did you say it was?"

"I said it was mine," snapped Buster.

Buster didn't roam about; he slept

"Why not tell the truth. Buzz-z-z-z. Why not tell the truth, Buster Bear?" buzzed that voice in his ear again. "You know it wasn't your honey. You know it was my honey and the honey of my relatives. You know very well it was ours, for you know that we made it and hid it here. When you took it you took what didn't belong to you. It was our honey, and what you left we have taken away."

It was Busy Bee who was talking. Buster saw her alight on a big of honey-comb in which there was still a little honey. He saw her take all she could carry of that honey and fly away. Then he saw other bees doing the same thing. They were all flying in the same direction that Busy Bee had taken. Buster guessed that somehow they had found a new home and all that bright, warm day they had been working as only bees can work, to save their precious honey. They were making the best of a bad matter. They meant to have something to begin the winter with. They had saved what they could and now they would work doubly hard until the coming of frost.

"I must find their new home," grumbled Buster as he backed down the tree. And that shows how selfish a person can be. Instead of being glad that the bees had saved some, he was already planning to rob them again, if he could.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Evolution

Mr. Editor: Our contension with evolution is that it is an attempt to explain, yet does not explain.

For our present theory of the universe which we hold to be miraculous and mysterious, it gives us a still more miraculous and mysterious theory and theories.

Instead of creation by the mandate of an all powerful and intelligent deity, it gives us the processes coming forth from acknowledged unintelligent chaos, acting under predetermined laws with no predetermining lawgiver. Matter also assumed to be pre-existent, by its own inherent prepossessed virtues beginning at a sufficiently remote period has produced the present universe as we now behold it.

Of course incredible as this may seem along side of the simpler theory we have, it is easy to see that the unbeliever, the atheist and the unchristian will rally around its support; because it does away with the religious idea of Supreme Being who is supposed to govern the moral world as well as the material one, and to whom, if this be true, accountability for conduct must be had. "Here is the rub."

As the revelation we have lays much more stress upon the observance of its moral precepts than our belief in its material things, making human character the chief end of man, it is easy to see that if evolution eliminates the God, there will be enough to welcome it. This is easily accounted for, but evolution does not eliminate the Creator. No matter how far back it pushes its processes, it always begins with matter possessing potencies so infinite and so inconceivable that it staggers comprehension.

After traversing the line of causes and effects through all the series and genera, from beyond the atom even, to produce a mosquito is enough to distract the brain of a scientist much more a lay investigator.

Evolution solves nothing. It unriddles nothing. It gives another more inexplicable puzzle for the one we have.

We cannot comprehend creative power, much less can we comprehend a creation without a creator, however unpleasant it may seem to feel that if he exists, we at some time if not every day and moment have to square accounts with him.

In the economic moral sense would the world and humanity be improved if it should adopt the theory that does away with a personal superintending intelligence, and invests it in unintelligent matter and in all nature which we consider lower than ourselves and over which we are the investigators and the interpreters?

If we are placed in the world for any purpose, it must be to make more of ourselves, not less. If we possess attributes higher than the rest of creation, these must have come to us through an agency yet higher than we, and to which we may and should aspire. We are not automatons, let us be men and worthy of being men.

JOHN TROLAND

Norwich, Sept. 17, 1925.

From Small Beginnings

Sir William Parker, the Cabin Boy, Admiral of the Fleet.

Its a fine thing to be an admiral, but I'd rather like to know what Sir William would say if he could be one of us! I tell you, it's one thing to be ridin' around in that little boat o' his'n and another to be scrubbin' and workin' wi' us."

Then another sailor spoke up, saying, "What does he know? Man, Sir William knows a sailor's life all through! Why . . ." and the sailor unfolded the story of the admiral of the fleet. Sir William Parker, now well over 90 years of age, but alert, active, vigorous, insistent that every man on every boat should do his duty to the full.

Only a small, inexperienced boy of 12, he had come on board his first ship, and within a year had seen his first fight at sea. From that time he had lived in storm and battle. Buffeted, knocked about as a boy, made to do hard, disagreeable work, he had stuck to the sea, and by the time he was 18 had become commander of a vessel. He was then only a boy, but he had had six years of sea life, and he had developed manhood and power. At 25 he distinguished himself by making a brilliant capture of an enemy vessel, and for years he had been sent where there was danger. His honors came slowly and as a result of hard, persistent work. In spite of all his brilliant deeds he was 40 before he was made a rear admiral and 53 before he was honored with knighthood.

He never forgot the days when he had been merely a small boy helping as well as he could on his first ship. He felt a deep sympathy with every man in his command. One thing he demanded rigorously, and that was that every boy and man in the entire fleet should do his duty to the full as he had done it. For that reason, Sir William Parker, 82 years old, and admiral of the fleet, inspected everything with an exacting eye. For that reason, too, the older men, who had learned to know him, loved him and served him with a rare devotion. They knew that the great man who had risen from the ranks had at heart the good of every sailor, however humble.

Indian's Ice Box.

The Indian refrigerator used by the Blackfeet tribe on the Glacier National Park reservation is a platform suspended from bare tepee poles. In this way the Indians keep their venison and other provender just as cool as it would be stowed away in an apartment house ice box.

The cool atmosphere from the glaciers the year round assured ample radiation through this skeletonized open-air contrivance. Even salesmen of the best refrigerator that is sold to the white race would have to admit this.

House Plants at Vacation

House plants can be left for two or three weeks without attention if they are previously treated in the following way: Arrange the pots on a tiled floor in a position where there is no chance of direct sunshine falling on them. Saturate the soil with water and cover the top with grass cuttings from the lawn, and then group the pots around a pail of water. To provide moisture, cut a number of long strips of wooden material, resting one end of the material in each pot and the other end in the water. The capillary attraction and the plants will not suffer from dryness in the least.

Lime added to wastes from rubber, leather, paper and other chemical plants often prevents a pollution of streams.

Eczema Completely Covered Body Cuticura Healed

"Eczema broke out on my scalp in hard, dry scales, and it was not long before my body was completely covered. It itched and burned and my clothing aggravated the breaking out on my body. My hair fell out and became lifeless and dry so that I had to have it cut, and my face was badly disfigured. The trouble lasted about two years.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it helped me. I continued the treatment and after using about half a dozen cakes of Cuticura Soap and half a dozen boxes of Cuticura Ointment it was healed." (Signed) Miss Ruby T. Palmer, 7 Maplewood Ave., Amesbury, Mass., Apr. 14, 1925.

Letter From a Farmer's Wife

"For over two years I suffered from pains in my side and back with headaches and weakness," says Mrs. Walter E. Anderson, a farmer's wife of Rangeley, Maine. "It seemed as though I could not get my work done from one day to the next, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored my health so that now I can do all kinds of work, sewing, washing, ironing and sweeping. I hope this letter will influence other women to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." Volumes of such letters from women explain why Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., of Lynn, Mass., is the greatest user of roots and herbs in the world.

OUTBREAK OF CIVIL WAR IN CHINA IS EXPECTED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17—(A. P.)—Reports reaching Washington as to warlike preparations of the rival military leaders in China tend to confirm the view expressed Wednesday in Moscow by M. Karakhan, Soviet ambassador to Peking, that a new outbreak of civil war was to be expected.

They also reflect the new angle to the Chinese military-political situation pointed out by Karakhan in his assertion that Wu-Pei-Fu, once overthrown and presumably eliminated from the struggle for supremacy, would re-entor the Chinese picture as a vital factor.

General Wu is known to have gathered considerable strength about him in recent months in the Yangtze provinces, to which he retired after the Peking coup executed by the Christian general, Feng Yu-Hsiang, who deserted Wu and joined forces with Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian war lord who set up the present provisional regime in Peking.

With recent weeks motor trucks laden with ammunition cases have been seen by American observers on the road entering Kalgan from Mongolia. The lettering on these cases was Russian and indicated that they came from Soviet sources by way of Mongolia, which is largely under Soviet control.

Feng is generally credited with having from 300 to 500 machines, most of them of American make, engaged in this traffic, which presumably is in preparation for the struggle Karakhan held to be inevitable between Feng and Chang, with General Wu as a third factor, whose course may not yet be definitely forecast.

Observers here agree that the new outbreak of civil war is not likely before next spring.

Don't forget that it is wicked to bet and lose; no man has the moral right to be wrong.

COUNTY FAIR OPENS WITH GOVERNOR AND STAFF AS GUESTS FOR THE DAY

An attendance estimated at between 4,500 and 5,000 marked the opening day Thursday of the New London County agricultural society's 71st annual fair. The fair continues today (Friday) and Saturday, coming to a close Saturday afternoon.

Thursday was Governor's Day. Throughout the afternoon Governor John H. Trumbull and his official staff were guests of the New London County Agricultural Society. Governor and Mrs. Trumbull, their daughter, Miss Florence Trumbull, and the governor's staff, arrived in Norwich about noon Thursday, and after attending a reception and luncheon, held in his honor at the Wauregan hotel, by the Norwich Rotary club and Norwich Lions club, the governor and party motored from the hotel to the fairgrounds. After inspecting the exhibits, midway, etc., on the grounds, Governor Trumbull and party went to the grandstand where special seats had been reserved for their use. As Governor Trumbull and party arrived at the grandstand, the audience stood uncovered and Swahn's band played a military air as the distinguished guests were being seated.

The weather was disappointing to the fair officials, for cloudy, threatening skies kept hundreds of people away from the grounds, and hence, the attendance was considerably smaller than had been expected. Shortly after Governor Trumbull and party had taken seats in the grand stand, the horses were called for the first race of the afternoon. Governor Trumbull remained in the grandstand throughout the track events and vaudeville program, which came to a close about 4.15 o'clock with the playing of the Star Spangled Banner by Swahn's band.

Races in Straigh Heats

There were two events on the racing programme which was started immediately after the arrival of Governor Trumbull and his party at the grandstand where they were seated in a section reserved for them. David H. Mulcahy of Northampton, Mass., who has started many a race at the local track in years past again is the official starter this year. The judges are Charles P. Bushnell, Norwich, Edward Connelly, Norwich; and the timers are Milton Etheridge of Montville; John H. Bowman, Jr., of Norwich and Wesley A. Gordan of Norwich. Albert J. Bailey of this city is clerk of the course.

The two track events were a 2.15 pace, purse of $500 and a 2.25 trot, purse of $500. The first event run off was the 2,15 pace. There were four starters, Peter Boreal, ch g., by Peter the Great, Milton M., bg. by J. Malcolm Forbes, Joffre b g by Bingas and Annie Sunshine, b m by Echo Todd. Peter Boreal took first money, second money going to Milton M., and third money to Annie Sunshine. By agreement of the drivers distance was waived.

The horses got away to a good start in the first heat and rounded the first turn in a group, Joffre taking the lead on the back stretch in the first quarter mile, with Annie Sunshine close behind, followed by Milton M., and Peter Boreal in the order named, in the last half mile Peter Boreal gained steadily on Milton M., and Annie Sunshine, and then passed Joffre on the home stretch, finishing first in the heat. Milton M., also gained on and pulled ahead of Joffre finishing the heat in second place, Joffre coming in third and Annie Sunshine last.

In the second heat Annie Sunshine got the lead by a small margin with Dr. Dewey following close behind her. All four horses were in a group as they passed the stand at the half mile. Annie Sunshine, in the last mile, lost the lead to Peter Boreal and Peter won the heat, Milton M., in second place, Annie Sunshine in third place and Joffre finishing last. Time of the mile 2.21 3-4.

The third was a repetition of the second. The horses got away on an easy start and were closely grouped throughout the half mile with Peter Boreal slightly in the lead. Milton M. was right behind Peter and gave him a hard race for first place. It was a close race as the horses dashed around the track for the last half mile. Peter Boreal and Milton M., came down the stretch neck and neck, Peter Boreal winning the heat and race by a slight margin. Milton M. got second place and second money, third money going to Annie Sunshine. Joffre finishing fourth. Time of the mile 2.18 3-4.

The summary:

2.15 Pace — Purses $300

Fairworthy, a Putnam horse, took first money in the 2.25 trot, Deacon Forbes, owned by E. P. O'Brien of Naugatuck taking second money, third money going to Dr. Dewey, owner A. Pilgard, Hartford. There were four starters in this race, the other starter being Justin, blk. g., owned by Mr. Blanchard of Willimantic. As in the previous race by agreement of the drivers, distance was waived.

Fairworthy took the lead in the first heat and held it throughout the mile. Deacon Forbes pulled up from third place and passed Justin in the last half of the mile, finishing in second place. Dr. Dewey coming in third, with Justin finishing the heat fourth. Time of the mile, 2.22 1-4.

In the second heat Fairworthy jumped to a lead and widened the gap steadily until the half when Deacon Forbes started to gain and shortened Fairworthy's lead considerably, giving Fairworthy a hard race for first place. Deacon and Fairworthy came down the home stretch almost neck and neck, but Fairworthy managing to keep a slight lead won the heat. Deacon Forbes getting second place, Dr. Dewey, third and Justin again finishing in last place. Time of the mile, 2.21 1-2.

Programme of Vaudeville

Edward T. Connelly is again official announcer for the vaudeville and races this year. Mr. Connelly who has served in this capacity at the county fair for some years past, kept things moving along in his usual efficient manner and there was something doing either on the outdoor platform or on the track throughout the entire afternoon. The vaudeville numbers, seven in all, are of the usual high grade. They went off without a hitch, and according to schedule.

As the first vaudeville number Announcer Connelly introduced Charles Leahy, a clever comedy ring artist. His comedy makeup combined with a number of difficult stunts on the swinging rings met favor with the audience. The second act was by the Marions, a man and woman, who appeared in acrobatic stunts, loose wire and rifle act. Marion stood on his head on a table, balanced himself by one hand on the table and cleverly balanced himself on his partner's shoulders and head and then proceeded to walk the slack wire on his knees. As his closing feature Marion gave a splendid exhibition of sharp shooting with a 22 rifle, holding the rifle in all kinds of positions, one hand, over his head, with the rifle upside down through his legs, and in other difficult positions and never missed a hit. His act was an unusually attractive one.

The Breakaway Barlows, a man and young woman, gave a thrilling exhibition on the revolving ladder, mingled with plenty of real comedy. The conclusion of their act was a thriller when their detachable ladder rungs collapsed while they were revolving rapidly on the ladder. Spokes flew in all directions, leaving the acrobats suspended in the air and still revolving. To many of the audience the collapsing of the ladder rung was unexpected but, of course, it was only a part of the act. This act was an exceptionally good feature.

The Tangled Army, with their mixed up military drill, if it can be called a drill, and their comedy uniforms kept the audience laughing all the time they were on the stage. In the troupe are five men, one of them a dwarf, scarcely three feet in height. After the drill they gave a very good exhibition of tumbling, etc., and concluded their act with stunts on a bounding mat. While the acrobats were in the midst of this feature the mat suddenly ripped, leaving a tear a foot or more in length, but they continued their act, leaving the audience unaware that they were working under difficulties.

This part of the programme was a separate act staged by the quintette, under the name of the Five Bounding Clowns on the Trampoline.

The most attractive feature of the vaudeville programme was The Chic Revue, a troupe of five pretty young ladies, all dancers of unusual ability. They are Grace Harper, Doris Dewey, Joy Miller, Fritzi Dion, Betty Brosnan. In soldier costume, red, white and blue, with black plume hats the five steppers appeared first in the Parade of the Wooden Soldiers. Miss Dewey, in appropriate costume, appeared in a solo dance. Nautch Dance, in a gypsy dance, Miss Harper, and Miss Miller in Indian dress, gold costume, with bright red feather headdress staged a splendid Indian dance number. One of the prettiest numbers was the scarf, or rainbow dance, with Miss Dion as the soloist. Miss Harper again appeared in a solo number, this time, a toe dance finely executed. The final number was the Chic Revue, all the girls appearing in red and white check costumes and hat. This act closed with the Charleston, a new feature.

The Clark Brothers, made an excellent showing and captured the admiration of the audience in their triple bar act. They staged a number of difficult stunts on the bars with plenty of good comedy stunts that made a hit with the audience.

Swahn's band, under the leadership of John M. Swahn, provided an excellent concert programme throughout the afternoon.

They greeted Governor Trumbull and the governor's party with several numbers as they arrived at the fairgrounds and then took their places in the bandstand in front of the grandstands where they entertained with splendid music between the race heats, also providing the accompaniments for the vaudeville artists.

CATTLE

Quality is evident in the cattle exhibits that fill the sheds. Jerseys, Herefords, Guernseys, Ayrshires and Holsteins are the breeds that predominate and the animals were groomed for the day to make the best possible appearance.

Guernseys

J. B. Palmer, Jr., of Round Hill farm Lisbon, a farm whose exhibit of Guernseys, is an unfailing feature of the fair, was there with an accredited herd of fourteen. The herd bull is a two-year old, Chalmers, while the junior herd bull is Jed, both fine types of the breed. The herd includes cows of all ages as well as a couple of calves, every one of the herd having been raised on Round Hill farm. Mr. Palmer won first on young herd, second on senior herd, first on yearling heifer and heifer calf under six months, as well as junior championship on cow and first on young bull.

A Guernsey herd of thirteen is exhibited by the farm of the Odd Fellows home at Groton, the first time that they have been to the fair with their cattle. A four-year old bull, Gusta's Highrock Foremost, heads the herd and the younger bull is a good sized animal for 11 months, Fairview's Foremost of Highrock.

Jerseys

An unusually fine showing of Jerseys is made by J. E. Lathrop & Sons' Pineloft farm of Raymond Hill with a herd of 34, of which 18 have been sired by the herd bull, Beauty R's King, a four year old that has been shown three years at the fair and is yet to be beaten. All in the herd except three have been bred by the Lathrops, who have brought in three blood lines, Golden Fern Lad, Hood's farm and Noble of Oakland. The junior bull is Verdie's Beauty, that was secured from the Highland Pastures, Vt., through J. Lawrence Raymond. Fifteen milking cows are in the herd, which includes also a six months bull calf and two bull calves under one year.

E. L. Reeves of Raymond Hill is there with a herd of nine cows and heifers, all practically of the same blood line as the Rockfern Jersies of Pineloft farm.

George A. Garypie shows a nice lot of 9 Jerseys from the Ledyard farm of A. D. Barrett, with the handsome herd bull, Turn of the Road Farm Pegis, of the Hood farm blood line.

Herefords

J. Lawrence Raymond of Lyme displays a herd of 64, of which 50 are the white faced Herefords, with some notably fine calves among the lot. The two-year old bull Sycamore Woodford heads the herd.

Mr. Raymond has the only private ox team on the grounds and includes in his exhibit also Guernseys and Jerseys. He was particularly well pleased over taking first on two year old Jersey cow and first on calf and he took the senior championship for two cows and Hereford bull.

A handsome herd of ten Herefords, headed by Dawn Sycamore, a bull 13 months old, was included in the exhibit from C. A. Gager's farm in Mohegan, and he showed a pair of Holstein steers and took premiums on Devon heifer.

Ayrshires

George G. Grant's Haughton farm, Montville, shows a prize winning herd of 26 Ayrshires, headed by a handsome bull, with an equally imposing younger bull. These animals were all spic and span for the show ring, with polished horns and glossy coats that made a most attractive appearance.

Other Ayrshire exhibitors of prize winning animals were H. E. Howe, Yantic, Clarence D. Smith, Jr., Norwich and Wade Bros., Baltic.

Holsteins

The Ponemah Mills farm at Taftville leads in the Holstein entries, showing a herd of eleven, headed by a massive bull that was an object of much interest. Other exhibitors of the black and white Holsteins were Charles W. Grant of Norwich Town and Charles E. Smith of Norwich.

SWINE

One of the unusual novelties in the livestock exhibit was brought to the fair by Edwin J. Edwards of Norwich, whose herd of swine contained a 600 pound Chester White sow with her litter of eleven little pigs only twenty-four hours old. Every one of the little fellows with their silky white hair, was sound and healthy, and the pen where they sleep away the time or toddled around on their first uncertain steps was an object of interest all day long. His exhibit included also three registered sows, a registered boar, 18 months, three grade Chesters one registered board, 3-4 months and six Berkshire sows and barrows.

George G. Grant of Haughton farm shows three Berkshires, and C. H. Ames of Salem displays some fine Duroc Jerseys, having aged herd, boar and two year sows.

SHEEP

Sheep are shown by J. B. Palmer, Jr., of Round Hill farm Lisbon, with a herd of 22 purebred Shropshires and Southdowns, while H. E. Howe of Yantic shows Southdown grades.

PET STOCK AND PIGEONS

William H. Latham of Norwich Town was in charge of the pet stock and pigeon department and the judge was William H. Groesbeck, who took up the greater part of the day to pick the winners of the more than 100 exhibits, which included guinea pigs, pigeons, rabbits, canaries, etc. The exhibit was as large as in previous years and much interest was shown in the various entries.

Edward Gleason of 325 Boswell avenue was the heaviest contributor having 39 coops of guinea hens, for which he received 23 firsts. His entry included three kinds of guineas, English, Peruvian and Abbysinian. He also had on display seven coops of pigeons.

J. F. Southwick and Son showed 16 pairs of pigeons, among which were barred ice, red priests, crescents, archangels, black nun, baldhead, red muff, blue fantail, red swallow, bluettes, yellow flight, red helmet, red fantail and lark.

Raymond H. Allen of 7 Washington street had on display 6 coops of guinea pigs including English, Peruvian and Abyssinian, S. Duff of Beech Drive, eight coops, Tryon Lathrop, two coops and J. E. Rogers, 10 coops showing different varieties.

Frank Dembinski of 66 High street exhibited three coops of pigeons, Charles Carpenter, West Main street, 13 coops of dun muff, red model, hiski tipler, blue tubit, black and red tumblers and silver homer, and H. Lukowski, 3 coops, of red magpie, red and black helmet.

Edward Gleason also had on exhibition a gray Flemish giant, Stewart Babcock of 176 McKinley avenue, an English rabbit and J. E. Rogers showed two New Zealand rabbits. Louis Sechter and H. Lukowski had a number of pigeons on display.

Three pairs of canaries were entered by Frank Dembinski, an Angora cat with two mittens by Amie Wood of Lisbon and a Muscovy duck with its brood of 17 young were showed by Agnes Lathrop. These exhibits were very well received and made up one of the best exhibition of pet stock and pigeons that the public has had an oppeitunity to see.

POULTRY

John H. Curry of Yantic, superintendent of the poultry department and Carlos A. Ricker, assistant superintendent, along with Dan P. Shove of Fall River, Mass., and Paul P. Ives, of Guilford, Conn., judges, were kept busy until 2 o'clock judging the more than 800 birds, which had been entered by 300 exhibitors, showing an increase of 200 over the previous year, and the finest both in quantity and quality, that has ever been on display at the fair. Due to the great increase in entries Mr. Curry was forced to house some of the birds in the space under the old grandstand, while the majority of them were placed in the space under the new grandstand.

O. W. Eggleston of Lydonville, Vt., was the largest exhibitor, having on display 293 birds, including Polish fowl, bantams, ducks, geese and guinea hens. The feature of his display was the call and wild ducks and the white crested ducks, which are an unusually rare breed. His bantam exhibit, which was the largest of that kind and drew considerable attention, numbered 146 birds of many varieties.

J. F. Southwick and Son of Blackstone, Mass., had on display 220 pens of polish fowl, guinea hens, bantams and others, and his exhibit of pigeons was the largest, including archangels, crescents, red priests, barred ice, yellow russ, trumps, black nuns, larks, black bald heads, blue fantails, bluetees, black magpies, red swallows, and red helmets.

Another interesting exhibit was that of the Gem Poultry Yards, Hedge avenue, Frank E. Fitch, proprietor, which featured the bantams, having on display 40 pens, with a number of Wyandottes. Florence Browning had on exhibition Wyandottes, Brahmas, and twelve dozen of eggs, while William Waters of Norwich Town showed light Brahmas and Columbian Wyandottes. James Ibbison of Greeneville exhibited barred rocks.

The largest entry of ducks was that of Fred Fratus of this city, showing white Pekin and Rouen, to the number of 10 pens. He also exhibited the only geese at the fair, a white China and Pekin. Harry Main of North Stonington had the largest exhibition of guinea hens and another large exhibitor of them was J. F. Southwick and Son of Blackstone, Mass. The only turkeys entered were two bronze ones by Joseph Palmer.

Unusual attention was paid to the fine display of fancy birds including Blue Andalusians, Buttercups, Red Caps, Pit black games, game bantams and mottled Javas and others. These birds were entered by J. F. Southwick and Son of Blackstone, Mass., and O. W. Eggleston of Lyndonville, Vt., being the principal exhibitors. Some of these birds are very rare and almost extinct and should be seen to be appreciated.

Other exhibits, which are also on display and attracted no little attention were entered by Harold E. Carpenter, of this city, F. E. Waters, Norwich, Joseph Ringland, of Norwich Town, and Christopher Barry, showing Rhode Island reds, and George M. Wilson, R. F. D., Norwich, Harry Durr, Norwich, Miss T. J. Browning, Norwich Town, William W. Waters, Jr., of Norwich Town, F. E. Fitch, Norwich, Mrs. J. E. Lathrop, Montville, Harry C. W. Main, Mystic, John Mullen, Norwich Town, C. E. Carpenter, Norwich, Dan Cavanaugh, and J. M. Johnson of Windham.

The New Supply Store, R. B. Clark, proprietor, which is soon to begin business in this city, has an attractive display of various kinds of feeds, including scratch and fattening feeds and egg and growing mash.

FARM MACHINERY

Everything of use to farms, adaptable to power and light, as well as for easier harvesting and storage, was shown by various dealers at the farm machinery show, the exhibits also including heaters, electrical and toilet fixtures, and many other lines which go to make homes modern. The display was wide and varied and hundreds of people visited the various booths during the opening day.

Most of the machinery was in operation throughout the day and demonstrations by action was most pleasing to everyone.

J. P. Barstow & Company of Norwich had a fine display of Bond pipe-

"BIG FOUR" OF TENNIS WILL BATTLE IT OUT FOR NATIONAL SINGLES TITLE

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept 17—The "big four" of American tennis, the quartet which has kept this country at the top of the international heap for six successive years will fight it out for the national singles title of 1925.

This was determined today when the four American Davis cup aces—William T. Tilden, William M. Johnston, R. Norris Williams and Vincent Richards—emerged as sole survivors of the international field which started battling on the courts of the West Side tennis club this week in the forty-fourth annual championship tournament.

Johnston and Richards, in today's outstanding matches, removed the last two foreign threats from the tournament, the latter taking the measure of Rene Lacoste, French holder of the Wimbledon title, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, while Johnston was extended to four sets to down Manuel Alonso, Spanish Davis cup ace, 6-3, 6-8, 6-1, 6-2, in the most brilliantly fought encounter of the American.

Tilden, stroking with all his old mastery, had difficulty eliminating his fellow-townsman, Wallace F. Johnson, 6-4, 6-0, 6-4, while Dick Williams, flashing the greatest game he has shown since he last captured the national title in 1916, followed up his sensational victory over Jean Borotra yesterday, by downing Howard Kinsey of San Francisco, 7-5, 6-4, 6-3.

Tomorrow, Tilden, seeking his sixth straight crown, will face his great young rival, Richards, in one of the semi-finalist the same spot in which they met last year, while Johnston and Williams, each of whom has held the championship twice in the course of their long and brilliant careers, will be opponents in the other.

The Johnston-Williams match is scheduled for 2 p. m. eastern daylight time, while Richards and Tilden clash at 4 o'clock.

Johnston was the only victory extended in any serious measure today and "Little Bill" was forced to call on all his resources to repel the hurricane attack of Alonso. The Spanish star set a tremendous pace from the start and though he tired eventually as a result of it, he fought for every point down to the finish, sustaining the most sensation sort of rallies even when Johnston had him on the run.

The first two sets saw Alonso at his best, dashing all over the court to make spectacular "gets" and returning Johnston's blistering drives with speed. The little Californian seemed about to break down his rival's offense in the second set when he came from behind to take a 6-5 lead after trailing at 0-4 and 2-5, but Alonso had the reserve to finish out this set victoriously. Johnston's control was erratic in this set in the face of Alonso's forcing tactics but the final two sets saw the American turning back his opponent's best efforts in decisive fashion.

Johnston will find even stiffer opposition tomorrow, however, if Williams continues his streak. The Davis cup captain was the "Williams of Wimbledon today against Kinsey. His volleying sharply angled drives and powerful service carried him to as impressive a victory as he scored yesterday over Borotra, for Kinsey played determinedly and steadily, especially in the first two sets.

Under Williams' consistent hammering however, Kinsey finally weakened.

Tilden and Richard, on their play today, both seemed on edge for their clash tomorrow. The champion was master of every stroke in his bag today, outchopping Johnson at the latter's own game and playing with a confident dash that left his rival few openings. Johnson stuck doggedly to his task, even after Tilden had swept through eleven straight games, starting with the final game of the first set. In the final set, Johnson rallied to take three straight games before the champion stopped him and applied the finishing touches to the match.

Lacoste found Richards almost impenetrable on defense and resistless on attack. The young French star who had come four times within a point of defeating Tilden in the Davis cup challenge round last week was never able to strike a winning strike against his American rival. The Frenchman's best efforts went for naught in the face of Richards' dazzling volleys and drives. He was outplayed at almost every turn, frequently stopping to shake his head or stand in amazed daniration as Richards' shots whistled past him.

BARNES BEATS MACFARLANE FOR MYTHICAL GOLF TITLE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Jim Barnes, of New York, was proclaimed the unofficial champion golfer of the world today at Columbia Country Club.

Playing Willie MacFarlane, also of New York, American open champion, for the mythical title, Barnes, who holds the British open championship, won the decision 1 up and 11 to play.

The two had played 36 holes of the match at Philadelphia last week and stated a like set-to here this morning with Barnes already nine up. He gained three in the first 18 holes, and the contest, as far as the "title" was concerned ended on the 25th green.

Brilliance was lacking in today's play. Pars were the rule but birdies were scarce and a goodly number of holes developed mediocre golf. The two played the full 36 holes to determine possession of a prize offered by the club, and Barnes took 147 to MacFarlane's 151.

Both golfers were driving straight and far off the tee, but Barnes held a decided advantage with his iron shots and the play in the vicinity of the greens.

The cards:

Morning Round

Barnes Out	344	354	434—34
MacFarlane out	535	345	434—38
Barnes in	435	434	444—37—71
MacFarlane in	554	444	445—39—77

Afternoon Round

MacFarlane out	534	454	535—38

PIRATES ADVANCE WHILE SENATORS DROP HALF GAME

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates in knocking off the Boston Braves while the New York Giants were idle, increased their lead in the National League pennant race to seven full games. The Pirates have 12 more games left on their schedule and in order to clinch the pennant need only ten more victories. This would give them 95 won and 59 lost for an average of 617. The Giants have 14 more games to play and if victorious in all of them they would still fall short of Pittsburgh.

The standing tonight:

Pittsburgh	88	54	.620
New York	80	60	.571

The Washington Senators lost one half a game to the Philadelphia Athletics today when they broke even with Detroit in a double header while Philadelphia defeated Chicago. The world's champions now hold a lead of 7 1-2 games over their rivals. In order for Washington to clinch the pennant they will have to win nine more of their remaining sixteen games. The average would then be 98 won and 56 lost, for a percentage of .636. Philadelphia could win all of its remaining fifteen games without displacing the Senators.

The standing tonight:

Washington	89	49	.645
Philadelphia	81	57	.590

MURPHY DRIVES WINNER IN GOVERNOR'S STAKE

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Tommy Murphy scored his first victory of the New York State Grand Circuit meeting here today when he won the governor's stake for 2.06 trotters and a $5,000 purse in straight heats with Hollywood Leonard, owned by William H. Kelley of Syracuse.

Governor Smith entered the grandstand just before the trotters were called for the governor's stake and saw Murphy win the first heat easing up. Murphy had sterner opposition in the second heat and had to come up on the outside to head off Walter Cox's Ethel Dina which divided second and third money with Hollyrood Frisco, driven by Will Crozier of Hartford, Conn.

Walter Cox captured the Geers Memorial stake for $5,000 after a thrilling three heat battle with Murphy.

Worthy Harvester, with Marvin Childs of Omaha, Neb., in the sulky, won the three year old trot for $2,000 in straight heats. The $2,000 state fair stake for 2.16 trotters went to Guy Trogan with Dickerson up after Loomis had taken the first mile with Miss Volo Scott.

Guy Trogan broke in the first and was lucky to beat the distance flag.

The 2.08 pace for $1,00 went to Sep Palin of Indianapolis, in straight heats. Norman Gratton, Paling's entry had comparatively easy sailing all the way. The Chamber of Commerce stake for $10,000 and the two year old trotting track stake for two year olds and a purse of $12,500 were postponed until tomorrow because of the condition of the clay track. All the races today were run over the cinder track.

CHANCE FOR LOCAL BOYS TO SIGN UP FOR PRELIMS

The card at the Duwell field for Friday evening, Sept. 25th, is all complete with the exception of the four round preliminary, to the Leonard-Ferguson bout. Matchmaker Wilson had two local boys all signed up but they all backed out and now Wilson is looking for two more boys, preferably local boys.

The advance sale of tickets shows that the fight next week will be well patronized. A large following of the Wallingford boys will come over from Waterbury, Bridgeport and New Haven to see Leonard and Ferguson battle for the seventh time. The last two times these boys met in the ring the bout resulted in a draw.

Leonard who spends much of his time in Norwich tells his local friends that he is going to put Ferguson away this time as he figures that Tracy has given him all he can and the Sheik has taken it and was still on his feet. Leonard is training hard for the bout and will be in the best of condition when he enters the ring.

SENATORS AND TIGERS SPLIT EVEN IN DOUBLE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17—Although the world champions pounded the two premier pitchers of the American league, the best they could do was an even break with Detroit in today's double header.

Walter Johnson was credited with his seventh defeat of the season in the first game. A slugging match which the Tygers won 12 to 9.

Stanley Coveleskie won a pitchers' duel with Earl Whitehill, one to nothing in the second game, which was called in the sixth inning, on account of darkness. Score:

WESTERLY

Everett E. Whipple, collector and treasurer of Westerly fire district as chairman, George E. Egger, chief of the Westerly Fire department, and Frank A. Sullivan, moderator of the Pleasant View Fire district, all interested and qualified electors of the Westerly fire district, were named on Thursday noon by Moderator Lewis Stanton of the Westerly Fire district, a committee to enter into a contract or contracts with interests outside Westerly Fire district to furnish them reasonable fire protection.

At the January session of the Rhode Island legislature an act was passed amending the Westerly Fire district charter and section 11 was enacted and approved as follows: "Said fire district is hereby authorized and empowered to enter into agreement or contract with any person, firm or corporation outside of the boundary lines of said fire district and within said town of Westerly to furnish such person, firm or corporation with protection against loss or damage by fire, and said fire district may charge for such protection a reasonable compensation, which shall be stated in said agreement or contract. In case payment for such fire protection is not rendered within a reasonable time said fire district may bring suit in courts of this state having jurisdiction to hear, try or determine such causes."

At the last annual meeting of Westerly fire district Wednesday evening Aug. 26th when nearly 600 assembled, John J. Dun offered the following and it was voted:

"That the moderator of this district be and he is hereby authorized and empowered to appoint a committee of three qualified electors of this district to enter into contracts with persons, firms or corporations outside of the district to furnish such persons, firms or corporations with such reasonable fire protection, as the said district can supply."

Moderator Stanton in naming the committee has picked men who have had experience in fire district matters. Chairman Whipple was elected moderator of the Westerly fire district in November 1891, succeeding the late J. Alonso Babcock who retired for business reasons and continued until 1907 when he became treasurer and collector of the district, which office he now holds. George E. Egger was elected an assistant engineer in 1910 and in 1919 elected chief of the Westerly Fire department to succeed Chief Samuel G. Cottrell, deceased. Frank A. OBSERVATIONS ABOUT SOME FARM PROBLEMS.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

When I see something in the paper, —any old paper,—which interests me, I'm apt to clip it out and lay it on my desk.

The idea is that, if it interests me, it might perhaps also interest some other farmer. For we're all tarred with the same stick and must have a good many ideas in common. So, if I strike something which sets me thinking, I scissor it out with the idea of some time passing it along to you and starting your think-machine, too.

Well, this morning, I'm going to summarize and condense a number of these texts which have been accumulating on my desk. They will make a kind of hodge-podge, without any apparent connection with each other. But perhaps some one of them may strike some one of you right in the solar plexus. So here goes:—

We'll begin with the story of a farmer near Port Arthur, Ontario. Last year he bought a farm of 160 acres. It cost him with improvements $7,500. Last spring he put 100 acres into peas for a local cannery. Returns now complete show that the crop brought him in $7,200, or only $300 less than the whole farm cost. That's what I call going some. I only hope that, next year, he will report again, so we can see whether it was just a stroke of luck, or a real lesson to the rest of us.

Here in the east we mourn because the cities are growing at the expense of the country. It seems to be about the same in the great west. If there is anywhere a true-blue farming state it is Kansas. We hear much about its interminable fields of wheat and corn and alfalfa, but not much about its cities. Yet it has 86 cities within its boundaries, and in the last ten years their population shows an increase of 43,395, while the census returns from strictly farming districts show a falling off of 11,825 in the same time. "What's the matter with Kansas?" some one asked, 20 years ago. He wouldn't need to ask now. The answer is given very plainly in the census returns.

Not long ago a western editor, impressed with the increasing number of fat folks whom he saw in his daily walks abroad asked pointedly "How come?" Whereupon a practising physician of his city proceeded to enlighten him. Fat folks are fat usually because they eat fat-producing foods. When God and nature grow wheat, for example, they put into it all the sixteen elements which the human body needs for healthful and normal growth. When man takes hold of that wheat and proceeds to make flour out of it, he takes out practically all the minerals salts, most of the vitamins, all the gluten, etc. The results is a flour which looks white as snow and makes wonderfully delicate bread,—and is worth for food just about one-quarter of what the untreated wheat was. In fact, about all that is left in our ultra fine flour is the wheat-berry's carbohydrate content. And carbohydrates are fat-producers, not blood or bone or muscle makers. To a comparable extent the same is true of most other prepared foods. The average consumer demands something that looks nice, and doesn't care a tinker's dam for its food value. Then, when he or she begins to take on fat and lose pep, he or she wonders why it should be so. It's just another case where people care more for looks than for value, for show more than for substance, for snow white bread more than for evenly-nourishing food. "What fools we mortals be!"

Since the recent rumpus at Dayton, Tenn., everybody's talking about evolution. Some people seem to regard evolution as a sort of bogy which they must frighten away or it'll bite 'em. Just how any farmer can be afraid of the thing his whole existence depends on is something I can't quite comprehend. Leaving wholly out of consideration the question whether or no the farmer himself is a product of evolution, certainly everything he works on or with or through is exactly such a product and he must be wilfully self-blinded if he doesn't see it. He knows from of old that his corn and potatoes aren't created full-grown and ripe. He has to plant the seed and cultivate and fertilize it and tend it, while it developes from tiny fragile chits to sturdy stalks. The process of evolution which turns a kernel of planted corn into a corn-plant with a new ear on it is comparatively short. It is accomplished in a single season. But the trees of his forest: they weren't made full-grown in a minute either. They started as feeble sprouts, grew into saplings and finally big trees, taking a hundred years or more in the process. The dirt he works wasn't always soil. It is the result of rock-erosion, of torrential grindings, of glacial scrappings, requiring many thousands of years for the change from ledge to gravel or loam. It has evolved more slowly but no less manifestly than his seed-corn evolves. That very Dayton, where the scared-to-deaths got together to moan and vituperate, is the center of a great strawberry-growing district. Every year the Dayton farmers pick and ship away train-loads of big, sweet, juicy strawberries. Those big fruits were evolved from the little wild field berry by a course of artificial hybridization and culture, and within the memory, almost, of some now yet living. Yet, with this fact staring them right in the eyes every day they looked over their strawberry fields—with their chief income derived from this very product of evolution, they shut their eyes to the obvious and go into tantrums over a self-conjured-up bogy! They say "evolution hasn't been "proved." Well, neither have most other things we believe in. In fact, very few things outside of geometry can be "proved" beyond the shadow of a doubt. The farmer may not "know" that evolution is true. But every time he plants a seed he bets his year's living that it will act as if it were true, that season. He depends on it for his crop. Which shows that he puts a lot of confidence in the thing, however he may shy at the name.

We country people hear a great deal about the sufferings of the city poor. Our sympathies are all the time kept on edge by doleful stories about their pitiful state. Well, a certain New York city woman of wealth has just made a will devising her estate, after her death, to an animal hospital. She says, with feminine emphasis, that she is through with everything in the way of "organized charity." She has been giving time and money for many years to "Little Mothers" and "Working Girls," only to find that they are "breeding socialists" and shiftless dependents. She says:—

"Did I ever get any gratitude for teaching those 'little mothers' to cook and sew and budget their household? We turned them out beautiful housekeepers but would one of those girls come to work in our homes afterwards? No. And the working girls at the hotel where I sent carloads of potatoes and vegetables from my farm on Long Island would not even step out on the sidewalk to help the chauffeur when he brought the stuff to their door. They were out of work, too, being supported by our generosity."

I remember, years ago, when there was a serious industrial depression in a certain New England city, what happened to a big creamery. This creamery took on carloads of fresh milk every day, separated the cream to make butter, and then turned the skim-milk into the sewer. When unemployment became the rule and every day's papers were filled with appeals for food and fuel and clothing for the suffering poor, the creamery managers wide advertised their willingness to give all the skim-milk that was wanted to anybody who would come and get it. They accompanied these advertisements with simple statements as to the undoubted value of skim-milk as a human food. They showed that all they had taken out was the fat, and that milk remained. —And they didn't have a call for a single gallon! It was even intimated to them that they ought to furnish teams and carts and deliver the milk at the doors of such as might condescend to use anything but whole-milk!—My own impression is pretty strong that if the "city poor" would only work as hard, for as low wages and as long hours, and show one-half the thrift wa farmers are compelled to, they would get along at least as well as we do.

Just at present, there is a demand from many that the government fix wages and prices in the coal industry. They used to do that sort of thing in the tavern-keeping business in some states. Someone has lately dug up an example from the court records of Cumberland Co., Va., for the May term of court, 1824. Here is the extract:—

"It was ordered that the rates and prices at ordinaries in the county of Cumberland for the present year be as follows: Dinner, 42 cents; breakfast, 25 cents; supper, 25 cents; lodging, 6 cents; grain, per gallon, 12 cents; whiskey, per one-half pint, 3 cents; brandy, per one-half pint, 8 cents; 8 cents; rum, per-half pint, 12 1-2 cents; French brandy 14 cents; fodder or hay, per pound, 2 cents; wine, per one-half pint, 17 cents."

A good many of us are inclined to kick because public officers aren't always of the highest calibre and the purest virtue. Atcheson county, Kan., reports an interesting story in this connection, from which may also be deduced one of the reasons for the undesirable conditions complained of. Last year, the sheriff of the county was ousted from office for proven failure to perform his duties. He was a "machine" man. The "machine" promptly renominated him and, last fall, he was "vindicated" by a re-election. Now he has been ousted again for failure to turn over public money collected on tax-warrants. The "machine" is understood to be preparing to give him another "popular vindication," next election. —And still we wonder at crime!

I've had it intimated to me once or twice that some farmers are naturally inclined to take gloomy views of things. "They'd rather find fault than eat," says one city friend. This may be true in New England. But here's a little story from the far south, which seems to indicate that, there are farmers down that way more easily satisfied and better contented with the way things are going:

"How's times?" asked the tourist.

"Pretty tolerable, stranger," responded the old fellow, who was sitting idly on the stump of a tree. "I had a pile of brush to burn and the lightning set fire to it and saved me the trouble of burning it up."

"I had some trees to cut down, but the cyclone leveled them and saved me that trouble."

"Remarkable! But what are you doing now?"

"Waiting for an earthquake to come along and shake the potatoes out of the ground."

If you can't have just what you want, it's a great thing to be satisfied with what comes your way. Eh?

THE FARMER.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

In "Wild, Wild Susan," her new Paramount starring picture, at the Palace Theatre, Bebe Daniels has the role of a peppy young New York society girl, who can't live without excitement. There must be something doing every minute of the day or her life isn't worth a hoop.

After causing a traffic jam in the busiest section of the city, having paced a fire engine at breack-neck speed, jumped off the Leviathan as it was leaving its pier and manipulated a crippled elevator car in a wild ride skyward, Bebe decides to become a detective to inject a little life into her otherwise uneventful existence.

An assignment leads her to a haunted house at midnight where spooks, crooks and funny noises chase her all around the place. Rod La Rocque, featured in support of the star, comes to her rescue and succeeds in taming Wild, Wild Susan long enough for her to quiet down and marry him. Whereupon her brother, who had taken out a big insurance policy on her life with himself named beneficiary, looks at the document with a sickly grin—a sad remainder of his poor judgment as an investor.

Here's a novelty plot, interesting, funny and exciting. Tom Geraghty adapted it from Steuard Emery's Liberty magazine story, "The Wild, Wild Child." Edward Sutherland directed. an animal picture, even though it is a bear for thrills.

At the Breed.

Playing the part of Lassiter, Tom Mix is attracting great crowds at the Breed theatre, where this William Fox screen adaptation of Zane Grey's famous novel, Riders of the Purple Sage, is playing today and Saturday.

In this virile drama of pioneer days, Mr. Mix portrays the part of a western hero who, like a devastating angel, swept through the countryside of the early settlement and made his name a terror to right a great wrong. He plays it so convincingly and with such a wealth of dramatic force that the role is destined to stand as one of his greatest.

The closing scene of this throbbing drama of the great western desert is staged in the mountains, in a spot of great natural grandeur. To save a girl and her sweetheart from a force of pursuing rustlers, a huge rock is dropped down a sheer cliff, crushing to death many of the horsemen.

Running through the entire picture is a powerful, absorbing love story that breathes the ruggedness and the wholesomeness of the great west. One of the biggest surprises is the discovery of the identity of the mysterious masked rider.

Broadway Theatre.

Particular showgoers should not fail to see the exceptional program at the Broadway theatre today and Saturday. Put on that finishing touch after the day's work and become restful with this Broadway entertainment.

Homer Romain in aerial eccentricities kept all in good humor with his routine of fun and thrilled with his aerial feats.

Jack Casey and Kitty Faye in Monkey Business have a style of their own. These musical comedy stars are going to win their way into your good graces.

The Warren Boys are kings of melody. They specialize in harmony singing and offer a full measure of fun.

Florence Dana and Robert Mack offer a 1925 version of "Little Red Riding Hood," consisting of a snappy variety of fun, song and dance.

The three Vedettes are every bit a trio of international stars and offer a perfect blend of music and dance that will keep you entranced for 12 minutes.

Many race pictures have been flashed on screens at various times, but we take off our hat to the most exciting and thrilling race ever depicted on the screen in the Tiffany production, The Sporting Chance, now at the Broadway theatre.

Iron Ore in California

It is conservatively estimated that there are 300,000,000 tons of high grade iron ore available in Southern California alone. Three available deposits are in Eagle Mountain, Riverside County, 140 miles from Los Angles on an adjacent to the Southern Pacific railway, estimated to contain 60,000,000 tons, while Cave Canyon, 200 miles east of Los Angeles on the Union Pacific has a deposit estimated at 20,000,000 tons. At Kelso, 236 miles east of Los Angeles, is a deposit of 10,000,000 tons of high grade soft hematite ore of Bessemer grade.—Los Angeles Realator.

Celluloid Hippopotamus

A celluloid hippopotamus is the latest thing in museum art, according to Popular Science Monthly. Heretofore the hippo has defied the skill of taxidermists because it could not be reproduced with convincing realism. But now L. L. Waters of the Field museum of natural history at Chicago has discovered a method of using celluloid to produce translucent color effects that are said to have almost the semblance of living flesh and blood. Using this method he is constructing a remarkably lifelike reproduction of a hippo, in which the real hairs are imbedded in the celluloid.

RED POISON LABEL ON BOTTLE GIVES NEW LONDON MAN A SCARE

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 17.—Peter Duffy, a man well along in years, and who has been advertising brekfast food in New London, took his cereal in liquid form, instead of in dry measure, yesterday and was found at his rooming house at 71 Union street today, in a state of intoxication that warranted the police in locking him up. If the man had told a straightforward story he might be at liberty now to do what he did after he was released from court a week ago and take his rum in small quantities. He sought to impose a new and very improbable story on the court and it was rejected. Duffy has been drunk in the streets of the city this week though he promised the court on the 8th inst. that he was "through" with liquor when he said he appreciated the consideration given him. His arrest came about when the proprietor of the rooming house asked that Duffy be taken from the house.

Duffy explained that men associated with him in the distribution of samples of a cereal had given him a drink from a bottle, yes, several drinks and they had left the bottle and its contents in the room when they departed. This morning when Duffy recovered from the drunk he saw the red label of poison on the bottle, which evidently had contained denatured alcohol and visions of poison loomed before him. In his drunken stupor he wanted the landlady, he said, to call an ambulance and send him to a hospital. That request probably convinced the woman that she did not want Duffey as a lodger at her house and she handed him over to the police. He was fined and went to jail. Duffy said he has a wife at Niantic where she has been passing the summer and that he has apartments in Hartford.

Medrick Roberts, after an absence of several months from his home in Tenth street in this city returned two weeks ago. Last night he took it into his head to smash things in the house, so Mrs. Roberts asked the police to prevent that. Robegts was locked up and today was in court. He was turned over to Probation Officer Mansfield who is of the opinion that he can bring harmony into the Roberts home again.

Matthew Byrnes was taken into custody yesterday when there was no doubt that he was intoxicated. The police had information that Byrnes had been operating an automobile while drunk, but that charge was not pressed against him. He gave a bond of $25 for appearance in court today, but he did not intend to appear probably, when he realized that he might be charged with operating a motor vehicle when under the influence of liquor. Today his bond was called and was forfeited. The choice Byrnes made will be regarded as a wise one by those who are aware that the penalty for operating a car while drunk is $100.

Clarence Thompson, manager of a garage on Bank street, is on crutches that he may get around with a fractured knee cap. His injury was sustained by a fall.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah J. Beckwith, wife of Richard S. Beckwith, was held this morning at 10:30 o'clock at her residence 11 Bragaw street, the services being conducted by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. The bearers were Thomas Howard, Monroe Wallwork, Frank Lynch, Michael Fahey, Robert Curley and Henry DeBeaulieu. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Judge of Probate and Mrs. Arthur B. Calkins have returned to their home, on Granite street, having spent three weeks at Upper Dam, Maine.

Henry Goldfob and Nathan Schectman, of Hartford, have sold a house and lot at 16 Midway place, Ocean Beach, to Jacob Stern, also of Hartford.

Michael Joy has sold a house and and the other on Terrace avenue.

Zofi Sciglawski has sold to Boleslaw Raymond Sewczyk two building lots, one being located on Cole street an dthe other on Terrace avenue.

William Belcher, trustee of the will of Benjamin F. Brown, today caused title in the dwelling house at 21 Garfield avenue to be transferred to Archibald and Daniel W. Douglas.

The trial of Willie Mar, Lee Dick, Lee Jung and Lee Hai, local Chinese, arrested several weeks ago at Mar's place on Main street, charged with violation of the narcotic act, has been assigned for Tuesday next at the post office building, New Haven, and Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray and Patrolman Edward Daniels have been notified that their appearance at the trial is mandatory. Mar, who has been arrested and convicted before for violation of the narcotic law, attempted to escape the raid made by three narcotic agents, assisted by the local police, Mar fleeing to the roof of his home where a pistol shot caused Mar to halt. The raid resulted in the seizure of a considerable quantity of opium and a smoking outfit.

Seymour Rowley, 683 Broad street, and Ellis Rice, Broad street extension, found a horse roaming about Broad street, near Jefferson avenue late last night. The animal was in danger of being struck by automobiles and the youths caused it to be tied to a fence near Learned street. The police were notified and Acting Lieutenant James D. Gaffney and Patrolman Edward Daniels took charge of the horse, causing it to be placed in the barn of John Higgins, Park avenue to await claim by its owner.

The Buick touring car owned by Nathan Peck, 261 Huntington street, which was stolen from in front of the Peck restaurant last Monday night, was found abandoned and in the rear of Peck's place of business, off Railroad avenue, early this morning, by Sergeant Patrick Murphy. It is believed acquaintances of Peck used the car for a joy ride and concluding the trip late last night, drove the car to the place where it was found.

A youth of 15 and residing on Pearl street, was taken into custody by Patrolman Edward Riordan this morning charged with the theft of a sweater, from an automobile that was parked on Golden street. The boy and a companion also attempted to steal an automobile parked on that street last night, for after the engine was started, the youths were discovered and driven from the machine. The youths taken into custody were placed in the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield for presentation in the juvenile court.

Mrs. Joseph Tracey, of 16 Williams street; Richard Carver, 26 Harrison street; Carl Schniedicke, United States Coast Guard service; Mrs. Isadore Levin, 70 Connecticut avenue, and Mrs. Charles Keenan, 19 Grand street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

By-laws were adopted and the following board of directors were selected for the ensuing year: Hiram Johl, Cornelius C. Costello, Clark B. Whaley, Leo W. Brogan, Conrad Kritzer, Henry L. Bailey, Harry Elion, L. A. Zoslin and Hiram W. Schriver. The board will elect its officers within a few days. The membership of the new organization consists of 130 residents in the three sections of the town and meetings will be held the first Tuesday of each month.

Another defective highway and one that is considered highly dangerous was reported this evening, when Patrolman David Nagle reported that the sidewalk in front of the premises, 48 Jay street, is badly in need of repair, because of a deep impression liable to produce injury to pedestrians. The condition of the sidewalk will be reported to the highway department tomorrow.

The Scott investment company has sold to Joseph Hardwick, four parcels of land, corner of Chelsea street and Pequot avenue, including water front.

The flower girls were Marie Arnone, and Mary Latoro, New Haven, and Mary Zoszorra, of Hartford and Rose Petrizza, this city. Following a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnone, left for a wedding trip and upon its termination will reside at 205 Shaw street.

Mrs. Abraham Lahn, of Maynard, Mass., is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paty Schwartz, 70 Washington street.

The engagement is announced of Miss Isabelle Martin, of Middletown, instructor of English history at Chapman Technical high school, to George Tracey, of Hartford, formerly instructor of mathematics and chemistry at Chapman. The date of the wedding has not been selected.

John Harrington, who has a long police record, principally for intoxication, was arrested late this afternoon by Patrolman William Flynn charged with intoxication and vagrancy. Harrington, who has been a loiterer about the city some time, and who has been intoxicated several times weekly, will be in the police court tomorrow morning.

A man who is a stranger in this city, was taken into custody late this afternoon by Sergeant Samuel Hick and will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct. The fellow was at the corner of North Bank and Atlantic streets about 5 o'clock, attracting the attention of pedestrians because of his demonstrative talk and boisterous actions.

Mrs. Sarah Lipton, of 283 Huntington street, wife of Irving Lipton, is scheduled to be presented in the police court tomorrow morning charged with violation of the city's traffic ordinances and, in two counts, Mrs. Lipman was operating her car southerly on Bank s etetriiama,la on Bank street, late this afternoon at a time when traffic was heavy. During one of the congestion periods, Mrs. Lipotn had been directed to a point beside the curb, by Traffic Officer William Corcoran in order that traffic could be relieved. Mrs. Lipton is alleged to have operated her car from the curb, attempting to drive through the traffic. The entire block between State and Golden street was blocked for 10 minutes. Traffic Officer William Corcoran ordered Mrs. Lipton to appear in court on charges of blocking traffic and failing t heed the signal of the officer.

Deputy Colecitor of Customs John J. Quinn, with headquarters at the customs house here, returned to New London this evening having spent a fortnight in Washington, D. C.

It was revealed this evening that a colored girl of 15 is an inmate at Long Lane farm, Middletown, an institution because of her delicate condition. The condition of the girl became known to the authorities a few weeks ago and her commitment followed. An attempt was made then to locate the young man, a former employe of a local hotel, and who is accused of being the father of the unborn child, but when he was sought tonight it was revealed that he had scented suspicion and had left for parts unknown.

Continued improvement is reported at Lawrence hospital today in the condition of Miss Mary Sullivan, 38 Alger place and Miss Margaret McCarthy, 28 Steward street, injured Monday by being thrown from an automobile on Williams street.

PETITION BEING SIGNED FOR SPECIAL ELECTION

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 17.—The petition being circulated by Matthew Keenan and Pietro Loiacano for the purpose of securing signatures, sufficient in numbers, to submit to the city council requesting that a special city election be held, that the voters of New London may decide whether they desire to continue the the present city manager form of government or return to the former municipal form of government, is rapidly obtaining the number of signatures requisite, according t othe circulators. Messrs. Keenan and Loisacano state that over 2,000 signatures have been affixed to the petition, but that about 3,000 will have been obtained before the instrument will be handed to City Clerk Julian D. Moran for introduction to the council. The promoters need about 2,100 signatures to make it mandatory that the special election be called by the council, but they believe that many of the signatures will be made invalid; through failure of the names of the signers to appear on the voting list, improper signing of the petition and other technicalities, and it is to insure the proper number that the circulators desire to secure about a thousand more names than is necessary to obtain. These signatures, it is expected, will be obtained during the present month and then a check-up of the names will be made, after which the instrument will be handed to City Clerk Moran. As soon as this occurs the council will fixe a date for the special election which it is now believed will take place during October or early in November.

FAMINE VICTIMS ON ISLAND IN JAPAN EAT GROUND BARK

TOKYO, Sept. 17.—(AP)—A commission which recently returned from the Loochoo Islands, which lie between Japan and Formosa, reported that the inhabitants have been reduced to abject misery because of the scarcity of food this year. Many of them, it was stated, are eating the bark of banana palms ground into powder. It is now proposed that the unfortunate residents be permitted to use the sugar and sake taxes, amounting to about 3,000,000 yen, for the purchase of fodo.

During the war boom the Loochoo Islanders waxed prosperous and were able to buy rice. Their usual diet is sweet potatoes, part of which they grow and the remainder of which they import from Satsuma. The sugar price this year, however, was such that the inhabitants could make no profit whatever and were unable to import their usual sweet potato rations. In addition the bonito catch was also very poor. Consequently the Japanese commission reported a serious food shortage and recommended that steps be taken by the government to ameliorate the condition of the islanders.

The party will visit Quebec, Ottawa, Montreal, Toronto, Niagara Falls, Boston, New Haven, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

Japanese Dentist Honored

TOKY, Sept 17.—(AP)—The honorary degree of doctor of laws recently was conferred upon Dr. Morinosuke Chiwaki, president of Tokyo Dental College, by Loyola University of Chicago. It was the first time such a degree has been conferred upon a Japanese dental surgeon.

Dr. Chiwaki, known as the "father of dentistry in Japan," received the degree in the presence of a large assemblage of Japanese and Americans. It was presented to him by the late American Ambassador, Edgar A. Bancroft.

Eleven "perfume, toilet preparations and hair 'oil" manufacturers, holding government permits for the withdrawal of alcohol, were indicted in Philadelphia by the federal grand jury in the government's campaign to check the diversion of alcohol to bootleg channels.

THE CHELSEA SAVINGS BANK

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of The Chelsea Savings Bank, held Thursday, September 17, 1925, to take action upon the death of one of its directors, Mr. Frederick W. Lester, the following minute was adopted:

Mr. Frederick W. Lester was elected to a membership in this corporation on September 15, 1925, and served as an auditor from September 1, 1922, up to the present time, and at our annual meeting, held this week, he was elected for another term of three years.

He was elected a Director on December 9, 1918, and has been unanimously re-elected each year since.

He was a constant attendant at our meetings and always punctual and methodical in his ways. He brought to his position of trust a sincere desire to serve the bank to the best of his ability and gained pleasure in seeing the bank grow large and strong.

We felt his conservative judgment, and his good nature and winning ways won our hearts, and we shall miss him from our meetings.

His work in other community fields was outstanding, and unselfish, and won the appreciation and praise of all. More especially in his chosen field of music did he make it possible for this community to hear the best in that line.

His death is a loss to us all.

It was unanimously voted: That we tender our sympathy to his family, attend his funeral in a body, enter this minute upon the records of this bank, publish it in the newspapers of this city, and send an attested copy to his family.

Attest:
FRANK HEMPSTEAD,
Secretary

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, Sept 17—(AP)—Operators for the rise, aided by easier money rates, reports of expanding trade operations and favorable dividends and merger rumors, retained control of the main price movement in today's stock market, which was featured by the buoyancy of the high-priced industrials. Bear traders made two unsuccessful attempts to unsettle the general list by forcing reactions in U. S. Steel common and some of the other popular rails and industrials.

Railroad equipment issues gave one of the best exhibitions of group strength. Pullman soared nearly 14 points to 178 1-2, the highest price since 1916, on rumors of a proposed recapitalization plan involving a separation of the manufacturing and operating divisions of the company, and an increased dividend.

Railway Steel Spring was run up 12 points to 164 1-2 and then fell back to 16. American Car & Foundry climbed over six points to 115 3-4 and then eased to 114 1-8. Symington common advanced over 3 points to a record top at 19 5-8 and the "A" stock touched a new high at 24 7-8. Baldwin, American and Lima Locomotives showed irregular fractional changes.

Bear selling and profit-taking checked the rise in several of the motor issues although Chrysler showed independent strength by scoring an extreme gain of over five points at 163 1-4, and closing within a point of the top. Willys-Overland preferred moved up 2 1-2 points to a new high at 111 1-2 but the common closed fractionally lower, as did Mack Truck, Studebaker, White, Jordan, Hupp, Paige and Moon.

Rails were sluggish although Pennsylvania touched another new top at 49 1-4. Most of the other rails moved within rather narrow and irregular limits.

Sharp gains were recorded by a number of the public utilities. Consolidated Gas was run up over 6 points to 94 1-4, the highest price since the recapitalization of the company in 1922. It was followed into new high ground by Detroit Edison. Western Union. Market Street Railway first preferred and Kansas City Power and Light first preferred. Brooklyn Gas showed a net gain of 2 3-4 at 91 and American and Foreign Power, American Water Works, Federal Light and Traction, Havana Electric and United Railways investment common and preferred showed net gains of one to 3 points.

Kelsey Wheel soared over six points to a new top at 166 1-3 on rumors of an early retirement of the preferred stock. Establishment of a new high by Gimbel Bros. above 64 was associated with reports that current earnings were running above $8 a share. Electric Storage Battery broke through its previous high level in anticipation of a substantial increase in the Radio business. Other issues to better their previous 1925 tops included Armour A, American Tobacco A and B, American Smelting, General Baking, Fleischman, Endicott Johnson and United Drug.

Crucible Steel dropped 2 1-2 points to 73 1-2 in reflection of speculative dissapointment over the failure of the directors to increase the dividend. Weakness of New York Air Brake which broke over 5 points to 43 1-4, also was associated with unfavorable rumors. General Railway Signal broke 12 points to 138 on a few sales.

Call money opened at 3 3-4 per cent. the lowest renewal rate in over two months, and then dropped to 3 1-2. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged. The New York Federal Reserve Bank also announced the maintenance of the 3 1-2 per cent. rediscount rate.

Foreign exchanges displayed a firm tone, demand sterling held steady around $4.84 3-8 and French francs were slightly higher around 4.72. Scandinavian currencies also made moderate recovery.

MYSTIC MAN SUPPORTS COLONEL MITCHELL'S VIEWS

Paul G. Zimmerman of Mystic, an airpane engineer and instructor, who has been in touch with the army and navy air services since 1914, and is vice president, representing aeronautics, of the Society of Automotive Engineers, has written a letter to President Coolidge concerning Colonel Mitchell's charges of inefficiency in the conduct of the air forces of the United States. Mr. Zimmerman, who says he was forced from the aircraft industry for daring to express himself freely on practices of the war and navy departments, wrote Mr. Coolidge that "practically every contract has been awarded, every design accepted in a manner which has indicated gross incompetency. I know of many cases and can tell any investigator where he can put his hands on the records."

GOVERNOR TRUMBULL AND HIS STAFF GUESTS AT RECEPTION LUNCHEON

Governor John H. Trumbull and members of his staff, coming here Thursday for the opening of the 71st annual fair of the New London Agriculturla society, was the guest at a noon reception and luncheon given by the Rotary Club and the Lions Club. Gov. Trumbull with Mrs. Trumbull and his daughter Florence Trumbull accompanied by the governor's staff, arrived in Norwich about noon and after a short trip about the city went to the Wauregan hotel where the reception was held.

The reception committee with the Governor and Mrs. Trumbull were in the parlor of the hotel and members of both clubs were introduced to Gov. and Mrs. Trumbull by Arthur E. Story, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

After the reception a luncheon was given in the handsomely decorated dining hall of the hotel at which Governor Ely, chairman of the reception committee presided. The tables were prettily decorated with purple and white asters from the Gale estate, arranged by Florist Otto F. Ernst. There were beautiful baskets of dahlias arranged attractively around the hall.

Gov. and Mrs. Trumbull, Miss Trumbull and the governor's staff were greeted with hearty applause as they came into the dining room and were sented at the head table. After the singing of America, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott asked the blessing.

Grosvenor Ely in a brief address of welcome extended the courtesies of both the Lions and Rotarians to Governor Trumbull and his party and called on Mayor Milo R. Waters as chief executive to extend an official welcome to Governor Trumbull.

In his address Mayor Waters said: Our conservative little city lies apart from the beaten paths and it is rarely that we are honored by the presence of the chief executive of our state. Under the crust of our conservatism lie warm hearts and strong friendships, and today, your excellency our hearts, our homes, the entire city are at your service. We are glad that you could steal an afternoon from your busy life to spend with us. We trust you will enjoy yourself, and we hope that when you leave us your thought will be "how soon can I come again to Norwich among my own people." Gov. Trumbull, I welcome you to Norwich.

Upon the urgent request of the committee Governor Trumbull consented to say just a few words to the guests at the luncheon. Gov. Trumbull thanked Mayor Waters, the Lions and Rotary clubs for their cordial welcome and went on to say that it was not very often that a Governor was able to get over into the eastern part of the state but when they did they thoroughly enjoyed it. He recalled one of his first visits to Norwich which was a number of years ago before he became the chief executive of the state, when he came to Norwich to receive his 32nd degree in Masonry. He said he made several other visits to the Rose of New England and had come to love the eastern part of the state.

Speaking of agricultural fairs Governor Trumbull said they were a great institution and were a means of uniting the people of the various communities. He referred to the State Fair at Hartford where there were exhibits of the various state departments, the state industries and the industrial products of Connecticut. Connecticut is thought of as almost wholly a manufacturing state with the manufacturing interests occupying a paramount position in the state. But after going around the state seeing the various fairs, agricultural exhibits and prosperous farms one changes his opinion to believe that industry occupies a secondary position. Farming in Connecticut is by no means extinct and it is rapidly being revived through various agricultural agencies. There is in New England a movement to bring back the agricultural interests and Connecticut is taking a prominent part in this movement.

Connecticut's manufactories are known the world over, said Governor Trumbull, and the output from Connecticut is astonishing. We, in the New England states, have for a long time been dependent on the railroads and other transportation lines for our foodstuffs raw material and greater part of our clothing. Did you ever stop to think what would happen to New England if there should come a sudden breaking down of these transportation lines? I am told that Connecticut has only an eight days' supply of food on hand and what is true of Connecticut is true of practically all the New England States. Therefore it behooves Connecticut to pay particular attention to her agricultural interests.

Connecticut is small in area but great in its influence on the country. I have been in every state in the union except four and I have yet to find any more beautiful state than our own Connecticut. It has its natural beauty that is second to none, it is well governed, has one of the best highway systems in the United States, it is free from debt and paying as it goes and it is a good state to live in. Connecticut need not offer an apology to any other state. I consider it a high honor to be its chief executive and I am trying to the best of my ability to fulfill the trust placed in me by her citizens.

Governor Trumbull's address was greeted with a storm of applause and appreciation.

President Joseph N. Weymouth of the Norwich Rotary Club introduced James L. Case and Copeland K. Markoff as song leaders for the day. Owing to the death of Rotarian Louis A. Wheeler, a member of the Rotary Club the program of songs was confined solely to the old time favorites. The Palace Symphony orchestra, W. S. Jeffs, leader, played for the singing and also rendered a very delightful luncheon program. The Rotarians gave their Rotary song, and Mrs. Charles A. Saxton played the accompaniment. The Lions also sang their club song and gave the Lion's roar upon the request of their president, William A. Anderson.

Those in the Governor's party were Mrs. Trumbull, Miss Florence Trumbull Adjutant General George M. Cole Major General and Mrs. Morris B. Payne, Colonel Charles H. Allen, Major Talbot O. Freeman, Major Haughton Bulkeley, Major E. Dyer Hubbard and Executive Secretary Edward L. Kelley. Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture Leonard H. Healy was also a guest at the luncheon.

The reception committee was:

Grosvenor Ely, chairman; Mayor Milo R. Waters, Norwich; First Selectman William S. Murray, Norwich; President Arthur E. Story, Norwich, Chamber of Commerce; President J. Nelson Weymouth, Norwich Rotary Club; President William A. Anderson, Norwich Lions Club; Mayor E. Waldo Clark, New London; President Walter S. Garde, New London Chamber of Commerce; President Edward Regan, New London Rotary Club; President William C. Fox, New London Lions Club; Mayor George W. Hickey, Willimantic; President A. L. Wotherbee, Willimantic Chamber of Commerce; President John F. Ahearn, Willimantic Rotary Club; Mayor Victor Chandelaine, Putnam; President Ralph C. Jenkins, Putnam Rotary Club; Warden Matthew Geary, Jewett City; Warden Walter Anderson, Danielson.

After the luncheon the Governor and his party were escorted to the County fairgrounds by an escort of state police and members of the reception committee. At the grounds the party was conducted through the various exhibits by Sergeant Bushey and Officer Rice of the state police. Governor Trumbull remarked frequently on the beautiful display of flowers, home products, agricultural exhibits and the exhibition of livestock. After viewing the various exhibits the Governor and his party adjourned to a special section of the grandstand reserved for them where he thoroughly enjoyed the programme of horse racing and vaudeville. He and his party ate peanuts and drank soda-pop and made a real afternoon of it.

TREND SINCE 1920 HAS BEEN AGAINST THE VOLSTEAD LAW

Research by Federal Council of Churches Gives Hope That the Reversal Might Be Temporary—Poll of Votes Reflects Public Opinions: At Fort Ethan Allen of 597 Men Enrolled Only 104 Voted "Dry"—Of 170 Editors 106 Reported Their Communities Favorable—Of 169 Business Men in New York City Only 51 Approved Prohibition as It Now Exists—Industrial Labor is Opposed to the 18th Amendment as Applied.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—The fact that a large part of the public remains "unconvinced with reference to the liquor traffic", coupled with failure of the federal government to make any "adequate effort" at enforcement and delinquency of the churches in continuing temperance education, were held responsible for the present prohibition situation in findings made public tonight by the Research and Education Department of the Federal Council of Churches.

These conclusions were announced by the department in making public the last installment of its special report on the social consequences of prohibition, compiled after a nexhaustive investigation. Other portions of the report have been made public previously during the past week.

In view of the government's recent enforcement reorganization, the present situation was declared to present "an unprecedented challenge" to the churches and schools. The "delinquency" of the former in carrying on the temperance work begun long before prohibition was described as "perhaps even greater than that of the federal government."

"A new opportunity is at hand" concluded the report. "The crisis that has developed in the enforcement of prohibition calls for a frank facing of facts and a new assumption of responsibility."

"The federal government has announced a right-about-face on enforcement policy. That is the government's task. It is not its task to change the minds of the people. Religion and education must do that. Nothing but energetic and sustained educational effort can atone for past negligence."

With regard to the attitude of the public, the report presented the results of a number of polls among various elements of Americans, but commented that figures could form little basis for definite conclusions.

"It may be said with a good deal of assurance" the investigators continued "that many populous sections of the country would now reverse the verdict if they had the chance, but there is much reason to believe that most of the states, taken as a whole, would still vote affirmatively. The attitude of the smaller communities and the rural sections is difficult to discover. The most recent evidence of the trend of popular opinion was the approval by referendum in Massachusetts, in November, 1924, of a law similar to the Volstead Act. The majority was small, but it reversed a considerable adverse majority of two years before.

"Two facts, however, need to be kept in mind. So much stress is put upon the moral issue involved in prohibition that it is highly probable that many persons, and especially legislators, vote for prohibition laws against their preference, because they cannot 'stand the gaff' of moral criticism. Furthermore, it is now sufficiently clear that mere majorities, in the case of so hotly contested an issue as prohibition presents, are of little permanent significance."

One of the polls recorded in the report was taken at the Citizens Military Training Camp at Fort Ethan Allen in 1924. Of 597 men enrolled, only 104 regarded themselves as favorable to the existing prohibition regime. While not accepting this result as an adequate test by general opinion, the report remarked that "so long as it is possible to get from representative groups of citizens such a response as this, the task of establishing prohibition firmly in the country is manifestly far from complete.

Out of 170 editors who took part in the roll, 106 reported the sentiment of their respective communities as favorable to prohibition in its present form. Of 169 business men whose names appear in the New York City Director of Directors, 51 were for prohibition as it now exists and all the others favored some form of modification or repeal. A series of polls among laborers led the investigators to the conclusion that "industrial labor is hostile to prohibition."

The view was expressed that unless the new federal enforcement campaign succeeds the task will devolve upon state and municipal agencies" in which case the immediate future in several states is dark."

"The fact which must be kept constantly in the foreground," said the report, "is that a favorable and encouraging trend which began several years before 1920 has been reversed since that year—temporarily many believe. There is no little ground for hope that we are turning the corner, but there is no basis for assurance."

PROHIBITION REPORT RESULT OF A YEAR'S INVESTIGATION

NEW YORK, Sept. 18—The report on prohibition conditions issued in Washington by the Federal Council of Churches was the result of a study made on the authority of that organization and covered a year's investigation, Dr. John A. Marquis, general secretary of the board of national missions, Presbyterian church, declared in a formal statement today.

Dr. Marquis is chairman of the administrative committee of the federal council of churches.

"The report on the prohibition situation prepared by the department of research and education of the federal council of churches is merely a research document dealing with the facts of the present situation and in no way involving the attitude or policy of the federal council with reference to prohibition," declared Dr. Marquis. "The study in question has been going on for more than a year and a statement concerning its scope and purpose was made last December in a report to the quadrennial meeting of the federal council of churches at Atlanta, Ga.

The report was issued in the conviction that the handling of great social tasks like prohibition requires knowledge of real facts favorable or unfavorable.

"The big question before the country now is cold facts and these are presented the report."

VOUCHES FOR REPORT ON PROHIBITION CONDITIONS

NEW YORK, Sept. 18—The Federal Council of Churches today, through a formal statement issued to the Associated Press by the chairman of its administrative commission, officially vouched for the authenticity of the six-part report on prohibition conditions issued in Washington by the research and education department of the council.

The authenticity and authority of the report had been called into question by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, of Washington, general secretary of the Methodist church of America.

In the local offices of the council it was said that a possible explanation of the controversy was that the executive committee of the council of which Dr. Wilson is a member, is composed of widely scattered members who meet but once a year. It comprises the committee on policy for the council, while the administrative committee, of which Dr. John A. Marquis is chairman, is the committee on work, or business of the council, and not concerned with policy.

The prohibition report therefore could have been handled by the administrative council without the knowledge of some members of the executive committee.

NO "BOOTLEG" DEATHS IN THE BOSTON NAVY YARD

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Denial was made today by officers of the Boston navy yard that sailors have died from bootleg whiskey at the yard and that such deaths have been concealed, as charged by Mrs. Jeannette Haslam Mann, national organizer of the Women's Christian Temperance Union at Poughkeepsie last night.

Admiral Louis R. De Steiguer, commandant of the navy yard, said today:

"Nobody could conceal the cause of any death in this yard. There is invariably a formal investigation by a board of inquest created for that purpose.

"A year or two ago one of our men who was mixed up in a drinking row outside the gates, died later in police station 15. The case was thoroughly investigated to the satisfaction of the civil authorities."

While Mrs. Mann charged that concealment was made of deaths so that officers' supply would not be stopped, Admiral De Steiguer declared that his men were among the best behaved organizations in Boston.

"We can control any misbehavior within these gates and shall continue to do so," he said. "You realize this: Alcohol sometimes has to be used in connection with the mechanism controlling torpedoes. Nobdy can draw one drp of that necessary alcohol except by approved request—a regular formal requisition. Every drop of this drawn is accounted for."

Corporal Mann, son of the W. C. T. U. leader, is stationed at the navy yard. He declared his views and those of his mother on prohibition agitation "very far apart."

Officers said that Mrs. Mann had appeared at the yard a fortnight ago and suggested that Admiral De Steiguer Inaugurate "a prohibition drive to clean up Boston."

FLEW AT THE SPEED OF 302.3 MILES PER HOUR

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 18—(A. P.)—Flashing through the air at the speed of 302.3 miles per hour, Lieut. Alford Williams, U. S. N. today looked over the side of his plane and below him on Mitchel Field saw the white blur of a huge cross which told him that he had gratified a life long ambition, and set a new unofficial world's speed record.

The airship, weighing only 2,200 pounds, which supported Lieut. Williams in his comet-like flight was the new Curtis racer with which the navy hopes to win the Pulitzer race in October.

Climbing from the ground in steep spirals the plane poised hawk-like at 3,000 feet, for just a fraction of a moment, and then dived toward the earth. Down it plunged motor roaring and at increasing speed until, when barely three hundred feet from the ground, with perfect precision the plane flattened out, and the racer shot off on the straightaway on pilometer course or a world's record.

"It was my one hope and ambition to travel five miles a minute," Lieut. Williams said after landing. "Before taking off I mentioned this confidentially to W. D. Gilmore, and he arranged to show a white cross from the field if I attained this speed. Going at a speed like that creates a sensation of keen delight."

"Even before I saw the white cross I knew I was travelling far faster than I had ever travelled before. From the way I felt this morning I could have stood a speed of 500 miles an hour as easily as three hundred."

P.)—Asserting that she did not collapse during her recent unsuccessful attempt to swim the English Channel and that she could nave gone further had she not been called in by her trainer, Miss Gertrude Ederle, champion American swimmer, who returned today on the steamship Mauretania, said she was eager to try the swim again.

Tanned to a rich brown by her weeks of training, Miss Ederle first appeared radiant and smiling, until reporters plied her with questions which Miss Elsie E. Vicks, her chaperone, at first would not permit her to answer.

Miss Viets was prevailed upon however, by Miss Charlotte Epstein, team manager of the Women's Swimming Association which sponsored Miss Ederle, to allow her to answer a few questions.

"I could have kept going longer" Miss Ederle declared when asked whether she would have been able to proceed after Jabez Wolffe, her English trainer, ordered her to quit. "There was no truth to the story that I collapsed. Helmy (the Egyptian swimmer) was swimming with me and I was going strong when Wolffe suddenly called, 'grab her.' Of course, as soon as Helmy touched me I was disqualified."

'Asked whether she thought she could have completed the swim, which was given up six miles off the Dover coast, Miss Ederle said: "I don't know that I could have got across but I could have gone further."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Acting Secretary of War Davis and Secretary Wilbur of the navy, will be the first witnesses to be heard by the president's air board.

Mr. Davis, who originally suggested the non-military investigation, was asked to appear, when the hearing starts at 10:30 a. m. Monday, and Mr. Wilbur's appearance was requested Tuesday Both promptly accepted.

The board members today gave further consideration to the course to be pursued in their inquiry, but did not go into the question of financing it, this question being postponed to permit a more thorough estimate of the expenditures that will be required.

It was made known at the White House that no appropriation was available for use of the board and that it must make its own arrangements with respect to expenses. The president, however, expects that the three members of congress on the board, will be able to assist materially in supplying clerks, stationery, and many incidentals. He is of the opinion that expenses will not be heavy, and that the board can care for itself at present, being reimbursed, if necessary, by congress when it convenes.

Simmons, chief postoffice inspector, today requested all postmasters to give the widest possible circulation to information that examination by inspectors who know the fugitive disclosed that the report was erroneous.

MEN OF SAKLATVALA TYPE NOT ADMISSIBLE TO THE U. S

President Coolidge Feels That Government Officials Had No Alternative Than to Revoke the Passport of British Communist—Government Has No Intention to Reconsider the Case—May Be Special Inquiry Into the Admissibility of Other Delegates to the Inter-Parliamentary Union.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—(A. P.)—President Coolidge feels that government officials had no alternative under the law when they revoked the passport visa granted to Shapurji Saklatvala, British communist delegate to the inter-parliamentary union, once his revolutionary utterances had been called to their attention.

Men engaged in teaching doctrines subversive to the theories on which the American government is founded are barred from the United States by law, and the fact that Saklatvala is a member of the British parliament and a delegate to the inter-parliamentary union does not, in Mr. Coolidge's opinion, give him special status. The meeting is not an official one, nor was he coming as a representative of his government.

No special inquiry into the admissibility of other delegates to the meeting, has been indicated, but it is assumed that the usual machinery of the government to enforce through the visa system the terms of the exclusion act will serve to single out any individual seeking to enter the United States whether a delegate or not whose known views and actions bring him within the prohibition of the statute.

It was made plain today that the American authorities had no intention to reconsider the Saklatvala case.

They were written respectively by Miss Anna Anderson of the Natchaug school and Henry Chadsworth of the Model School. State Regent Mrs. Charles H. Bissell then gave a talk in her vigorous and interesting manner. Another address was given by Miss Katherine A. Nettleton, State Vice Regent, her subject being the bond issue of the proposed new D. An unusual accident in which a stray horse jumped on and considerably damaged the hood of a Dodge touring car owned and operated by William C. Robinson, of Columbia, resulted in a court trial Thursday when Joseph Poplawski, of Hoy River, the owner of the animal was fined $1 and costs for allowing his horse to stray onto the state highway. Poplawski paid a total of $24.98 and in addition to this has been made defendant in a civil suit brought by Robinson Friday to recover damages of $100 for the damage to the machine. Two of Poplawski's horses were wandering on the highway about eight o'clock Wednesday night. Robinson came along and seeing one of the horses he pulled to one side of the road to avoid striking it when he was confronted by the second animal. This horse decided that it would try a little hurdling to avoid an accident. It succeeded in surmounting the hood of the car and landing safely on the other side of the machine, but in doing so its hoofs sank into the metal, denting the hood down to the top of the motor and pulling the radiator and headlights back to a sharp angle. Justice of the Peace Hubert P. Collins, who tried the original case will also hear the civil action suit September 25. The arrest of Poplawski and the serving of papers of attachment were made by Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Frink, of Andover. Grand Juror Joseph M. Clarke prosecuted the case.

Haines at a session of court being held in Putnam.

Gasoline leaking from a reserve drum in the rear of a Mack truck owned by J. J. Tierney & Sons, lunch cart builders, of New Rochelle, N. Y., dripped into a lighted lantern and set the truck afire early Friday morning. Martin Strachele, of New Rochelle, driver of the truck, brought the machine to a stop and ran in a bell alarm from box 31, a private alarm of the American Thread Company. The night crew of Engine Company No. 1 headed by Fire Chief Henry J. Kelley responded and extinguished the blaze with three gallons of chemicals.

Mrs. Eileen Raclest of this city, who has just returned from attending the fifth annual normal school held under the auspices of the Dancing Teachers' club of Connecticut at Hartford, states that she found the "Charleston" the most popular dance this season and expects that it will be taught widely by teachers this fall. The Charleston was exhibited by Ned Wayburn, teacher of the Follies and musical comedies. Oscar Duryea, exponent of ball room dancing, taught the step-out, fox trot, modern waltz, and Buda, an adoption of the French Argentine tango, and the ball-room Charleston.

The Chrysler sedan abandoned on the Columbia-Willimantic highway after it had collided with three fence posts early Thursday morning, had been stolen from Munroe A. Blum of Pelham Manor, N. Y. It is understood that three men were in the machine at the time it collided with the fence. The new car was undamaged but for a dent in the radiator. Policeman Henry Helmold conducted an investigation and after securing the engine number of the car traced the owner through dealers. Mr. Blum now has the car in his possession.

At the Republican caucuses of the South and North Parishes of the town of Coventry the following were nominated: South Parish, Franklin R. Orcutt; selectman, Arthur J. Vinton; auditor, H. C. McKnight; grand jurors, Charles W. Smith and John E. Kingsbury; tax collector, Miss Ethel E. Vinton; constables, Wolcott Ayer and Jesse R. Lee; registrar of voters, Walter S. Haven; and school committee, W. E. Hawkins. North Parish—Assessor, H. B. Pomeroy; selectman, Perkins L. Lathrop; grand jurors, John Skelton and Daniel Newman; tax collector, Ellsworth E. Covell; constables, Emil J. Koehler and Joseph Skelton; registrar of voters, Ellsworth E. Covell; board of relief, Charles Heckler.

At the high school the attendance has increased in fifteen years from 214 to 625. If high school opportunity is extended to all who apply, provision must be made for 35 additional pupils each year. If tuition pupils continue to be received the registration will reach 1,000 within the next 15 years. The report states that this is the year of decision as to whether or not the town will build to provide for this increase. Every room at the school is now occupied with classes 20 per cent larger than they should be normally, and no increase has been made in the teachers' forces. Unless construction gets under way a number of tuition pupils will have to be turned back next year. For instance, the 15 pupils from Andover could be sent to Manchester; ten pupils from Franklin and 21 from Sprague to Norwich Free Academy; 26 from Willington to Stafford Springs; twenty-three from Hampton to Danielson where a $150,000 addition is planned and the twenty-three pupils from Hebron be transfered to Bacon Academy. This plan would relieve the school, but, inquires the report, "Would it be worth the cost? We would be directing promising young people away from our town. Some three hundred out of town pupils come into the city to school each day. They are the business people of tomorrow and the interest which they are developing in Willimantic is making the city their natural commercial center. That is a vital point. In addition to that the tuition income is over $30,000 a year. That sum is not to be lightly passed up."

The opportunity for more school-room at Windham street is an excellent one at present. The state is eager to secure more rooms in the vicinity of the State Normal school and for this reason has made a special concession to provide for a $300,000 school plant, on condition that the town of Windham bear onethird of the cost. At the Oaks school more land should be purchased so that when a new building becomes necessary, it can be erected on no less than six acres of land. Land can be purchased more reasonably now than it can after a delay.

The school committee was able to keep expenses within the limit of the budget again the past year in spite of the unexpected increase of 40 pupils at the Model school, making the amount due the state $2,080 in excess of the estimate and the emergency repairs at the high school and Natchaug school.

Among his recommendations Superintendent Case lists the following objectives: The securing of adequate playgrounds for the children; the employment of one or more full-time nurses to prevent disease and prolong life; the establishment of the free book system for pupils; the appropriation of $100,000 in order that the state may begin the development of the Windham street plant at once; authorizing the selectmen to dispose of the buildings on the town property adjacent to the high school; the securing of a site in the fourth ward for a complete school plant.

The school calendar as adopted by the town school committee, follows: Fall term, opens Wednesday, Sept. 9; ending Wednesday December 23. (16 weeks or 72 days.) Winter term opens Tuesday, January 5, 1926, closing Friday March 26, 1926, (12 weeks or 57 days.) Spring term begins Tuesday, April 6, 1926 and closes Thursday, June 24, 1926, (12 weeks or 57 days.) Holidays: Columbus Day, Monday, October 12, 1925. Teachers' convention, Friday, October 23, 1925. Thanksgiving recess, Thursday and Friday, November 26, 27, 1925. Lincoln's birthday, Monday February 12, 1925. Washington's birthday, Monday, February 22, 1926. Memorial day, Monday, May 31, 1925. As stated above the Christmas and New Year vacation will extend from December 23 to January 5.

The school year begins with no changes in the teaching staff of the high school and only four changes in the grade schools.

JUDGE AND MRS. D. A. LYMAN REACH DIAMOND WEDDING

(Special to the Bulletin)

COLUMBIA, Sept. 18.—Saturday, Sept. 19th, Judge and Mrs. Dwight A. Lyman will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary. They will be at home informally to friends from 3 to 5:30 in the afternoon, and from 7 to 10 in the evening at their home about one-half mile west of Columbia Green.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman were married September 19th, 1865, at the home of the bride's mother, on Chestnut Hill. Mrs. Lyman was Abbie Margaret Hunt. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frederick Avery, for many years pastor of Columbia church. There were two witnesses, one of them being Mrs. Martha Mabley Fuller, who died a few months ago at the age of 95, the other being the mother of the bride, who died about 40 years ago at the age of 90.

Judge and Mrs. Lyman lived in Columbia until 1871 when they moved to Versailles, moving to Willimantic in 1873, where they resided until 12 years ago, when they built a house in Columbia. Judge and Mrs. Lyman have had four children, all living: Mrs. Lizzie Doten Tharp of Porterville, Cal., Miss Lillian Lyman, who resides at home, Hollis Hunt Lyman of Willimantic, and Samuel Edson Lyman of Philadelphia, Pa. There are four grandchildren, Lyman Tharp, Handy Tharp, and William Tharp of Porterville, Cal., and Edson Hunt Lyman of Willimantic. Judge Lyman was for twelve years superintendent of Windham almshouse, Mrs. Lyman acting as matron during that time. While there the building burned and the present buildings were erected.

Animals in Quakes

On the morning of the recent Santa Barbara earthquake a breeder of pedigreed horses went to feed them. They instantly surrounded him, and he observed that all were trembling. They began to paw the ground. Had he not caught one of them about the neck and drawn himself out of reach of their forefeet, he says he would have been pawed to death. The horses would not eat. They refused food and the next day also, after the quake.

Insurance executive says Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is "Conqueror of Constipation"

Former addict to pills and drugs says ALL-BRAN restored youthful vim.

Here is a most remarkable tribute to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN:

For more than one-third of a century, I was an addict to all kinds of pills, drugs and nostrums to alleviate the tortures resulting from constipation. They brought only temporary relief. Then I tried Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and as a result I have a new birth of freedom from the terrible foe of the race. I am again in the pink of condition, the personification even of youthful vigor in my advancing years. Truly, Mr. W. K. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the conqueror of constipation.

Gratefully yours,
(Signed) A. M. Sweeney,
The Federal Reserve Life Insurance Co.

Let Kellogg's ALL-BRAN conquer constipation forever for you. Doctors recommend it. It is what they call a bulk food, that sweeps the intestine clean, stimulating digestion and normal, healthy action. Something habit-forming pills and drugs can never do.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, relief is guaranteed or your grocer returns the purchase price. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made in Battle Creek, Mich. Served in leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

For the first time since last spring a vaudeville bill was presented at the shows at the Orpheum theatre, Friday afternoon and evening. This inaugurates the fall and winter program of combining, on one day of each week, the plan followed in other years, of pictures and vaudeville acts. Friday entertainments drew large audiences.

This is the day when those who would be made voters in time to participate in the annual town meeting on the first Monday in October will have their opportunity to qualify as electors. In accordance with the usual procedure the selectmen and town clerk will be in session today (Saturday) to examine the qualifications of those who appear and admit them as warranted.

It is recalled that the stretch of highway between Morin avenue and Elmville where work is underway to put in a concrete highway is the same section over which one of the very first sections of macadam highway was built in the town of Killingly. This macadam road was built about 18 years ago. Since then it has received attention from year to year, has been patched and patched and patched again, has been oiled and otherwise cared for to keep it in good condition. It eventually outlived its usefulness and is now being torn up to make way for a more modern highway.

Because of the representation that Danielson is likely to have on the team this fall, the football schedule of the Connecticut Aggies is of special interest here. A week from today, Saturday, September 26, the Aggies will play Wesleyan at Middletown. October 2 takes the team to New York for a game with New York university. Maine will play at Storrs October 10, and the Massachusetts Aggies on October 17. On October 24 the Aggies will play Tufts at Medford. Manhattan will be at Storrs October 31. November 7, the Aggies will play New Hampshire State at Durham, and will close the season November 14, with Rhode Island State at Kingston.

The Service battery, 192nd Field Artillery, is swinging into its fall and winter activities. Two drills are scheduled for next week, one for Tuesday and one for Thursday evening. The battery association will have before it at Tuesday evening's meeting a proposed set of by-laws that have been prepared by Lieutenant Harold Greene. These proposed by-laws provide for an executive committee, which will appoint directors for various athletic activities.

The battery is now recruited to full authorized strength for peace times, following recent enlistments, and no more men can be added until their vacancies caused by the expirations of enlistments or other causes.

Sam Berg, 35, a poultry dealer of 233 Orms street, Providence, was arrested in that city by a headquarters inspector as a fugitive from justice and held for police from the Danielson state barracks. Berg will be charged with passing a worthless check on a resident of the town of Scotland.

A committee of the Congregational church at South Killingly has adopted, on behalf of the congregation, resolutions expressing appreciation of the labors of Rev. Walter B. Williams. Rev. Mr. Williams, pastor of the Westfield Congregational church here and leaving within a few days to take his new pastorate at the North church, Berkeley, Cal., has for the past six and a half years acted as minister of the church at South Killingly, and with eminent satisfaction to its members. The resolutions also express appreciation of the helpfulness of Mrs. Williams in church work at South Killingly.

The work is now so far advanced that a general conception may be obtained of how the area between the town hall building and the Dexter block will appear when it is concreted within the next few days. From the street to the comfort station the full width of the areaway will be concreted. Then there will be a concrete walk leading to the rear of the building, where the police station is located.

This is the day for the annual flower show at East Killingly. It is a show that should be of general interest to people of the town of Killingly. Each year since its inception it has grown better, and this year's exhibit promises to top all that have gone before. There have been no frosts to damage the blooms, so the array of flowers this afternoon will be something to marvel at and exclaim over.

At sunset Friday, Hebrew residents of the town of Killingly began the observance of Ross Hashana, the Jewish New Year. Because of the strike of hard coal miners, it was noted with some interest Friday that a work train crew filled a bin with soft coal here for use in the stove of the gate-tenders' hut at the Main street crossing.

It is difficult for some fans to understand why the proposal that two or three ball games here in the next few weeks by fast semi-pro baseball teams is going to injure amateur sport in Danielson during the season of 1926, not that the semi-pro games are assured. Mere talk of them has been enough.

STATE PAYS FOR NEW BRIDGE BOROUGH MUST PAY FOR WALK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Sept. 18.—The state has informed the borough of Danielson that the expense of building the sidewalk that will be a part of the new concrete bridge over the Assawaga river at Main street must be borne by the borough. The state pays the cost of the bridge construction with the exception of the sidewalk, which will be about 40 feet in length and 8 feet wide, two feet narrower than the present walk. The matter of this bridge sidewalk and a sewer appropriation will receive attention at a special borough meeting that has been called for the coming week.

NORWICH-MONTVILLE HIGHWAY

Motorists in this vicinity cannot fail to appreciate the plans of the state highway department in straightening out the bad curve in the Norwich-Montville highway at and below Trading Cove, while putting in that new stretch of cement pavement.

There are three bad hills involved and at the foot of each, and in the center of one, are curves which have long since called for modification. With an improved road and increased traffic each year this is manifestly the time for providing relief in the interest of safety.

At Butternut hill, the first one reached going south, it is customary to gather speed at its approach in order to climb it on high, and this in spite of the fact that it winds around an embankment at the start, two other roads enter it near the foot, and there is the trolley track to be kept in mind. Half way up the hill is a double curve through a deep cut. On the descent of this hill the curve at the foot is not abrupt, but there is an excellent opportunity for straightening out the highway at that point in anticipation of the long Mohegan hill to come by removing corners, even as the trolley company did some time ago. The removal of the ledge which causes a bulge in the highway near the golf club is also a commendable part of the plan. The advantages of such improvements as have been planned will be appreciated by traffic in both directions and they will contribute greatly to the cause of safety on hills where many accidents have occurred and where oncoming traffic is hidden on the curves.

Such changes are constantly being made in the building of trunkline highways. They mean better roads, shorter distances and reduce the hazards. Such contributions to better highways are of much importance in these days of motor traffic. Hard surfaced roads are certainly welcomed but it is important that they be laid out as well as constructed with a view to permanecy and that can be readily discerned in connection with the plans that have been announced.

BUSSES AND TRUCKS

According to plans which have been made by the Reading railroad competition has gotten to the point where it is soon going to be necessary to give way to the busses or to replace present methods of transportation with bus service. The Reading road is experiencing no different conditions than others, and it has come to no different decision. It is a case where something must be done to meet a situation which has been steadily growing worse. Where there were fairly frequent trains on the steam roads a few years ago they are few and far between today, and because of the lack of patronage it is a matter of frequent experience now that passenger trains find it necessary to wait for the freights to get out of the way. It wasn't always so, but the changed conditions have brought it about and there's nothing to do but meet the situation the best way possible.

Short haul freight has felt the change even as the passenger service. Railroads have experimented with the use of motor trucks for the handling of short haul matter, or less than carload lots. These experiments have extended to the piking up and delivery of goods at the doors of the shippers and receivers, while certain short lines have been abandoned and motor service substituted as a matter of economy and better service.

Thus the Reading is being driven to nothing more than others have been. The New Haven has been obliged to take off trains and others have in some instances replaced steam trains with gasoline or electrically operated cars. The busses have raised havoc with the trolley lines until they have been obliged to adopt them for their own protection.

That the trolley lines and railroads should employ the motor busses and trucks for the purpose of maintaining their service is only a logical outcome. Being in the transportation business they are in fact the very ones that should be expected to be given the franchises to run them provided they are ready and willing to meet public requirements.

PROPERLY CLASSIFIED

When the department of state reached the decision to the effect that Saklatvala, the British communist, could not enter this country it is believed that it will be generally accepted as a sound decision and the only one justified under the circumstances.

This country has established laws for the purpose of keeping out undesirables and there is no more reason for welcoming and tolerating undesirables for a visit than for permitting them to come in and remain.

Secretary Kellogg is correct in his statement that it is the policy of the government to exclude such persons, but he takes occasion to set forth the fact that "I do not believe in curbing free speech, nor do I believe in making this country the stamping ground for every revolutionist agitator of other countries. . . . I do not believe we should admit foreigners to this country to preach anarchy or revolutionary overthrow of government."

Saklataal is a communist who was named to come to this country as a delegate to a world congress of legislators, known as the interparliamentary Union. He is an advocate of revolution. He preaches it at home. He wants disorder and destruction and he was coming to this country with the announced purpose of speaking his mind. Those who were named to come as members of the delegation with him knew him and declined to come if he did.

When it comes to deciding whether we want any such radical of radicals the secretary of state has reached the right decision. He gives Saklatvala the right classification and being an undesirable he applies the law which has been established to deal with just such persons. Knowing the man it is preferable that he should be kept out than to permit him to enter and after he has done his dirty work come to the conclusion too late that he ought not to have been allowed to enter. There are others entitled to consideration before those who are bent upon revolution.

TAX CUTTING LESSON

It has long since been evident that tax reduction is going to be looked at through different eyes at the coming session of congress from what it was at the previous session.

It was necesary to wage a hard fight in order to bring about the curtailment in taxation when the last revision was made, and even then the cutting was not in keeping with recommendations which would have had it done in a scientific manner. Surtaxes were cut but they were not cut anywhere near what was urged. There were those who stood for the keeping of a high surtax on the people of wealth under the belief that they ought to pay the bills. But they were unmindful of the effect such a policy had upon business. They could not see that a lowering of the tax would result in turning much more of the money from tax exempt securities to industrial activities and through producing greater taxable incomes bring a greater benefit to the federal treasury.

The result of the taxation fight has been a source of enlightenment to the country. Those who were opposed to the surtax reduction have changed their minds. They have had a chance to witness the effect and they are today as strongly in favor of pruning the surtax as the most ardent advocate in days gone by. They have noted the fact that the government received in revenue only $212,000,000 less under the tax reduction than in the year before it was made. Better condition because of the cut stand forth as the reason for this situation. The test has been a convincing one. They have been converted to the wisdom that stood back of the reductions, previously urged and which can be expected to mark those that will be put forth for the next congress to act upon.

HIGHWAY DETOURS

It makes little difference where it exists, the bad detour is bound to arouse severe criticism. Detours are not popular. Too seldom is it the case that there is a good substitute offered for the highway under construction, and it is in such cases especially that the detour comes into bad repute. There is a recognition of the fact that if there are to be good roads there must be some inconvenience tolerated while the work is under way. That is generally accepted, but it is through the failure to make the detour unfit for the use which it must of necessity receive and the failure too often to properly post it as it winds among a network of other roads, that makes those using the detours disgusted and disgruntled.

In New York state at the present time work is being done in the Albany post road and traffic is being sent around it. Complaint is registered because the detour is not put in decent shape for use by this traffic and also because traffic is not warned sufficiently in advanve so that it might take another and better road than the detour.

There is no reason to expect that detours will ever become popular, but it has been the experience of most every motorist that there are detours which are abominations and there are roads over which travel is permitted while construction is under way where no consideration whatever is given to the comfort and safety of the users. But while detours may never please they can be made more passable.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The tower of Babel we have been acquainted with since our childhood days. In those days we used to swallow everything the Bible said as literally true, and we made no grimace as we did it. We used to believe the fairy stories we read, because this is perfectly natural to the mind of a child before the reasoning faculty has begun to function. May it not be an attempt to explain the dispersion of the tribes at that time? Undoubtedly they attempted something colossal that would make them famous, but they got into a violent wrangle among themselves, and God punished them by confusing their speech. Hence they gathered arbund new centers according to their different dialects. May it not be that God intended that those of the same speech should live together? That is why I firmly believe that all foreigners who intend to live here should acquire our language. The tower of Babel is here all right, but it must not crowd out the English language.

Deception is a constant element of life. Not merely is it confined to the world of responsible action, but you will find it wherever life exists, but you there are two general kinds of deception, the intentional and the innocent. If we are deceived by anybody or anything it makes a great deal of difference which. But a person may innocently deceive you. For instance, you ask to be directed to Voluntown, and the person asked for the moment confuses Voluntown with Sterling, and hence you are wrongly directed. Now you have been deceived, but not intentionally. The morning on which these lines were written I heard men saying on the street: "We shall have rain within a few hours." In less than three hours the sun came out beautifully and there was no rain that day. My small potato patch has been saying "Here is something fine," but thus far the yield has been small and scabby.

The history of Mexico for the most part has been tragic, possibly not more so than many Central and South American nations, but the tragedy seems all the more pronounced because the inherent possibilities of this country are so great. This country is not only great in area but in mineral deposits. There are, however, some indications that Mexico is coming to herself. Not from any outward development of politics, for God Himself only knows what this country has suffered from revolutions and petty politicians. But the evidence is strong of new powers expanding from within. Slowly the Mexican people are waking up to their moral possibilities. A single illustration will support this statement. Heretofore the people as a whole have not been keen for education, but through missionary endeavors their appetites have been whetted up for advanced learning. Schools of preparatory grade are calling for something more advanced, and the talk of colleges and universities is in the air.

Talking about problems, we have one nearer than Mexico, but one that extends from Norwich to El Paso and perhaps clear down to Central Mexico. Very likely this problem is not so important as that of the higher education, but it certainly comes under the head of lower education. That is the problem of the small boy and unripe fruit. There is no problem as long as the two are kept apart, but it is when they get into juxtaposition. We are told that both nitrogen and glycerine are both harmless substances in themselves, but it is when they come together in the form of nitro-glycerine that the situation changes. Unripe apples, pears and peaches are quite harmless upon the trees, or on the ground if unmolested, but when they enter that mysterious cavity known as the human stomach they seem to enter the nitro-glycerine class. Hence the problem.

The influence of motion pictures cannot be denied. They are a marvel of mechanical ingenuity. One hardly dares to predict what will yet be accomplished along this line. Of course, it is not hard to see where they may be made to pander to what is lowest in human nature, and also they may appeal with equal force to the better instincts of human nature. This thought is suggested by that wonderful screen picture recently presented in our city entitled "The Ten Commandments." All must agree that the portrayal of the miseries of the Hebrew slaves in Egypt, their release, and subsequent life in the desert under the masterful leadership of Moses was a splendid bit of realism. And also the second part bringing out so vividly the inevitable result of lapsing from God's moral law was extremely impressive. The pictures themselves were a triumph of photography. If there was here and there some extravagance it was only a very minor defect.

These are the days in which the corn is getting golden. But corn will not grow and ripen without the cob and husks. If, however, you should offer a man a cob or husks when he had asked for corn, he would feel insulted, and very rightly so. As a matter of fact, the cob and the husks are practically useless after the corn has matured, or if they are taken by themselves alone. Now it seems to me that this applies to churches and religion. Churches represent the cob and the husks; things of the utmost importance when taken in connection with the growth and spread of religion, but as worthless as a corn cob without the corn. I know that some people say that they can be just as good outside of the church as inside, but as a matter of fact they are not. It would be like trying to grow corn without either cob or husks.

Isn't it true that for things worth having one has to work, and work hard? But the things one doesn't want spring up around him, not only without cultivation but in great profusion. We learn this most decidedly in our vegetable gardens. Take, for instance, weeds that grow anywhere on the known earth, in great abundance, and in any quality of soil, whatever be the species of the weeds. If you give them a gentle hint with the hoe that their presence is undesirable, they will start all over again in greater numbers than before. But it is not so with vegetables, they must be coaxed along with the utmost care and patience. We see the same thing in schools as in gardens. Why is it that children need no instruction in speaking and writing uncouthly and ungrammatically? In most cases if they pray they must be taught but not if they swear, in fact, they must be taught not to swear. We can tumble down hill, but to go up hill takes effort.

A great many years ago Yale Divinity school established the Lyman Beecher lectureship, that for several years was for the exclusive benefit of students and faculty, but later it was thrown open to the clergymen of the state and has grown to be an important feature of religious education. The Hartford Theological school is doing a similar work through the Pastoral union. It has grown quite popular with the ministers of Protestant denominations. The element is sufficient to secure the services of the greatest thinkers of this country and Europe. They are no popular lectures, so called, but are great themes that are handled in the academic manner. In late years these lectures have been the source of great inspiration to the ministers of the state. And the lectureship held this week at Hartford was certainly an exception to the rule.

HAWAII: AMERICA'S PACIFIC OUTPOST

Hawaii, recently the objective of the first long non-stop aeroplane flight over Pacific waters, is the subject of a communication to the National Geographic Society from its president, Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor.

"The annexation of the Hawaiian Islands by the United States has turned out to be as good a bargain for the entire United States as it has proved for the Islands themselves," says Dr. Grosvenor.

"Great as is the value of Hawaii as the first line of America's military and health defense in the Pacific, these advantages are ours without the net expenditure of a single dollar of mainland money.

"The people of Hawaii not only pay for the operation of their own government, but in addition contribute largely to the National Treasury at Washington to reimburse it for present-day expenditures for the Territory's defense.

"Not only do they give Uncle Sam a dollar for every one they spend on themselves, but they do it with a willingness and a pride in the causes of the nation that make them peculiarly entitled to the consideration of their fellow-countrymen on the mainland.

"The quarter of a century that has now passed since the American flag first floated over Hawaii has seen its people develop a loyalty to that flag and a devotion to the Republic's ideals that they are of The Original Thirteen."

"The visitor, however well prepared by reading and by conversation with Hawaiian advertisers, cannot escape amazement at the great enterprising metropolis of Honolulu which greets him in these lonely islands in mid-Pacific—vociferous taximen, flivvers and luxurious limousines, spacious hotels, many miles of suburban concrete roads; morning and afternoon newspapers that publish long press dispatches from the mainland and even give the daily quotations of the New York stock markets and the big league baseball scores; large department stores thronged with buyers and displaying the latest New York, London, and Paris fashions; a great university plant and fine public school buildings; a superb country club, with golf courses that can compete with our best national links; a Carnegie library; electric trolley cars whose fares are regulated at Washington, 5,000 miles away; a canning factory that puts up more than one million cans of pine apple in one day; a world-famous agricultural experiment station, and countless other manifestations that we have entered an American-minded community.

"Roughly computed, the annual mean temperature is 75.55 degrees, with a divergence in either direction of 7.55 degrees. As a general rule, the temperature is cooler by four degrees for every thousand feet of altitude, so that people can choose their climate to suit themselves without leaving the islands.

"We had an amusing illustration of the variety of climate on Oahu. We had requested the privilege one morning of viewing a noted Japanese garden at Waikiki. The owner, with typical Hawaiian hospitality, immediately assented, and added that his wife would be happy to receive us, but he was not sure that he could locate her at such short notice. He had a town house in Honolulu, the Japanese villa at Waikiki for surf-riding, a mountain retreat on Nuuanu, a ranch house on the dry plateau near Schofield Barracks, and a bungalow on the rainy northeast shore. All these establishments were within two hours' ride, and yet each had an entirely different atmosphere. As he had failed to ask his wife in the morning what kind of climate she had selected for the day, he was at considerable trouble to find her.

"Pearl Harbor, which is located some eight miles from Honolulu, is one of the finest natural naval bases in the world. With a depth of over 60 feet, an area of nearly ten square miles, reached by a tortuous channel from the sea, and completely hiding all vessels within its haven from view toward the sea, it leaves nothing to be desired as a natural naval base.

"No landing forces on the northeast coast can get across the high mountains of Koolau range, and likewise the Wainae mountains adjacent to the west coast are natural defenses against attack. It remains only, therefore, to defend a short stretch of the northeast coast to protect Pearl Harbor from the rear.

"A start has been made in capitalizing its natural strength. A huge dry dock, large enough to float any ship sanctioned by the naval treaty, is in operation, but very little else has been accomplished to insure our permanent possession of this strategic point."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Evolution.

Mr. Editor: Evolution does what it sets out to do. It attempts to explain the development of the species from the earliest form of life to their present status, and for this it offers us a rational explanation, well supported. Men may prate about special creation (as they once did about the Ptolemaic system), but the facts of comparative anatomy, domestication, embryology, geographical distribution, and the precipitation blood tests (which prove that in the veins of the man-like ape flows blood partly like that of man) show that in the theory of evolution man is nearer the truth about the facts of life than he has ever been.

As for the beginning of things, science has up to the present given no explanation, nor do I think it ever will. Yet are men so cowardly that if they cannot solve this problem they transfer the whole burden to the shoulders of a God? Here we have the familiar results of ignorance and fear. Ancient man did not understand fire and worshipped it. Now men do not comprehend the riddle of the universe and, just as their distant ancestors would do, they shape the whole universe into a god.

Which reminds me that a correspondent of yours wants us to be men. Does he realize that one who has no belief in a personal god is more of a man that he who has? It is nothing for one to suffer who believes that a god will take care of him; it is nothing for one to do good when he believes that in return for his goodness his soul will be saved. (Here comes up the modern counterpart of that business relation between ancient man and his gods.) But it takes a real man to stand up and face the problems of this universe with his own strength and spirit and not that of a god; it takes a real man to do good without expecting any return favors from any source. Faith in god is a sign of weakness; it shows that a man prefers comfort to truth.

Any man who wants something to inspire him in life may find it in evolution. Evolution shows us how our present forms of life have developed from the most humble origins. It allows us to hope for further development, to hope for a day when this earth will be inhabited by a better race. It inspires us to do our best toward hastening the coming of this better day. Nor do we expect any rewards, other than the satisfaction of knowing that in thousands of years from now this world will be something more than a terrible hell for us to drag our "weary carcasses" therein.

Most religions of today deal too much with happiness in another world that no astronomer has ever found.

We want a religion that will make men happy here—where we live.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Mrs. Beatrice Cameron Mansfield, who is to open a school at New London, Conn., for the development of actors and the ultimate production of plays, is well qualified for such an enterprise by reason of her intimate acquaintance with the best traditions of the American stage. As the wife of Richard Mansfield, one of the foremost actors of his time, Beatrice Cameron, as she was known to the stage, is well remembered by the older generation of playgoers for her own successes behind the footlights. Beginning her stage career as an amateur, Miss Cameron made her first professional success as a member of the celebrated Madison Square Theater stock company. After her marriage to Mr. Mansfield she continued as his leading lady for several seasons, until her definite retirement from the stage in 1898. Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield had one son, Richard Mansfield, 2nd., who died in camp at San Antonio during the war.

Sunday Morning Talk

His Love

It is a delightful thought that the love of God is personal. It is not a general beneficence, but a direct personal love. "Who loved me and gave himself for me," said Paul. The thought of the immediate and direct love of his Lord was ever present with him. Jesus declared His love for His disciples, and of one it is written, "The disciple whom Jesus loved," is the same. God loves the world, His care is for all, but that is so because he loves and cares for each one. As soon as we recognize the personality of God we become conscious of a personal relation to Him, and when we receive the Lord Jesus as our Savior we know the relation is one of tender love.

This sense of the personal love of God, so that we can say as Thomas did, "my Lord and my God," brings us into close relation with God. All power in Heaven and earth is given to Christ. What a wonderful sweep there is in this love. All things are yours, and ye are Christs' and Christ is God's."

When we once receive into our hearts a knowledge of this love we realize that its value is far above all else. We realize that all else is valueless in comparison. As Paul counted all things but loss that he might gain this knowledge. And if our hearts are right will it not be our greatest desire and pleasure to tell others of the love of Christ for them. Realizing that the knowledge of Christ and His love is the greatest blessing that can come into any life.

What a wonderful change in my life has been wrought,
Since Jesus came into my heart!
I have right in my soul for which long
I had sought.
Floods of joy o'er my soul like sea billows roll,
Since Jesus came into my heart.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Buster Gives Up

The wise alone know when they're beaten.
And also when enough they've eaten.
—Old Mother Nature

Buster was plain mad. Yes sir, Buster was plain mad. He had no business to be. Of course not. But just the same he was. You see, he had set his heart on a feast of honey and when he got there the honey was gone. Buster's temper went, too. The worst part of it was that there was nobody on whom he could vent his anger. You see the honey had been carried away by the bees themselves. Of course it belonged to them and they had a perfect right to take it away. They were still at work taking what little bit was left and Buster could see them flying in a line, disappearing over the treetops.

Now Buster knew something about bees. He knew that when bees started for the hive, which, you know, is the name of their home, they always flew in a straight line, because a straight line is the shortest distance between two points, and bees are always in a hurry to get home. So Buster knew that those bees had flown in a straight line from that broken tree to their new home wherever that might be.

Buster watched them for a few minutes. Then he decided that he would go in as straight a line as he could in the same direction. Perhaps he might find that new hive and get the rest of that honey. "I'll try it, anyway," growled Buster, talking to himself, for of course there was no one else to talk to. "I'll try it anyway. There's nothing to lose and a lot to gain. If I hadn't made up my mouth for that honey it wouldn't have been so bad. But it is almost as if that honey had been taken right out of my mouth. It is so. I want it and I'm going to have it if I can find it."

So Buster shuffled along in the direction in which he thought the bees were flying. He did his best to go straight and he did pretty well. Once or twice he thought he heard some bees humming over his head. That gave him courage, so he kept on. And so at last he came to the edge of the Green Forest.

Buster watched them for a few minutes

Right there Buster stopped. He stopped short. This was altogether too near Farmer Brown's. He could look over Farmer Brown's dooryard. Looking was enough. He couldn't think of anything that would tempt him to go over there in daylight. But he hadn't any intentions of going over there. It hadn't occurred to him that there could be anything whatever to take him over there.

Buzz-z-z-z. Buzz-z-z-z. Buster looked up. Was he mistaken or did he really see some swiftly moving little black specks heading straight for Farmer Brown's dooryard. Buzz-z-z-z. Buzz-z-z-z. Buster blinked. Just then Scrapper the Kingbird happened to fly over from the Old Orchard which was close by. Scrapper perched just above Buster's head. Suddenly he darted out and snapped up something in the air. Buster became interested.

"What was that you caught just now?" Buster asked.

"That," replied Scrapper, the Kingbird, "was a bee. There's another. Watch me catch it." Out darted Scrapper, and in a moment he was back again. "Those bees are working hard," said he. "They've taken one of those empty hives of Farmer Brown's over there in his dooryard and it looks as if they were trying to fill it all in one day. I don't know where they are getting their sweets from, but they certainly are getting plenty."

Buster sighed. It was a heavy, sorrowful sigh. "I know," said he, "but I won't tell." With this he turned and shuffled back into the Green Forest. Those bees were safe. Their honey was safe. Buster didn't dare go over into Farmer Brown's dooryard.

ENJOYABLE SOCIAL BY BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE

The B. Y. P. U. of the Central Baptist church held their opening social of the fall season Friday evening at Bushnell Chapel. There were over a score of members present and the evening proved a delightful one. It was "left hand" night as only the use of left hands was allowed in the competitive games between the blues and the yellows. In the whistling contest the winners were Leslie Pitt and Miss Marion Royce and Austin Covey was the winner of the picture guessing contest.

Refreshments of sandwiches, potatoe chips and lemonade were served at the close of the evening. The committee in charge comprised Miss Dorothy Spencer and Miss Helen Hastings.

Erases Wrinkles in Less Than 15 Minutes

Scientists have at last taken up seriously the problem of removing wrinkles and age lines. Many experiments have been made. The result indicates that the "tarkroot method" is the best because it produces immediate results with perfect safety and comfort. It consists merely in spreading over the face a mixture of powdered tarkroot, one spoonful, and lemon juice, one spoonful. In your mirror, before your very eyes, you can watch the wrinkles and sagginess literally melt away—in less than 15 minutes!

The sensation from this brief treatment is most refreshing. The effect is far better than that produced by the most expert massage. Tarkroot is so harmless you could eat it. And the cost per treatment is trifling—less than three cents when purchased in the original package at any drug store.

FERGUSON HOUSE BURNED WITH OVER $4,500 LOSS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 18.—The cottage house, with contents, owned and occupied by Westerly Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr., the first house on Bayberry road, off Ocean View highway near the Shore road, was burned about 4 o'clock this afternoon, with a loss of from $4,500 to $5,000, generally covered by insurance.

The house was built by H. C. Buck of Hartford and had been occupied by Mr. Ferguson for the past two years.

No one was at home at the time the fire broke out from some unknown cause, evidently in the kitchen, near which is an attached garage. Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Buck were in Westerly while their wives were at Peacedale, R. I., while Mrs. Ferguson's son and the maid were at the beach about a mile from the house.

The first man to arrive at the fire was Dr. Lewis Tetlow, who kicked in the front door and made sure no one was in the burning building. Word was sent to the Watchm Hill fire department, which responded in charge of Engineer W. Porter Hoxie. The Pleasant View department also responded in charge of Chief Charles M. Lamb, and the companies soon had two streams of water playing on the burning structure, but by that time the flames had spread throughout the house and nothing could be done to save it.

Two valuable Pekinese dogs, owned by Mrs. Ferguson's brother, were lost in the burned house but the firemen and people around the vicinity managed to save the porch furniture and a runabout car from the garage, just before an explosion occurred, enveloping the garage in flames.

BETTER BABY CONTEST IS FEATURE OF SECOND DAY OF COUNTY FAIR

Nearly 5000 people attended the second day of the New London County Agricultural fair, held at the local fairgrounds and witnessed the two fast horse racing events, the vaudeville and enjoyed the various amusements offered for their entertainment.

The exhibition halls were well patronized throughout the day, the poultry show being one of the attractions, the 500 birds entered being among the best in this section of the country, the exhibit containing many birds of rare breeds, entirely new to the New London County fair.

Merchants row and the fine attractions in the main exhibition hall also proved popular spots during the morning and afternoon and these fine exhibits by local merchants and manufactors, with the fine displays of farm improvements and machinery, were worth while attractions and many favorable comments were heard concerning them.

The midway again was a great drawing card and the merry-go-round, Ferris wheel and chair swings attracted grown-ups and kiddies alike. The midway is larger and more varied than ever before, introducing several novelty booths which had a good patronage throughout the afternoon.

Everything will be in full swing today (Saturday) the final day of the fair, when it is expected that the largest crowd of the week will be on hand. The racing program for today is the largest of the week, three fast events being scheduled, with over 15 horses to start. The races on today's card are the 2.18 trot, five or more entries, Special County Race, four or more entries, mostly from Norwich, and the 2.20 pace with five or more entries. These races with the vaudeville and other features make up the program for the day.

As added features of the morning program, the Barn Yard Golf tournament, is to be held at 9 o'clock.

The boys' dog show is set for 10 o'clock, when every boy with an unpedigreed dog can bring him to the fair and enter him for the mutt championship. The boy and his dog get free entry to the grounds and the champion mutt will receive as a prize a first class woven leather leash with French snaps.

The doll carriage parade for girls comes at 10.30. Every girl with a decorated doll carriage gets entry to the grounds and the contest free and the prize will be a diamond ring that any girl will be proud to have. J. Henry Shannon of the Woodstock dairy is providing for it that no little girl who enters the contest will be disappointed for he is to provide a souvenir for every girl in the doll carriage parade.

In the afternoon besides the racing and vaudeville attractions, the decorated automobile show and parade, is to be held and it is also planned to hold the parade of prize winning live stock.

Swahn's band, which has rendered the musical program during the fair, will have charge of the music today and will render a concert program throughout the afternoon.

NORWICH HORSE WON COUNTY RACE OR TROT

Two races were scheduled on the card for the second day of the fair, the 2:25 pace for a purse of $300 and the 2:35 trot or pace, county race, hard fought, the county race going into the fourth heat before Ashton, owned by J. Lafferty of Norwich, won first money, making three firsts after getting off to a fourth place in the first race.

The limit in heats, five in number, were necessary in the 2:25 pace and fast time was made during the first four heats when places for money was in doubt, but the fifth and final heat established the money and with all horses tired after four previous starts the time was considerably slower than in the first four heats.

Seven horses started in the 2:25 pace, Brown Belle, owned by J. A. Pilgard of Hartford; Marion Parole, owned by F. H. Galloway of Taunton, Mass.; Helen Sunshine, owned by Sunshine Stables, Boston, Mass.; Unexpected, owner E. P. O'Brien of Orangeburgh, N. Y.; Harry B, owned by Fred Brusie of Windsor Locks, Conn., and Peter Torment, owned by M. Mitchell, Montville, Conn.

There were five starters in the county race, Doctor Sharpe, by J. L. Chapman of Norwich; Peter Agan, 2nd, by C. F. Charon of Baltic, Conn.; Royal Walnut, by Fred Wininger, of Norwich; Ashton by J. Lafferty of Norwich and Rose Marie, owned by James H. Craney of Norwich.

2:26 Pace

In the first heat of the 2:25 pace Peter Torment got away to a flying start and ran away from the field, the other horses stringing out at some distance apart, in which order they finished under the wire. William the Second finishing second, Helen Sunshine third and Marion Parole in fourth place.

In the second heat William the Second, Brown Belle and Harry B fought it out for first place and remained closely bunched throughout the mile. In the home stretch William the Second passed Brown Belle, while Harry B, driven up the center of the track, nosed out the leaders during the final dash for the wire, only to be placed seventh in standing because of running in the final stretch. William the Second was given first place and Peter Torment second place, Brown Belle, which finished fourth, placing third and Marion Parole getting fourth.

In the third heat William the Second took the advantage at the first turn and held it until the back stretch was reached in the final half, when Peter Torment spurted into the lead, only to lose it at the lower turn when Marion Parole came around the outside to cut in for second place.

In the fourth heat Brown Belle, Unexpected and Harry B were ruled out and Marion Parole flashed into the lead during the final half, passing Peter Torment who had been piloted to first place at the first half when William the Second dropped back into third place, to remain there until the final stretch was reached, flashing into second place on the home stretch. This race was by far the prettiest of all and had the crowd standing during the final quarter.

In the fifth heat the time was slower than in all previous heats Marion Parole taking the lead at the first turn, with William the Second and Peter Torment following, to remain in those positions throughout the race.

County Race

The first heat of the 2:35 pace or trot, county race, started out rather poorly, Ashton taking the lead on the upper turn, only to drop into fifth position by breaking on the back stretch, allowing Rose Marie, Peter Agan 2nd, and Doctor Sharpe to move ahead and finish in position as named. The horses were bunched on the final turn and on the down stretch Peter Agan, 2nd, was pushed to win but was beaten by a head by Rose Marie, who made her only first in the race, which went into four heats before Ashton, which finished fourth in the initial heat, placed for three straight wins.

Rose Marie again got off to a fast start in the second heat but was quickly overhauled by Ashton and Peter Agan, 2nd, who fought it out for the half mile, taking the back stretch neck and neck. On the final turn Ashton pulled into the pole and came under the wire a half length ahead of Peter Agan, 2nd, Rose Marie finishing third.

Peter Agan 2nd started off a winner in the third heat but Ashton held back until the stretch was reached and was then pulled outside and sent into the lead. At the second round Peter Agan 2nd pulled alongside and raced the stretch to take the lead for a moment at the final turn. The crowd was on their feet when the horses came down the home stretch, Ashton, Peter Agan 2nd and Doctor Sharpe bunching just before the wire. There was no chance for a change in position and the horses finished in the order named.

Royal Walnut, which had finished fifth in the first three starts was ruled out of the fourth and final heat and Asaton took the lead and held it for the first half after Doctor Sharpe went from head position into the trial by breaking. Peter Agan 2nd flashed into the lead on the back stretch and from then on it was a pretty go, Ashton coming up the home stretch neck and neck, placing first by half a length, the time of 2:24 1-4 being the same as made in the first thre heats.

VEGETABLE OF GOOD SIZE AND PLEASING VARIETY

In the brief reference, Friday, to the entries in this department there was not space to specify many which were of extra merit.

A good display of squash is made by Allen Latham, Norwich Town. William Clark & Son of Rockville, Conn., contribute a varied collection of beets, beans, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, Colorado preserving citron, corn, cucumbers, egg plant, a collection of gourds, lettuce, muskmelons, watermelons, onions, oyster plant, parsnips, parsley, peppers, potatoes, pumpkins, radishes salad plants, New Zealand spinach, tomatoes, and turnips. Noticeable in the Clark exhibit are giant crookneck squash and ball-head cabbage.

George A. Brown of Westerly enters a well arranged collection which includes potatoes, peppers, beans, onions, turnips, tomatoes, beets, squash, watermelons pumpkins, citron, cucumbers, corn, eggplant, cabbage, carrots, peppers, Brussels sprouts and cauliflower.

John Mullen of Norwich Town, enters big Hubbard squashes.

From N. Thurman Main, Clark's Falls, comes a fine collection of potatoes, also beets, beans, cabbage, carrots, corn, cucumbers, eggplant kale, lettuce, muskmelons, parsnips, parsley, peppers, radishes, Swiss chard, spinach, improved Brussells sprouts, squash, tomatoes, turnips, muskmelons and beans.

Mrs. C. M. Wilcox, Norwich, sends to this department Egyptian beets, imported orange carrots and chantenay carrots; also three varieties of corn.

From E. L. Reeves, of Montville, comes prime Irish cobblers and Green Mountain potatoes.

James B. Palmer, Norwich, sends lima beans "King of the garden."

The display made by Walter C. Tanner of Voluntown, is greatly admired. Beets, beans, prize cabbage, carrots, corn, cucumbers, muskmelons, watermelons, onions, parsnips, parsley, peppers, potatoes, pumpkins, kale, squashes, kohl, tomatoes (14 varieties) all are carefully selected and well placed.

Mrs. C. M. Lester, Norwich, contributes to the shelves nice cucumbers, peppers, and three mammoth squashes, each weighing over 60 pounds.

From the Town Farm, of Norwich, Supt. Charles E. Ellis sends squash, pumpkins, onions, carrots, tomatoes, beets and beans, all excellent in their class, with a nice showing of potatoes.

From Bonnie Wauwecus Farm come good looking potatoes, cucumbers, squash, pumpkins, spinach and onions.

A. R. Dawley of Voluntown enters nice squash, pumpkins, citron, cabbage onions, peppers, corn, cucumbers, parsnips, potatoes, beets, carrots, tomatoes, New Zealand spinach and beans. In this exhibit are also some Spanish peanuts which get a good deal of attention.

Judge From Worcester

H. Ward Moore, of Worcester, Mass., was the judge of the annex exhibits, vegetables, fruit, grain, etc.

CAKE, BREAD AND HONEY

The entries in this department always interest the Fair crowds.

Miss Gladys Upton of Norwich exhibits fine looking angel cake, Miss Nellie Aldrich, caramel cake; Mrs. George Stanton, bread and a variety of splendid looking canned fruit and vegetables. As in former years Miss Florence Browning of Norwich Town enters biscuit, wheat bread, sponge cage, prune loaf, fig layer cake, angel and gold cakes; also 42 jars of canned fruit and vegetables, a most attractive entry. Miss Browning is one of the dependable exhibitors at each annual fair, always contributing interesting entries to the women's department.

A tempting loaf of chocolate cake comes from Mrs. John G. Peckham. Mrs. John H. Sherman sends finely baked angel cake and raisin cake.

In the juvenile exhibits Eleanor Sergeant shows a fine loaf of orange cake.

Honey Bees in Action

Entertainment and instruction is furnished the hundreds attending the Fair by the exhibit of honey bees which occupies the familiar place in the hall. John H. Sherman and Teley E. Babcock, both of Norwich, furnish this exhibit—bees in the hive, comb, and the extracted honey, also honey-making supplies.

Exhibitor Over Twenty-Five Years.

For over twenty-five years, Walter C. Tanner, of Voluntown has been sending produce to help out the grain and vegetable end of the Fair. This season Mr. Tanner is pardonably proud of his entries of ensilage corn in particular—giant stalks, some of them 16 feet.

There are three varieties—Drought-proof, Johnson County White and Mastodon. At his home farm, Mr. Tanner has about five or six acres of this splendid corn.

He is showing at the Fair 50 selected ears of field corn—10 in each variety besides nice oats, barley, rye, buckwheat, also shelled corn in five big pails. From his 40-acre farm also come 10 varieties of excellent shell beans, flanking seven varieties of stock beets which catch the eye of every visiting farmer.

Topping his exhibition are some novel stalks of Freisria corn, its granular tassels making first class poultry feed. A half dozen more enthusiastic exhibitors faithful and dependable, like Mr. Tanner would make the Norwich annual Fair just the biggest kind of a success.

Prizes for Vegetable Displays

The four prizes for best vegetables displays were awarded as follows—First to Wm. Clark & Son, Rockville, Conn.; second, N. Thurman Main, Clark's Falls; third, Walter C. Tanner, Voluntown; fourth, DeForrest Wells, Brooklyn, Conn.

Fifteen Varieties Apples

Simeon Brewster of Jewett City makes the only full display of apples, showing fifteen fine varieties.

Albert R. Dawley's Display

There are numerous items of interest in the entries sent by Albert R. Dawley, of Mt. Misery Farm, Voluntown. Notable are 25 varieties of splendid beans, big and novel Japanese pie pumpkins, and an exhibit of peanuts.

Domestic Arts Department

There is about the average number of entries here. The articles were received as in former years by Mrs. Ambrose Sullivan and Miss Ruby Vaughn.

The judges are Mrs. Letitia Kramer Waters and Mrs. May Rollins. In addition to a pleasing variety of needlework and knitted articles, there is some good reed work, trays, et al.

Dahlia Premium

Sunnyside Dahlia Farm won first premium on best exhibit, also won seven other first and second premiums. The display for best exhibit was most attractive. The dahlias were beautifully arranged, the colors blending harmoniously from lavender to pink to rose and orchid shades, also from the rich shades of autumn colors to white. The exhibit comprises some of the latest and best varieties of the present day. Foremost among them were two superb pink decoratives, which have not been surpassed in this color. Thees Geo. C. Meachen and A. W. Gray, deserve special mention; also the large center basket filled with that old favorite, Mrs. I. de Ver Warner. This was one of the outstanding varieties of the exhibit. The flowers were arranged by Harry Thiele of Gedulding's Greenhouses.

BETTER BABY SHOW MADE FAIR FEATURE

Norwich and New London, babies shared the prize winning honors Thursday at the better baby show which made a feature for the day. Approximately 60 babies, among which there were one-third more boys than girls, were entered in the contest, a large proportion coming from Norwich, while other places represented were Greenwich, R. I., Willimantic, Montville, New London, Groton, Jewett City, Lisbon and Westerly. The age limit was from six months to two years.

When it came to the boys, the judge Dr. Ingraham, director of the bureau of child hygiene of the state department of health, had a hard task to decide the winner. Two of the children ran so close together that she deliberated over an hour in comparing their marks before she finally awarded the first prize to Edward A. Barrows, one year, seven months, of 950 Bank street, New London. Honorable mention was awarded to Kenneth Mac Cracken, seven months, 19 days, of Glasgo.

Among the girls the winner was a Norwich baby, Loraine Virginia Woodworth, 18 months, of 1 Vergason avenue, Norwich Town.

Little Loraine made such a pronounced impression upon Dr. Knowlton, director of communicable diseases of the state department of health that he had her picture taken and will use it, with permission of the parents, in the department's health work.

The two winning babies will receive silver cups offered by Johns A. Ferguson and John and George H. Bliss Inc. Mayor Milo R. Waters is to present the cups at 2.30 this (Saturday) afternoon from the vaudeville platform. Each mother with her prize winning baby should be on hand to receive the cup and should report at the box office upon her arrival at the

AFTER LEAVING THE HOSPITAL

Was Weak and Miserable. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. Auger's Strength

Lowell, Massachusetts. — "I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books that you send around and I felt very good after I had taken a couple of bottles of it. I had been in the hospital and felt pretty well at first but I went down to nothing. I was weak and had to lie in bed almost all day. I had dizzy and faint spells, pains in my back and lower parts and was so nervous I could not bear my children around. I hope the Vegetable Compound helps other women as it did me. I do all my own work now and feel so well. I have told my friends about it and my sister and my aunt." — Mrs. OLIVE AUGER, 19 Howard Street, Lowell, Massachusetts.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 out of every 100 of the replies say "Yes," and because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you.

READING CLUB IS SOLD TO NEWARK AND PROVIDENCE CLUB GOES TO READING

NEW YORK, Sept. 18—Officials of the International league at a special meeting here today ratified the transfer of the reading, Pa., club to Newark, N. J., and the removal of the Providence, R. I., team to Reading. The changes will be effective next season.

The Providence club will go to Reading intact, William Ashton, Sr., continuing as president, and William Ashton, Jr., as secretary and manager. Manager Frank Shannessy will remain along with the same team personnel.

The new Reading club owner, C. A Davids, proposes to erect a new ball park in Newark. That Fred Buschell, will pilot Newark's new club. Dick Shorten, present Reading manager, will continue to play on the team. The purchase price for the Reading club was $30,000.

The present Providence ball club was formerly the Newark team but was transferred early in the season when the Newark ball park was sold.

Providence is not regarded as promising territory by the International League club owners. President J. Conway Toole, said, because of its location and insecurity of the ball field here.

President Toole said that it cost clubs approximately $1,200 extra a season to make the Providence trip. He also pointed out that the Providence Park was subject to acquisition by the Grand Trunk railroad for track purposes.

ATHLETICS TAKE BOTH GAMES OF DOUBLE HEADER

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics won both ends of a double bill from Detroit here today by scores of 4-2 and 7-3. Baumgartner was invincible after the first inning of the opening game while Rip Collings was clouted unmercifully in the second fray. The batting of Al Simmons featured the twin bill, the slugger massing a total of seven hits in nine times at bat, including two triples and a double in the second game. Scores:

PAL REED-CHIEF HALBRAN GO ATTRACTING WIDE ATTENTION

The Pal Reed-Chief Halbran bout slated as the main attraction at Joe Grills open air show at Westerly on Monday evening is attracting a whole lot of attention from boxing fans in Rhode Island and Connecticut. Reed is perhaps the better known of the two as he has met some of the top notch ers in the middleweight class such as Lou Bogash, Harry Greb and others. Halbran, who is a full-blooded Indian holds decisions over Frank Moody, Wolf Larsen, Battling Siki and Battling Jim Johnson. This bout in itself is a metropolitan attraction.

In the semi-finals Willie Mack an Young Pilkington will go the eight round route. Those who saw Pilkington fight in the last show know that he is a real aggressive fighter that will give his opponent plenty of gloves to stop.

In a six round bout Teddy Russell, ormerly of Norwich, will endeavor to stage a comeback against Charlie Stetcher, of Omaha, Neb. Russell has been out of the boxing game for some time but has joined the stable with Lou Bogash, Steve Smith nd Pete August. From all reports Russell is in first class shape and even looks better than when he was the favorite of Norwich fans.

Other bouts on the card include a four round go between Kid Albert and Kid DeBartlo and another bout of the same length between K. O. Mule Brown and Steve Culver.

WATERBURY IS WINNER OF EASTERN PENNANT

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 18—President Dan O'Neil's decision not to allow the protest of the Hartford club in the second game of a double header, forfeited to Waterbury yesterday, establishes Waterbury as the winner of the Eastern league pennant, the second successive year for the Brassmen.

The Eastern race until near the end of the season was a seven team race, Pittsfield being the only team out of the running. Only two more days remain before the close of the season, and Waterbury now has a three game lead over Hartford. The last two weeks have seen these two teams battling consistently for first place. Three times Hartford stepped into the lead, but only for a day or two before Waterbury regained it.

New Haven, winner of the Eastern league pennant in 1923, and Worcester are in a race for third place, the former now only one half a game in the lead.

Bridgeport and Springfield are running close for fifth place, Bridgeport occupying the peg at present, Albany is in seventh and Pittsfield eighth place

INDIANS RALLY IN SIXTH AND NOSE OUT BOSTON

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Cleveland assailed pitcher Ross of the Red Sox for six runs in the fifth inning in the first game of their final series of the season here today and the visitors won 6 to 5. Prothro singled his first time up, bringing his string of consecutive safe hits to seven. Next time up he fouled out. The score.

AGGIE PLAYER RECEIVES BROKEN COLLAR BONE

(Special to the Bulletin.)

STORRS, Conn., Sept. 18—The Connecticut Aggie football squad began its season's casualty list yesterday, when a doctor's examination of Lewis J. Quigley late last night disclosed the fact that the Bridgeport boy had a broken collar bone, received while tackling the dummy in yesterday's practice session. It is a recurrence of an accident that kept Quigley from making his letter last season, and the doctor stated last night that he would be unable to play for the rest of the year.

Development of the squad has been so rapid this week that Coach Dole made a change in his plans today, and scrimmaged his men for twenty minutes. Team A made two touchdowns, Schofield carrying the ball across the line each time. The first came following a long pass from Eddy and the second came after Eddy had put the ball in scoring position by a twenty yard dash around end.

Dole gave his squad a written examination on football rules tonight.

"Unk" Connelly, star end on the New Britain pro team has working out daily with the Aggie squad this week.

CALL CANDIDATES FOR FIRST PRACTICE

The Norwich Independents issue a call for football candidates who want to become members of this year's team. What has become of all the fellows who used to play with Jail Hill, Hardigs, Judeans and other local teams? Have they stopped playing football or don't they want to see Norwich have a good team? Come on boys; show some town spirit and help form a good team. Two tackles, one guard, an end and a half back are needed to complete the team as well as a full second team.

All those who want to play show up on the Academy Campus, Monday night at 6.15 P. M.

Canadian Golf

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 18—Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser of Ottawa and Miss Ada McKenzie of Toronto, will meet, tomorrow in the final round of the Canadian women's open golf championship. Mrs. Fraser today eliminated Mrs. Edward Baker, Jr., of Boston, in the semi-final round, and Miss Mackenzie defeated Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen of Toronto. Both matches ended 8 up and 6 to play.

TILDEN WILL MEET JOHNSTON TODAY IN FINALS FOR NATIONAL TENNIS TITLE

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 18—(By the A. P.)—Big "Bill" Tilden and his veteran California rival, "Little Bill" Johnston, dominant forces of American tennis for most of the past decade, will have another joust for the national singles title tomorrow.

These two super-stars of the game reached the final round of the forty-fourth annual championship tournament today when they turned back the challenges of the two men who share Davis cup laurels with the rival "Bills."

Johnston's crushing power brought about the downfall of Richard Norris Williams, 7-5, 6-3, 6-2, while Tilden, although losing the first set to his young New York rival, Vincent Richards, left a convincing impression of his superiority by scores of 6-8, 6-4 6-1.

Tomorrow's match will bring together Tilden and Johnston in the title round for the sixth time in seven years. It will be Tilden's bid for his sixth straight title, a feat no other champion has accomplished since Richard D. Sears, the first recognized American tennis king ruled seven years in a row from 1881 to 1887.

Tilden has conquered Johnston five straight times in his march toward the national crown, once in the semi-finals and four times in the finals. He will be a favorite to reach the heights once more tomorrow.

Neither Johnston nor Tilden was extended in any severe measure today. Neither Williams or Richards was able to more than threaten the two "Bills" in matches which fell considerably short of the spectacular flights expected of them. Williams faltered after the first set and, losing control, was easy prey for Johnston's smoking drives, while Richards exhausted himself by the desperate attempts he made to hold Tilden even in the first two sets.

RED SOX HURLER TO PITCH AGAINST MOOSUP ON SUNDAY

Packy Noonan of the Red Sox will be the pitching ace which Manager Joe Costigan of the Taunton, Mass., team will send against Henry Loughran's Moosup team on Sunday at the Carpet Grounds in Moosup. Fans may expect some real baseball in this game if individual stars mean anything. Included in both lineups are stars who have made envious records in semi-pro and professional baseball and also in college circles.

In looking over the Taunton lineup one finds of material that is tried and true and banded together forms one of the fastest clubs that has played in Eastern Connecticut this season. A glance at the Moosup lineup shows that Mgr. Loughran has collected a galaxy of stars that are second to none in the state when it comes to independent teams.

The Taunton team comprises the following:

Noonan p, property of Boston Red Sox who has pitched for the Eastern Shore League. Eddie O'Connell of North Attleboro will catch while Paddy Sullivan of Providence College will play first, Shea of Attleboro, second; Nig Potter of Providence Checker Cabs, ss; Happy McBeth of Boston Red Sox, third; McBeth will be remembered as playing for Jewett City three years ago. Frankie Coyle will play lf for Taunton, formerly with Moosup two seasons and among the best looked outfielders; J. Sullivan of North Attleboro, cf; Tom Kennedy, ex-Providence Gray pitcher, rf.

Moosup's lineup will be: Vaisa or McMahon, 3b; Kendricks, rf; Marr 2b; Hal Janvrin, ss; Jack Clabby lf; Doney, c; Joe Morrissey, 1b; Ray Doyle, Kid Allard, cf; King Bader, p; Chick Davis, p.

PROMOTER WILSON COMPLETES HIS DUWELL BOXING CARD

Promoter Jackie Wilson of the Duwell A. C., has completed his card for the boxing carnival to be held at the Duwell Athletic field next Friday night, and everything is ready for the first tap of the gong. Mr. Wilson was looking for a curtain raiser of four rounds and on Friday afternoon the papers were signed for this bout.

Two local boys, Young McCarthy and Young Falcone, will throw gloves at each others heads in the opening bout of the feature bout which brings Shiek Leonard and Tracy Ferguson together in the main go. McCarthy and Falcone have been anxious to take a slam at each other for a long time and show their local friends that they have the goods. These two lads have been clashing with each other at every opportunity and many of the verbal arguments between them have ended in blows that have not been softened by the padded glove. Both boys have come to the stage where the ywill fight at the drop of a hat and when they meet in the ring Friday night the public won't see much science but there will be plenty of blood spilled. This ought to please the Bard of Packer who remarked to Jackie Wilson when he bought his ticket, "Give me a seat where I'll get all spattered with blood."

Young Martin Flaherty was in town yesterday and posted his forfeit money for his bout with Izzy Kaplan of Meriden and remarked that Kaplan was a tough boy but he had no fears about the outcome of the bout.

TAFTVILLE-ASHLAND GAME STAR ATTRACTION TODAY

The Taftville A. A.-Ashland game scheduled for this afternoon at the Providence street grounds is the star baseball attraction in Eastern Connecticut for this afternoon. The Riverview team is idle this week which leaves Taftville free rein in the field. This game is a real baseball attraction as two more evenly matched teams would be hard to find.

This game is a real baseball attraction series between these two clubs and Taftville is out to win this game as it means the tying up of the county. Ashland has a strong hold on the series but this means little to the Taftville team which is fighting for its life.

Manager Troland will send Lefty Dugas to the mound against the invading team as Lefty has always been able to hold the Jewett City boys to a few scattered hits. Spike Liberty who is equally as effective against the Taftville team, will do the hurling for Jewett City. These two pitchers have hooked up in three pitching duels which have gone extra innings, and it is a safe bet that today's game will be of the same tight nature as the three previous encounters.

O'NEIL REFUSES TO ALLOW HARTFORD PROTEST

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 18—(A. P.)—President Dan O'Neil of the Eastern League will not allow the protest of the Hartford club made in the second game of a double header played at Waterbury yesterday in which the Hartford club claimed that baseballs other than the official brand used in the league were used for the game Hartford played the same under protest and in the seventh inning refused to continue play, balking when Umpire Barnett [illegible] a Waterbury man out and then reversed his decision.

The double bill was a crucial one with Hartford and Waterbury both fighting for the flag. Hartford also lost the first.

Not only was the Hartford protest which reached President O'Neil late this afternoon, turned down, but the Hartford team was also fined $200 for leaving the field of play. O'Neil's telegram sent to James C. Clarkin, president of the Hartford club, is as follows:

"Your protest disallowed according to our constitution. Your club is fined $200 which must be paid with in five days. This does not prevent you from appealing from my decision to the board of directors."

Down in Scarrytown lived a maid,
Sing Song Polly, won't you ki-me-o!
Churning butter was her trade,
Sing Song Polly, won't you ki-me-o!

Chorus.

Ke-mo, Ki-mo, Dar-o-war,
Me-hi, me-hoe, mein come Sally singing something penny wiggle
Lignum nip-cat,
Sing Song Polly won't you Ki-me-o!

She courted a fellow and his name was Will,
Sing Song Polly won't you Ki-ma-o!
His father had to foot his bills,
Sing Song Polly won't you KKi-ma-o!

She was bound to have him for worse or better,
Sing Song Polly won't you Ki-me-o!
Her mag was willing but her dad wouldn't let her,
Sing Song Polly won't you Ki-me-o!

So she went down cellar and got a big knife,
Sing Song Polly won't you Ki-me-o!
She cut her throat and ended her life,
Sing Song Polly, won't you Ki-me-o!

Crossing the Bar

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep.
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark.

For though from out our bourne of Time and Place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar.

VISITING GARDNER LAKE

Dear Social Corner Members: What a lot of nice trips some of you people have taken this summer! I am only able to get a day trip occasionally. Have been to the beaches quite a few times. One day enjoyed a ride to Black Point, from there to Golden Spur where we had a picnic dinner. It seems a pity for such a pretty place to be getting so dilapitated. I had not been there in more than 10 years and at that time it was very popular. There are several pretty cottages there now but the rustic seats, tables, etc., will soon be gone if not kept in repair. From there we started to find Gardner lake. We made the turn from the Hartford turnpike all right but we kept going and going and finally came to a place called Bozrah and a man told us the lake was six miles behind us and Norwich three ahead, so we kept on to Norwich. Another time we tried again. We got past the place a short distance but some one straightened us out and we went in through a drive that said private grounds and soon came to the lake. There were probably a dozen cars parked there and several people sitting around. We said to them was it all right to park there and they said yes as far as they knew.

About that time a middleaged man came out of a little pavilion so we asked if it was all right to park there and he wanted to know what we were there for. We said to see the place and have our dinner. We had read so much about the place this summer we wanted to see what it was like. He said 50 cents and to look around all we wanted to and if we liked it to come again. It is a pretty place with some very pretty cottages. Many were bathing and boating. We walked nearly two miles on the shore of the lake and the people that were in bathing were very friendly and cordial. Some people at one of the cottages were so nice and told us all about the camps and who owned land there, and many interesting things. We walked back to our car and believe me we did justice to our dinner. There were tables and benches and places where one could make a fire. It is a nice place and a dandy place to go and rest. I would love to have one of the cottages for a week. What struck us so funny was that we watched several other cars arrive. Some of them the man went out and talked to the people but no money was passed, and we asked one lot of people if they paid anything and they said no and couldn't hardly believe it when I said we did. Now it was not the 50 cents. We were willing to pay it to see what Gardner lake was like but why did we have to pay when no one else did. Not even those who had two and three auto loans in their party? We shall go again next year just the same. This time taken had a beautiful police dog and at a house we drove past in going here were several puppies for sale. Now this wasn't much of a trip but we enjoyed it.

Dorothy Bradford: You have not answered my questions.

Crimson Rambler: Suppose you will start rug-making as the days get longer. I was at the picnic you mentioned but there were other Social Corner members, as well as that Ladies Aid meeting.

Silent Stranger: Can't you spare time to send a line to the Corner? I saw M. last week. She is doing fine now.

KEEPING DOWN EXPENSES

Dear Corner: One sister has asked for some help in keeping down expenses. The expenses which she gave allowing $10 a week for food total about $22.50 a week. We will add $1.50 a week for fuel and $5 a week for clothing and there will be then a little over $3.50 left, your real being within the limit of your income. (E. Editor.)

seems as if $8 a week would do for two, including milk. This of course depends on hubby's likes and dislikes—mostly dislikes, for I think if a man isn't fussy, and will eat most anything, one's road is much easier to travel.

I know it requires much thought and planning to keep the food bill down to $8 a week. I think you will find that cheaper cuts of meat, more desirable if you understand cooking them will serve, but if your husband will have meat twice a day and always the best cuts $8 is not enough. If he desires fresh eggs every morning, the food bill will soon reach its limit. Instead of three eggs every morning, that is 21 eggs a week, why don't you take one egg, and add butter, pepper, and salt, and 1-2 cup of milk? That is very nutritious. And when you buy beef steak, why not buy beef for a stew? That is delicious when put through the chopper and you really do not need to use an egg or crackers. Oat flakes is cheaper and better for your meat cakes. Fix them with hot water.

You say you wish to save for a home. Keep the things in mind for which you are working and in time they will all materialize.

The reason many never get any where is because they have no destination in view. Perhaps you could add a little more each week to the savings account. But you will find the only way to do this is just to do it and get along somehow without the amount you are saving. We can sacrifice when we are working for some end and a little sacrifice doesn't hurt anyone. One could make a nice little budget for you on paper. The only real way to budget it is to lay by one fourth of your salary for rent, one fourth for food and one fourth for fuel and incidentals etc., and then figure inside of that. Save what you can even in small amounts, many of these added together in time amount to something. I wish it were in my power to advise you how to double the purchasing power of a dollar, but I've never been able to make it produce over 100 cents.

I know of a party that does all of her Christmas shopping with pennies that are saved during the year. Her husband gives her all the pennies he has every night and she lays them by.

I am sure that you will find your plunge in the matrimonial sea is a wonderful sea, but like all seas Drofilin says "It is not always calm." There are so many little white caps. It is part of the working of nature.

Doughnuts that will not soak grease: 2-3 cups of sugar, 1 cup sour milk, 3 tablespoons of cream, 5 cups flour, 2 tablespoons cream of wheat, 1 tablespoon wheatena, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1 tablespoon soda, 1 tablespoon nutmeg.

Beat sugar with egg and nutmeg, then add sour milk and sour cream. Warm the flour and add the remainder.

ETHELYN.

GREEN TOMATO MINCE MEAT

Dear Sisters of the Corner: As it has been some time since I wrote you thought I would just write a short letter to help fill up the page.

Saville: Have you returned home yet? I have been expecting for some little time to hear from you, but nary a word.

Balsam Fir: Your letters are very interesting; let the good news still come.

Anastasia: Your very nice letters at hand and will answer later. I too, was much disappointed the day you spoke of. Never mind there are other days coming. Pleased accept my congratulations, and best wishes.

Mrs. Dan: I am sending you my recipe for green tomato mince meat and it is excellent.

Green Tomato Mince Meat: One peck green tomatoes, one peck of apples, three pounds of brown sugar, two pounds of raisins, one cup of suet, one teaspoon or more of salt, two of cinnamon one of cloves, and nutmeg each, one cup of molasses, two cups of cider (not too strong). Chop tomatoes, drain, cover with cold water and bring to a boil, then drain this well, now add the apple chopped fine, mixed with the other ingredients and boil slowly for two hours stirring occasionally to prevent burning. Seal boiling hot in sterilized jars. If this is closely followed it is an excellent recipe.

Joan: I heard of your being out all dolled up in white. How are your plants? Mine are all in blossom, and I have so far quite a number all ready for winter.

Dom Pedro: Your box and contents arrived in fine order. Please accept thanks for the same. It was very kind of you to remember me. Glad to hear you are up and around once more.

N. O. T.: I saw in the paper where you were visiting. I, at one time, had neighbors by the same name. Wonder if you were in any way related?

Best wishes to all the Cornerites.

LOVE AND SYMPATHY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Love and sympathy are very closely akin. If you are truly sorry for anyone in distress or adversity, so sorry that the chords of sympathy are touched and vibrate as if the suffering were your own, then you must love them. There are many mistaken ideas regarding sympathy. Some people when brought face to face with poverty and misery will say: "I feel very sorry indeed for you," and pass on without a single effort to relieve the distress. They imagine themselves very sympathetic, and yet they fail to prove it. God asks proofs of us. The Good Samaritan not only felt sympathy for his suffering brother but showed it by ministering to him. What was behind the sympathy? Ah! there lies the secret—it was love. Those who passed him by looked on him perhaps with cold pity, but the Good Samaritan had compassion on him. It was something deeper than pity—it was sorrow and sympathy blended; it was brotherhood, it was love. Remember that cold pity is not enough; it never heals broken hearts nor binds up wounds nor clothes the hungry, nor feeds the poor. Sympathy and love demand service. They work while careless pity looks on and passes by. Love is the spirit of our sympathies. Whatever you do, do it with your might.

Crimson Rambler has been on sick list for two months, but not one of sisters has come to see her. Many of them have machines, so why not take a day off and drive out into the country while it is pleasant? How her heart aches looking for sisters to come.

MY TRIP TO VERMONT AND NEW HAMPSHIRE

Social Corner Editor and Friends: Vacation days are over. Once more we must settle down to our daily routine of work. I would like to see the Dighton Rock described by one of the sisters. It must indeed be odd. I have been asked by several sisters to write about my trip in Vermont and New Hampshire. It is impossible for me to do justice to it in writing, for it was a wonderful trip. After leaving Massachusetts the roads wind around the mountains with beautiful scenery all around us, crossing and recrossing the Connecticut river, almost always through a narrow covered bridge.

By invitation of good friends Betty and I left home Aug. 28 about 8:30 a. m. for Charlestown, N. H., making that place our headquarters and taking long trips daily.

Our first stop was Mt. Tom. After lunch we explored that region well. Pictures were taken at the Summit house and the flower gardens. The flowers were indeed beautiful with their brilliant colors, the rose gardens being still in bloom. Leaving Mt. Tom about 4 p. m. We went through North Hampton, Deerfield with its wide streets, stately trees, beautiful greens, and colonial houses so well kept up on through Greenfield another beautiful place, finally coming out on the Mohawk Trail for a ways. Soon we reached Brattleboro, Vt., then on to Charlestown which we reached about 7 p. m. and a warm welcome awaited us.

Next morning with our host and hostess leading the way, we crossed to Toll Bridge on the Vermont side, and started for Plymouth to visit President Coolidge's birthplace. Such winding roads, sharp corners and hidden bridges I never saw, but the scenery was magnificent with mountains each side of us. Some parts of the roads were not very well protected. I would not care to pass a car in some places.

We passed through Springfield, Vt., (not much like Mass.) Ludlow and here on one veranda were three stuffed bears, one holding a tambourine (sorry my camera was not handy though) on to Tyson, a very pretty place, with a beautiful view of the lake. We reached Plymouth about noon, found a throng of visitors there, cars being from Chicago, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Texas, New Jersey New York and several from Connecticut and Massachusetts. Many were busy with their cameras. We were not allowed to cross over a certain line. Guards sat each side of the road. No doubt many were much disappointed not to shake hands with the father of our splendid president, who was raking hay scatterings on the lawn. However I managed to snap a good picture of the place and we ate our lunch as near as we could. We visited the little church across the way and it was indeed a little one. Returning home through Woodstock and Norwich, which was not much like the Rose of New England. There's a vast difference between their high school and the N. F. A. Crossing the longest covered bridge over the Connecticut river we were in Hanover, where we walked across Dartmouth college campus. This historical old college will accommodate about 1600 boys. We saw the pretty Mary Hitchcox hospital and came down through Lebanon and White River Junction. It was impossible for me to keep track which state we were in, crossing and recrossing the river so often.

Sunday we started through New Hampshire. We spent one night with a dear friend I had not seen for 26 years. They met us 90 miles from their home and some of that trip was over good, old fashioned county roads with sand and stones. It was a good genuine shaking up, passing corn fields, cucumber fields all dried up and after a while we were again on good roads. We passed through historic old Westminster, stopping in Concord for dinner, and passed the lovely Suncook lake. Returning we came by the way of Manchester, viewed the Amoskeag gingham mills, largest of its kind in the world, employing over 1500 hands. Many large fields of gladiolia and dahlias added their glory to our view. The Granite hills looked like snow in the distance.

Mt. Kearsage and the lovely Lake Sunapee were very familiar having been there in 1894. The black silver fox ranch in South Cornish was very interesting, one skin selling for $500.

Augusta St. Gauden art memorial studio is well worth mentioning, being filled with wonderful statues made by one man, Abraham Lincoln's being the first one you see as you enter. Have just glanced over the pages and not half has been told.

For fear of the waste basket will stop, we made 250 miles without any car trouble taking time to see all interesting places stopping whenever we saw a beautiful view and reaching home on the sixth day, ready for work.

GRACE.

A TRIP TO PENNSYLVANIA

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Most everyone has at least told of some places they have been this summer so of course I'll have to tell you about mine.

Our trip which was a total of 242 miles one way was the best I've ever enjoyed. Our destination was East Stroudsberg, Pa., a little town situated right in the mountains between what is called the Pocono Mountains and the Blue Ridge Mountains of Pennsylvania. We started out in good season, which was 5:30 a. m. and went by way of New Haven and Danbury and so on to Patteson, N. Y., and Fishkill and quite a large city called Beacon which is in New York. Our trip before that was all through the Berkshires and Fishkill Mountains. What a wonderful sight they are. Why you can hardly see the top of them and here and there you can sometimes see a house perched (I think) right at the extreme top. Also the different shades of green in the foliage could be distinguished and of course on a trip like that it is more noticeable. Every mile we traveled seemed to grow prettier. At Beacon we crossed the Hudson river to Newburgh, N. Y. The Hudson, that wonderful strip of water is all that they claim—real beautiful. We could see the Palisades in the distance and was thinking that even a trip up the Hudson is well worth taking.

To go on further was a ride at the very foot of the mountains which was about a distance of 45 miles. They talk about roller coasters and things like that and I must say that the road was exactly like it. Up and down and terrible curves, but the roads were all good. Finally we came to Port Jervis which is exactly a dividing line between the three states of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

From there on we saw nothing but inns and camps along the road. But after 45 miles more of traveling we arrived in East Stroudsberg at 4:30 very tired. While there we went visiting many places including the Delaware Water Gap and other places.

But of course on a good time as we were having, the days fly by and before we knew it, it was time to start our 242 mile trip home again. We came back over the top of the mountains this time instead of at the foot. There were times that we were away above the clouds looking down. On this road there's a place they call the S trail, and it certainly is. You go around this S about 16 times right going which of course requires good brakes.

But outside of all that we had a wonderful trip without a mishap only changing one tire out of the 484 miles. I brought back with me loads of new recipes of which I have tried one and it is especially good. It is called the Prince of Wales Cake—1 cup brown sugar, 1-2 cup butter, 1-2 cut sour milk, 2 cups flour, 1 cup chopped raisins, yolks of 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in warm water, 1 tablespoon molasses, 1 teaspoon each of cloves and nutmeg.

White part—2 cup flour, 1-2 cup each of cornstarch, sweet milk and butter, 1 cup sugar, 3 teaspoons Royal baking powder, whites of 3 eggs, bake in layers.

My hearty thanks to Scottie, True Blue, Chocolate, Stitches, Black Eyed Susie, Calla Lily and another friend for remembering me on my birthday. Best wishes to Balsam Fir and all the sisters.

HOPE

THE COUNTRY SCHOOL

Dear Editor and Social Corner sisters: It has been some time since I have written to the Corner, but we are more or less excusable during the vacation season, I think. But now that September school bells have called our youngsters back to their class rooms, we mothers will perhaps have a little more time to ourselves.

What a great responsibility rests upon us in the training of our little ones, and how important it is that the teachers who help to train these young lives be of the right kind of character also.

My mind at this time goes back to the little country school where I received the greater part of my education, and later spent several years in teaching a country school.

A country school house, and by this I mean a one room school, with one teacher at the head of it, offers, I believe, the best of opportunities for the best of education, when the right sort of teacher, the kind who loves her work, sits on the little raised platform above the future citizens of our beloved country. I do not mean to cast any reflections on the model schools of today, but I know from exeprience that a country school teacher has more time to spend with each child individually, hence with the right kind of teacher better results are bound to be accomplished.

As we look back over past history how many of our great statesmen sprung from just such school rooms as the past. In the simply every day classes, in the narrow confines of just such a room can grow the true and close companionship that needs to exist between teacher and pupils, when the lessons become not alone those of textbooks, but are rooted in a living friendly spirit of personal love and guidance.

I remember of one particular instance of drilling a class in long division. After having spent the allotted time in explaining and showing them on this subject, I found that all but one boy in that class understood it. It was not because this boy had not paid attention but perhaps was a bit slower in grasping the work. Did I let him pass on with the rest, not caring about him Oh, no, I just dismissed the others to their seats, and spent many more moments with this one boy, until with beaming eyes, he passed to his seat as happy as the rest of his classmates that he, too, knew as much as they did. So I say that we should not make light of the country school, for while the city school has a great many advantages over the country school, yet we should not dispise it, but rather speak of the little old country school house in terms of praise, for out of it have come, and I am sure will come, many great and noble men and women, a credit to their parents and country in which they live.

When I sat down to write to the Social corner, I thought at first I would tell of some of the delightful trips I have taken this summer, but my mind wandered in another direction, so will have to leave that subject for another time.

I would like to close this letter with a little poem I read in one of our magazines a while ago. Sisters, let us all try and remember it as we start on another year of social gatherings:

"I have a thoughtless word to say,
If wants to hurry on its way,
But since it carries with it sorrow—
I'll make it wait until tomorrow.

I have a knock or two to make
Against my fellow man's mistake:
But, then, his path is rough and narrow—
I'd best not knock until tomorrow.

I have a bit of gossip, true.
Yet no good could its telling do:
And still the tale could some heart harrow—
I'll wait to tell it till tomorrow.

I'll do the kindly thing today
Quite quickly e'er it slips away:
But for these other things I'll borrow
Time's vague, indefinite tomorrow—
Which never comes!

Wishing the editor and all the best of success, and hoping to see a good crowd at our new meeting place at Odd Fellows hall next month, I am as ever,

WHITE DAWN.

CADY'S TOMATO MINCE MEAT

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Here is a recipe for green tomato mince meat that I've made up myself and we like it very much.

Chop four quarts of green tomatoes, pour over them boiling hot water and drain. Do this the second time, then add four quarts of apples chopped, two pounds of brown sugar, one pound of raisins, one pound of currants, a quarter of a pound of citron, one orange, and one lemon chopped fine, a quarter of a pound of nut meats chopped, one quart of boiled cider, one tablespoon of salt, one teaspoon of cinnamon, one teaspoon of cloves, one teaspoon of nutmeg, and half a teaspoon of all spice. You can also add one pound of dates, which gives it a fine flavor. Boil this over a slow fire until well cooked. Cook it about two hours, but be careful not to let it burn. I put it up in pint jars hot, and seal. It keeps for years, that is, if you do not use it, and it is more digestible than that made with meat. I am doing 25 jars this year.

Success to the Corner.

NEIGHBOR EVEREADY'S PICKLE

Dear Members: This sweet pickle was used at our September meeting and is sent in at request of Lonesome Pine:

Four onions, 1 dozen green tomatoes, 4 red peppers, 4 green peppers, 2 pounds brown sugar, 1 tablespoon cloves, 1 tablespoon allspice, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon mustard, salt to taste (spices in a bag), 1 1-2 cups vinegar, boil slowly two hours. You can use less sugar, I do, perhaps a cupful less than two pounds.

Congratulations to our hostess and able assistants, on the excellent dinner in our new location, Chamber of Commerce rooms at Willimantic.

The new meeting place is excellent in location, accessibility, easy stairs to climb (being only one flight up) large, airy room with all needed conveniences, and a splendid new cupboard added.

The decoration of flowers was beautiful. As ever,

NEIGHBOR EVEREADY.

WANTS OLD FASHIONED CORNER GATHERING

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Now that vacation days are over and we are all back home again, let us try to write a few lines each week so our page in The Bulletin will be full. I have not been able to write very often but am going to try and do better. Let us hear from the old members as well as the new, so get busy sisters with your pens.

Chocolate: Am glad you succeeded in getting the Odd Fellows' hall as it is much larger and all on one floor. Perhaps it may be a little bother to bring your own dishes, but we have to take them when we go to the picnics, so them when we go to the picnics, so why not carry them to the hall. If any one wished to they could take paper plates and cups and then you wont have to take soiled dishes home.

We are just moving to larger quarters where it will be more convenient, so I sincerely hope all of Club No. 2 will come to our next meeting which will be held in Odd Fellows Hall Oct. 7. Come and let us talk this thing over.

Let us all turn out on Oct. 7 and have an old fashioned Corner gathering. Bring your fancy work, plate, cup and something good to eat. Don't forget the date Oct. 7, the place, Odd Fellows hall. Who meets there? Why, Social Corner Club No. 2! So come on sisters, all are welcome.

Yours for the success of the Corner.

"SCARS"

Dear Editor and Members: The following is from the pen of Angelo Patri and entitled "Scars."

Life wounds all of us. At best there is sorrow enough to go round yet because the deepest wounds are those of the soul and hidden to mortal sight we keep on hurting each other day by day, inflicting wounds that time mercifully scars over. But the scars remain ready at a touch to throb angrily and ache again with the old wild gnawing pain. You remember the day in school when the teacher laughed. You were only a little fellow, shy and silent, sitting in the shadow of the big boys, wistfully looking toward the day when you would shine as they did. This day you were sure your chance had come. You were sure you had just what the teacher wanted on the tip of your tongue and you jumped up and shouted it out loud, eagerly, triumphantly—and you were very, very wrong.

There followed a flash of astonishment, an instant of dreadful silence, and then the room rang with mirth. You heard only the teacher's laughter and it drowned your heart.

Many years have gone over your head since that day, but the sight of a little lad trudging along to school brings it back and the old pain stirs and beats again at the scar. You cover it over and hush it to quiet once more, with a smile. "I must have been funny. She couldn't help it." But you wish that she had.

And there was the time when your best friend failed you, when the loose-tongued gossip started the damaging story and pressed for a word in your defense, he said: "Oh, he's all right. But I don't want to get mixed up in this thing. Can't afford it. Have to think of my own name, and my own family, you understand—good fellow but I have to keep out of this."

You felt forsaken. For weeks and weeks you carried the pain in your heart. The story was bad enough, but that would right itself. The idea that he should fail you, that he had not rushed to your side at the first hint of trouble, was unbearable. He came back again after it was all over, but the sight of him renewed the ache in your breast and the throb of pain in your throat. The scar was thin and the hurt soul beneath it quivered.

We all bear scars. Life is a struggle, and hurts must come. But why the unnecessary ones. Why hurt the souls of little children? Why say things to them that they must remember with pain all their lives? Why say the smart, tart thing that goes straight to the heart of some one we love, because we would relieve ourselves of the day's tension and throw a grain of the soul's bitterness.

Who are we to inflict wounds and suffering and scars on those about us?

Staggering, blind mortals, groping our way from somewhere "here" to somewhere "there," conscious of little but the effort to stay "here" yet a little longer.

It behooves us to travel softly, regardful of one another's happiness, particularly where our path crosses that of those dependent upon us for comfort, or enters into the heart of little children. I hope some of the sisters may enjoy this as much as I have.

Aries: Guess again.

Trusting the editor will forgive me for taking up so much space and wishing you all the best o'luck.

SASST.

A HAPPY REUNION

Dear Corner Sisters: Should not have taken the time to write again so soon only Mrs. Dan asked for a recipe for green tomato mince meat and as I have had different ones and only one I liked I wanted to send it along.

Green Tomato Mince Meat: Chop fine 4 quarts green tomatoes, drain off all juice, cover with cold water and let come to a boil, cook 1-2 hour drain, add 2 pounds brown sugar, 1 pound raisins, 1-2 pound chopped suet, 3 tablespoon salt, 1-2 cup vinegar and cook until thick. When cold add 1 teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg. I hope you will like this. I always make a lot and can it for winter use.

I must tell the sisters of a pleasant day spent Sept. 1 at the home of Triple E. It was a reunion of our Sunday school class, but it could have been called a small Social Corner gathering as most of the members belong to the Social Corner. Dorcas, Polly Peppermint and myself took the trolley early in the afternoon and were met by Triple E's daughter in her car. As we reached the house our hostess met us at the gate with a hearty welcome. On entering we found California Poppy and Jim already there and soon Sister One More and two other members of our class arrived. The afternoon passed rapidly with visiting and a walk through the flower gardens with their lovely flowers. Such a large collection of different varieties of dahlias and gladiolus. We stopped for a little while to admire the fine view. In the house we saw an old Grandfather's clock which had been in the family many years, also an old fashioned desk, such as the antique hunters would like to get. Our hostess served us with delicious sponge cake made we were told by Great Grandma's recipe, and lemonade. All too soon we had to say goodbye and another pleasant day was done, but we hope next year we can all meet again. The reunion was started last year by California Poppy at her home.

One sister asks for the poem Crossing the Bar so will send it.

Best wishes to all the readers.

GETTING READY FOR FLORIDA

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It can't be any hotter in Florida than it is here today. I've read a great deal about Free Air going south so I suppose I've got to go. Going to start the middle of October. My one regret is that I cannot go to each and everyone to bid them goodbye. I made a list of names of people I would like to call on before I leave and that list looked like the voting list of a good sized town. I've got so much to do that I don't know which side I'm standing on. For goodness sake, you people that have gone to Florida, please tell me what to take and what not to take. We are going to drive down using a good sized auto but the things I've planned to take would fill a five ton trunk. Some tell me the weather is hot and some tell me the weather is chilly. However no one tells me that I'll like it. Of course just to be on the opposite side I'm just bound to like it exceedingly.

Black Eyed Susie: How did you like those wonderful trips we took this summer? I haven't had a car since the third of August. Sorry I couldn't get down to see you but will write to you when I get to Florida.

Aries: I am a little late in sending thanks for the Corner picture, but I thank you very much just the same. Maybe I'll blow back quicker than I blew down there. Can't never tell.

Rural Aunty says she hopes I'll write after I get there. Maybe I'll be so busy running from crocodiles, dodging grasshoppers and killing spiders that I won't have much time to write. My brother says the grasshoppers are a foot long and if they hit you when they jump they knock you completely over. I do hope that I'll be lucky and not fall into an alligator's mouth. What was it Eveline Burr wrote about 'Stand the ground your own my braves'? At midnight in his guarded bungalow, and thrice on that day we stood the shock of thrice a thousand hoppergrasses. Perhaps I've misquoted these lines, in face I know I have, there my apologies to E. B.

I couldn't go to Twice Twenty's picnic which was a severe blow to me and also did not get to Wildwood park so I feel ah though I had sort of lost out on picnics this summer.

Shall miss going to Norwich this winter visit Bug and Ma of Greene Gables. We always had a good time I have the plate and soup ladle yet.

Molly Make Believe: Do you think that I've forsaken you? I am coming down to see you before I go. Best regards to little Molly.

Am trying to make this letter cheerful but it seems as though it sounds more like an obituary. All it needs now is for me to say good bye all, no more Connecticut.

USEFUL EDGING

Dear Corner Members: This is a useful edging, worked with fine thread it can be used for handkerchiefs or in heavier thread it will do nicely for underwear. Worked in very heavy threads it can be used for curtains and household linens.

Begin with a s. c. all around edge or have article machine hemstitched.

1st row, 1 d. c. with 2 ch. between in every 2nd loop of s. c. work 2 d. c. with 2ch. between into corner loops. 2nd row; 1 s. c. with 12 ch. between in every 4th loop, fasten also with s. c. in loops forming corners. 3rd row; s. c. in loops 12 ch. between in every 4th loop, fasten also with s. c. in loops forming corners. 3rd row, 14 s. c. in first loop, 7 s. c. in next loop, 12 ch. turn work and fasten in middle of first loop with 1 s. c. Turn work again, and work 14 s. c. thus formed, 7 s. c. to finished loop already containing 7 s. c. Then again 14 s. c., Then again 4 s. c. in next loop, 7 s. c. for half of next loop, and continue as previously to end of row.

This edge is similar to the pattern known as Irish picot. To finish 4th row 1 d. c. with 3 ch between, in every 3 d. st.

5th row, 1 s. c. with 4 ch between, under each loop.

Better Hot Dish Mat: Bone rings No. 16 and crochet thread No. 5. First row, fasten thread in ring, make 48 s. c. in ring. Fasten thread in ring again which makes the 48 stitches fastened to first stitch st. ch. 2, second row, 1 s. c. in each preceeding row.

Third row: Make group of 4 tr. c. with 3 ch, between groups all the way around making 12 trebles.

Fourth row: Make shell of 7 d. c. under each 3 ch of preceeding row fastening shell in 1st. of group s. c.

Join rings by slip st. in shells. A set includes one large mat for platters and two smaller ones for vegetable dishes. The large mat has four rings across the center (16 rings in all.) The smaller mats have 3 rings across the center. These mats are very pretty.

One of the sisters asked me if I knew anything about beauty clay? I think they are harmless and might do some good as they consist of Fuller's earth with some tincture of benzoin. Fuller's earth is used to remove stain. I should think you could remove stains with it from the face but I don't know—have never seen it used.
